Mr. Samuel J. Halle, the advance agent of the St. Quinten Opera Company, is in town making arrangements for their appearance here on Wednesday and Thursday, 24th and 25th instant. The Toronto papers speak of this opera company in high terms.

A Fall in Milk.

On Friday morning, as one of Mr. T. Hooper's milk waggons was entering the gate of his dairy yard, the horse attached to the vehicle suddenly became frightened. It shied to one side, sprang forward and landed the one can of milk which was in the rig on the ground. Fortunately the can lit with the right side up and none of the precious fluid was lost. The horse dashed onward until a tree obstructed the passage of the waggon. The horse stripped himself from the harness and left behind the waggon considerably damaged.

A Good Example.

During the past week Mr. D. Belleghem has had workmen employed in tuck-pointing his brick store and residence on Hunter street. We understand that it is the intention of Mr. Halpin and others of the property owners in the vicinity to follow his example by having their property similarly freshened. Other improvements are being made on Hunter street. Messrs. R. Kingan and J. Lynch are each about to erect a fine three storey building on the site of the recent ruins, and last but by no means the least of the improvements is that of the new iron bridge which will ere long span the creek. In fact the whole of Hunter street is "booming."

Educational Services.

The educational services in the interests of the Methodist Church will be held in the George street Church on Sunday and Monday, September 21st and 22nd. On Sunday morning Rev. Dr. Jacques, Principal of Albert College, Belleville, will preach, and in the evening the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. George Douglass, D.D., LL.D., President of the Montreal Theological College. Both of these divines take high rank, the latter having been considered the most eminent thinker and pulpit orator in the Canada Methodist Church. On Monday evening the usual annual educational meeting will be held in the George street Church. The chair to be taken at 7:30. Both the above gentlemen will deliver addresses. At both the Sunday services and at the Monday evening meeting collections will be made in aid of the educational fund.

A Novel Entertainment.

On Friday evenidg a novel and delightful entertainment was held in St. Andrew's Church Sunday School. It consisted in a musical programme of two parts with peaches and cream and other refreshments sandwiched, so to speak, between the two parts. In the opening part Messrs. Galletly and Horning, and Misses Johnson and Ballantyne rendered vocal solos with their well known ability. Dr. Bell gave a reading and the City Band orchestra closed the first part with an appropriate selection. Now came the peaches and cream, coffee and cakes, and numerous other varieties of refreshments. The edibles were passed around and soon the two hundred or more people who were fortunate enough to be present were busily plying their spoons. After everybody had been satisfied with the lucious fruit, the second part was proceeded with, in which Misses Ballantyne and Johnson, and Messrs. Galletly and Horning again favored the audience. Mr. W. Dixon made everyone feel in good humor by his ventriloquial powers, and Miss Rose Clarke recited with admirable taste and enunciation. The Rev. Mr. Bell in conclusion briefly addressed the assemblage, thanking the members of other churches for their liberal attendance and trusted that the evening had been enjoyable to all those present. He hoped to see them again and again through the coming winter. The entertainment was closed by the orchestra playing "God Save the Queen."

In spite of the coolness of the weather Mr. John B. Fowler has some blossoms on a cherry tree at his farm in Smith.

Social.

We learn that it is contemplated to hold a social in Bradburn's Hall shortly for the benefit of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral. We will give further particulars when the arrangements are completed.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh westerly to northwesterly winds; fine weather; not much change in temperature.

A good selection of Ladies' Jerseys Black and Coloured, just received at Turnbull's.

Sporting.

Mr. W. H. Chamberlain has received from England two colored engravings, pictures of Tom Cannon and John Osborne, celebrated jockeys, which he prizes highly. They were published as supplements to the Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.

It is Probable.

—That the Industrial Exhibition at Toronto will close to-night.

—That the Dominion Exhibition at Ottawa will open on Monday.

—That our sporting men have water on the brain.

Should Auld Aquaintance be Forgot.

While in Quebec a short time ago, some Peterborough young men accidentally came across Messrs. McDonald and Cresman, well known to many of our readers, as two of Mr. Beemer's trusted officials. Mutual handshaking was indulged in, and, it is needless to say, Messrs. McDonald and Cresman made our citizens thoroughly at home in the pioneer city.

The Market.

This morning both producers and consumers flocked thickly around the square. Fall fruits and vegetables were to be had in abundance and at reasonable prices. The following are the prices of the principal commodities:—Butter 22c., eggs 16c., chickens 45c. per pair, ducks 50c. per pair, lamb 7 and 9c. per pound, mutton 6 and 8c. per pound, apples and potatoes, 60 and 50c. per bag respectively.

Home Again.

The Peterborough contingent of the Durham Field Battery arrived in town on the Grand Trunk noon train. The boys were defeated in the artillery competition which was held in Toronto, but, considering the circumstances under which they were placed, they did very well. They express themselves as being well satisfied with the treatment they received when in the Queen City.

Extensive Sale of Timber.

Mr. R. C. Strickland has just returned from the east, having sold to R. R. Dobell & Co. all the waney and square timber of his firm, realizing in the neighborhood of $90,000. The sale of timber at present is very slow, but the extra quality and average of the timber enabled him to effect a satisfactory sale. He has contracted for another hundred thousand to be delivered next year to the same firm.

More Light.

Workmen are now engaged in making alterations in the pulp mill preparatory to the removal of the electric light machines to that place. The two machines at present working at Mr. Hazlitt's saw mill will probably be moved next week, and Mr. Hazlitt will shortly go to Montreal to arrange for the shipment of two more machines of a similar kind to those now in use. In a short time four machines will be in working order, capable of supplying one hundred and twenty ordinary lights. It is the intention of the company to introduce the incandescent burners at an early date.

What They Talk About.

"I say Tom," said a George street merchant to a friend this morning, "have you seen that tony painting on Sailsbury's window," "No" the friend replied, "then let us take a walk down and see it." "The workmanship is indeed fine" said the friend, as the two stood gazing at the window, "and Bob seems to know just how a window should be dressed. In fact, since he has taken charge of the store it has been beautified in various ways. The stock appears to be well selected, and everything has a place." "In conversation with him yesterday," said the merchant, "he told me that he was determined to sell lower than ever, which is saying a great deal."

Well Driven.

This morning about eleven o'clock a boy named Willie Green was driving one of Mr. H. Winch's meat expresses down George street. At the upper end of the street the horse commenced to increase his pace, and before long, the boy being unable to check him, he broke into a gallop. The boy held on the lines and successfully guided the animal through the crowded thoroughfare. At Simcoe street the horse ran towards the river, but the boy, with praiseworthy presence of mind, jerked the beast through the narrow lane between Mr. Flavelle's feed store and the rear of China Hall. The horse, cart and boy were safely lodged in front of Mr. Winch's stall none the worse for their lively run.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swatow, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

ANOTHER EMBEZZLEMENT CASE.

A Young Man in the Employ of Mr. E. B. Edwards is Charged with Embezzlement.

William Hitchens Sibley, a young man of about twenty years of age, came to Peterborough last January and engaged with Mr. E. B. Edwards as law clerk. During the summer months while Mr. Edwards was taking his holidays Mr. Sibley had almost exclusive charge of the office. It appears that on the 14th day of July one of Mr. Edwards' clients called at the office and paid an account to the amount of $130.92. This money, it seems, did not find its way to Mr. Edwards, for on Saturday afternoon P. C. Adams was handed a warrant for the apprehension of Mr. Sibley. The warrant was given to the Constable at three o'clock, and at five o'clock he arrested Mr. Sibley at the Great Northwestern Telegraph office and lodged him in the gaol. This morning the case came up in the Police Court, and was, at the request of the prisoner, enlarged for one week. He was then taken back to gaol. We are informed that the young man is very respectably connected, and it is to be hoped that he will prove his innocence. The following is the charge laid against him:—

"Wm. Hitchens Sibly, at the town of Peterboroug, in the county of Peterborough, on the fourteenth day of July, being a clerk then employed in that capacity by the said E. B. Edwards, did then and there in virtue thereof receive a certain sum of money, to wit, to the amount of one hundred and thirty dollars and ninety-two cents, for an account of the said E. B Edwards, and the said money did fraudulently and feloniously embezzle."

POLICE COURT.

ENLARGED.

MONDAY, Sept. 22.—Wm. McMaster was charged by his wife with having neglected to support his wife and family. Evidence was taken and the case was enlarged until to-morrow.

THE LICENSE BY-LAW.

Thos. Trennum, was charged by Inspector Beavis with keeping horses for hire without a license. Mr. Trennum pleaded not guilty and stated that he did not keep horses for hire, he merely worked for Mr. J. Stevenson with his team by the day. The Magistrate decided that the case did not come under the town by-law respecting carters licenses and the case was dismissed.

NON PAYMENT OF WAGES.

Edward Brown charged John Armstrong with the non payment of $29.90 wages due him. W. H. Moore appeared for the defendant and Albert Dixon appeared for the complainant. The Magistrate awarded the complainant $19.90.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

W. H. Sibley was charged by E. B. Edwards with having embezzled a sum of money amounting to $130.92. The case was at the request of the prisoner enlarged for one week.

The Town Clock.

A correspondent, "Punctuality," calls attention to the unreliability of the town clock. On Saturday morning the clock was ten minutes slow. During the day it was put right, but on Sunday it again lost five minutes. This is said to be owing to the hands being exposed. Whatever may be the reason, it is certain that this disposition of the clock to play fast and loose with correct time is annoying, as it frequently causes people to be late for trains, not to speak of other annoying circumstances which arise from it. Something should be done to remedy the evil.

CAR WORKS CONSUMED.

The G. T. R. Shops at London Destroyed by Fire.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—At 5 p. m. a fire broke out in the Grand Trunk car works, east of the city, and almost the entire property and buildings were destroyed. The fire was first seen in the freight car erecting shed, and spread rapidly to the wood working shop, and thence to the passenger coach shed and iron machine shop, all of which, with contents, comprising seven partly finished coaches and cars, and the tools of the workmen, were destroyed. Piles upon piles of seasoned lumber and made-up stuff were burned, and the area covered by the fire was full five acres. The water gave out the first half-hour, and during the remaining five hours the fire continued every vestige of inflammable material was devoured. The loss is estimated at $500,000. The insurance cannot be ascertained as the policies are at headquarters at Montreal. Between 350 and 400 men are out of employment. The fire originated in the end of the freight car shop next the paintshop, where a few men are at work. The bulk of the men were enjoying the Saturday half holiday.

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I have just been paying a visit to the Little Lake Cemetery, and I was so greatly pleased with what I saw there, that I think it is only right to express my opinion in your columns.

The cemetery is naturally one of the most beautiful in Canada, and in laying it out and maintaining it, full justice is done to these natural advantages. Great praise is due to the caretaker, Mr. John Kelly, for carrying out the details in such a satisfactory manner. He displays the greatest taste, and is indefatigable in his exertions to keep it in its present perfect state. It is right that such services should be acknowledged.

Yours, &c,
JOHN A. ARMSTRONG.

THE TOWN CLOCK.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Permit me to suggest to our councillors the desirability of causing the town clock to be stopped altogether, for it will, I think, be generally conceded that it is far better to have no clock at all than one that is unreliable, and no dependence whatever can be placed upon the miserable piece of machinery that now disgraces the copula of our town hall.

WAS IT MURDER?

An Old Lady Found Dead—Her Husband Suspected of Killing Her.

WEST WINCHESTER, Ont., Sept. 20.—Mrs. Morrant, an old lady, was found dead near her own door, five miles north of this place, this morning. From marks on her neck and face suspicion is fixed upon her husband, J. B. Morrant, as being the cause of her death. The old man is over 70 years of age, and while under the influence of liquor, has been known to abuse her. An inquest will be held this afternoon.

Fatal Accident.

Another fatal accident occurred on Friday evening at the Kingston road railway crossing the victim being Mrs. Boulton, who resides on McGee street, Kingston road. It appears that about seven o'clock, the unfortunate woman was going eastward to her home on the south side of the road, and as she neared the crossing, an outward bound special train from the Midland was approaching. The keeper of the drop gates was at his post, and had the bars down. The woman was running, and seeing this, P. C. Etherington, who was near, called to her to stop, as did also a boy named George Guest, but she did not stop, and was caught by the cattle guard and carried to the other side of the road. She was taken up in an insensible condition and carried to her home, which was only a short distance. Dr. Pickering was called in, and on examination found that she had received a blow upon the head which had broken the skull, leaving a portion of the brain exposed. He declined recommending her removal to the hospital on the ground that she could not live to reach there. She died in less than an hour after receiving her injuries.—Globe.

Died of Fright.

A young woman named Begin died of fright near Levis recently. She was milking cows in a field when a bull belonging to the herd approached her in a threatening manner and compelled her to take flight. In getting over a fence she sustained a fall which, under ordinary circumstances, would have been followed by no serious results, but coupled with the fright it forced her to take to her bed, where she died a few hours afterwards, despite the exertions of physicians. The deceased was only 29 years old.

Sitting Bull in New York.

Sitting Bull the famous Sioux chief, with his wife and several followers, arrived in New York the other day. They are in charge of an agent of the Department of the interior and are being lavishly entertained. This is in somewhat strange contrast with the treatment of the widow of the man who fell fighting bravely against him. Mrs. Custer has been living in humble retirement for the past eight years on a yearly pension, not much larger that the cost of the entertainment for the famous chief and the squaws.—Mail

Two Fire-Bugs Nabbed.

BLENHEIM, Sept. 20.—Two young men of twenty or so, named Arthur Horton and David Irwin have been arrested for incendiarism in connection with the Sheldon fire of Wednesday, and committed for trial at Chatham. GORDON'S VICTORIES.

CAIRO, Sept. 20.—A messenger from Gen. Gordon has arrived at Dongola with the information that Gen. Gordon has had two severe battles with the rebels who were besetting Khartoum, in both of which the rebels sustained disastrous defeat. In the last battle, when it became apparent that the rebels were giving way, Gen. Gordon sallied out, and so vigorous was his attack on the enemy that the latter were compelled to raise the seige of Khartoum and retreat to the interior of the country. The messenger says that the rebels lost heavily in both engagements, while Gen. Gordon's loss was very small owing to the precision of the latter's artillery and infantry fire, and the fact that but little hand to hand encounters took place.

THE YOUNG MEN.

ONE of the ideas of the managers of the Mowat Sideshow in connection with the great Toronto Fair was to raise the pretence that "the Young Men of Ontario" were united with the other performers. Of course there were young men there (some from Peterborough were paid for being in the procession), but they could no more be truly called "the young men of Ontario," than the historic "Three Taylors of Tooley street" could be called "The People of England." The majority of the young men of Ontario do not believe that Mr. Mowat is a hero because he kept the Province out of its rights for long years, and only adopted in a bungling manner and on compulsion the Conservative policy of referring the matter to the Privy Council. The majority of the young men of Ontario are Conservative, and have no sympathy for Mr. Mowat's mismanagement of our Province. Indeed the only hope of Mr. Mowat, besides his army of electioneering officials, is in the old Reformers, whom he can persuade by his adoption of their name that he is akin to the old Reformers.

One clause in the young men's address to Mr. Mowat shows the utter absurdity of the pretence. It runs:—

"The young men feel that this is a fit occasion to acknowledge that you are the first Premier of this Province who has promised a liberal extension of the franchise, and they hope soon to see the desired reform an accomplished fact."

Considering the number of years Mr. Mowat has been in office, it might have been expected that these young men would have been able to point to some performance in their favor, instead of having only promises. Besides, these young men must be singularly ill-informed to give Mr. Mowat any praise at all in the matter. The truth is that Mr. Meredith and the other Conservative members of the Local Legislature moved resolution after resolution, and made speech after speech, in favor of extending the franchise to young men, among others, just before the last general election. Mr. Mowat and his supporters voted down every motion in favor of the extension of the franchise, and obstinately refused to give the young men votes. Mr. Mowat knew that the majority of the young men of Ontario were opposed to him, and did not dare to let them express their opinions at the polls.

It is absurd to allege that young men can have any especial predilection for a politician who does nothing for them in the present, and offers them nothing in the future, but who founds all his claims on the similarity of his party name with that of men who really advocated reforms in the past. These sham modern Reformers can find nothing to reform.

REVIEWS

THE PROVINCES AND THE STATES.—We have received from the publisher, J. Moore, of Toronto, a little work in which, under the title "The Provinces and the States," Mr. Watson Griffin discusses the question that forms the sub-heading, "Why Canada does not want annexation." The author in a very thorough and lucid manner marshalls the arguments against our annexation to the United States. Incidentally he discusses many other subjects of vital interest to Canada. Some of these are: free trade and protection, reciprocity, independance, imperial federation, the constitution of the Senate, the political parties of the Dominion and the States, the veto power, our debt and taxation, the proposed admission of Jamacia, the want of patriotism of Canadian "Pessimists," the resources of the Dominion, nationalism and Provincialism, etc. etc. On some of the points we cannot quite agree with the writer, but he always discusses them temperately and fairly, doing good services by joining in and promoting the intelligent consideration of such matters. This little book should have a wide circulation, for there are few readers, however well informed, who would not learn something from it.

PAYNE'S BUSINESS LETTER WRITER.—The young man who is turning his attention to commerce, and even many older business men, will find that they can acquire useful information from "Payne's Business Letter Writer and Book of Commercial Towns," published by the Excelsior Publishing House, Beckman street, New York. The specimen letters are good models, being clear and terse, and though multifarious in their subject, a very full index makes them easy of reference. The law notes and business forms will also be found useful. Among other valuable features are "a dictionary of commercial terms," comparative tables of foreign coins, weights and measures, lists of abreviations and of common foreign words and phrases, rules for punctuation, &c. Appended is an excellent Dictionary of Synonyms to guide the young writer. We can safely recommend this work, not only to business men and their assistants, but also to the general public.

A WHOLESALE MURDERER

A Russian who Robbed and Killed his Guests now in America.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Prussian police believe that America is harbouring at this moment a wholesale murderer whose many crimes have just been brought to light. His name is Sievert, and he was until recently the proprietor of a public house known as the Cruche hotel, at Rurzig, in Pomerania. He is a shoemaker by trade, and is a tall, muscular man, with a florid complection and yellow hair. A few weeks ago Sievert sold out his hotel and left Pomerania. The new landlord took possession recently, and on searching the premises was horrified at finding six corpses, in various stages of decomposition, concealed in a cellar. The bodies were all of men, and all had evidently been murdered at different times. They have all been identified as the remains of travelling merchants who had been temporary lodgers in Sievert's tavern, and who had mysteriously disappeared. They lived at various remote portions of the kingdom, and there had been hitherto no clue to the fate of any of them. It is now evident that they were murdered for their money by Sievert, and concealed in the cellar until the assassin became alarmed and sold his place, stipulating that the purchaser should not take possession until a certain time. The police claim to have positive information that Sievert has fled to America, and detectives will be sent to search for him.

MADOC.

MORE GOLD.—A few days ago while digging a well on Mr. Joseph Liberty's lot in this village the workmen came across a rich vein of gold bearing quartz, much resembling the famous pocket first discovered in the Richardson mine years ago. Naturally, quite an excitement has since ensued, and the "mine" has been visited by many of our citizens, each of whom carried away a handful of the dirt and was soon busily engaged in washing it and picking out the precious golden particles We have been shown some of the gold dust extracted, and in proportion to the amount of dirt from it taken, knowing ones assert it gives evidence of great richness. What the proprietor intends to do with his gold well we are not aware, but we would be only too pleased to chrontcle Mr. Liberty's elevation among the millionaires.

A FATAL RUNAWAY.—On Tuesday evening, while Mr. James Lancaster, of Huntington, was driving along the gravel road near the new church, his team ran away. In the wagon, besides himself, was his son Herbert, a boy nearly 11 years of age, and Mr. Dilworth and his two sons. The horse shied in towards the fence, throwing all the occupants out except one of Mr. Dilworth's boys, the result of which was that young Lancaster had his skull broken and died in a few minutes. Mr. Lancaster was badly cut and bruised about the head, and is pronounced in a serious state by Dr. Sutton, while Mr. Dilworth and one of his boys were both insensible for some time. The other boy stuck to the waggon for quite a distance, but finally jumped off, escaping with a few scratches. Mr. Tweedie happened along soon after, and rendered aid in having the sufferers cared for. The sad affair has called forth a general sympathy from the people of that section.—Review.

MINDEN.

BARN BURNED.—Many of our readers will be sorry to learn that the barn of Mr. John Jeffrey, an old settler at Brady's Lake, was burned with all its contents one day last week. The fire originated, we believe, from a fallow.

CATTLE BUYING.—Mr. Barrett, of Garden Hill, was in town from Friday of last week until Wednesday of this week, buying cattle and sheep. He got a number of fine animals.

SERIOUS BUSH FIRE.—A very dangerous fire is now raging in the bush near Mr. Jno. Scott's residence on the 14th Con., Lutterworth. The fire was started among stumps on the farm of Mr. Graham, adjoining Scott's, and was carried by the wind into the woods. The threshers who were working at Mr. Scott's had to leave work and help to fight the flames, which were partially subdued, but still rage in dangerous proximity to Mr. Scott's farm.—Echo.

OMEMEE

DROWNED.—It is with regret that we have to chronicle the death, by drowning, of Mr. John Morgan, of Emily, on Sept. 10th. The supposition is that the old gentleman was walking over the railroad bridge south west of Omemee when he missed his footing, and in falling was stunned by stricking his head on the bridge, as ther was quite a hole in his forehead. Deceased was 67 years of age, having been born in the County Cork, Ireland, in 1817, emigrated to Canada in 1841, and was a resident of Emily for upwards of 30 years. The family has the sympathy of the whole community in its sad bereavement.—Herald

MILLBROOK

A NEW CUSTOMER AT THE BAR.—On Monday a farmer stopped at the Queen's Hotel, with a load of hay, with a view of disposing of it to the genial host. In about a minute after going into the Hotel, he observed a lot of cows making good use of his absence. With a lively spring he went for these bovines. In their eageness to get out of the way of the powerfully administered "long oats," one of the cows bolted into the bar-room, and, in its own language, asked for something! There was quite a circus getting the new customer out—with a stick on it.—Messenger.

Fire at Windsor.

WINDSOR, Sept. 19.—About 1 a.m. a fire broke out in McGregor & Son's boiler works, completely destroying the building and contents, together with the Essex flour mills. Loss on boiler works and contents about $15,000; insurance $30,000. Loss on the flour mills and machinery $17,000; insurance $10,000. The origin of the fire is attributed to incendiarism.

FACTS ABOUT THE LAUNDRY.

That by adding two parts of cream of tartar to one part of oxalic acid ground fine and kept dry, in a bottle, you will find, by applying a little of the powder to rust stains while the article is wet, that the result is much quicker and better. Wash out in clear warm water to prevent injury to the goods.

That cold rain water and soap will take out machine grease, where other means would not be advisable on account of colors running, etc.

That turpentine in small quantities may be used in boiling white goods to a great advantage, as it improves the color, and the boiling drives off all odor. Resin in soap is quite another thing; it injures and discolors some goods, and shrinks woollens. Soap men argue that on account of the turpentine in the resin it assists in the washing. It is use for a filler and to make the soap hard and cheap. It is a fraud on the consumer.

That kerosene will soften leather belts or boots that have become hard from exposure or use around the wash room. Good for the harness when hard from rain or dampness. Wash with warm water, then grease with good animal oil or dressing like the following.

That the government harness dressing is as follows:—One gallon of neatsfoot oil, two pounds of Bayberry tallow, two pounds beeswax, two pounds of beef tallow. Put the above in a pan over a moderate fire. When thoroughly dissolved add two quarts of castor oil, then while on the fire stir in one ounce of lampblack. Mix well and strain through a fine cloth to remove sediment, let cool, and you have as fine a dressing for harness or leather of any kind as can be found.

That baking soda gives instant relief to a burn or scald. Applied either dry or wet to the burned part immediately, the sense of relief is magical. It seems to withdraw the heat and with it the pain. Keep it in the ironing room.

That Javelle water, often met with in works or articles on cleaning and dyeing, is made of one gallon of water and four pounds of ordinary washing soda. Boil for five or ten minutes, then add one pound of chloride of lime. Let cool, and keep corked in a jug or tight vessel.

That when acid has been dropped on any article of clothing, liquid ammonia will kill the acid, and then by applying chloroform you will restore the color in most cases.

That "cyanide of potassium" will remove all indelible inks whose base is nitrative of silver Being a deadly poison, it will be hard to get from the druggists in most cities. Turpentine or alcohol rubbed in hot removes the new inks, using soda and soap freely in hot water afterwards.—National Laundry Journal.

Sad Death of a Child.

A sad story is reported from the Upper Gatineau as having happened a week ago. A farmer named Roberts, with his wife and one child, reside a few miles above the Desert village. Some time in the early part of last week he started in the morning to do some work on a clearing a short distance from the house, and was followed an hour or two later by his little four-year-old son Roberts. Coming home to his dinner without the child, the mother enquired after him, and was told that he had not been seen. Search was continued all that day, but without success, the neighbours joined in the search, and it was not until two days afterwards that the poor little fellow was found in the bush about two miles distant sitting at the foot of a tree, dead.

Pale, Poor, Puny, & Pallid

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is tightly drawn over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things!

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of the Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life even for the most delicate; the most debilitated; for the child almost given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs, to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell what wonders the Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children.

AH! We get up feeling badly, didn't rest good, don't want breakfast, no appetite, no energy, bad taste and breath, guess we are billous, Two doses of Zopesa will tone up our liver and our ambition, and set us right. Ask J. D. Tully

Will visit the following places again:—

LINDSAY—Benson House, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

PETERBOROUGH—Daly's Grand Central Hotel, Sept. 29th and 30th.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 and 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. Hotchkin having had 30 year's experience has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

Prof. Hotchkin has invented an apparatus to hold the piles in their proper place, which has been as successful as his other inventions. Go and see for yourselves.

IN MEMORIAM.

OF MARY DICKSON, RELICT OF THE LATE JAMES ROBERTSON, ESQ., OF OTONABEE, WHO DIED AUGUST 12TH, 1884, AGED 77 YEARS AND 10 MONTHS.

A half years century have gone
Since first she set her foot upon
The ground, where now the house doth stand.
She passed from earth to the spirit land,
Now done with all things here below,
And passed away without a foe,
For she through life was ever found
Beloved by all her neighbors round.
'Midst worldly care, devoid of strife,
She lived a quiet peaceful life,
Tho' like us all on earth below
She had her share of joy and woe.
As she lived so she passed from here,
Beloved amidst her family dear;
We hope the loss that friends sustain
To be her everlasting gain,
To be with those who've gone before,
Where families meet to part no more.

CHAPTER XXXV—CONTINUED.

"Regina!"

The girl looked up, and saw her uncle with an open letter in his hand.

"What is it? Some bad news!"

"Dear little girl, you are indeed fatherless now."

She bent her head upon the ledge of the window, and after a moment Mr. Chesley sighed, and smoothed her hair.

"With all his faults, he was still your father; and having had several interviews with him in Paris, I was convinced he was more 'sinned against than sinning,' though of course he knew that he could never have legally married again, while Minnie lived. God help us to forgive, even as we need and hope to be forgiven."

"He knows I forgave him. I told him so, the night he held me to his heart, and kissed me; and you never can know how that thought comforts me now. But, mother! Uncle——"

She sprang up pale and tearful, but he detained her.

"Mr. Palma writes me that there remains no longer a doubt, that Laurance perished in the wreck. He enclosed a detailed account of the disaster from an American naval surgeon who was returning home on furlough, when the storm overtook them, and who was one of the few picked up by the West Indian vessel. Mr. Palma wrote to him, relative to your father, and it appears from his reply in my hand, that he knew the Laurances quite well. He says that during the gale he was called to prescribe for Maud, who was really ill and rendered worse by terror. When it was evident the steamer could not outlive the storm, he saw Cuthbert Laurance place his wife in one of the boats, and return to the cabin for his sick child. Hastening back with the little cripple in his arms, he found the boats were beyond reach, and too crowded to admit another passenger. He shouted to the nearest, to take his child, only his child; but the violence of the gale rendered it impossible to do more than keep the boat from swamping, and with many others, he was left upon the doomed vessel. There was no remaining boat; night came swiftly on, storm increased, and next day there was no vestige of boat or ship visible. Mrs. Laurance was in the second boat, the largest and strongest, but it was overladen, and about twilight it capsized in the fury of the gale, and all went down. The surgeon who heard the wild screams of the women, knows that the wife perished, and says he cannot indulge the faintest hope that the father and child escaped. Cuthbert was a remarkably skilful swimmer; he had once contended for a wager off Brighton, with a party of naval officers, and Laurance won it; but none could live in the sea that boiled and bellowed around that sinking ship, and encumbered as he was, with the helpless child, it was impossible that he could have survived. I would rather not tell Minnie now, but Mr. Palma writes that the sister and nephew of Gen. Laurance will force a suit to secure the remnants of the property, and he wishes to anticipate their action. Come with me, dear. Minnie is not asleep. As I passed her door, I heard her walk across the floor."

"Uncle Orme, can't you wait until to-morrow? I do not know how this news will effect her, and I dread it."

"My dear child, her suspence is destroying her. After all, delay will do no good. Poor Minnie! There is her bell. She knows the hour our mail is due, and she will ask for letters."

Opening the door both paused at the threshold, and neither could ever forget the picture she presented.

In a snowy peignoir she sat on the side of the couch, with her long waving hair falling in disorder to the marble floor, and seemed indeed like Japhet's "Amarant:"

"She in her locks is like the travelling sun,
Setting, all clad in coiling clouds of gold.

The wan Phidian face was turned towards them, and was breathless in its anxious eagerly questioning expression. Her brown eyes widened searching theirs; and reading all, in her daughter's tearful pitying gaze, what a wild look crossed her face.

Regina pushed her uncle back, closed the door and sprang to the coach, holding out the letters.

Sitting as still as stone, Mrs. Laurance did not appear to notice them.

"Darling mother, God knows what is best for us all."

Slowly the strained eyes turned to the appealing face of her kneeling child, and something there broke up the frozen deeps of her heart.

"Are you sure? Is there no hope?"

"No hope; except to meet him in heaven."

Throwing her hands above her head, the wretched woman wrung them despairingly, and the pain of all the bitter past wailed in her passionate cry:

"Lost—forever! and I would not forgive him! My husband! My own husband! When he begged for pardon, I spurned, and derided, and taunted him! Oh! I meant then some time—to forgive him;—after I had accomplished all I planned. After he was beggared, and humiliated in the eyes of the world,—and that woman occupied the position where they all sought to keep me, a mother and yet no lawful wife, after I had enjoyed my triumph a little while, I fully intended to listen to my heart long enough to tell him, that I forgave him—because he was your father! And now, where is my revenge? Where is my triumph? God has turned his back upon me; has struck from my hands all that I have toiled for fifteen years—to accomplish. They all triumph over me now, in their quiet graves, resting in peace; and I—live, only to regret! To regret!"

Her eyes were dry, and shone like jewels, and when her arms fell, her clenched hands rested unintentionally on her daughter's head.

"Mother, he knows now that you forgive him. Remember that for him all grief is ended; and try to be comforted."

"And for me? What remains for me?"

Her voice was so deep, so sepulchral, so despairing, that Regina clung closer to her.

"Your child who loves you so devotedly; and the hope of that blessed rest in heaven, where marriages are unknown, where at last we shall all dwell together in peace."

For some time Mrs. Laurance remained motionless; then her lips moved inaudibly. At length she said:

"Yes, my child, our child—is all that is left. When he asked to kiss me once more, I denied him so harshly, so bitterly! When he tried to draw me for the last time to his bosom, I hurled away his arms, would not let him touch me. Now I shall never see him again. My husband! The one only love of my miserable and accursed life! Oh my beloved! do you know at last that the Minnie of you youth, the bride of your boyhood has never, never ceased to love her faithless, erring husband?"

Her voice grew tremulous, husky, and suddenly bending back her daughter's head, she looked long at the grieved countenance.

"His last words were: 'Minnie, love, let our baby's eyes and lips plead pardon for her father's unintentional sins.' They do; they always shall. Cuthbert's own wonderful eyes shining in his daughter's. My husband's own proud beautiful lips—that kiss me so fondly ever time I press his child's mouth! At last I can thank God that our baby is indeed her father's image; and because in death Cuthbert is my own again, I can cherish the memory, and pray for the soul of my husband! Kiss me, kiss me—oh my darling!"

She kissed the girl's eyes and lips, held her off gazing into her face through gathering mist, then drew her again to her bosom, and the long hoarded bitterness and agony found vent in a storm of sobs and tears.

"I must sit joyless in my place bereft,
As trees that suddenly have dropped their leaves
And dark as nights that have no moon."

FARM AND GARDEN.

THE exclusive feeding of clover to cows gives hard cheese and soft butter.

HONEYSUCKLE, clematis, an other climbing plants should have support and new growths fastened as they advance.

DURING the past six years Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri and Ohio have established over 900 creameries.

HENS may be a little backward as regards laying eggs; but they never fail to come to the scratch where flower beds are concerned.

THE difference between an egg laid by a plump, healthy hen, fed with good fresh food daily and an egg by a poorly fed hen, is as great as the difference between good beef and poor.

AN English experimenter claims to have made a successful cross between a strawberry and a raspberry. A high German authority, however, disputes the possibility of such a thing being done.

STRAWBERRIES will grow on almost any soil, but it is all important that it be well drained, either naturally or artificially; in fact, this it true for the well being of nearly all plants, as few do well on soils where the water does not freely pass off, UNTHINKING farmers will sometimes place a colt or young horse by the side of a horse of more mature years, and expect it to do an equal amount of work without injury. Such a thing is not only cruel, but unwise. Many promising horses have been ruined by such treatment.

OF the forty-six thousand eight hundred acres devoted to hop culture nearly forty thousand are in New York. Wisconsin stands next with about four and one-half thousand, California has about one thousand acres, and the balance is scattered through fifteen states. The leading hop-growing New York counties are Otsego, Madison, Oneida and Schoharie.

THE best way, says a correspondent, to apply salt to paths, to destroy weeds, is as follows:—Boil the salt in water, one pound to one gallon, and apply the mixture boiling hot with a watering pot that has a spreading rose. This will keep weeds and worms away for two or three years. Put 1 lb. to the square yard the first year, afterwards a weaker solution may be applied when required.

NEARLY all diseases to which live stock are subject are the result of neglect of the simplest sanitary rules, and may be prevented by the exercise of a little common sense. Never compost manure in a cellar beneath the stables, nor in an adjoining shed. The foul, noisome gases arising from the rotting mass will poison the air throughout the entire building, and to compel animals to breathe it is the height of folly. Fancy ventilators and clean floors will not remedy the matter. Manure and all decaying matter must be removed to a distance from every part of a building, to keep it fit for live animals.

HOW TO BUY A HORSE.

An old horseman says: If you want to buy a horse, don't believe your own brother. Take no man's word for it. Your eye is your market. Don't buy a horse in harness. Unhitch him and take everything off but his halter, and lead him around. If he has a corn or is stiff, or has any other failing, you can see it. Let him go by himself a way, and if he staves right into anything you know he is blind. No matter how clear and bright his eyes are, he can't see any more than a bat. Back him, too. Some horses show their weakness at tricks in that way when they don't in any other. But be as smart as you can you'll get caught sometimes. Even an expert gets stuck. A horse may look ever so nice and go a great pace and yet have fits. There isn't a man could tell it till something happens, or he may have a weak back. Give him the whip and off he goes for a mile or two, then all of a sudden he stops in the road. After a rest he starts again, but he soon stops for good, and nothing but a derrick can move him.

The weak points of a horse can be better discovered while standing than while moving.

If he is sound, he will stand firmly and squarely on his limbs without moving any of them, the feet flatly upon the ground, with legs plump and naturally poised; or if the foot is lifted from the ground and the weight taken from it, disease may be suspected, or at least tenderness, which is a precursor of disease. If he stands with his feet spread apart, or straddles with his hind legs there is a weakness in the loins, and the kidneys are disordered. Heavy pulling bends the knees. Bluish, milky cast eyes in horses indicate moon blindness or something else. A bad tempered horse keeps his ears thrown back. A kicking horse is apt to have scarred legs. A stumbling horse has blemished knees. When the skin is rough and harsh, and does not move easily to the touch, the horse is a heavy eater, and digestion is bad. Never buy a horse whose breathing organs are at all impaired. Place your ear at the side of the heart, and if a wheezing sound is heard it is an indication of trouble.—Rural Record.

The Brutes Got Refractory.

During the circus procession on Wednesday the lions got somewhat refractory, at the head of Princess street, and one of them made a spring at the tamer, who was inside of the cage. He brought a stick down on its nose with telling effect, and the animal roared with pain. The people expected a tragedy, and women began to cry out with fear. At the end of a few minutes the two refractory brutes slunk into their corners and became quiet.—Kingston News.

TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Lake Street Entertainment.

We remind our readers that a musical entertainment will be held in the Lake Street School House this evening. A good programme of music has been arranged and refreshment will be provided. All are cordially welcome.

A Want to be Supplied.

We understand that it is the intention of one or two of our citizens to establish at the Ontario and Quebec Railway station a first-class lunch restaurant at an early date. Should the restaurant be established we have no doubt that it would be largely patronized.

Easily Explained.

"Doctor," said the caretaker of a certain cemetery to a prominent physician on Saturday, "how is it I have not been kept so busy of late?" "Oh," laughed the doctor, "that is easily explained; we doctors have been out of town on our holidays for the last month."

A Neat Store.

Mr. J. Hackett's dry goods store looked particularly neat on Saturday night. The windows were tastefully dressed, and Mr. Hackett's method of showing off his carpet goods attracted the eyes of many. Different patterns of carpets were laid on the floor the entire length of the building.

Football.

Another game of football was played on the Ashburnham grounds on Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of players, and a goodly number of spectators watched the game with interest from the stands. Another match will be played shortly, and the team to play against the Torontos (the best team in Canada), will be chosen out of some thirty of the best men.

Harvest Festival.

The usual harvest festival service and tea meeting in connection with St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, will be held on Thursday next, the 25th of September. Tea will be served from 5 p.m. in the Town Hall. At 8 o'clock divine service will be held at St. Luke's Church, when a sermon will be delivered by the Rev. S. Weston Jones, curate of Lindsay. All are cordially invited.

Trent Valley Navigation.

In a brochure entitled "The Provinces and the States—Why Canada does not want annexation," the writer, Mr. Walsen Griffin, speaking of the internal navigation of the two countries, says:

"The great lakes lie between the two countries, but the connecting links are in Canada. When the Trent Valley Canal, connecting Georgian Bay with Lake Ontario, is completed, all the long voyage of Lakes Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario will be saved. There is very little cutting to be done, for there is natural water communication by the Trent river nearly all the way, and it will cost little to complete the work already commenced of constructing a barge canal."

Artistic Photography.

In Mr. Mercer's window on the corner of George and Hunter streets may now be seen some admirable works of art from the studio of Mr. G. B. Sproule. They consist of portraits of the daughter of Mr. Adam Hall, of a lad and a young girl, of two children grouned in one picture, the sons and daughters of Mr. Robert Hall. These enlarged photographs are finished in oil in a beautiful manner, the colouring being pleasing and the pose and whole effect being very good. After seeing them the natural consequence was a visit to the studio in which they were produced. Here we found that Mr. Sproule had made still further improvements, in accordance with his well known progressive spirit. There are new backgrounds of excellent effect, and artistic furniture, which helps admirably in a photograph, besides making the studio a place of beauty. With his skill and taste in the art, and all these accessories, it is not surprising that Mr. Sproule can show such exquisite photographs as we saw at his studio. To enable ladies to pass away the time while waiting, Mr. Sproule has placed an excellent piano in the ladies' room.

Cool.

The lowest reading of the Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering thermometer on Saturday night was 33° above zero—within one degree of frost.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Class.

The members of this class are reminded that the Rev. Mr. Munro will resume his leadership of the class on Tuesday night. All young men will be welcome. The subject will be the gospel of St. John.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	56°	29.18
One o'clock	58°	29.18
Three o'clock	77°	29,15

Another Egg Eating Match.

Another egg eating match took place on Saturday night in a butcher shop on the north part of George street. One man challenged another, saying that he could eat nine raw eggs while the other ate six. The challenge was accepted and the eggs were bought. The referee drew out his watch, and at the word "go," the pair made an onslaught on the eggs. In a few seconds the man who gave the challenge forged ahead, but he only succeeded in swallowing eight when the challenged party had got outside of the six. The man who had been challenged won. Time, (official), ten seconds.

Canadian Foresters.

Although only a comparatively new fraternity in Peterborough, the Canadian Foresters are now one of our most promising benefit societies. During the past two or three years rapid progress has been made as regards membership and an additional Court has been established. Court Peterborough, No. 29, is at present making another long stride to the front. The members of that Court some time ago resolved on changing their place of meeting and immediately steps were taken to procure a new lodge room. The commodious premises over Mr. H. Long's fruit store was settled on as the new hall, and it is now being transformed into an exceedingly cosy place. It has been thoroughly kalsomined and freshly frescoed. The woodwork and wainscotting has been painted, and Mr. A. Comstock, who has the contract for furnishing the hall, is carrying out the plans in a satisfactory manner. The official chairs, which are now on exhibition at his furniture store, are of a very handsome design. Canopies are being erected at both ends of the hall and the whole room will be covered with tapestry carpet. If Court Little John and Court Peterborough would now unite, the amalgamated society would be one of the strongest, if not the strongest in Peterborough.

Embalming.

We notice to-day in Mr. A. Clegg's window on George street, a diploma granted to Mr. S. Clegg, by the Rochester school of embalming. This diploma states that:

"Whereas Samuel Clegg has attended the full and regular course of the Rochester school of embalming, and has also upon examination by the faculty of the said school, given abundant proof of his proficefiency in the science of embalming and preservation of bodies. Therefore, and in virtue or the above, we consider Samuel Clegg, of Peterborough, Ont., as a thoroughly educated embalmer, fully competent to practice successfully the art of preserving and embalming the dead."

This diploma is duly signed by the secretary and demonstrator of the school. Mr. Clegg is the only person in this part of Ontario holding a diploma of this kind. This counts one more for the enterprise and push of our town, and especially of Mr. Clegg, who is sparing neither money or pains in his endeavour to make this branch of his business second to none in Canada. Mr. Clegg's show window displays also a beautiful child's casket, covered with white brocaded plush. The mouldings are covered with pale blue silk. The handles and breast plate are also bordered with silk of the same colour. There was also a large casket covered with block cloth very handsomely draped. The novelty of the window attracted a great deal of attention all evening. This knowledge of embalming enables the undertaker to preserve bodies for several days or weeks as occasion requires, it also enables them to prevent discolouring of the face and hands, and to restore the natural colour even after they have become discoloured.

Educational Services.

On Sunday, morning and evening, sermons were delivered in the George Street Methodist Church in aid of the educational fund of the Methodist Church of Canada. In the morning the Rev. Dr. Jaques, Principal of Albert College, Belleville, officiated. He took for his text, II. Timothy iii., 7—"Ever learning and never able to come to the knowledge of truth." He divided mankind who were ever learning and never able to come to the knowledge of truth into four classes and expatiated on each of the four heads. In the evening the Rev. Dr. Douglass, President of the Methodist Theological College, Montreal, occupied the pulpit. Long before the commencement of the service the large edifice was filled to its utmost capacity, the aisles being filled and many supplementary seats having been introduced. The Rev. gentleman, by his eloquence, held the attention of his many hearers throughout the service. He took for his text, Isaiah xl.ii., 1, 2, 3 and 4—"Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon you, he shall bring forth judgment to the gentiles. He shall not cry, nor lift up, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street. A bruised reed shall he not break; and the smoking flax shall he not quench; he shall bring forth judgment into truth. He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgment in the earth; and the isles shall wait for his law."

Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. EDUCATIONAL SERVICES.

Addresses Delivered in the George Street Methodist Church on Education.

On Monday evening a meeting was held in the George Street Methodist Church and addresses were delivered in aid of the educational institutions in connection with the Methodist Church of Canada. The following gentlemen occupied seats on the platform:—The Rev. Dr. Douglas, the Rev. Dr. Jaques, the Rev. T. Manning, Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble and the pastor of the church, the Rev. I Tovell.

The Rev. I. TOVELL rose to introduce the chairman, but before doing so he wished to relieve his mind of a very glad burden that was resting on it. The contributions of yesterday had been most liberal, one hundred and eighty-three dollars having been collected for the good cause of education. For this he was most heartily thankful. He had much pleasure in introducing Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Mayor of Peterborough, chairman of this meeting.

Mr. Cox said he was pleased to have the honor of presiding at this meeting. There was a goodly number present, notwithstanding the unfavourable weather. The interests of educational institutions was one of the most important questions which engaged the attention of the church to-day. Progress had been made in church building and in the extension of missionary work, but not much progress had been made in educational matters. He then read a portion of Dr. Burwash's report on educational institutions, referring to the amount of money invested in Methodist colleges. He touched upon the largeness of the Church and its membership. The future depended to a great extent on the educational institutions. The great body of the church people were not aware of the financial struggles of the gentlemen who upheld the educational institutions. He did not wish to belittle those institutions, but they were not what they should be, considering the strength of the people. He hoped ere long to see $1,000,000 invested in Victoria College alone, and that the colleges in Belleville and Montreal should be placed on a similar sound financial basis. The Dominion was rapidly advancing. If we wish to keep up with the progress of civilization we must have an educated ministry. He hoped those who consecrated their lives to the church would henceforth have their hands left free and not have to struggle with financial difficulties. He then called on Mr. D. W. Dumble to address the assemblage.

Mr. DUMBLE said that he was called upon this afternoon to take up a portion of the time this evening. He had not sufficient time to arrange his thoughts and therefore he would take up only a small portion of the time. The meeting was called for the advancement of the educational interests of the church. The church required an educated ministry; all people would coincide with that fact. The day had gone by when uneducated men should fill pulpits. One reason why the Saved Army and Salvation Army were not making rapid progress was a lack of highly educated men among them. The Word of God comprehended all knowledge. It was said by learned men that the words of the Holy Scriptures contain descriptions of some of our new discoveries and scientific investigations. Inscriptions on stones dug out of ancient ruins corroborated the statements of the Bible. It was not enough for a man to stand in the pulpit and speak from the fulness of his heart; he must be able to combat the theories and demonstrations of scientific men, and men who would overthrow our religious system. If the ministry was inferior the people would be inferior. The Methodists were first in number in Canada, and they wanted to retain that position. Although the Church had done well in missionary work, only $9,000 had been gathered for educational purposes.

The CHAIRMAN then called on Dr. Jaques, Principal of Albert College, Belleville.

The Rev. Dr. JAQUES asked what he had to do with church education? It would be his endeavor to answer. What had he to do with church schools? As a philanthropist he had a right to do much in church education and in other ways. Education relieves the grevious burdens of ignorance. Education produced strength physically as well as mentally. Educated men study the laws of health and learn to adjust themselves to ordinary surroundings. By thinking men will increase their vital force, and educated men will economise it. Just as soon as some great task is done we begin to sink; there is some wondrous mystery about how the thoughts of men invigorate their bodies. The student had better health than ordinary humanity. He proved by statistics that brain workers lived longer than other men. The interests of the educational movement were philanthropic. Education tended to promote morality and to reduce crime. It had been found by a recent census that 7 per cent. of the people of New York State could neither read nor write, and this seven per cent. committed a greater part of the crime. By a recent census in France it had been found that one half of the population could neither read nor write. There the uneducated committed 95 per cent. of the crime, whereas the educated committed 5 per cent. He was interested in the work as a citizen and a patriot. What is the prosperity of the state? What is the might of the state? It is the state which has mighty men. It is the state that has true men. It was not in the buildings, it was in the men and women. The mercantile establishments had cost a great amount of money. He admired them very much. But suppose the men and women were to be taken away what would the property be worth? Chicago had burned down, and oh! what a fire. He had been there only a few days before and saw the mercantile grandeur and magnificence, but it had all been reduced to ashes, in a single day. Chicago men were left and the city soon appeared again. The real wealth is in the mind. Education would effect a saving in the maintaining of police courts, court houses and gaols, and it would prevent costly trials. As Christians they were interested in the work. We are called upon to do do good to all; we must as Christians combat infidelity. We must have educated ministers who shall be able to do this work. It is our solemn and sacred duty to raise ourselves to the highest possible manhood and usefulness. Take 100 men; educate 50 of them and see what a difference there would be in a few years in their social positions. It had come to pass that the college men were holding the highest positions throughout the continent to-day. They were also interested in the work as Protestant Christians. Who was it that persecuted Galileo for saying that the earth moved? The Roman Catholic Church not the Protestant Church. Who was it that affirmed that there was no dark ages? The Roman Catholic Church. Where is the country in which we see more than half the population cannot read or write? Poor, unhappy Ireland. Where is the country in which we find the uneducated peasant? In downtrodden Italy. And look at the thousands of Catholic priests in each county. Where is the country in which all are educated? In Protestant Prussia. Who founded the literature of Germany? Martin Luther. Who would prohibit the sale of the works of illustrious men of letters? The Roman Catholic Church. The Protestant church had never been guilty of such prohibition. We have an open Bible for all; scientific truths for all. In connection with all the other aspects regarding the educational movement we are interested in it as Methodist Christians. He pleaded for Methodism. If our schools are left to die for want of support, just as surely will Methodism languish and die. We must educate ministers and people. We must prepare for the great contest with infidelity, with Romanism, and with sin. We must have trusty weapons on which to rely, and may God help us to use them for his names sake.

The CHAIRMAN then called on Dr. Douglass, Principal of the Theological College, Montreal, to address those present.

The Rev. Dr. DOUGLASS said that in coming to Peterborough he and his friend were sustained by a good conscience and a good cause. He had thought as he had sat of the grandeur of the heritage which God had given Methodism in the great Dominion of Canada. It was difficult to realize the magnitude of the heritage except by the aid of comparative geography. Look at the most eastern part of the field, the great Island of Newfoundland. He had been there four years ago. 200,000 fishermen sustained life on the coasts. What had Methodism done for the people of Newfoundland. The noble merchants of St. John had built up a high school for the education of preachers. Coming to Nova Scotia, the place where the intellect of Scotland had lived for 150 years. Their college had been established and a university had been planted on the boundary line. Going to the great province of Quebec one of the grandest of our provinces. Education had planted a college in the eastern townships where young men and women might obtain a liberal education. In Montreal there was the college which he had the honor to be connected with and also the great McGill university. Coming along up to the vast province of Ontario. In it were planted Victoria College and Albert College. The Whitby, Hamilton, and St. Thomas ladies' seminaries were sending out their thousands of Christian and noble ladies. Going to the great North-West. Educational institutions at Winnipeg were sending their offspring over the Saskatchewan and Assiniboine to enlighten the inhabitants of that great country. Crossing to the Pacific slope, to British Columbia. There also were to be found great educational institutions. His friend had attempted to defame the Irish, but he (Dr. Douglas) had a weak spot for them. Nevertheless he acknowledged the rectitude of the statement. Only $3,000 of the $9,000 collected for educational purposes had been laid on the altar of theological education. There were 800,000 adherents to the Methodist Church and 1,600 ministers, and the collections taken by the Church result in only placing $3,000 at the disposal of theological students. When he thought of it he bowed his head. He fondly believed that they were entering a new era; a more auspicious time was coming. What a wonderful machine was man? Here he stood and his thoughts were in the antipodes. Now he was gazing on the bright plumage of the bird of paradise, and now on the snow capped peaks of the Himalyas. It was the work of education to polish this wonderful power. Even stones could be educated. The rough diamond was taken to the lapidary and in his hands was polished so that it could occupy a position in the crown of the monarch. Dr. Jacques was a specimen of lapidary in human affairs. An oceanic tide of scepticism was rolling up around the church. It could be seen in modern literature. We want men of power in the church; men of great intellect. Those intellects required to be cultured and then, then the ministry of the future. May God bless you and multiply you a thousand fold, and at the last, when the shadows fall, may God bless you for what you have done.

Mr. Cox then handed Dr. Douglass a cheque for $1,000 in aid of the Methodist Theological College, Montreal.

The services were concluded by the choir singing the doxology and Dr. Donglass pronouncing the benediction.

BLOCKING OF WOO LUNG RIVER.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22.—A new complication has arisen in the Franco-Chinese difficulty. The blocking of the bar of Woo Lung River has been ordered by the Chinese, although a passage for the ships of neutrals will be left. This action is due to the Chinese disbelief in the promises of the French. A veritable panic prevails in Shanghai. Merchants of neutral powers have asked the naval commander of those powers to take some action. The British consul had advised the Chinese to obtain skilled foreign assistance, and keep traffic open. Russian consuls have been ordered to protect French interests wherever the French consuls leave. The Russian fleet comprises one ironclad, three cruisers, two corvettes, and six gunboats. Three other ironclads are expected. This strength, in view of the smallness of Russian interests in China, is considered significant.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—At Castle Wellan yesterday Davitt declared that he was second in command of the political army which was invading the Province of Ulster with a fixed purpose, and in confident expectation of victory. Davitt begged his hearers to lay aside their religious differences for the sake of patriotic duty, which is incumbent on Orangemen and Catholics alike. "Let religion give way for once to patriotism," he said, "and then only shall we get Home Rule for Ireland." The speech created a sensation.

Saved by His Cunning Dog

A great black mastiff sat on his haunches and put his fore feet on the railing before Justice Duffy's desk in the Yorkville court yesterday. His owner, Patrick Langley, a laborer, was arrested for intoxication and the dog had followed him to the station house and thence to court. Langley stood beside the mastive.

"Your master drinks too much," said Justice Duffy to the dog. The intelligent animal gave an affirmative bark and wagged his bushy tail sorrowfully.

When the court remarked that the mastiff was the more intelligent of the twain and that he would lock Langley up the animal raised his fore feet in a prayerful manner and whined piteously.

"Do you want me to let him go?" asked his honor.

The mastive barked loudly, frisked playfully about and ended by standing errect on his hind legs, putting a paw on Langley's arm and looking at the justice.

"Take him home—you are discharged, Langley," said the court.

The mastiff wagged his candal appendage gratefully and trotted out of court through a gauntlet of caresses from the occupants of the benches.—New York Tribune.

THE INVALID AWARD.

THE Toronto Globe is angry with us, and after its manner is consequently abusive. This is what it says editorially :—

"The Peterborough REVIEW has had a new spasm of the old Boundary Award agony with this result :—

'The highest Court of the realm has declared that the arbitrators were appointed without proper authority and that they exceeded their instructions, that their award was irregular and invalid.'

There are three distinct statements in this deliverance, and each is notoriously and wilfully untrue. There is nothing clever about the performance. It is simply naked misrepresentation without regard for decency or sign of ability."

We are not surprised at the anger of the Globe nor at its abuse. The leading Reform organ and most of the journals of that party have been ignoring the fact that the Privy Council decided flatly against Mr. Mowat as to the Boundary Award, holding it to be invalid, while our Attorney-General has for years obstinately contended that it was valid. They even go so far as to claim, without the slightest regard for truth, that the Privy Council sustained the award.

Our paragraph as quoted by the Globe is strictly correct. We did not pretend to give the exact words, but the substance of the decision, and we have done so accurately. The Privy Council decided formally at the very beginning that the award was invalid. Among the reasons they gave for this was that the arbitrators had only been instructed to find the actual boundary, and not, as they had done, a convenient natural boundary. This was plainly exceeding their instructions, and made their award irregular and invalid, as we said. Another reason that they gave was that the arbitration was not authorized by the Dominion Parliament, which also made it irregular and invalid. The Privy Council gave no sanction to Executive usurpation of powers granted to the Legislatures by our constitution.

The fact is that for years Mr. Mowat elected to stand or fall by the award which the Privy Council has decided to be worthless. He thus kept us for years out of our rights, till at last he was driven to the adoption of the Conservative policy of recourse to the law courts. The Globe is very angry when the failures of Mr. Mowat are thus exposed.

In the same issue the Globe asserts, as if it were a new idea, that the decision in favour of Ontario is also beneficial to Quebec. Why years ago, and over and over again, we argued that if Ontario were found to extend beyond the "height of land" there was no apparent reason why Quebec should not do so likewise. It was one of our objections to the invalid award that it might be used as a precedent for the settlement of Quebec's claims. If a bargain between Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mowat could settle the Ontario boundary, without referring to Parliament, why should not Quebec ask Sir John Macdonald to enter into a similar bargain with her Premier? Now Quebec will have to go to the law courts, where no doubt she will get her full rights in a legal and valid manner. We want no Executive usurpation in Canada.

MUSKOKA AND ALGOMA.

THE Parry Sound North Star asserts that Mr. Carnegie wrote an article in the Peterborough REVIEW about the Muskoka election, and then proceeds to abuse him for more than a column. The assertion of our contemporary is both impertinent and false. The REVIEW is answerable for the articles that appear in it, and it is a vulgar breach of journalistic etiquette, as well as of common honesty, to make blind and unfounded guesses as to the writers of them.

The disgraceful legislation by which Mr. Mowat last session aimed to insure the misrepresentation of Muskoka is too notorious to be defended by columns of abuse and false assertions. We were similarly abused for exposing the plot of Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and employees, to force Mr. Lyon on the constituency of Algoma. But Mr. Lyon, after sitting for a session for a constituency which he knew he did not represent, took refuge in ignominious flight, when he had to face a law court. Mr. Dill's right is probably equal to Mr. Lyon's.

A Corner in Grain.

CHICAGO, September 20.—It is apparent the corner on corn is one of gigantic proportions. Every month until January is likely to witness the squeeze. It is said Kent & Armour have secured 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels. Yesterday offers were made to trade corn for wheat and there is nothing to prevent corn being advanced away above the corresponding grade of wheat.

THE ONTARIO FORTY-YEAR ANNUITIES.

On May 29th last we referred at length to the proposed issue of terminable annuities by the Province of Ontario. We pointed out that the Treasurer's expectation of placing these at a four per cent. rate was probably doomed to disappointment. We also gave our reasons for thinking that the loan might have been placed more advantageously for the Province if the Treasurer had adopted a form of security familiar to this market, having the advantage of a Stock Exchange quotation, and being available to investors generally instead of to a very limited number. That our predictions have been verified is apparent from an editorial in the Toronto Globe of the 15th ult., from which we quote as follows :—

"Some of our contemporaries are anxious to know what amount of Provincial annuities was sold in June last, at what rate of interest, and who were the purchasers. This information we will give them. Annuities to the amount of 13,400 dols. annually were sold at a rate of interest a fraction below 4½ per cent. The purchasers were Messrs. Osler & Hammond, of this city, whose tender was the most favourable.

"The outstanding old certificates which fell due 30th June, issued at 6 per cent., amounting to 123,575 dols., were paid out of the proceeds, and the balance placed at special deposit at 5 per cent. to meet the certificates falling due on 31st December next for a like amount. The profit on this one half year's transaction, being the difference in the rate of interest paid and that received on the deposit, will be 310 dols.

"The rate obtained is very favourable when it is considered that it is not a straight loan, all repayable at the end of a long term of years, but one in which a portion of the principal is repaid half yearly, thus gradually wiping it out, that the certificate or annuities are payable at the Treasurer's office here, thus avoiding the commissions for sale and annual payment and premium of exchange on remittances which would be incured if payable in England. We believe the Dominion pays ½ per cent. commission to its agents on its loans. Tenders at a lower rate of interest were submitted if the annuities were made payable in England, but we think the Treasurer acted wisely in avoiding the coutinuous annual charges which commissions to foreign agents and exchange would have involved."

We cannot think the Provincial Treasurer would have adopted the "annuity" form of bond if he had first taken counsel with men of knowledge and experience of financial affairs. We fail also to see on what ground our Toronto contemporary can regard the transaction as "very favourable." At the time the Ontario loan was offered, the following were the current quotations for other Colonial 4 per cent. securities :—

Colony.	Quoted price.	Yielding to the Investor. (about)
		£ s. d.
New South Wales	102 to 103¼	3 17 6	per cent
New Zealand	101	3 19 6	"
Queensland	100¾	3 19 6	"
South Australia	101¾	3 19 2	"
Victoria	102⅜	3 17 9	"
Ceylon	102	3 18 6	"
Jamaica	102	3 16 1	"
City of Toronto	97	4 4 3	"

It cannot be contended that Government securities of the rich Province of Ontario are not entitled to rank equally with any of the colonies we have named, or that it is necessary for the Province to pay 4½ per cent. interest, when city of Toronto 4 per cent. bonds command a price which yields the investor less than 4½ per cent. As a matter of fact, for a long time past the principal mortgage loan companies of Ontario have found no difficulty in obtaining money in Britain on the security of their debentures at 4½ per cent. These debentures, though undoubtedly good, are not wholly free from the contingencies of business. No one will contend that intrinsically they should rank as high as the obligations of the Province itself.

That Ontario Government securities do not hold a higher place in the estimation of investors, and one more commensurate with their intrinsic worth, is mainly the result of the methods of the Government itself.

The Toronto Globe says, "Tenders at a lower rate of interest were submitted if the annuities were made payable in England, but we think the Treasurer acted wisely in avoiding the continuous annual charges which commissions to foreign agents and exchange would have involved."

From a return presented to Parliament on March 15th, 1884, we learn that the "railway scrip" outstanding (which these annuities are intended to replace) was 2,862,144 dols. 15 cents. The Globe informs us that the "scrip" maturing in 1884 amounted to 247,150 dols., and to provide for these the treasurer has sold forty-year annuities of 13,400 dols. per annum (6,700 dols. each half-year), at a 4½ per cent. rate. A glance at the results of working out these figures will reveal the financial fallacies into which our contemporary has fallen. The present value of 13,400 dols. of these annuities at a four per cent. rate is 266,288 dols., and at a 4½ per cent. rate, at which they were sold, it is 247,563 dols. 66 cents, showing a difference in the present cash value of 18,724 dols. 34 cents. Assuming the redemption of the still outstanding "scrip" to be conducted in a similar manner, the difference in the present cash value would be increased to about 216,477 dols., which, with interest for forty years, represents the loss to the province during the currency of these annuities.

Supposing, however, that instead of raising 247,563 dols. by the issue of forty-year annuities, the treasurer had adopted the wiser and cheaper course of issuing 4 per cent. debentures for a like amount, continuing to make precisely the same semi-annual provision as at present, viz., 6,700 dols., for interest and redemption. Assuming also that the much dreaded "commissions to foreign agents" were taken as the Globe quotes them, at ½ per cent. on payments of interest and principal, we have the following result :—

Amount raised semi-annually		$ 6,700 00
Six months' interest on 247,563 dols. at 4 per cent. per annum	$ 4,951 27
½ per cent agent's commission	24 76	4,976 03
Balance available for sinking fund, half-yearly		1,723 97
Which, placed on special deposit at 4 per cent. (instead of 5 per cent. as quoted by the Globe), would in 34½ years amount to		251,811 20
Deduct principal of debentures	247,563 66
½ per cent. agent's commission	1,237 81	248,801 47
Surplus		$3,009 73

Thus we see that, without in the slightest degree increasing the burthen on the country, the amount which the treasurer has now to provide each half year for 40 years under his scheme, would pay interest and commissions, and redeem the debentures in 34½ years. If to this surplus of 3,009 dols. we add the half-yearly instalments of 6,700 dols. for the remaining 5½ years, with interest at 4 per cent., we have a surplus of 85,272 dols. 58 cents, which represents the price paid by the Provincial Treasurer for exemption from "foreign agent's commissions, and exchange." This transaction our contemporary considers "very favorable." Applying the same principle to the whole of the outstanding "scrip," by the substitution of thirty-five-year 4 per cent. debentures, the Province would be a gainer in forty years, by no less a sum than 985,857 dols.; and this, as we have shown, simply by a more intelligent application of the public revenues already allocated to this purpose.

As to the premium of exchange on remittances which would be incurred if payable in England, an examination of the records of the exchange market shows that the average price of exchange on the 1st June and 1st December (when remittances would be required to be made) for the past eight years has been 4 dols. 87 cents to the £, against 4 dols. 86⅔ cents, the normal par; showing that over a period of years the question of exchange is an unimportant one.

Without, however, going minutely into detail, we think we have shown that the saving to the Province by the issue of a loan in the form we advocated would have been very great indeed. If, as the Globe informs us, the amount not immediately required for the payment of maturing "scrip" could have been "placed at special deposit at 5 per cent.," to meet future maturities, we consider the Treasurer made another serious mistake in adopting a course which exposes him to the contingencies of the market for a long period of years, instead of taking advantage of the exceptionally favorable opportunities of the past summer, and which may not soon occur again. The Globe appears to think it more advantageous to the Province to pay an additional ½ per cent. interest, amounting to 1,237 dols. 81 cents per annum, than to pay a commission of about 50 dols. yearly to agents for the payment of coupons—which is absurd.

Seriously, however, the time has surely come when greater intelligence should be displayed in dealing with Provincial finance. The subject is one of vast importance to the Province. It is because we desire to see a high standard of Provincial credit maintained that we give up our space to this subject. The results we have given in this article are not mere conjecture, but have been arrived at by competent authorities, and demonstrate, it seems to us, the necessity for greater skill and experience in this department of the Provincial Government.

We may refer in a future issue to some of the figures contained in the return to which we have alluded.—Canadian Gazette, London, Eng.

Death of John Riordan.

A gentleman of high standing in several industrial and monetary concerns in Canada has gone to his long rest in the person of John Riordan. Mr. Riordan went to Europe with shattered health over two years ago, and after travelling on the continent some time took up his residence with his family (wife and son) at Norwood, a suburb of London, where for a while his condition improved under the attendance of a skilful physician. Latterly, however, a change for the worse set in, and a fortnight ago Mr. Riordan was ordered to St. Leonards-on-Sea. It had been known at the Mail office this past few days that Mr. Riordan's condition was precarious, and on Sunday a cable message was received by Mr. Bunting announcing his death.

Mr. Riordan was a self-made man. He came to this country from Ireland with his parents in 1850, being then a young man. After a few years residence at different places, he settled at St Catherines as a paper manufacturer. He rapidly accumluated wealth and has long been known as a milionaire. In time he became connected with different other instutions, both industrial and financial, which added to his fortune. He acquired an extensive interest in the Mail newspaper in 1878, and the handsome building that adorns the northwest corner of King and Bay streets stands as a monument to his enterprise. Mr. Riordan never entered public life, but was well known in business circles of Canada.—Toronto World.

It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 and 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. Hotchkin having had 30 year's experience has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

THE NILE EXPEDITION.

A Letter from the Peterborough Contingent —Alexandria the Next Port.

STR. OCEAN KING, Sept. 16, 1884.

Once more I send you some items of our trip; my last was from Quebec, on Sunday night.

When morn broke then—and only then—did most of the boys realize that they were not free agents, and that the "Do as you please" kind of business was played out; and their blue looks were akin to the blue Peter at the masthead. But I must say, that our Peterborough men are all in good spirits and full of grit. And here let me say, lest I should forget it, that they all, without exception, send their kind regards and best wishes, not only to those very dear to them, but to all their friends. A great many were sadly disappointed at Quebec, for the steamer anchored off shore and a police boat was moored alongside to prevent escape. At about 12 o'clock Lord and Lady Lansdowne, with other notables, came on board, inspected us, and spoke to us in a kind and manly way that found its way to every heart, and his address was responded to by many a hearty cheer.

"The anchors weighed, the anchors weighed;
Farewell, farewell! Remember me."

So says the old song, and to say all of us. A description of the city of Quebec from the river would be only wasting time and paper, for every Canadian that can read knows more than I can tell. However, we saw one grand sight from the deck of our ship. A sloop of war was anchored near, and to see the crew man the yards and spars with such speed and accuracy was really astonishing. "No squirrel could climb a tree quicker," was the exclamation of one of our boys.

The Peterborough contingent are all bunked and messed together. Two men are told off each day to get our food allowance from the galley and keep our quarters clean. W. H. Anderson, of Harvey, is our foreman. There could be none better. He uses his command wisely and looks after our interests well. He is a tip top fellow. He musters us every day for grog. Each gang is supplied with a chequer board and a pack of cards and the foreman can go to Col. D. and get reading matter for all who care for it. A pound of tobacco and a Bible (rather a strange association you will say) is served out to each man. Our regalia is plaid full cloth, coat and pants, the latter tucked into shoe packs; hat, white felt; shirts, blue cloth nicely made, and it really looks neat and I am sure it is serviceable. We were off Father Point and I should have written then but was asleep. Our men amused themselves yesterday in various ways, boxing and dancing chiefly. We are now getting into salt water. It is raining and blowing; the steamer is rocking a little and some feel strange sensations midship, and while the sailor in the chains is heaving the lead they are heaving something else. 7 p.m.—The sea has gone down and the rain has stopped. We have passed a good many vessels in full sail to day; it is a splendid sight, doubly charming to those who do not know anything about 'those who go down into the sea in ships,' except in theory. We sighted a whale this morning about half a mile off. It was head up and tail down and vice versa for some moments, when with a graceful (greaseful?) flourish of his caudal attachment he disappeared.

The man that fell into the hold is all sound again. More Testaments, books and tobacco served out this morning.

OCEAN KING, Sept, 17.

"A life on the ocean wave,"
A home on the rolling deep.

Last night it was pretty rough after we got around the Gaspe peninsula, and into the Gulf proper, nearly all in the forepart of the boat were—well, I should say s-i-ck, and quite a few at our end aft. I was all right and am yet.

The general feeling is that the Ocean King is drunk, a very unbecoming state for royalty. I have been trying to persuade some of the boys that it is a prerogative of Ocean kings to be as as unsteady as they please, and that they ought to be (water) tight—but, alas! without effect.

The vessel is very light, and she rolls very much, but we coal at Sidney, which will ballast her.

This morning was delightful, and to such as I, who have never been to sea before, it is grand. The great long rolling billow; the plunge down, down, into what seemed to be a dark unmeasureable abyss, and then the uprising into light again, when from the top of a crested billow on recovering their breath, one can see miles upon miles of a wild waste of waters. Its greatness and power makes me feel the smallest of the small, and I go back to the Darwinian theory, and imagine that I am only getting evolved.

Last night the foamy crest of the waves seemed to be all alight with phosphoric gleamings It was like a flickering electric light, or changing drifts of snow. 10 p.m.—Sea getting higher, coming in amidships. I am well myself, but am obliged to isolate myself for fear of getting sympathetically—well, you know, what I mean.

7 a.m. (6 bells)—Off Cape Breton, Cape North; wind still fresh; passed Bird Island lighthouse at 11.10 a. m.; a very fine sight. Two bold, rugged rocks, springing from the centre of the gulf, appearing from the ship to contain about 50 acres, and the lighthouse in the centre of the largest island.

Porpoises are playing leap frog about the boat every morning. I got a ducking while reading on the weather side this morning.

Sept. 18.—Anchored off North Sidney Light. Coming down the harbor this morning we passed a whole fleet of sailing vessels. We are now moored alongside the coal bunkers. We are to take in a heavy load. I may not get a chance to write any more before we leave here, and our next port will be Alexandria, so good-bye till we turn up again, which we all hope to do, safe and sound.

I hope these few notes will prove of some interest to the Peterborough people generally. We know that your kindness will give them (all crude though they be) publicity. It is the only way our boys can greet those that they have parted from, we fear leaving many a sad heart behind; but be of good cheer, accept our farewells and await our return hopefully.

Phosphates.

At the late meeting of the British Association Mr. Robt. Adams read a paper on Canadian phosphates, the minning of which was begun, in Ottawa county, in 1875, and work has increased constantly, large deposits being discovered. Phosphate lands, we learn from the paper in question, have brought at sale as much as $1,250 per acre. Pure specimens of apatite contain about 92 per cent. of phosphate of lime; cargo lots usually average 75 to 80 per cent. Low freights are obtained by ships taking phosphate for ballast under deal cargoes. The use of phosphate finely ground without acid is being considered, and efforts are being made to concentrate the phosphate from low grade ores. Factories are to be started near Montreal to make super-phosphates. Experiments made by Lawes showed that the use of super-phosphates increased the yield of an acre of turnips from two tons to eight tons. The use of this article as a fertilizer increases constantly, as knowledge increases and soils become exhausted. The exports of phosphate increased from 5,462 tons in 1877 to 17,400 in 1883.

The DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents per week.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

To keep the lamps from smoking dip the wick in strong, hot vinegar. Dry it before putting it in the lamp.

MILK, cream and butter should all be kept as low as 62°, at or below which point, if ever, carbolic acid gas developes.

IF you have any tapioca pudding left over from dessert, don't throw it away. Save it to paste pictures into the scrap book with.

To make punch without liquor take the juice of six oranges and six lemons, adding sugar to suit the taste. Put to this a quantity of pounded ice and some sliced pineapple, pouring over it two quarts of water. This is an agreeable summer beverage for anybody, sick or well.

THE value of crushed ice as a dressing for burns and scalds, first pointed out by Sir James Earle, is confirmed by Dr. Richardson. The ice, after being reduced by crushing or scraping to a fine state of division as dry as possible, is mixed with fresh lard into a paste, which is placed in a thin cambric bag and laid upon the burn. This is said to banish all pain until the mixture has so far melted that a fresh dressing is necessary.

IRISH STEW.—Cut in pieces one pound of mutton, half stone of potatoes, a nice sized onion; pepper, salt and flour. Take a large sized dish and cut the onion very fine into it. Pare the potatoes and cut in quarters. Fill the bottom of the dish, then add a layer of meat and a layer of potatoes until all are in. Sprinkle freely with flour, salt and pepper, and pour over enough boiling water to nearly cover the whole. Bake in a hot oven one and a half hours.

SCOTCH DESSERT BISCUITS.—Take six ounces of flour, six ounces of butter, six ounces of pounded sugar, one ounce of pounded ginger, and an egg. Rub the butter into the flour, add the sugar and ginger, and make it into a paste with the egg; roll it out very thin, cut it into biscuits with a small round cutter, prick them, and bake on a tin or buttered paper in a moderate oven. If ginger is not approved of they may be flavored with caraway seeds, cinnamon, or essence of lemon.

DRINKS FOR THE SICK.

ORANGE-WHEY.—The juice of one orange to one pint of sweet milk. Heat slowly until curds form, strain and cool.

EGG LEMONADE.—White o one egg, one tablespoon pulverized sugar, juice of one lemon, one goblet water. Beat together.

SAGO-MILK.—Three tablespoons sago soaked in a cup of cold water one hour; add three cups boiling milk; sweeten and flavor to taste. Simmer slowly a half-hour. Eat warm.

BAKED MILK.—Put a half-gallon of milk in a jar, and tie it down with writing-paper. Let it stand in a moderate oven eight or ten hours. It will be like cream, and is very nutritious.

A Lively Jelly Fish.

At Broadway wharf one of the officers of the steamer Yaquinr saw on the side of that vessel a strange-looking object which much resembled a mass of jelly—transparent, but tinged with red. A closer observation showed it to be some sort of a fish, and, from the general appearance, the first impression was that it was what is known as a devil-fish or octopus; but the knowing ones soon showed toat it was not the case, and the query is: "What is it?" As before stated, the fish looks like jelly; it is about three feet long and eight inches thick. Its saucer like eyes are lusterless, and like that of a turtle, can be drawn in nearly out of sight between two prominent shoulders. From the shoulders to the spade-shaped tail the body grandually tapers. From the head projects ten tenacles, each one of which, on the upper side, has about forty suckers, by the aid of which the fish was trying to climb up the steamer's side. The men aboard, with boat hooks, captured this monster, but with considerable difficulty, as it would not release its hold until after the body had been badly torn.

The Voluntary System.

Minister used to amuse me beyond anything, poor old soul. Once the congregation met, and raised his wages from 300 dols. to 400 dols. a year. Well, it nearly set him crazy; it bothered him so he could hardly sleep. So, after church was over the next Sunday, he said, "My dear brethren, I heard you have raised my salary to 400 dols. I am greatly obliged to you for your kindness, but I can't think of taking it on no account. First, you can't afford it no how you can fix it, and I know it; secondly I ain't worth it, and you know it; and, thirdly, I am nearly tired to death collecting my present income. If I have to dun the same way for that, it will kill me.

A Railway Station Robbed.

PORT PERRY, Sept. 19.—The Grand trunk station here was entered by burgulars last night. The safe was drilled and broken open, and what money it contained was taken. The loss will not he very heavy, as the agent had removed the bulk of the cash from the safe, considering it no protection from burgulars. The loss will be divided petween the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Express Company, and the agent.

AS A GENERAL THING ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others

Temperance Lecture.

A temperance lecture was delivered in the Baptist Church by the Rev. T. McMurray, of Toronto, on Monday evening. The lecturer dealt with his subject in an able manner, but it is to be regretted that there was not a larger audience. Those who were present were well satisfied with the way in which the evening was spent.

Merrily Spent.

The entertainment at the Lake Street School House on Monday evening was very successful indeed. The place was filled with people, and the programme of music consisted of good selections by our best vocal and instrumental talent. The refreshments were enjoyed by all and everything passed off merrily. The ladies of the committee wish to thank those who assisted in carrying out the programme.

Meeting of the Sportsmen.

A grand fall meeting will take place in the Peterborough Driving Park on Thursday and Friday, the 9th and 10th of October. An excellent programme has been arranged consisting of bicycle races, foot races, trotting races, exhibition of matched pair of carriage horses, farmers running races, exhibition of matched draught horses, farmers trotting races, exhibition of single carriage horses, exhibition of saddle horses, and a free for all trotting race. This will be the first grand fall meeting and a large number of people will, no doubt, be present from the surrounding towns and villages.

They Thought He was Dead.

On Monday at about 11 a.m. a horse attached to a meat express, and belonging to Mr. Wm. White, was standing in front of his shop on Simcoe street. The whistle of a passing engine gave a screech and the horse sprang forward towards the railway track. When across the track the express came in contact with a telegraph pole, and the horse was released from the rig. He ran a short distance up the street and then threw himself down. A knot of people congregated and thought the horse had expired, but in a short time it was found that there was nothing the matter with the animal. He was led to his stable without having received any injuries.

The Saved Army.

Miss Maggie Gibson, the energetic officer now in command of this station, has been promoted to the dignity of a Captain.

Almonte was attacked by the army last week led by Gen. Lindsay and Capt. Willis.

A tract depository has been established here in connection with the Army, we understand largely through the efforts of Mr. Geo. B. Sproule. The Corporals dispose of small books and tracts along with the papers.

The Army expect to dispose of 1,000 copies of the Trumpet in Ottawa during the exhibition week.

A soldiers' meeting will be held in the Saved Army Gospel Hall this evening.

Lieut. Annie White is at Roseneath, and Lieut. Effie Mason is in charge at Lakefield.

PROF. W. L CARPENTER

The Eminent Scientists Pays a Short Visit to our Inland Town.

Prof. Wm. Laut Carpenter, B.A., B.Sc., F. C.S., a member of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, arrived in Peterborough on Friday. The object of his visit here is in connection with the Indian reserve at Chemong Lake. Professor Carpenter, while visiting Canada, was commissioned to visit and report on the Indian missions under the charge of the New England Company. This company was established in the reign of Charles II, as a colonization and trading company, and in return for certain immunities were to educate and Christianize the Indians of New England. After the separation of the United States from the Mother Country funds were no longer applied to the education of New England Indians, and attention was turned to British America. The company has now three stations under its care, one in British Columbia, another in Brantford, and the one at Chemong Lake. The Professor has visited the stations at Brantford and Chemong Lake, but the mission in British Columbia he has not visited, that one being too much out of his way.

In speaking of Peterborough the Professor said he was somewhat surprised to find such a large and prosperous town. The Peterborough electric light, he said, was of a much better quality than that of New York or Boston. He had a great deal of experience in electric light and indeed this light reflected credit on those who had charge of the manufacture. "What motive power is used," said the Professor to a REVIEW reporter. "Water," was the laconic reply. "Oh," said he, "you are teaching Montreal a lesson. The Association urged the Montreal people to use their water power in the manufacture of electric light, instead of using steam engines." The Professor has visited Canada three times and has each time marked the great changes which have taken place in the country. He says Toronto is especially a progressive city.

NEGLECT TO SUPPORT.

TUESDAY, Sept. 23.—Wm. McMaster was brought up this morning on a charge made by his wife of his neglecting to support her and the family. Mr. A. P. Poussette appeared for the complainant, and Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the defendant. As the evidence was not conclusive the case was dismissed.

WEST END BUTCHER SHOP.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—If some one of our enterprising butchers would study their own interests and at the same time confer a very great accommodation to the consumers of the west end of our city, they would open up a shop on Park street, somewhere in the vicinity of Mr. John Lynch's or friend Hill's grocery store. Hurry up somebody before the weather sets in. Your patrons are numerous and waiting upon you.

Yours faithfully,
PROGRESS.

Peterborough, Sept. 22, 1884.

INFORMATION DEMANDED.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—It has come to my knowledge that a pupil on entering the Collegiate Institute at present has been compelled to study Latin.

I would demand to know in the interests of the public who gave these orders to Dr. Tassie, or on whose authority has he changed the resolution of the School Board bearing on this particular matter.

It is too much to imagine that a resolution of the Board, which allows workingmen's sons the privilege of a complete English education in all or any particular branch, is to be ignored in this manner, and moreover it will not be tolerated. When this occurs it is high time it was looked into, and if there is no remedy abolish the thing. Perhaps some one is advising the Dr. into trouble.

FENELON FALLS.

THREE LYNXES KILLED.—No less than three lynxes (or "wild cats," as they are commonly called) were shot and another wounded on Mr. Burton's land, about three miles from the Falls, on Sunday afternoon.

THE CANAL.—Work is being pushed on the canal with renewed vigour, additional men having from time to time been added to the force until now upwards of sixty are employed. At the lower entrance the lock walls have reached the hight of six feet and further up they exceed twenty feet, being not much below the level of the street. Work will be continued as long as the weather permits and resumed as soon as possible next spring. About twenty-five men are busy at the Bobcaygeon quarry preparing stone for the walls of the race, which will be commenced as soon as the plans are ready, and completed, it is to be hoped this fall.—Gazette.

Arrest of a Supposed Murderer.

WEST WINCHESTER, Ont., Sept. 22.—In the case of the suspected murder of old Mrs. Marrant, near this place, the coroner, Dr. J. J. Blacklock, empannelled a jury late on Saturday evening, who viewed the body, and the inquest was adjourned till Monday morning at 10 o'clock. In the meantime a post-mortem examination was ordered by the coroner, which was held yesterday by Dr. J. Reddick, of this place. The nephew of the deceased, who had given a mortgage on his farm, got from old Marrant to support the old couple, is arrested. Suspicion points strongly to him as being the murderer. The nephew's son is also arrested.

Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Dr. M. Souvielle & Co.

FUEL CONSUMPTION

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Now that the time is fast approaching when an increased consumption of fuel will be necessary, would it not be well to take some steps to have a fuel company formed in Peterborough to supply the demand for either coal or wood. Last winter the citizens of this town found out what a disadvantage they were at in having to buy from one or two dealers—more particularly the hard-working mechanic, who cannot always afford to lay in a supply of coal or wood during the summer months, and who, in consequence, has necessarily to buy a load of wood or one ton of coal at a time. Great dissatisfaction was expressed by many last winter both as regards the price of inferior wood and the seemingly needless delay in delivery. What is wanted in Peterborough is the formation of a company who will go to work at once and lay in a large supply of both coal and wood for the winter's use, and who will sell at prices that poor men, as well as rich, can afford to buy at. I understand that Mr. Geo. Hilliard is engaged in making preparations to meet this end, and, if his prices are reasonable, which is all that is necessary, then he will have accomplished an act worthy of his reputation.

Thanking you for space, etc.,

I remain, yours truly,
MECHANIC.

Sept. 24, 1884.

A.C.A.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—A number of the members from Peterborough and vicinity, who were enrolled in 1883, are desirous of keeping up their connection with the American Canoe Association, but do not know to whom to pay the necessary fee. As our local organization was so successful last year, in securing a large number of members—over 200—it has been suggested that a local committee should be appointed with a Secretery-Treasurer, who could receive the annual dues and transmit them all together to Dr. Neide, the Secretary-Treasurer of the A.C.A. The fee being so small, most of the members would rather pay it and retain their connection with the Association if they had not the trouble of sending it themselves by mail. At the request of a number of members, a meeting of all those interested in the A. C. A. has been called for Friday evening at eight o'clock at the Mechanics' Institute, for the purpose of appointing a committee and taking such further action as may appear desirable.

The Mahdi.

CAIRO, Sept. 23.—A merchant who has just arrived at Dongola from El Obeid reports that the Mahdi has 25,000 followers, 10,000 Remington rifles, and 20 krupp, and that he intends marching on Khartoum. The merchant from El Obeid now states that the Mahdi despatched a large body of his followers to reinforce the rebels in the vicinity of Khartoum about the middle of August, and that he proclaimed he would renew the seige of Khartoum with vigour.

An English M. P. Killed.

FORT MCKINNY, W. T., Sept. 23.—The mangled body of Mr. Gillie Leigh, a member of the British Parliament, was found to-day at Baz, a precipitous cliff in the Big Horn mountains. Mr. Leigh was here with a small English pleasure party. He left the camp on the 14th inst. for a stroll, and was not heard of till eight days' search revealed his body. His remains will be shipped to England.

The Comet.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 23.—The comet discovered by Dr. Wolf, of Zurich, was observed last night by Prof. Barnard. It has a well defined nucleus and faint short tail away from the sun. The comet discovered by Prof. Barnard on July 16th was also viewed. It has lately shown a wonderful increase in brilliancy. According to theory it should have almost faded away.

THE MORRANT MURDER.

Circumstances Point to a Father and Son as the Murderers.

WEST WINCHESTER, Ont., Sept. 23.—From the evidence taken yesterday at the inquest on Mrs. Morrant very little of importance was brought out, but suspicions are gaining ground from the evidence and circumstantial evidence that the nephew's son, Peter Morrant, jr., is the guilty party, and his father an accomplice. Seven witnesses were examined yesterday, with as many more that will be up to-day, as well as the evidence of those who conducted the post mortem examination. It is very probable that Peter Morrant and Peter Morrant, jr., father and son, will be committed to Cornwall gaol for trial.

ANOTHER FIRE IN CLEVELAND.

Incendiaries Believed to be at Work—A Large Amount of Property Destroyed.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21.—The scenes at the fire two weeks ago were repeated to-day on a smaller scale. The first fire, it was thought, originated accidentally, but to-day's occurences lead to the belief that it may have been incendiary. The fire occurred at noon in Monroe Bros. & Co.'s lumber yards on the upper flats. A large amount of property was destroyed, including 2,000,000 feet of lumber. When the flames were fairly under control, a dense smoke was seen pouring from the inside of the firm's dry house. There was no fire outside of the building and no wind to blow sparks from the large fire. It was undoubtedly the work of incendiaries. The second fire was extinguished with trifling loss. Between 3 and 4 p. m., when the fire department was about returning home, thick smoke, as if from coal oil, suddenly poured from the inside of the dry shed in Browne, Strong & Co.'s lumber yard, some distance from the other fires. Two suspicious looking men were seen watching this fire at its inception without giving an alarm, which strengthens the theory of arson. When the last fire broke out and it became certain incendiaries were at work, word was sent to the neighboring town for help and engines from Akron, Painesville, Sandusky, Elyria and Ashtabula. At 9 p. m. the fire was under control. No further danger is apprehended. Monroe Bros. & Co.'s loss is estimated at $60,000; insurance $160,000; Brown, Strong & Co.'s loss is estimated at $170,000; insurance about the same.

PORT HOPE.

INCENDIARISM.—At about midnight on Monday night, the alarm bells were rung, when it was found that a house on Ontario street, owned by Mr. Geo. Membry, was on fire. The fire was set in the cellar, and was, without doubt, the work of an incendiary, as Mr. Membry had removed to another house about a week ago. When the fire was first discovered, the neighbors nearly succeeded in extinguishing it, and as no light was to be seen, the firemen did not reach the scene of the fire when they were met and told that the fire was subdued. It was soon found, however, that a mistake was made, and the bells were again rung. At this time the devouring element had got such headway that it was impossible to save the building; but the dwelling adjoining, belonging to Mr. Mongraw, was, in a badly damaged state, saved from total destruction. The Membry house was insured for $500. Mongraw's house was also insured, which was a fortunate circumstance for him, as his loss cannot be replaced for less than two or three hundred dollars. We hope the fire bugs will be caught.—Guide.

MIDLAND.

BURGLARY.—On Saturday morning between three and four o'clock, the Grand Trunk (Midland) Railway station was broken into by burglars, who drilled a hole close to the combination of the safe and by means of a punch and sledge-hammer drove the lock inside the safe and rifled the contents, amounting to between $500 and $600; $250 of which was Grand Trunk Railway funds, $217 Canadian Express money, and over $100 the agent's salary for August. The cracksmen were evidently disturbed in their work as they left a portion of their kit on the floor of the office. The Reeve, Mr. J. B. Howell, had his horse and buggy stolen, presumably by the burglars, but as the animal and rig were found at the old fort some four miles from here, it is supposed this was merely a ruse to put the constables off the scent. No trace of the thieves has been discovered.

BELLEVILLE.

A YOUNG TRAIN WRECKER.—Before Mr. J. J. B. Flint on Monday a young Mohawk, Alex. Brant, aged about 16, appeared on a charge of placing obstructions on the Grand Trunk Railway. Detective Flynn, of the Grand Trunk, appeared against him and produced evidence of the fact that a short time ago Brant had placed a large block of wood, a railway tie, and a stone weighing about fifty pounds, on the track. The lad admitted the charge, and gave as his reason for placing the obstructions there that he wished to see them fly when the engine struck them. He also admitted that on a previous occasion he had placed boards from a fence on the track, and that in attempting to throw a stone over a moving train he had aimed too low and broken a Pullman car window. Mr. Flint found him guilty of the charge and reserved judgment.—Intelligencer.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BOAT RACE.—A double canoe race was paddled here, at Sandy Lake, on Saturday last, between W. Parker and John Errls, against T. Crowley and Lewis Winters. On the 12th of July last the same four paddled a race, in which Crowly and Winters were defeated, and hence the present race grew out of the above. Considerable excitement prevailed and numerous were the comments as to the result of the race. Crowley and Winters, however, proved the better boatmen. They won by about three lengths.

The Egyptian soldiers will garrison the base of operations, and only British troops will be drafted for the relief force.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The English newspapers, notably the Times and Pall Mall Gazette, in commenting upon the vigorous campaign in Egypt, favor an increase in the navy, and maintain that the French navy is equal, if not superior, to that of England. GUNBOAT WRECKED.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The British gunboat Wasp was wrecked off Tory Island, on the northwest coast of Ireland to-day. Fifty persons were drowned. The Wasp had a registered tonnage of 465 tons, and carried four guns. Only six persons were saved out of a full complement of officers and crew. Her last commission was for particular service. She was commanded by Lieut. John D. Nichols, the lieutenant being Frederick A. Warden. Six of the crew escaped by clinging to the wreckage from which they were picked up by fishing boats. The Wasp foundered about forty feet from the lighthouse. The masts are visible. The survivors when received were terribly exhausted. They were taken to the lighthouse where they still remain. The sea between the lighthouse and the mainland was very rough and communication was almost impossible.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1884.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

Our neighbors across the line are at the present time greatly agitated over the contest for the Presidency. There are four candidates in the field, or, counting the Woman Suffrage candidate, there are five. They are James. G. Blaine, Republican; Grover Cleveland, Democrat; Benj. F. Butler, Independent; J. St. John, Prohibition; and Mrs. Belva Lockwood, Woman's Suffrage. The contest is a fierce one, and the characters of the candidates, or at least of the first three named, have been assailed vigorously.

Mr. Blaine is charged with having used his public position, while in the Senate, for his own private advantage. It is alleged that he received remuneration from a company in return for using his political influence in furthering the company's schemes, and the proof brought is certainly damaging. But the Republican nominee has not escaped with that; his private character, and that of his wife, have been attacked, but the publisher of the scandal has been sued for libel.

Mr. Cleveland's history has been searched, and those opponents who took the trouble to investigate his past life, were rewarded by discovering a scandal which has effected his chances of election considerably. The discovery is being made the most of, and appears to be one of the chief weapons in the hands of his opponents.

The charges against Gen. Butler are of a public character, and by their number, one would think he would be crushed under their weight. But they appear to effect him less than either of the other two candidates. However, his chances of election are conceded to be small.

Mr. St. John and Mrs. Lockwood have, we believe, so far escaped such unpleasant campaign contingincies. The latter's candidature is looked upon as a farce, but Mr. St. John will probably poll a large number of votes in some localities, although few appear to think that he will carry any State.

Of course the political prophets are busy forcasting the result of the election. It is thought that Butler will take a number of votes from Cleveland, and that St. John will receive a number of Republican votes, thus leaving the two candidates of the great parties about equally effected by the independent candidates. The result of an election is always more or less problematical, and in this case, where the number of voters is so large, it can scarcely be foretold with a great degree of certainty.

There is one thing in connection with this contest that, we think, would force itself on the consideration of those Canadians who have listened to or read the arguments of the advocates of independence. It has been urged that if Canada were independent, and her statesmen had a wider field and more important matters to look after, it would give a higher and better tone to Canadian politics. This Presidential contest in the United States, however, would seem to disprove the argument that such a result would necessarily follow, and it will not strengthen the hands of the very few advocates of annexation who reside in Canada.

Mr. J. O. Meara, barrister, of this town, has received a letter from a leading member of the legal profession in Toronto, who, commenting upon the appointment of the Hon. J. O'Connor to the bench, says, "It will have the support and encouragement of some of our leading lawyers, notably Mr. Bethune, who publicly expressed his opinion that he knew of no abler lawyer outside of Toronto than Mr. O'Connor." Such praise from a gentleman of Mr. Bethune's standing in the profession, and whose political sympathies would not be biassed in favour of the appointment, is the best answer to the adverse criticisms of some reform journals.

For once, at any rate, the Globe and Mail had the same thought, as each paper on Tuesday headed a long article with the words "Water we Drink." Perhaps, on account of the Scott Act agitation, they wanted to impress the public mind with the idea that they drank a great deal of water. But the water they drink isn't pure, so the scientists say, and that rather "gives them away."

Sir John has returned from his summer vacation. His reputation as a great constitutional lawyer is, however, still roaming at large. —London Advertiser.

Certainly. The great constitutional lawyer is at Ottawa, and his reputation as such extends far and wide over the country.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE COTTON MILLS.

The Montreal Witness admits that free trade has not prevented a serious depression in the cotton trade of England, but consoles itself with the reflection that several mills have quite recently shut down in the United States. According to this method of reasoning the only way to prevent such occurrences would appear to be to have no cotton mills.—Toronto World (Indep.)

YES, POINT THEM OUT.

The Grits have a great deal to say about Mr. Mowat's "triumph" in getting the boundary case settled by the Privy Council. Now let some good Grit point out a single instance when Mr. Mowat said he wanted the question settled that way; and a single instance where Sir John Macdonald said he did not.—Sarnia Canadian.

WHY HE WAS DEPOSED.

The Ottawa Free Press having spoken of Mr. Mackenzie's purity of character, moral culture, disinterestedness of motive and adherence to the right, the Winnipeg Sun wants to know why, having all these qualities, Mr. Mackenzie was "so unceremoniously deposed from the leadership of the Reform party." Why those were the reasons.—Hamilton Spectator.

WHAT THEY BELIEVE IN.

The extreme gullibility of the public, or at least a large portion of it.—Waterloo Chronicle (Reform).

REFORM BUGABOOS.

Mr. Blake's sea of inhospitable mountains in British Columbia; Mr. Mackenzie's magnificent water sketches, and the other bugaboos are things of the past: the road itself is about to be a fact.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

NOT A GOOD PROPHET.

The world moves faster than the average Grit is prepared for. Mr. Mackenzie said a few years ago that a waggon road from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains was as much as the present generation of Canadians could expect to see. The other day he travelled on a well built railway from the head of Lake Superior to a point 28 miles west of the summit of the Rocky Mountains.—Guelph Herald.

VERY DELIBERATE.

Mowat need not hurry to go.—Strathroy Age. He was not in a hurry to go to the Privy Council. He did not want to go, and would not have gone, but that he was forced there by the Manitoba Government. It is a maxim of his, "Go nowhere and do nothing until you are compelled." That is what Mowat understands as progressive Liberalism.—London Free Press.

ONLY ONE DAY OUT.

The Globe observes:—"The 16th of September is henceforth a day to date from." Our contemporary means the 17th. of September. But, la, bless you, that was six years ago. Since then, a general election has been held in the local, and Mowat's majority reduced from 40 to 10! One more pull, and out he goes.—London Free Press.

A STRANGE PATRIOT.

So according to Mr. Mowat, reformers are all party men "because they are patriots." Wonder if the Premier read the Globe when he was away, and noticed its attempts to embarass the Canadian Pacific railway, a national enterprise, upon the success of which depends the development of our great northwest. And its frantic efforts to make the world at large believe that our industries were all ruined by a policy which it had contended tor years past could only have the effect of making their owners bloated monopolists. If he did, will he tell the people at the next opportunity, what kind of a patriot he calls the editor of the Globe?—Cobourg Sentinel Star.

WHAT THE "OVATION" DID.

It has fixed four facts in the popular mind. 1. That Mr. Mowat said he would not go to the Privy Council, and that at last he was compelled to go. 2. That by refusing to go for so long a time he kept Ontario out of her rights for at least ten years. 3. That the so-called award of the arbitrators was illegal. 4. That at the last Mr. Mowat refused to claim for the Province as much territory as he thought she was justly entitled to. The sober second thought of all but dyed-in-the-wool Grits, will be that Mr. Mowat's course has wrought great wrong in Ontario.—Hamilton Spectator.

AN ABLE MINISTER.

One thing is certain, Sir Hector Langevin has made himself a name as an able administrator. —Toronto World (Indep. Ref.).

The Murray Canal.

In an article on the Murray Canal, the Belleville Intelligencer gives the following information regarding the progress of the work. There are five dredges at work in the canal, namely, two at the east end, two at the west end, and one in the marsh west of the railway. Good progress is being made, and a fair quality of potter's clay has been found to underline the marsh where Rowan reported rocks some years ago. Just here we may as well interject the remark that there is no rock on the line of the canal. One dredge is working outside the west end of the canal, cutting through a shoal in Presqu'ille harbour. The work will not probably be completed within the time named in the contract. The bridge, on which work is now being done, will be finished this season, and the whole of next year will be required for the building of the railroad bridge. There are two other small bridges to be constructed, so that the work will not be completed until 1886.

Living Without Nourishment.

John Baker of Millgrove is a bachelor and over 80 years of age. He has been ill in bed for the past four weeks, and during that time has not taken the slightest nourishment. He would not take doctors medicine at any time, and refuses stimulants. His friends can do nothing for him except to let him die in peace. Mr. Baker has lived in the township a long time and his serious illness is a subject of regret amongst a large circle of friends.—Hamilton Times.

A Plum that Beats Jack Horner's.

Mr. W. M. Kerr, of this city, on Saturday received from Mr. M. B. Atkinson, of Victoria, B. C., a magnificent Victoria plum, measuring 8 x 6½ inches. The plum is described by the grower as by no means an unusual or special specimen, but quite a common exhibit as to size, there being several much larger on the tree. The plum was picked and sent September 11th. —Montreal Witness.

The St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. Address: H. A. L. White, Sec'y., St. Marys.

A Complicated Mortgage Case.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—Mr. Thomas S. Judah, this morning, gave bail for his appearance on the charge of having defrauded Geo. G. Burland of $50,000. The version of the case given by Mr. Joseph Doutre, counsel for Mr. Judah, illustrates the confusion that may result from the Quebec law, which gives to the wife married without settlement, a half share in her husband's acquisitions. In 1838 Mr. Judah, having then no property, took a wife. He had become wealthy in 1864, when she died, leaving two children, Alfred Judah and Mrs. Ralph H Kilby, who then became equal heirs to their mothers' half share of their father's estate. The property remained undivided. Alfred Judah died unmarried, in 1863, his father and sister being his natural heirs, the father thus owning five-eights and his daughter three-eights of the estate. Still the property remained undivided, as, according to Mr. Doutre, no thought was given by the Judahs of the successive changes in ownership. Mr. T. S. Judah continued to administer the whole estate as his own, and in doing so gave mortgages which threatened to swallow it, when Mrs. Kilby had the question of her rights investigated and claimed her share, thus invalidating the title of the property mortgaged to Mr. Burland, who now brings action for fraud.

A Gigantic Peacemaker.

On Monday morning as the circus procession was leaving the grounds for its tour of the streets a couple of little ragamuffins quarreled respecting the right to a good point of view. The larger of the two at once attempted to settle the matter by an appeal to the law of fisticuffs, when he was startled by a grip on his coat collar that probably reminded him of the uniformed preservers of the peace, but on looking around he found he was in the grasp of one of the elephants. On being released he seemed very willing to retire to a much less prominent position among the crowd.—Montreal Witness.

Pale, Poor, Puny, & Pallid

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is tightly drawn over their fore heads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things!

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of the Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life even for the most delicate; the most debilitated; for the child almost given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs, to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell what wonders the Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children.

PROF. G. W. HOTCHKIN

Will visit the following places again:—

LINDSAY—Benson House, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

PETERBOROUGH—Daly's Grand Central Hotel, Sept. 29th and 30th.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 and 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. Hotchkin having had 30 year's experience has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

Prof. Hotchkin has invented an apparatus to hold the piles in their proper place, which has been as successful as his other inventions. Go and see for yourselves.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

"Uncle Orme, are you awake?"

"My dear girl, what is the matter? Is Minnie ill?"

"No sir; but this is mother's birthday, and if you please, I want you. There are a few late peaches hanging too high for my arms, and such grape clusters! just beyond my finger tips. Would you be so kind as to gather them for me?"

"You are a tormentingly early lark, chanting your hymns to sunrise, when you should be sound asleep.—You waked me in the midst of a lovelier rose-coloured dream than your tiresome, stupid lake, and I shall not excuse you for disturbing me. Where is that worthless, black-eyed chattering monkey Giulio? Am I a boy to climb peach trees this time of the day for your amusement? Oh! the irreverence of American youth."

"Giulio has gone on a different errand, and I never should insult your venerable years by asking you to climb trees, even in honour of mother's birthday breakfast. You can easily reach all I want, and then you may go back and finish your dream, and I will keep breakfast waiting until you declare yourself ready. Here is the basket, I am going out to the garden."

Regina ran down into the flower plot at the rear of the house, and after a little while she saw her uncle, unencumbered by his coat, bearing the basket on his arm and ascending one of the winding walks that terraced the hill.

It was her habit to place each morning a fresh bouquet upon her mother's plate, and also to arrange the flower stand, that since her residence at the villa, had never failed to grace the centre of the breakfast table.

It was a parsonage custom, and had always been associated in her mind with the pastor's solemn benediction at each meal.

To-day, while filling her basket with blossoms, some stray waif of perfume, or perhaps the rich scarlet lips of a geranium glowing against the gray stone of the wall, prattled of Fifth Avenue, and recalled a gay boutonniere she once saw Mrs. Carew fasten in Mr. Palma's coat.

Like a serpent this thought trailed over all, and the beauty of the morning suddenly vanished. Was that gray-eyed Cleopatra with burnished hair, low smooth brow, and lips like Lamia's, resting in her guardian's arms, his wife?

Three months had elapsed since the day on which Mr. Chesley received his last letter, containing tidings that bowed and broke the haughty spirit of Mrs. Laurance; and if Mr. Palma had written again, Regina had not been informed of the fact.

Was he married, and in his happiness as a husband, had he for a time forgotten the existence of the friends in Europe?

A heavy sigh crossed her lips, that were beginning to wear the patient lines of resignation, and turning from the red geranium which had aroused the memory coiled in her heart, she stepped upon the terrace, leaned over the marble balustrade and looked out.

The sun was up, and in the verdant setting of its shore the lake seemed a huge sappire, girdled with emerald.

In the distance a fishing boat glided slowly, its tant sails gleaming as the sunlight smote them, like the snowy pinions of some vast bird brooding over the quiet water; and high in the air, just beneath a strip of orange cloud as filmy as lace, a couple of happy pigeons circled round and round, each time nearing the sun, that was rapidly paving the lake with quivering gold.

Solemn and serene the distant Alps lifted their glittering domes, which cut sharply like crystal against the sky that was as deeply, darkly blue as lapis-lazuli; and behind the white villas dotting the shore, vineyards bowed in amber and purple fruitage, plentiful as Eshcol—lucious as Schiraz.

The cool air was burdened with mysterious hints of acacias and roses, which the dew had stolen from drowsy gardens, and over the gently rippling waters floated the holy sound of the sweet-tongued bell, from

"Where yonder church
Stands up to heaven, as is to intercede
For sinful hamlets scattered at its feet."

Into the house Regina passed slowly, a trifle paler from her natin reverie; and when she entered the pretty breakfast room, Mr. Chesley had just deposited his fruity burden upon the floor.

"Thank you, dear Uncle Orme. Mother will enjoy her peaches when she knows you gathered them with the dew still upon their down. Go finish your dream; Heaven grant it may be sweet! No one shall even pass your door for the next hour, unless shod with velvet, or with silence. This is the first of mother's birthdays, I have had an opportunity to celebrate, and I wish to surprise her pleasantly. Go back to sleep."

She stood on tiptoe, and lightly kissed his swarthy cheek.

"Unfortanately my brain is not sufficiently vassal to my will, to implicitly obey its mandates; and dropping on my pillow, and falling into slumber are quite different things. Now I am going to take a bath, and since you persisted in making me get up, I intend to punish you with my society, just as soon as I finish my toilette. If you see a brace of birds smothered in truffles on the dinner table, you may suspect the fate of all who violate my dreams. Even feathered lovers are a pest. My little girl, before you begin your reign in my California home, I shall remind you of your promise, that no lover of yours shall even dare to darken my doors."

Keeley's Motor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A stockholder of the Keeley Motor Company, speaking in reference to experiments made with the motor at Sandy Hook on Saturday, says Keeley has discovered a great natural law. The cost of producing the force is almost nothing. Col. Hamilton, U.S.A., says the motor is an unqualified success so far as an artillery firing is concerned.

A Great Oil Well.

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Phillips' well, to which all the oil trade is looking, is the largest ever struck in the entire region. It maintains its production amazingly. It was drilled deeper two and one-half feet on Saturday, and the production increased to a wonderful rate. In twenty-four hours ending at 2.30 p.m. yesterday it produced 3,240 brls. The improvement was a great surprise and caused a lower feeling in the price of oil.

AS A GENERAL THING ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Southerly to westerly winds; cloudy, comparatively warm weather with rain, followed by finer weather to-morrow.

From the Emerald Isle.

On Monday night five little children, all under 15 years of age, two boys and three girls, arrived at the Grand Trunk railway station from Fermanagh, Ireland. They were without escort, and on the next day continued their journey to the residence of their uncle, Mr. John Adams, in the township of Harvey.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	61°	28.95
One o'clock	66°	28.90
Three o'clock	67°	28.90

Medical.

We understand that Dr. Robt. Sproule has made arrangements to visit Peterborough on or about the 10th of every month for consultation on diseases of the heart and lungs, as he is now devoting his attention exclusively to that department. He is now established in his office at 250 Yonge street, Toronto, where he will conduct his private practice and also his official business.

Y. M. C. A. Anniversary Meeting.

We trust there will be a large attendance at the public anniversary services of the Young Men's Christian Association, which will take place in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. A report of what the Association has done during the year will be presented. There will be addresses by Rev. I. Tovell and Mr. T. S. Cole, of Toronto; music by the choir, including solos by Mrs. Chambers and Mr. L. E. Manning. All are invited to attend.

Welcome Letters.

Many of the citizens are much pleased at the information received from Mr. John A. Sherlock, one of the Peterborough contingent of the Nile expedition, in reference to their trip, and will expectantly look forward to the date of his promised letter when they reach Alexandria. His letters will appear from time to time in this journal, and for this act of kindness the REVIEW feels thankful. If the Ocean King stops at Gibraltar to take on coal it is possible that our correspondent may write from that place.

A Free Concert.

On account of the wet weather no concert was given on the market square last night. To-night the company will appear on an elevated platform in the centre of the square and give a free concert, consisting in banjo solos, popular songs, etc., etc. Dr. W. H. Vandorn will lecture on the cause and cure of diseases. This company is advertising a medicated liver pad, and resort to the above novel way. There are 45 advertising companies travelling through the United States and Canada. This company is No. 12.

An Hour well Spent.

On Tuesday night the Bible Class discussion in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, which has been discontinued for the past few weeks, during the absence of the conductor, the Rev. A. H. Munro, was again commenced. The subject of discussion was "The history and peculiarities of the Gospel according to St. John." The Rev. gentleman treated the subject in an able and interesting manner, holding the close attention of his hearers throughout the service. These services will be held every Tuesday evening, lasting from 8 o'clock until 9, and are free to all those who come. Young men who wish to cultivate their intellects would find it to their advantage if they would spend one hour a week in listening to these discourses.

A RAILWAY WRECK.

An Engine and Eight Cars Badly Smashed —The Cars Take Fire—A Brakeman Hurt.

On Monday night a special freight train was coming southward on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway with another east bound grain special following closely behind. At Cambray Station several cars of the freight train became detached and were pitched into by the following train. The conductor's van and three cars of the freight train were demolished and the engine of the grain train together with five of its cars, laden with corn, left the track and rolled into the ditch. The engine was considerably damaged and the cars caught fire. Several of the cars were consumed and a brakeman, named Wm. Bradburn, was slightly injured. An investigation will be held in the offices of the Company at Peterborough to-morrow.

For the Capital.

Our lacrosse club will depart to-night on the Ontario and Quebec 10.50 train, bound for Ottawa. Twenty births have been provided for them in the sleeping cars, and also ten have been provided for those who intend accompanying the club. To-morrow a match will be played in Ottawa between the Mets. and our boys, before His Excellency the Governor General and Lady Lansdowne. Don't get nervous, boys! We understand that fifty tickets has already been sold.

Business Ability.

Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, one of our most energetic insurance men, has opened out a comfortable office in the rear of Mr. J. Sailsbury's book store. The office is handsomely furnished, and the walls are appropriately decorated. Mr. Morrison represents in Peterborough the following insurance companies:—The city of London, the Phœnix, and the National Fire Insurance companies. The North American Life Insurance Company, the Travellers and the Norwich and London Accident Companies. Mr. Morrison is enterprising and pushing, which qualities, together with his business abilities, are placing him to the front in insurance matters.

go to McNeil's.

What is Said of Him.

The Toronto News, in speaking of James Taylor, the wonderful impersonator of character, who will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday, the 27th of Sept., says:—

"James Taylor, the original London comique, made his first appearance in this city for many years at the People's Theatre last evening, supported by Miss Ada Alexandria and a specially selected company. The piece presented was Simon, or More Ways than One, in which Mr. Taylor appears in no less than four different characters, and it is needless to say, rendered them in a masterly manner. This gentleman is so well known to Toronto theatre-goers that we refrain from commenting on his merits. Let it suffice to say that he has lost none of his old-time ability to keep his audience in continuous laughter from the opening of the play till the fall of the curtain. Miss Alexandra as Fraulein, a Dutch girl, was a whole company in herself, and deserved all of the applause which she received."

A Bovine Comes to Grief.

Mr. Richard Parnell, a farmer who lives in the Township of Smith, about one mile from the town of Peterborough, went to his barn-yad this morning and found that one of his cows had died during the night. He sent for Veternary Surgeon Crevier, who, on making a thorough examination, found a large bullet, similar to those used by our Association Riflemen, between the ninth and tenth ribs. The ball entered at the hip, passed through the stomach and bowels and lodged between the ribs without having come in contact with a bone, and without having broken a blood vessel. The Association range is situated on Mr. Parnell's farm and the pasture land is directly north of the range, but still it is quite possible that the accident may have occurred in another way than that to which the circumstances seem to point.

Personal.

Mr. R. M. Orr, for the last three years a resident of Chicago, returned to town on Tuesday night. Many of our citizens will be glad to see his genial face again. He will go back to Chicago in about three weeks.

We notice among the members of the St. Quinten Opera Company, which will appear in the Opera House to-night, the florid and happy countenance of Mr. M. Porteous. No doubt his many Peterborough admirers will seize the opportunity offered to-night and hear his mellifluous baritone once more.

Mr. John Lasher, who has for the last three years lived in Chicago City, is here on a visit to his relatives.

His Lordship Bishop Jamot is in Kingston, the guest of Bishop Cleary.

The Rev. Father Keilty, of Ennismore, is spending a couple of weeks down by the sea—at Peak's Island, State of Maine. He is accompanied by the Rev. Father Conway, of Peterborough.

The correspondent of the Witness, writing in reference to Lord Lansdowne's visit to the Ocean King at Quebec, says in reference to a former resident of Peterborough:—

"Lord Lansdowne also paid a high tribute to Lieut.-Col. Kennedy, appointing him chief superintendent of stores and paymaster of the expedition. The news of this appointment was received by the men with gratitude, especially by those from Manitoba, who know best how deserving the Colonel is of honor and how capable he is of discharging the duties devolving on him. They owe much to the Colonel for the many comforts they have enjoyed since they left Winnipeg, and accordingly feel grateful that he has received an appointment worthy of himself. Lady Lansdowne also requested to see the Colonel, and highly congratulated him on the excellency of his Manitoba men, who are acknowledged by all to be a superior class."

ASHBURNHAM NOTES.

A Few Events that Have Occurred Across the River During the Past Fortnight.

MOVING PETERBOROUGH EASTWARD.

Teams of horses have been engaged for the past two weeks in drawing gravel from Mr. R. Kingan's cellar, on Hunter street, to repair the streets in Ashburnham. A suggestion was made to the councillors by an enterprising Ashburnhamite, to the effect that good gravel might be obtained at a small cost. A consultation followed and it was agreed to dig Mr. Kingan's cellar free of charge for the sake of the gravel. Elizabeth and other streets have been put in a good condition.

THE ENTERPRISING BREWER.

Mr. H. Calcutt, has introduced pure spring water into the manufacture of his excellent ale. Twelve hundred feet of 1½ inch iron conduits have been laid, symphon like, over the hill to the east of the brewery, and a never-failing spring of pure clear water has been tapped. No doubt the introduction of this water will improve the quality of Mr. Calcutt's celebrated ale.

AN ENTERPRISING CITIZEN.

We regret to learn that Mr. C. Young, for the past few years successfully carrying on business in one of the best blocks in the village, is about to dispose of his valuable stock in trade and also his fine property, on account of ill-health. With the departure of Mr. Young, Ashburnham loses an enterprising citizen.

All are cordially invited.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

MISS ST. QUINTEN.

A Charming Little English Woman—Interview with the Prima Donna.

Miss St. Quinten was interviewed on her arrival this morning, and found to be as cute and jolly a little lady as one could find in a long while. She extends a cunning, trusting little hand and shakes a plump arm all trembling with silver bangles, wearing silver ornaments in her ears and the same at her throat. She wears her crisp curling hair cut short, brushed off from her face with an easy abandon which adds to her boyish appearance.

"You are really good to come and see me," she said, "for I am fond of meeting strangers."

"So this is your first Canadian tour," said the reporter.

"Yes," was the reply, "I have only as yet visited three cities, viz., Toronto, Lindsay and Peterborough."

"You are most highly spoken of by the press of England and America?"

"Yes, the press has always been most kind to me."

"How long have you been on the stage?"

"About seven years."

"Have you any relatives in the profession?"

"No, none; my father was a well known physician in London and I was sent to a Convent school in France, where we used to have amateur theatrical entertainments and it was here I developed a fondness for the stage. On my return to London I joined a celebrated Dramatic Club called the "Irrationals," which numbered amongst its members such celebrities as Lady Sebright, Lady Moncton, Mrs. Langtry, Sir Chas. Young, and many other leaders of London society. I was so successful in these performances that I was induced to adopt the stage as a profession. My first engagement was at the Globe Theatre, London, where I played "Serpolette" in Chimes of Normandy upwards of 350 nights. Two years ago I went to America, and have been enthusiastically received everywhere. I am now making a short tour through the Dominion, and judging from my reception in Toronto and Lindsay it will be a successful one." Miss St. Quinten, in addition to her capacity as a bouffe Prima Donna, is a model soubrette. She is also very accomplished, and sings and plays in French and Italian as acceptably as in her mother tongue. Off the stage she is a demure little lady, in whom one can with difficulty recognize the rollicking Olivette or romping Bettina.

Miss St. Quinten will appear at the Grand Opera House to-night as Olivette, and to-morrow night as Bettina in the Mascotte, and will doubtless be greeted by a crowded house.

Matrimonial.

Mr. Joseph De Laronde, a merchant of Malone, N. Y., and Miss Meriza De Laplante, of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. N. De Laplante, were united in marriage at St. Peter's Cathedral on Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock. His Lordship Bishop Jamot performed the nupital ceremony, and numerous friends witnessed the happy event. The bride received many beautiful and costly presents from her friends during the day, and at 8.30 p. m. the happy pair departed over the Grand Trunk Railway for their future home in Malone, N.Y. The many friends and acquaintances of the bride gathered at the station to wish her bon voyage.

Pencil Points.

—Heavy rain early this morning.

—The dates of the fall fairs are drawing near.

—Miss St. Quinten had a rousing reception in the Opera House, Lindsay, last night.

—The Peterborough Cigar Factory is kept very busy on orders for some of their favorite brands of cigars and are compelled to work every night to keep up. Quite a demand is being made for their cigars and smokers who know what a good cigar is speak in praise of their fine smoking qualities.

—We saw Mr. Comstock passing out of town to-day with a big load of furniture for someone in the country. We learn that Mr. C.'s business is growing, and that he has bought a portion of the lot nearly opposite his stand and contemplates erecting warerooms for himself in a short time.

CHOLERA
—IS—
COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swatow, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNKS.

THURSDAY, Sept. 25.—John Baker was charged with having been drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

Catharine Scott, a woman 80 years of age, was charged with having been drunk. She pleaded guilty, urged that it was her first offence and was allowed to depart.

LARCENY.

Frederick Cook was brought up on remand from the 11th September, on a charge of larceny preferred against him by James Renton. Mr. Renton charged the prisoner with having, on the 18th day of August, feloniously stolen and carried away five silver watches valued at $80. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and desired to be tried summarily.

JAMES RENTON was sworn and stated: I live in Peterborough. I am a watch maker. My shop was on Hunter street. I know the prisoner. I generally have on hand a quantity of watches for repair. On the 18th day of August last I lost three watches and subsequently two more. I recovered one of the watches I lost on the 18th. I got it from the prisoner the day after I lost the three. Prisoner was in the back room of my shop. He asked me if I was in trouble. I answered, "Yes, indeed I am in trouble." For several weeks previous the prisoner had been in and out of my shop frequently. I told him I had lost some watches. He put his hand in his pocket and pulled out one. I recognized it as a watch which was left with me for repair. He said that an old soldier named Sullivan had taken the watches that he (prisoner) saw him take them, and that he had taken this one from Sullivan. He told me to lock the door and come with him that the watches were all right. I did so, and he took me behind Belleghem's furniture factory into a yard. He took from a pile of wood two pocket-books which are mine. The prisoner follows the occupation of sewing machine repairer.

Mrs. Norris, proprietress of the Queen's Hotel, was sworn. Her evidence was to the effect that both Crook and Renton owed her for board, and Crook came to her and volunteered, if she would supply the funds, to place Renton under the influence of liquor and take watches from him to secure her her bill. She declined the offer, saying that Mr. Renton was an honest man, and that he would pay his bill.

Mr. WELLER, appearing for the prosecution, addressed the Court.

The MAGISTRATE reserved judgement until Friday morning.

LACROSSE AT OTTAWA.

The Peterboroughs Win the Match With the Metropolitans.

The first twelve of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club started for Ottawa on the late train on Wednesday night to play a match at that city with the Metropolitans. The two clubs had met twice previously, first at Brockville, where the Peterboroughs were badly beaten, and again in Peterborough, where, after a hard fought contest, the Mets. won the match by three games to two. Considerable interest was therefore felt in the result of this match. The Peterborroughs, however, now have made amends for the previous defeats, as the followiug telegram, received from the President of the Club, shows that they have won the match:—

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.

"The Peterboroughs took the second, fourth and fifth games, winning the match in fine style. The Governor-General faced the ball."

This is good news, and without affectation it might be said that to many friends of the club here it was unexpected. It would not be out of place if the boys, on their return home, should be met at the station and given a welcome back. They deserve it.

The Opera.

Last night the rain poured down in torrents and fathomless seas of mud surged in the surrounding streets, but all was cheerful, cosy and happy within the walls of the Opera House where a fine representative Peterborough audience assembled to witness the rendition by the St. Quinten Opera Co. of Audran's beautiful opera Olivette. The performance was a good one. The interest of the evening however centered in Miss St. Quinten, who made her bow to a Peterborough audience for the first time. This little lady has a great reputation in England and the United States, consequently much was expected from her last night, and none were disappointed. Unlike many who undertake comic opera Miss St. Quinten can both sing and act. Her voice is a mezzo-soprano of pleasing quality and is used in a manner which indicates careful cultivation. She has much of that lightness and vivacity of style which are sometimes supposed to be peculiarly French and was able to give full expression to the peculiar humour which distinguishes the character of Olivette. Miss St. Quinten will hereafter be a welcome visitor to our city. Miss Marcellus sang the music and acted the part of the Countess charmingly. Miss Hold was sprightly as Moustique. The DeMeromac of Mr. Wolff was a rolicking piece of acting and the house never seemed to tire of his presence. Mr. Reid Wilson gave a quietly humorous rendering of the foster brother Coquelicot. The Valentine of Mr. Redstone was beautifully sung and warmly applauded. The Duke was played by Mr. Hartsoll. The chorus looked pretty and sang well, and the farandole was repeated several times with a gusto which brought down the house. The costumes were neat and appropriate. To night the Mascotte will be played with Miss St. Quinten in her favovrite role of Bettina, and as this will be her last appearance here a large house should greet her. Mr. Porteous who is so well known here as a very fine singer had but little chance last night of distinguishing himself, but to-night he is cast for the Sergeant in Mascotte which offers more scope for his abilities.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

One o'clock.....	64°	29.30

Exhibit Car.

Cuba's Independence.

KEY WEST, Sept. 24.—The Cuban Generals, Comez and Marceo, are progressing with their plans for the organization of an expedition to Cuba. A meeting was held last night for the ostensible purpose of organizing a relief society, but really to devise a plan for raising funds. The expedition will be well provided with money, men and arms, and it is believed this will be the last expedition that will ever be undertaken or required to secure the independence of Cuba. The Spanish consul has repeatedly protested against the operations of Comez and Marceo.

"GLOBE" PATRIOTISM.

THE leading Reform journal is endeavoring day by day to persuade those of its readers who have short memories that it never tried to impede the settlement of the North-West nor to retard the progress and injure the credit of Canada by false and injurious assertions.

About a year ago it wrote editorially :—

"The Company have been permitted to divert their main line so far to the south that for hundreds of miles it runs through land which is unfit for settlement."

Mr. Sandford Fleming, who certainly could not be prejudiced in favor of the changed route, published a more favorable and truthful account of this district, and the Globe at once abused him and his book. Now, however, Mr. Mackenzie has made public his opinion that "throughout the whole length of the road there was scarcely any poor soil to be seen." The Globe does not venture to treat him in the same way, so it is now busily employed eating its own words, and is making many wry faces over the foul diet.

We do not mean to say that the Globe's primary object was to injure its own country. But it wished to attack the Conservative statesmen who have been chosen by the people of this Dominion to administer their affairs, so neither regard for the truth nor the certainty that it would do an injury to Canada restrained it from uttering these calumnies. As to the damage it would do to the C. P. R. by hurting its credit, that reflection would only be an incentive to the Globe, which hates that company because by its means the Conservative Administration is succeeding in doing what the Reformers when in power tried in vain to accomplish. Even the injury to Canada caused by its falsehoods was welcome to the Globe, for if the country suffered it might become impatient of Conservative rule. As the Reformers themselves have no policy of their own with which to attract the people, they have to rely upon abuse of the party in power and all their doings.

It is no wonder that Mr. Mackenzie publicly censured this unpatriotic press for retarding the settlement and progress of our country.

OUR PROVINCIAL DEBT.

THE very instructive and exhaustive article on the Mowat provincial loan, which we have republished from the Canadian Gazette, of London, England, is deserving of careful perusal. It throws much light upon the subject of our provincial finances. We knew that we had to thank Mr. Mowat and his colleagues for laying the foundation of a provincial debt, a new burden on the shoulders of the people of Onrario. We knew that Mr. Mowat, in spite of his boasts of a surplus, had nearly run through the cash savings of the Sandfield Macdonald administration, and had squandered the proceedings from the sales of our real estate, so that he was driven to start a public debt. Now we learn from the clearest data that he has so mismanaged this financial operation as to pay a heavy price for this accommodation. We are often told by Reformers of the extravagance and mismanagement of the Conservative Dominion Government. Yet Mr. Mowat, with his pretended economy and purity, had to pay far more heavily when he went to borrow, and found indeed, that his credit was not so good as that of the city of Toronto.

THE London Advertiser thinks we probably put it too strongly when we said that, while confessing that it "esteemed" a liar, it might also love an ass. Perhaps we did, but recently the Advertiser, referring to a Toronto contemporary, said, "He is merely an ass," and a few lines further on made the statement, "We must confess we like him." So if we had said "like" instead of "love" we would have been right, and after all the Advertiser's "fellow feeling" may exert itself to such an extent that it would "love" him, if it will only be candid enough to confess it.

THE American Presidential election is getting more mixed. A new candidate has appeared, Capt. W. T. Ellsworth, of Pennsylvania, who is put forward by the American Political Alliance. Are there any more to follow?

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

A LIMITED INFLUENCE.

Grit contemporaries delight to quote free trade articles from the Louisville Courier-Journal, and parade them as the opinions of a great American journal. It so happens, however, that that particular great American journal did not have influence enough to work a free trade plank into the platform of its own party, although it made a powerful effort so to do.—Hamilton Spectator.

EVIDENCE OF SUFFERING.

HOW IT WAS MERITED.

A PRACTICAL FREE TRADER.

Sir Richard Temple, himself a free trader, said in his speech the other night: "With respect to the duty on agricultural implements, that matter may involve the fate of Canada manafactures, and it is a question for you to decide whether it is not better for you to pay higher prices for a time in order to foster your rising manafactures." Yes that is the question; and the majority have decided that it will be better to foster and encourage our own industries, Sir Richard takes a practicle view of the matter. —Winnipeg Times.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—My attention has been drawn to a letter which appeared in a late issue of your paper, signed by one of the school trustees, complaining that I have compelled a boy to study Latin.

The facts with regard to the matter are simply these: In the re-arrangement of the Institute I required these pupils who did not wish either French or Latin to take instead an extra lesson in a purely English book, namely, "The Companion to the Readers," or, in other words, the spelling book used in all the public schools, and this was accordingly carried out.

Subsequently, however, these pupils came to me and said they would rather take the other subjects, before objected to by them, and this they accordingly did.

I may be permitted to state in connection with this subject that, save in the case of the 4th and 5th forms in classics, two-thirds of the hour taken by me in the distribution of the time is taken up with purely English subjects, and that at the present time the tuition in all English branches, including even writing, is most thorough.

Begging the favor of the insertion of the above remarks in your journal,

I remain, sir,
Yours respectfully,
WM. TASSIE.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I find that some of our good citizens and suburban friends have so far misunderstood the nature of our work as to accept the report that the wages of the boys and girls placed out by us are received at the "Home" for the benefit of the Institution. Allow me through your columns to correct any such misapprehension on the part of those whose hearty practical sympathy we are anxious to secure. It is quite true that we do receive, quarterly or half yearly as the case may be, such balance of wages as may be due to a boy or girl after the purchase of needful clothing, but it is also true that a bank account is opened for each child as soon as thus placed out, and that all balances of wages received by us are deposited for the child's benefit. The advantage to these boys and girls of such an arrangement is too obvious to need either explanation or comment.

Having placed our guardianship of these children in its true light on this point, let me here request that your generous minded readers give us a call at the "Home" and find out for themselves our system of management before accepting as true any statements that are likely to injure this good work.

As I have noticed that your good paper is a great favorite with my lady friends, may I crave further space for what a good old Scotch friend of mine used to call a "suggestation," respecting donations to the "Home." Many valuable gifts both of money and goods have been received, for which we return most hearty thanks, but as the cold weather approaches, and the breath of the "frost-king" reaches us from afar, we notice how our little human plants shrink and shiver. May we hope that tender hearts will incite further kindly deeds, and that nimble fingers will take pleasure in supplying the soft, warm garments so greatly needed. Such gifts of cast-off clothing as we ask for will cause no lack of home comfort to those who answer our appeal, and will therefore demand little self-denial, but if given as "a cup of cold water" to Christ's thirsty little ones "they will in no wise lose their reward."

I am, dear Sir,
Yours very truly,
MILLIE SANDERSON,
Peterborough, Sept. 24, 1884. Cor. Sec.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE LAKEFIELD DAM.—A commencement was made at the Lakefield dam on Monday last, the 22nd inst. Mr. H. E. Wynn, as foreman, with a gang of men, began excavating near Mr. Hull's mills for the foundation of the western abutment. It is expected that a large gang of men will be put at the timber work in a week or ten days in order to get the base in position before the weather becomes too cold to work in the water. This will be a fine structure and will be a boon not only to Lakefield, but to the surrounding country. We hope to see this work persecuted with vigor during the next two months so that the new dam will be available for the purposes of navigation next spring. There has been a good deal said about this dam never going to be built, now we shall see where these false prophets will be.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—Monday, Sept. 15th, was a Civic Holiday in Lakefield. A small written notice of the fact over the name of the Reeve of Lakefield some time previously tacked to a telegraph pole near the post office was the only intimation of this important event. Notwithstanding the peculiar manner of its announcement the Civic Holiday was celebrated or observed this year as has usually been the case in former years. Nothing doing. No attraction. The streets of the village presenting the wonted quiet of a Sabbath afternoon. A large number of the younger villagers crowded to Peterborough to see the show, while many others of different inclinations took to the boat and line. It is about time now that a change was made in the manner of carrying out a Civic Holiday. For three or four years there has been nothing done to induce a large gathering to come to Lakefield on the Queen's Birthday, Dominion Day, or Civic Holiday.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEA.—The Methodist Sunday School of Lakefield held their annual tea in the P.C.A. Hall on Tuesday, the 22nd inst. The tea took place in the afternoon and a public meeting was held in the evening. Both were largely attended, the hall being filled.

PICNIC.—The R.C. picnic at Young's Point in aid of St. Mary's Church of that place on Thursday of last week was a grand success. A very large concourse of people attended, many coming from almost every part of the country. Every thing passed off agreeably and a large sum of money was realized for much needed improvements to the above mentioned church.

BAND.—Enquiries are being made and people are anxious to know whether the people authorized are going to have one of the Peterborough bands at the Smith, Esmismore and Lakefield Fall Show, to be held in Lakefield in a couple of weeks. It is high time that some move was made in the matter. It should not be left until the last day.

LAKEFIELD LIVERY STABLE.—Messrs. Rodgers and Stone have during the present summer by unremitting attention to the wants and requirements of their patrons built up a reputation as livery stable keepers second to none in the country. Messrs. Rodgers and Stone are enterprising and pushing, and well deserve the success they have attained, and it must be an encouragement to them to know that their efforts are appreciated by the public.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A LONG FELT NECESSITY.—Many readers of this paragraph will know the location of "Gannon's Narrows" at the southern extremity of Pigeon Lake. In speaking for the interests of the Harvey people of this district we will state that a way could be effected to Peterborough by constructing a bridge across that channel. The distance would then be lessened to such an extent that people leaving here by the proposed route would reach Peterborough before they would arrive at Lakefield by the present road. The distance from the centre of South Harvey to Peterborough is about 18 miles, via Gannon's Narrows and thence through the Gore past Bridgenorth, whereas, to Lakefield it is 21 miles. The question has been discussed by the County Council before, but fell through, decision having been given in favour of those opposed to the scheme. We again appeal to our council for reconsideration. The cost of construction would not be great. Besides only a few are aware of the strength of this district. The land may be regarded as that of the best, the soil being strong and productive, yielding a fair number of bushels to the acre. The stock trade is also carried on extensively by the residents. Not a better tract in the county could be adapted for stock raising, and, we may safely state, even in the province. Let the cattle buyers who have visited us answer this question. The people are industrious and enterprising, even striving to attain the superiority of their calling of life, but with no envious feeling. The townships of Smith and Douro are being favoured with the best of bridges connecting any two important lines, while the people of Harvey have only one crossing place, that is the bridge at Buckhorn. Should not we receive some benefit from the county rate, being contributors to the tax, as well as the neighbouring townships? Again, having no regard to the interests of Harvey, we ask the merchants of Peterborough, if their influences were extended, would not such an action result to their own interests? By the opening of this road, simply the construction of a bridge over the above named channel, a direct trade would be commenced with that town. In conclusion, we express the hope that the County Council will show some concern in the case at the next meeting.

YOUNGS' POINT.

From our own Correspondent.

THE DAM.—Mr. Chas. Wynn is getting along splendidly with the works in connection with the new dam. Contractors taking contracts on such large waters, when lumbermen, mill owners, &c., have all to be pleased, it is no easy job, and do not think it is a paying one. He has been bothered very much with the water above the works. He has commenced operations at the Lakefield dam. He will have to hurry up before the water rises too high.

THE BRIDGE.—Mr. Richardson, jr., of Lakefield, is busy taking out the stone at the quarry on Clear Lake for the piers of the new iron bridge to be erected here. Mr. Chas. Wynn is contractor for this job also.

HURT.—Our old friend, P. Young, sr., got hurt in the woods the other day and is laid up. We hope to see him out soon again and attending to his duties. We soon miss the old folks, when not seen on their daily rounds. Mr. John Young, sr., had also an accident befall him last Saturday, having fallen down into the cellar of his own house. When asked if he had hurt himself he answered by saying he only got stunned. Two years ago he fell down the same cellar and broke two ribs, so there is no kill to him. He is pretty well up in years and says he will be young all his life.

KEENE

From our own Correspondent.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment held in the Town Hall on Friday evening for the benefit of the library fund of the Methodist Sunday School, was largely attended and was in every way successful. The entertainment was commenced by a chorus by the children of the school, followed by a duet by Miss M. Gallon and Miss Susie Campbell. Miss Amy Gallon sang a solo "Jamie". This young lady possesses a good voice and her singing captivated the audience. She was deservedly encored, and responded with "Bonnie Prince Charlie." An exhibition of waxwork figures was then given, Miss Minnie Gallon taking the part of Mrs. Jarley with ability. An intermission followed, during which Miss Amy Gallon favored the audience with a piano solo. The second part was opened with a duet by Misses Massie and Launderville. Another exhibition of waxworks was given, and Miss Amy Gallon sang "Nothing Else to Do," receiving another encore, to which she responded. A cantata by the children, with tableaux was well rendered, and was a pleasing performance. Mr. John Miller gave an exhibition of his wonderful mind reading powers, and entertained the audience with these feats for some time. He was very successful in the experiments tried. The entertainment was an enjoyable one throughout.

BAND PICNIC.—The picnic held in Dinsdale's grove, near the station, on Thursday, under the auspices of the Victoria Brass Band, was fairly successful.

CAMPBELLFORD.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.—Mr. George G. Eakins, of Campbellford, at one time of Belleville, and Miss Ferris, daughter of Mr. J. M. Ferris, M. P. P., were married last week at that place by Rev. Arthur Browning in the presence of about one hundred guests. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father.

FARM AND GARDEN.

WESTERN Nebraska is rapidly changing from a stock raising to a farming conntry.

PARSLEY for winter should be sown in boxes of rich soil and set in a cool, shady place till it germinates.

It is a good idea to feed the falling apples to the hogs, and thus put them in good healthy condition to fatten later on.

CHICKENS require more solid food from the time they are three to six or seven months of age, in proportion, than at any time before or afterward in their lives.

A SPRING colt should be weaned, a little before winter, in order that it may become used to the change of food while the weather is warm, and while plenty of succulent food can be had.

FOR young animals no better feed can can be found, as an adjunct to the natural hay, grass or clover, than rations of oatmeal, graded according to the age and size of the animal. For fattening corn meal and shorts are excellent.

IN Cyprus the diminished rainfall and consequent sterility is attributed almost entirely to the herds of goats which every Cypriote appears to keep, and which have long ago devastated the vegetation of the island.

A CORRESPONDENT says that for distemper in horses take a pail half full of wood ashes, fill up with water, stir up well, and when it settles pour off the lye on to your horse feed, and I will warrant it to cure a very bad case. I have cured with three doses.

PROF. LINDLEY declares that "good agriculture and horticulture are founded upon the laws of vegetable physiology," and that no man deserves the name of gardener who is not master of everything known as to the way in which plants feed, breathe, grow, digest, and have their being.

The Province of Alberta.

The district of Alberta contains 107,700 square miles. Out of this area there are about 24,000 square miles covered with mountains. The balance is composed of agricultural and grazing lands and rivers. It is estimated that there are at least 45,000,000 acres of good agricultural lands in the district. The most of the land south of High river is under lease and occupied by stock raisers. The land north of High river (extending from there to Edmenton, 200 miles north of Calgarry) is perhaps the best for agricultural purposes. The soil is generally a deep dark loam with clay bottom. There are sections where the subsoil is gsavel. This land, though not so good for grain-growing, makes excellent pasturage. This land is generally rolling and free from stones; although these are found in some localities, and appear to mark the water line of dry, inland seas or lakes. There is no alkali in the land or water in Alberta.

The climate in Alberta is undoubtedly better and more enjoyable than that of any other district or province in Canada. This is due greatly to the proximity of the mountains. The summers are usually warm and dry, with cool evenings and heavy dews. These dews serve the same purpose that summer showers do in the east. The present summer, however, we have been visited with an unusual quantity of rain. We occasionally have heavy winds, but in consequence of the usual absence of moisture from them, the winds are not unpleasant. The autumn weather here is very agreeable, and it continues warm often till late in the fall. The winters almost always are very enjoyable. We have but very few heavy storms, and but little extreme cold. The thermometer is generally above zero, and often last winter it was 60 and 70° above, though for a few days it will go down to 20 or 30° below zero. The air, however, is so dry that the cold is not so severely felt as it is in districts in which the air contains more moisture. The "chinook" winds temper our winters very greatly, and assist very much in rendering them pleasant. The "chinooks" come from the Pacific ocean, laden with warmth and moisture. In passing through the mountains they are robbed of their moisture and come to us dry and warm. The thermometer rises rapidly as soon as a "chinook" appears, and the snow as rapidly disappears if there happens to be any.—Calgary Herald.

SICK or nervous headache are easily and certainly cured with Zopesa. It stimulates the liver and stomach to action, thus relieving the head; on the same principal it purifies the blood and the urine. A 75 cent bottle of Zopesa may save you much suffering and many dollars. Ask J. D. Tully.

THE insurance agents are making renewed threats to increase rates 10 per cent. in Toronto, owing, as they allege, to a defective fire alarm system.

Catarrh is a painful inflammation and ulceration of the mucous lining, bones and cartilage of the nose and air passages and can only be treated by direct application to the diseased parts. Dr Starr's Catarrh Conqueror reaches all parts as nothing else can give relief at once. Sold by J. Tuly, Druggist at 50 cents.

THE 11th Bennial National Conference of Unitarian Churches opened Monday evening at Saratoga. 1,500 delegates, including many prominent clergymen, were present.

AS A GENERAL THING ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Rifle Competition.

The annual fall rifle competition under the auspices of the County of Peterborough Rifle Association will be held at the association range on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 7th and 8th of October.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh westerly winds; fine, slightly cooler weather.

Football Practice.

There will be another general turnout of footballers on Saturday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock. These practices are becoming popular, and are watched with interest by large numbers of people. No doubt the boys will have all available seats occupied when they play with the Torontos early in October.

Personal.

We are glad to see Mr. E. Sallsbury at his post once more. He has completely recovered form his recent accident, and now goes through on the Ontario and Quebec Railway express train regularly.

Mr. C. R. Brown, of Norwood, has been given a third class certificate by the Agricultural and Art Association as a result of the examinations upon farm work.

Ho! for Ottawa.

The first twelve of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club departed last night on the Ontario and Quebec 10.50 train for the Canadian capital. They are matched to play with the Metropolitans to-day. Mr. J. Sheehy, who, it was feared, would not be able to join the club in this match, has sent a telegram from New York to the effect that he will be in Ottawa to-day.

Prize Farm Competition.

The result of the prize farm competition was read at the meeting of the Agricultural and Arts Association at Ottawa on Wednesday evening. Mr. Charles D. Moore, of Smith, Peterborugh county, was awarded the first silver medal by the judges, the gold medal going to Mr. John Campbell, Jr., Mariposa, Victoria county.

An Important Industry.

Besides Mr. James McAndrew's contracts for the heating apparatus of public buildings and private residences, to which we lately referred, he has now in hand a still more important contract, namely, that for the work for the water supply of the round house at Havelock on the Ontario & Quebec Railway. Such industries are both a credit and a benefit to our town.

P.B.C.

The president and officers of the Peterborough Boating Club have been invited to the "At Home" given by the president, officers and members of the Argonaut Rowing Club on Saturday next at 3 p.m., on the occasion of their fall club regatta. A meeting of the P.B.C. is to be held this evening to consider the question of the caretaker's house, at Mr. E. B. Edwards' office.

Honors from the Show.

We observe that the Dominion Organ and Piano Company have again won the highest awards at the Toronto exhibition. The official report of the judges will be found in our advertising columns. As a consequence Mr. Irwin, the local agent for the company, feel, happy over the great victory, and of course knows how to make the best use of these honours for the sale of his instruments.

No. 1. Company.

The annual company match will take place at the time of the Association matches on the 7th and 8th October. In addition to the gold and silver company medals for first and second scores, there is for first prize, to be won twice, a handsome fruit service, consisting of cream cup and sugar bowl and bell on a handsome stand. Several other company prizes are also offered. All the members should turn out for practice so as to secure a good representative team. The scores made in the volunteer match will be counted for these prizes.

BRIDGE BUILDING.

Important Contracts for Neighbouring Municipalities—Peterborough Bridges.

We have had the pleasure of visiting the Central Iron and Bridge Works. Here we found them busy at work on the bridges they are constructing for the Counties of Victoria, Northumberland and Durham. The iron for them has just been received from England, two car loads having already arrived, and more being expected daily. Special machinery has been made in the workshops for the construction of these and other bridges, as Mr. Law intends to make iron bridge building a specialty of his establishment. Having had thirty years experience in the bridge building business, and having constructed iron bridges in a majority of the States of the Union, he feels confident that he can build up a large business in this line in our town, which, by the bye, should give him the encouragement that he is now receiving from neighbouring municipalities.

The machinery, planned and constructed by Mr. Law himself, is very powerful, and is fit for turning out any kind of bridge work, whether heavy or light. One process which we witnessed was that of punching holes in the bars and plates, which by an ingenious contrivance—a stop operated by the workman's foot—allows him to move the bar or plate and insure perfect accuracy in the work, so that the holes in a number of plates exactly coincide. Another ingenious and effective machine is for bending or straightening heavy bars, which would not yield to the hammer.

In short, Mr. Law is equipping his establishment thoroughly for turning out first class bridges. He is increasing his force almost daily in order to get out the contracts which he has in hand.

The growth of such an important industry must be a great benefit, not only to our town, but to the neighbourhood, and we hope that both the town and county will follow the example of our neighbours who are now contracting for their bridges with Mr. Law. We need not go from home to obtain them.

On Account of the Rain.

There was no free concert on the Market Square last night on account of the rainy weather, but to-night, if the weather permits the perfromers say they will hold forth.

Bird to Williamson.

The following letter was addressed to the Mail:—

"SIR,—I hereby challenge A. Williamson, of Midland, to run one mile, in Reterborough, on the 9th of October for $50 a side, the race to come off on the Peterborough Driving Park. This challenge is to remain open for one week. Money to be ready at any time as soon as this challenge is accepted. "M. BIRD."

"Peterborough, Sept. 22."

Y.M.C.A. Anniversary To-night.

As the President of the Association, Mr. J. F. Jeffers, is out of town, Mr. D. B. Gardner will take the chair at the Y.M.C.A. anniversary meeting in the Charlotte Street Church to-night. We need not repeat the interesting programme that has been prepared, but hope that the young men will be encouraged in their work by a large attendance of the general public.

It is Probable

—That the stonework of St. Peter's Cathedral will be completed in three weeks.

—That the Rev. De Witt Talmage, of New York, will deliver a lecture under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows at an early date.

—That the new Ontario and Quebec depot will shortly be occupied.

—That Mr. T. G. Hazlitt will go to Montreal soon so as to make arrangements about the new dynamos.

—The lacrosse team will have a pleasant trip to and from the Canadian capital.

—That they will always want Lord Lansdowne to face the ball for them.

Obituary.

Another old settler has passed away. Isabella Harvey, aged 83 years, the relict of the late Wm. Dixon, died on Wednesday at one o'clock p.m. Mrs. Dixon came to this country accompanied by her brother, James Harvey, in the year 1824, and settled in Peterborough, then a wilderness of forest. In 1829 she was married to Mr. Wm. Dixon, by whom she had six children. Only two of her family survive her. Her brother, John Harvey, was perhaps the first white settler in the county of Peterborough, he having come to this place in the year 1820, making a home for himself, "Gowan Bray," a few miles up the Otonabee. Mrs. Dixon had been rather unwell for some time, but she passed silently away without any pain.

Floral Club.

On Tuesday evening a number of the young lady members of the congregation of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, held a meeting in the school room and organized a society which they have named the "Young People's Floral Club." The following officers were chosen:—President Miss Fannie Harmer; Vice-President, Miss Alma Brownscombe; Secretary, Miss Mary Webber; Assis. Secretary, Miss Rose Clarke; Introduction Committee, Misses Annie Brundrette, Emma Sawdye and Maggie McCaw; Visiting Committee, Misses Easton, Ada Easton and Emma Stock. The society started with a good membership, and as it was decided to accept the assistance of the young men, the number will no doubt be largely increased, and the club will doubtless do much good. Its night of meeting is Thursday.

Seasonable.

Every department in the Golden Lion is being made replete with Choice New Seasonable Goods. The Dress and Mantle Making Department is very attractive under the supervision of a lady of long experience, whom we can recommend as being competent to undertake all orders that may be entrusted to her care.

Ladies,

Your happy expectations soon to be realised. Fair, VanEvery & Co's Millinery Parlour is being elegantly furnished and replenished with most artistic designs of trimmed and untrimmed millinery. The assortment will be large, varied and exquisite. They will soon announce their Grand Opening, and every effort is being made to make you comfortable, and convinced that shopping at the Golden Lion is most profitable and enjoyable.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices, according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

If you want
Sleeve Holders and Boston Gaiters
go to McNEIL'S.

Well Rewarded.

A liberal reward will be paid to any party who will produce a case of liver, kidney or stomach complaint that Electric bitters will not speedily cure. Bring them along, it will cost you nothing for the medicine if it fails to cure, and you will be well rewarded for your trouble besides. All blood diseases, biliousness, jaundice, constipation and general debility are quickly cured. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Price only fifty cents a bottle. For sale by Taylor & McDonald.]

A Run on a Drug Store.

Never was such a rush made for any drug store as is now at Taylor & McDonald's for a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. All persons afflicted with asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, severe coughs or any affection of the throat or lungs, can get a trial bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at the above drug store.

RESCUED AT LAST.—W. H. Crooker, druggist of Waterdown, says, when all other remedies fail for bowel complaint, then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue.

A SEARCH WARRANT.—If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out.

HOPEFUL WORDS.—Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, Ont., says she could not keep house without Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam to cure prevailing throat and lung troubles.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh east to south winds; fine weather; stationary or slightly higher temperatures.

Laymen's Evangelical Association.

A meeting of the above will be held at the Y. M.C.A rooms to-morrow evening at the close of young men's meeting, for the purpose of transacting important business. Members and friends are earnestly invited to attend. RICHARD HOLLAND, President.

Evening Social.

An evening social and musical entertainment will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday evening, under the auspices of the ladies connected with St. Peter's Cathedral. The best local talent has been secured, and those who attend will doubtless enjoy themselves. Admission 25c.

Personal.

Mr. W. H. Dayman, the popular telegraph operator, is going to take a trip westward for the good of his health. He will be relieved by Mr. Hurst, of Port Perry.

Mr. James Watson, who has for the year been living in the North-West, has returned to town. He will be welcomed to the Fire Brigade Band as an E. cornet player.

La Mascotte.

Owing to unfavorable weather the first night, and another strong attraction the second night, the St. Quinten Opera Company did considerable less business than they deserved. Miss St. Quinten as the vivacious and frolicsome Bettina won the admiration of the assembly, especially in the first act. Mr. Wm. Wolff in the role of the gruff old Prince Lorenzo and Reid Wilson as Rocco the luckless farmer, kept the audience in good humor through the evening. Miss Marcellus impersonated the majestic Princess Tiametta admirably. She poessesses essential vocal qualities and her stage appearance is charming. Mr. M. Porteous made his first attempt as an actor, depicting the sergeant. Though this part was an unimportant one, yet he showed himself worthy to take upon himself a more difficult task. Mr. Harry Hartsell as the nonchalent Prince Fredrick did exceptionally well.

The Bell Organ.

Among the Globe's notes of the Provincial Exhibition, held in Ottawa this year, the following well deserved notice appears:—"The mere mention of the names of W. Bell & Co. in connection with an exhibition notice of organs is a forecast of favourable criticism. There splendid instruments are now so well known throughout the Dominion that to thousands any description is unnecessary. Whether designed for the parlour, public hall, or church, each is perfectly adapted in tone and finish for its purpose. Here they have twelve on view, all, though from ordinary stock supplied to customers, are models of beauty and finish. One, a pedal case bank organ, suited for church or parlour, is so powerful that the exhibitor, Mr. William McConnel, declares that he can drown any two organs of the same capacity. While lack of space forbids description in detail, yet anyone desiring full information can obtain it by writing to the firm of D. Smart & Son, Agents for the organs in Peterborough.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I noticed a paragraph in the REVIEW of the 25th inst., stating that the Dominion Organ and Piano Company "won the highest awards at the Toronto Exhibition."

Now I think, Sir, this statement demands an explanation, in order that people may not be misled into giving greater credit than is due one company over another. I beg therefore to state that no prizes were awarded to musical instruments at the recent Toronto Exhibition. The following paragraph, taken from a report of a meeting of the Board of Directors held on the 22nd, September, reported by the Mail, will corroborate what I say:—

"The manager was instructed to advertise that no awards had been made at the recent exhibition for musical instruments."

Yours truly,
D. SMART,
Agent for Williams Piano Co. and Bell Organ Co.

Harvest Home Festival.

A Harvest Home Festival was held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, in connection with St. Luke's Church, on Thursday afternoon at five o'clock. There was a good attendance, and the refreshments seemed to be enjoyed. In the evening at 8 o'clock a service was held in St. Luke's Church. The Church was beautifully decorated with flowers, fruit, vegetables and grain, as was appropriate to the occasion. The Rev. Weston Jones, of Lindsay, assisted by the incumbent, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, conducted the service in an impressive manner. The Church was well filled and all appeared to appreciate the sermon delivered by the Rev. Weston Jones.

The Embargoed Chinese.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Justice Field, hearing the Chinese habeas corpus cases to-day, ruled that a wife could not enter on her husband's certificate. She must have one of her own, issued by the Chinese Government. A new and extraordinary feature in relation to the Chinese of the exempt class under the amended Chinese Restriction Act, has been developed. The Collector of Port Sears held, and his interpretation is confirmed to-day by Deputy-Collector Jerome, that Chinese merchants, resident in the United States, who purpose visiting any foreign country, must first go to China and procure a certificate from the Chinese Government or they will not be permitted to re-enter the United States.

A Circus Man Pays Up.

On Tuesday afternoon a man named Edward Lefebvre applied to the Police Magistrate, Mr. Desnoyers for a warrant against Mr. Adam Forepaugh, Jr, for having assaulted him by striking him over the head with a cane. The trouble between the men arose at the door of the tents on the Montreal Grounds on that afternoon. The warrant was issued and served upon Mr. Forepaugh, who settled the matter in order to save trouble by paying the expense and $10 to the injured party, to salve the sore spot. At one time, it is said, there was some danger of a serious row taking place as the companions of Lefebvre gathered around the place where he was struck in some numbers in a threatening manner. Fortunately it was decided to invoke the law, not mob law, and the warrant was applied for.—Montreal Witness.

A Great Law Suit.

The famous telephone suit of the Bell Company against Drawbaugh is now in progress in New York. It involves the patent to the whole territory of the United States, and the case hangs upon the question of who discovered the principle first. In March, 1876, Prof. Bell received his patent for transmitting and receiving articulate sound over an electric wire. He afterwards sold his interest at an immense profit, and the company which was then formed now pays a dividend equal to six per cent. on a capital of $100,000,000. Drawbaugh claims that he perfected the principle in February, 1875, and that it was never sold or made use of publicly for a year. He was not, however, able to find anyone willing to put capital into the undertaking until the Bell Company had led the way.

A STEAMER BURNED.

Narrow Escape of the Passengers — The Vessel a Total Loss.

POINT AU PIC, Murray Bay, Q., Sept 25.—The steamer Saguenay on her way to Quebec with a number of British scientists and other passengers on board, and while lying at the wharf at this place, about 11.30 last night, caught fire and was burned to the water's edge. No lives were lost. The fire was first seen by a Mr. Boulet, a butcher, who immediately gave the alarm. The captain had retired to his stateroom, but was not in bed. He immediately ordered the steam pumps to be started, but the fire having originated immediately above the engine and spread so rapidly the pumps could not be used and in a few minutes the whole upper part of the steamer was in flames. Although every man was at his post and worked energetically, the fire could not be checked. A number of passengers who had gone to bed narrowly escaped with their lives in their night clothes. The passengers are all comfortably housed and waiting for relief from Quebec. The steamer is a complete wreck and lies about five hundred feet from the wharf. The mails and most of the passengers' luggage has been lost along with a lot of valuable cattle which Mr. Boulet was taking to Quebec. The captain was the last man to leave the vessel and saw that everybody was safe on the wharf before the steamer was cut adrift.

The steamer Saguenay was a vessel of between 800 and 900 tons register, plying between Quebec and the Saguenay River, and belonged to the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company She was built for sea-going, and was worth in the neighborhood of $70,000. The agent in this city is Mr. H. F. Bellew.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1884.

ONTARIO'S "ENEMY."

THE Reform journals in their desperate efforts to persuade the people to again place them in office at the Dominion capital, have persistently charged Sir John Macdonald with being an enemy of the Provinces. It has been urged that the policy pursued by Sir John and his colleagues was detrimental to the Provinces and favorable to the Dominion. As the several Provinces compose the Dominion, it was difficult to understand how a policy could injure them and yet benefit the Dominion, yet that did not deter the Reformers from thus trying to arouse sectional jealousy in opposition to the Dominion Government. The Mowat organs, of course, stated that Sir John's hatred was shared more largely by Ontario than by any other Province. Just why Sir John should hate a Province that returned a majority of members to support him, and in which his own constituency was situated, the organs did not make clear, but the absurdity of the thing did not hinder them from making and repeating the statement.

The Dominion Premier has recently been paid a compliment which shows what a small hold on the public mind these absurd statements secured. The annual Provincial Exhibition of Ontario was formally opened at Ottawa on Wednesday. It is usual now to have these exhibitions formally opened by some distinguished personage. Who was that personage on this occasion? Why, the man whom the Reform papers have been so severely denouncing as the enemy of the Province, Sir John Macdonald. The directors of the exhibition, although some of them may be opposed to the Premier politically, evidently did not believe the absurdities so glibly asserted by the Globe and kindred journals. An address was presented to Sir John, signed by the President and Secretary, which referred to the fact that, although that was the thirty-ninth annual gathering of the Agricultural and Arts Association, it was opened by one who had entered public life long before its inception, and who, during the intervening years, continuedly occupied a prominent position in the councils of the country and was at the present time the First Minister. The address continued :—

"The council of the association feel assured that they but give voice to the unanimous feeling of those whom they represent, when they congratulate you upon so happy an event, and express the hope that you may be long spared to witness the continued progress of that portion of the British Empire in whose service the best years of your life have been spent."

The reading of this portion, it is stated, was received with cheers, and it is no surprise that it was, for the Premier has been very many years in public life, has served the greater part of the time as a Minister of the Crown and almost his entire life has been given up to the service of his country. It will take more than the vaporings of Reform journals and orators to make even the political opponents of the Premier believe such charges as those we have mentioned.

The majority of the people of the Dominion have confidence, not only in the members of the Dominion Cabinet and the leading members of that patry, but in the policy of the Conservative party, and in the affections of the people the veteran statesman and venerable law-giver who holds the office of Premier has a large place.

The sentiments expressed by the Association, that Sir John may long be spared to witness the continued progress of the Dominion which he has so faithfully served, are those of a large majority of the people, as they wish the country to continue to grow and prosper, and they desire the services of Sir John, as well as wishing him many years of life from personal reasons.

THERE is a general feeling of disgust at the dastardly attack made by the Globe upon the memory of the late Mr. John Riordan, even when he was lying unburied. There seems to be nothing too mean for the Globe at present.

THE Reformers still abuse Mr. Meredith for voting for a reference of the boundry question to the Privy Council, although they praise Mr. Mowat for having the dispute referred to that tribunal.

The Greenland Fishery.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 24,—Two more of the Greenland fishing fleet arrived to-day. They report the fishery a failure this season. The Danish authorities strenuously oppose fishing on the western coast of Greenland and discountenance visiting the harbours by American vessels. One vessel was compelled to give up two natives hired to assist in fishing. Another was pursued and shot at by a Danish man-of-war.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY.

A Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of the Young Men and Their Friends.

The Charlotte Street Methodist Church was filled on Thursday night with over 500 friends of the Young Men's Christian Association. The occasion was the first public anniversary meeting that has been held by the Association, and the officers and members of the Association are to be congratulated on the success of this experiment, and should feel encouraged at the interest taken by the Christian public in their work as evinced by the large attendance. In the absence of the President, Mr. J. F. Jeffers, Mr. D. B. Gardner, one of the Vice-Presidents, occupied the chair. On the platform were the Rev. T. Manning, the Rev. E. F. Torrance, the Rev. I. Tovell, the Rev. A. H. Munroe, Mr. J. S. Cole, Provincial travelling Secretary, and Mr. George E. Williams, general Secretary of the local Association. The meeting was opened with singing, after which the Rev. E. F. Torrance read a passage of Scripture, and the Rev. A. H. Munroe engaged in prayer. The Chairman, Mr. Gardner, made a short address, calling attention to what the Association had done, and what they hoped to do. He also called on the public to support the work better, and provide a more suitable place in which to labour. Mrs. Chambers then sang a beautiful solo, entitled "Come unto Me" in her usual finished style. The General Secretary was called on for his annual report, which we will publish to-morrow.

The Chairman read the financial statement for the past year, which showed $792.94 collected and subscribed for the past year, and an indebtedness of $178.64 at the end of the year.

The congregation then joined in singing the hymn, "I will sing of my Redeemer," and Mr. T. S. Cole, the Provincial Travelling Secretary of the Association, delivered a vigorous and stirring address, contrasting what was being done for the destruction of young men, with what was done in saving them from ruin. He referred to the 21 saloons and 5 billiard parlors in our town as being supported by young men, and gave several touching instances of young men ruined by these agencies, that had come under his own observation.

The collection was the next item on the programme, and while it was being taken up, the choir sang the chorus, "Must I go, and Empty Handed."

The Rev. I. Tovell was then called on for his address, which proved to be a very powerful one. In the course of it, he said that as he sat on the platform and heard what was needed by the Association in the way of accommodation, he began to think of the eligible building sites in town, and when he fixed on one, he pictured to himself the sort of building that would be erected on it. He also adduced a number of reasons why the churches should support the Association, calling the latter the good right arm of the former.

A solo and chorus were then given by Mr. L. C. Horning and the choir, and the meeting was closed at a quarter past ten by devotional exercises conducted by the Rev. T. Manning.

During the evening the following telegram from the Montreal Association was read :—

"Montreal sends greetings. II. Thessalonians, ii., 17-18."

A THOROUGH VINDICATION.

Not one of the charges advanced by the Grit leaders against the policy of constructing the Canada Pacific Railway, and the method and line of its construction, has borne the test of experience and investigation. It is now seen that the greatest economy has been secured by constructing the line at a coupe instead of dribbling it along, as Mr. Blake wanted, at the rate of a few miles a year. The policy that is now so near to successful completion has the stamp of courage and statesmanship upon it worthy of Canada and its people. The one the Opposition proposed was indicative of incapacity of means and narrow views. At one time we were told that it would be impossible to cross the "sea of mountains" except at a cost that would bankrupt the country. At another, that an hermaphrodite combination, part water and part land, was just what the country wanted. The route via the north of Lake Superior was said to present difficulties which could scarcely be overcome during the present generation of men. Then censure was lavished on account of the line of construction being taken considerably south of that which Mr. Mackenzie had laid down, and the "bad lands" stretching for some three hundred miles, were depicted in colors calculated to deter the most venturesome from trusting themselves amongst them. Then, at one time, Mr. Blake would rather have let British Columbia "go" than continue in the endeavour to weld in one the elements comprising what was once known as British North America, but now as the Dominion of Canada. All the difficulties that have been conjured in the minds of ill-informed persons have given place before the onward action of the Government. It is found that the "sea of mountains" can be easily crossed; that the land and water humbug was a ridiculous suggestion, though an immence sum of money was expended and wasted in the endeavor to carry it out. It has been found that the Lake Superior section of the line can be conquered by dynamite, and will be ready to use in the early part of the coming year 1885. The horrid vision of "bad lands" disappears before the well attested experiments of the Canada Pacific Company, and so far as the deflection of the road southward is concerned, Mr. Alex. Mackenzie's testimony now is that it was a prudent step. While it shortened the main line it is more favorable as regards grades, and passes through a country more suited for immediate settlement than that through which it was originally laid. And thus it is found that the positions taken up by the Grit leaders adversely to the great national enterprise have been turned one by one and finally disposed of. Despite very considerable difficulties the work is progressing solidly and well, the prospect being that the very elements which Mr. Blake set his face against—that of constructing a through route, and the inclusion of the Rocky Mountain section, will prove the most valuable attributes to the enterprise. Every visitor that goes up to the country, every day that passes, every mail that arrives, bears testimony to the greatness and the need of the work, thus leaving political objectors sprawling, and justifying the very measures which in their inconsiderate haste, they have been decrying.—London Free Press.

A Salt Water River.

A novel apprehension exists among the inhabitants of cities situated on the Alleghany River. It is none other than that the waters of that stream are becoming too salt for use. The reason is that a number of gas wells, which were drilled along its banks, have been abandoned in consequence of striking heavy veins of salt water. This is allowed to flow into the river, and as the flow from each is not less than 6,000 barrels per day it will be seen that the water must be very much impregnated. The refineries also empty into the river a large amount of refuse, and the mixture which thus reaches the city is anything but healthy.

Found Guilty of Murder.

WEST WINCHESTER, Ont., Sept. 24.—The inquest on the remains of Mrs. Morrant was concluded late last night. The verdict of the jury is to the effect that Mrs. Morrant came to her death by the hands of Peter Morrant, jr., and that his father was accessory thereto. It is probable they are too late for the assizes next week. If so the trial will take place in December.

Railway Accident.

PICKERING, Sept 24.—Four cars of No 2 express going east went off an enbankment just east of the station here to-night at halfpast eight. Two Pullmans were burned. No one was killed but about a dozen passangers were bruised and otherwise slightly injured. The cause of the accident was a broken frog.

Pale, Poor, Puny, & Pallid

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is tightly drawn over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debilty that leads to marasmus. Poor things!

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of the Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life even for the most delicate; the most debilitated; for the child almost given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs, to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell what wonder the Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

With a smile lingering about her lip, after her uncle's departure, Regina filled the epergne on the table with a mass of rose-coloured oleanders—her mother's favourite flowers—and fringed the edge with geraniums and fuchias. On her plate she laid a cluster of tuberoses, grouped and tied in the shape of a heart, with spicy apple geranium leaves girdling the waxen petals. The breath of the oleanders perfumed the room, and when quite satisfied with the arrangement of the flowers, Regina piled the crimson peaches and golden grapes in a pyramid on the silver stand in the centre.

Drawing from her pocket a slender roll of sheet music, fastened with rose ribbon, and a tiny envelope addressed to her mother, she placed them upon Mrs. Laurance's plate, crowning all with the white heart of tuberoses.

For some days she had been haunted by a musical idea, which gradually developed as she improvised, into a Nocturne, full of plaintive minor passages; and this first complete musical composition, written out by her own hand, she had dedicated to her mother. It was called; "Dreams of my mother."

Standing beside the table, her hands folded before her, and her head slightly drooped, she fell into a brief reverie; wondering how she could endure to live without the society of this beloved mother, which imparted such a daily charm to her own existence, and as she reflected on the past, an expression of quiet sadness stole over her countenance.

In the doorway fronting the east, Mr. Palma had stood for some seconds unobserved, studying the pretty room and its fair young queen.

To the man that has crossed the ocean solely to feast his hungry eyes upon that delicate cameo face, it seemed as pure as an angel's. Although continual heart-ache, and patient uncomplaining need of something that she knew and felt God had removed forever beyond her reach, had worn the cheek to a thinner oval, and left darker shadows in her calm eyes, Mr. Palma who had so long and carefully scrutinized her features, acknowledged now, that indeed:

"She grew fairer than her peers;
Still her gentle forehead wears
Holy lights of infant years."

Slowly she turned away from the table, and against the glory of the sunlight streaming through the open door, she saw her guardian's tall figure outlined.

Was it a mere blessed vision, born of her recent reverie on the terrace; or had he died, and his spirit, reading the secret of her soul, had mercifully flown to comfort her by one farewell appearance?

He opened his arms, and his whole face was radiant with passionate tender love. She did not move, but her eyes gazed into his, like one in a happy dream, who fears to awake.

He came swiftly forward, and holding out his arms, exclaimed in a voice that trembled with the excess of his joy:

"My Lily! My darling!"

But she did not spring to meet him, as he hoped and expected, and thrilled by the music of his tone she grew paler, standing quite still, with trembling lips, and eyes that shone like stars when autumn mists begin to gather.

"My Lily come to me, of your own dear will."

"Mr. Palma I am glad,—very glad to see my guardian once more."

She put out her hand, which shook, despite her efforts to keep it steady, and her own voice sounded far, far off, like an echo lost among strange hills

He came a step nearer, but did not take her hand, and when he leaned toward her, she suddenly clasped her hands and rested her chin upon them, in the old childish fashion he remembered so well.

"Does my Lily know why I crossed the Atlantic?"

A spasm of pain quivered over her features, and though he saw how white her lips turned at that instant, her answer was clear, cold and distinct.

"Yes, sir. You came on your bridal tour. Is not your wife at Como?"

"I hope so; I believe so; I certainly expected to see her here."

He was smiling very proudly just then, but beginning to suspect that he had tortured her cruelly by the tacit imposture to which he had assented, his eyes dimmed at the thought of her suffering.

She misinterpreted the smile, and quickly rallied.

"Mr. Palma, I hope you brought Llora also with you?"

"No. Why should I? She is much better off at home with her mother."

"But, sir, I thought, I understood——"

She caught her breath, and a perplexed expression came into her wistful deep eyes, as she met those fixed laughingly upon her.

"You thought, you understood, what? That after living single all these years, I am at last foolish enough to want a wife? One to kiss, to hold in my arms, to love even better than I love myself? Well, what then? I do not deny it."

"And I hope, Mr. Palma, that she will make you very happy."

She spoke with the startling energy of desperation.

"Thank you, so do I. I believe, I know, she will; I swear she shall! Can you tell me my darling's name?"

"Yes, sir, it is no secret. All the world knows it is Mrs. Carew."

She was leaning heavily upon her womanly pride; how long would it sustain her? Would it snap presently, and let her down forever into the dust of humiliation?

Mr. Palma laughed, and putting his hand under her chin, lifted the face.

"All the world is very wise, and my ward quite readily accepted its teachings. None but Olga suspected the truth. I would not marry Brunella Carew, if she were the last woman left living on the wide earth. I do not want a fashion-moth. I want a tender, pure, sweet, fresh white flower that I know, and have long watched expanding from its pretty bud. I want my darling, whom no other man has kissed, who never loved any one but me; who will come like the lily she is, and shelter herself in my strong arms, and bloom out all her fragrent loveliness in my heart only. Will she come?"

Once more he opened his arms, and in his brilliant eyes she read his meaning.

The revelation burst upon her like the unexpected blinding glow of sunshine emiting one who approaches the mouth of a cavern, in whose chill gloom, after weary grooping, all hope had died. She felt giddy, faint, and the world seemed dissolving in a rosy mist

"My Lily, my proud little flower! You will not come? Then Erle Palma must take his own, and hold it, and wear it forever!"

He folded his arms around her, strained her to his bosom, and laid his warm trembling lips on hers. What a long, passionate kiss, as though the hunger of a lifetime could never be satisfied.

After his stern self-control, and patient waiting, the proud man who had never loved any one but the fair young girl in his arms, abandoned himself to the ecstacy of possession. He kissed the eyebrows that were so lovely in his sight, the waving hair on her white temples, and again and again the soft, sweet, trembling lips, that glowed under his pressure.

"My precious violet eyes, so tender and holy. My silver Lily, mine forever. Erle Palma's first, and last, and only love."

NORWOOD.

SAD AND SUDDEN DEATH.—It is our sad duty this week to chronicle the sudden death of a very estimable young lady, well known and highly respected in the village, in the person of Miss Mary E. Lewis, of Dummer. She was visiting friends in Port Perry when suddenly prostrated by a paralytic stroke. On Wednesday of last week she was brought home and all that medical aid could do to relieve her sufflings was done, but in vain. On Saturday morning she quietly passed away, surrounded by sorrowing friends and relatives. The funeral took place on Monday, and was largely attended. We tender our sincere sympathy to the bereaved parents and relatives.—Register.

HASTINGS.

PERSONAL.—Misses Maggie and Agnes Brennan left on Monday to enter a course of studies at Loretto Convent, Belleville.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Mr. Michael Shaughnessey met with a painful accident at the saw mill on Thursday evening of last week. He had just completed loading his waggon with lumber and while standing between the wheels arranging the binder the horses started, the hind wheel passing over Mr. Shaughnessey's toes, crushing them almost to a jelly.

FATALLY SCALDED.—A year old child of Mr. John McNichol's was scalded on the throat and breast by the accidental upsetting of a cup of hot tea on Tuesday of last week. The scald at first appeared to be of a very trifling nature and readily yielded to the medical treatment, but a brain trouble set in to which the child succumbed. —Star.

YOUNGS' POINT.

PICNIC.—This village witnessed last Thursday the 18th inst. one of the largest gatherings that has taken place yet. It is three years since the managers of the Roman Catholic Church gave their last grand picnic. The grounds where they are held are situated in a lovely spot, commonly called the Orchard at the foot of Clear Lake. There were over four hundred people present, young and old, the fair sex predominating. Dinner and tea were served and the tables were loaded with everything that was good. The Rev. Mr. Keating was present nearly all day. No intoxicating liquors were drank or served on the grounds, and the consequence was everyone was orderly. The proceeds taken amounted to $200. It is to be hoped that for the future these picnics will be held annually. The day was fine and both hotels did also a rattling business, their yards and stables being quite full. Our friend Kearney had his hall engaged for the evening by the young folks for a dance, and everything went off well.

INDIAN PIC-NIC.—The Hiawatha and Alnwick Indians held a monster pic-nic at Roache's point last week. The whites who attended were welcomed by the Indians and urged to partake of their feast.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Gordon, of Gordon & Halliwell, was down on Wednesday last to see the new church, and expressed himself as well pleased with the work so far. Mr. Fitzgerald, of Belleville, shows that he is a first-class builder and carpenter. The Rev. Mr. Hughes, of Colborne, is visiting firiends here. Mr. Lang is pushing his house through to completion at a very rapid rate. Dr. McCrea expects to return to Keene about the first of November next.

DRUG STORE.—The Victoria drug store is to be opened next week with a full line of drugs, &c., cigars, tobaccos, &c.

INDEFINITE.—This week's Hastings Star says that Mr. R. English went to Toronto to see the Grit show. Your correspondent thinks that there is a mistake, as Mr. R. N. English, merchant, of this place, would not go so far for either party.

WEDDING.—For the last three or four weeks every one has been talking about the grand wedding of Mr. James McNeil and Miss McIntyre. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock, p.m., on Wednesday last, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. D. A. McIntyre, on the 8th line. The Rev. F. Andrews officiated. The bride looked unusually handsome, and was dressed in crimson silk and white lace, etc. The bridemaids were Miss M. McIntyre and Miss Scott, and were dressed in pink. The groomsmen were Messrs. H. J. English and Geo. Barden. The contracting parties stood the ordeal heroically. The presents were numerous and costly. The supper was superb, and all parties enjoyed themselves well, although the elements were very unfavourable. Much credit is due to the Misses Cummings for the stylish manner in whice they made up the trousseau of the bride. The V.B.B. called on the happy couple and were well received.

CONCERT.—Look out for the band Concert.

Buried Beneath a Bank.

A most appaling calamity occurred on Sept. 18th, at Jackfish Bay, upon the work of Messrs. M'Crae & Massey. It appears that at the point where the accident happened, the line of the Canada Pacific Railway runs in very close proximity to the lake. For some time past the work of excavating for the right of way has been going on here, a large number of men being employed. On that afternoon at about half-past three o'clock, without the slightest warning, the embankment which overhung the bay for several hundred feet, gave way. Fortunately at the time nearly all the men were engaged at a point beyond that to which the slide extended. As it was, however, a man who was immediately underneath the part which gave way, together with a team of very fine horses were buried beneath many tons of earth and rock. At the time the report left the scene of the accident, men were working hard to recover the body of the unfortunate man, whose death must have been instantaneous. A telegram has been received by Mr. Phil M'Crae from Mr. Massey at Jackfish Bay corroborating the above facts. The telegram states that the embankment has fallen into the lake, and that a man and two horses, together with large quantities of pork which was stacked there, have been buried beneath it. The embankment is, Mr. M'Crae informs us, from 500 to 600 feet long, but he does not think, from his knowledge of the strata, that the whole of this has collapsed.—Port Arthur Sentinel.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold alreadv over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. PROF. G. W. HOTCHKIN

Will visit the following places again:—

LINDSAY—Benson House, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

PETERBOROUGH—Daly's Grand Central Hotel, Sept. 29th and 30th.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substances, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 and 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. Hotchkin having had 30 year's experience has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

Prof. Hotchkin has invented an apparatus to hold the piles in their proper place, which has been as successful as his other inventions. Go and see for yourselves.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1884.

VICTORIOUS AT BYTOWN

OUR LACROSSE TEAM WIN THE MATCH WITH THE METROPOLITANS.

A Pleasant Trip Down—Ottawa at Night—Our Team Used in a Princely Style by their Lacrosse Brethren at the Capital.

On Wednesday night the first twelve of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club left town per Ontario & Quebec Railway for Ottawa, there to play their third match with the Metropolitans, of that city. As will be remembered, at the first meeting of the two teams at Brockville, the Peterboroughs were badly beaten. At the second meeting of the representative teams of the two clubs on the Ashburnham grounds, Peterborough, the Metropolitans again defeated their opponents, but not till every nerve of the entire team had been strained to the utmost. At the third facing of the ball between the Mets'. and Peterboroughs' centres, however, on the Rideau Hall grounds in Ottawa, we are happy to say that the Peterboroughs were at last successful in defeating their opponents. Immediately on leaving Peterborough, Captain Coughlin, with his well known discipline, ordered the men to bed. Sleep was quietly indulged in until Ottawa was reached at about 5.15 o'clock. Some of the boys, anxious so see the sights of the capital, strolled out at that early hour; but others, thinking of the struggle they were about to engage in, preferred remaining in their couches until breakfast time arrived. At seven o'clock a committee from the Mets. came to the depot and escorted the boys to the Russell House, the best hotel in the city, where a very "copious" breakfast was indulged in. After breakfast had been despatched some of the team took a short walk around the city to see the sights. At ten o'clock a large 'buss, capable of carrying the two teams, came to the "Russell," and was soon loaded with the antagonistic freight. During the drive to the grounds, which were at a distance of about three miles from the hotel, the lung power of the united teams made the thoroughfares reverberate with such choruses as, "Jersey City," "Good by, my lover, Good Bye," "Star of the Evening," etc. The grounds were reached at about 10.30 and the teams immediately prepared for action. Shortly after the arrival of the teams, His Excellency the Governor General of Canada, accompanied by his Private Secretary, stepped down from Rideau Hall and was introduced to Captain Coughlin, of the Peterboroughs, and the referee, Mr. J. A. McKenzie, of Prescott, by Mr. M. M. Pyke, the Captain of the Mets. The teams then took their positions and enthusiastically and lustily sang "God Save the Queen," and vociferously cheered his Excellency.

At exactly 10.47 the Governor-General let the rubber fall between the sticks of Kelly and Pratt, the centres of the Peterbroughs and Mets. respectively. Kelly secured the rubber, and His Excellency was speedily put to flight by the threatening attitude of the flying "sticks." The game lasted only three minutes and a half, Dunn, of the Mets., putting the ball through the Peterboroughs' goal. This commencement looked as if the match was going to be a repetition of the former matches, but the second game gave the Peterboroughs more spirit. Kelly won the draw in the second game, as he did in the three succeeding games. Clarke, of the Mets., got it and threw, but McMillan, of the Peterboroughs, gained it and gave it to "Kit" Rutherford, who scored the first game for Peterborough. Time, 4 minutes.

The third game was commenced with determination on each side. The battle raged with fierce activity for seven minutes, when Perkins, of the Mets., slung the sphere through the Peterboroughs' goal.

During the fourth game there was as good an exhibition of lacrosse as might be seen at a championship match. The play was indeed brilliant on both sides. Joyal, Myles and Tierney, on the immediate defence, stopped many a well directed shot, while Scott, McMillan, Berchard and Halpin, kept the Mets.' goal in almost continual jeopardy. At last "Kit" got the ball and swiped it through the Mets.' goal. Time, 13 minutes.

The excitement was intense when the fifth game was started. Each team had two games in its favor, and the winners of this game would be the victors. The ball was followed by thousands of eyes with breathless suspense, and each brilliant play, whether on the side of the Mets. or the Peterboroughs, was greeted with loud cheers. The Peterboroughs feel particularly grateful to the "college boys" for their encouragement. "Jumbo" Henderson received frequent and well merited applause, and Davidson and Howden, on first and second defense, put in effectual play. The Mets. were so sure of the game that they weakened their defense, and strengthened their home, but here they made a mistake, for after a few minutes of red hot play around the Peterboroughs goal the ball was dropped to Scott in centre field. He being comparitively alone on centre took his time, got it firmly on his stick, took sure and certain aim and gave the ball such impetus that it pierced the net of O'Connor and went flying through the flags amid the throwing of lacrosse sticks and hurrahs of the immense gathering.

The team was then escorted to the Russell House, where lunch was partaken of and afterwards the boys leisurely strolled around the city, the exposition and other chief attractions being visited. At six o'clock the crossemen again met to dine at the "Russell" and in the evening most of the "men from the woods" went to the opera. At 12.30 our team proceeded to the station accompanied by a large number of citizens and representatives of the Mets. As the train moved out loud cheers were given for the victors and the vanquished. The Peterborough team again retired to rest after the, we may say, keenest lacrosse contest in which they ever engaged and were awakened, to their surprise, at 6.45 this morning by the silvery and merry strains of the City Band, which had been engaged by some of the admirers of our national game to meet the boys on their return. A procession was formed and all marched to the headquarters of the club, the Little Windsor Hotel, from which point they dispersed for breakfast.

NOTES.

The match was entirely devoid of any rough play, and our team speak in the highest terms of the Mets. as a most gentlemanly organization.

Either the honor conferred on Captain Coughlin by being introduced to the Marquis of Lansdowne or the buoyancy of his spirits on seeing Scott put through the last ball, made the captain forget all about taking his boots to the city. He recovered them afterwards, however.

"Kit" Rutherford says it's pretty hard to see Norwood through a mirror.

"Billy" Rudkins informs us that on hearing the news regarding the result of the match he immediately took his arm out of the sling, and that he freely forgivea O'Connor for the rather too affectionate hug given by him on the Ashburnham grounds.

As will be seen in the above, "Dick" Kelly, the Peterborough centre, drew the ball every time. Mr. Kelly undoubtedly has a thorough knowledge of our national game.

Foresters' Meeting.

A special meeting of the members of Court Peterborough, No. 29, has been called for this (Friday) evening to make final arrangements for the successful carrying out of the dedication ceremony and other business.

The free show opened on the Market Square last night, and at 8.30 near the platform standing room was at a premium. The company will continue giving there free entertainments every night for the next two weeks. An entire change of programme will be made each night.

Members of the A. C. A. and those proposing to join the Association should not fail to be present at the meeting this evening at 8 o'clock at the Mechanics' Institute. In the very headquarters of canoeing and canoe-building, as Peterborough may be called, there should be a warm interest taken in the A. C. A.

A Treat in Store.

We are informed by Mr. J. Minors, Secretary of the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, No. 13, that arrangements have been completed with the Rev. De Witt Talmage, to deliver a lecture in Bradburn's Opera House at an early date. The date and subject of lecture will shortly be made public. The Otonabee Lodge are also making efforts to secure the services of Professors Proctor and Ragan, two talented men well known to the people of Peterborough, to deliver a course of lectures through the winter months.

PERILS OF THE PEAK.

A Young Lady Frozen to Death in a Snow Storm on Long's Peak, Colorado

DENVER, Sept. 26.—Miss J. C. Welton, of New York, was frozen to death on Tuesday in making the ascent of Long's Peak. She was caught in a snow storm. Miss Welton has been spending the season at Colerado Springs, visiting Pike's Peak, and other points of interest. On Monday evening she went to the house of a guide, named Lamb, living at the foot of the peak, and engaged his son, aged 19, as a guide in ascending the peak the next Monday. At six o'clock Tuesday morning they ascended the peak, but encountered a fierce snow storm on their return, during which the lady became completely chilled. Young Lamb assisted her in the descent as best he could until about 9 at night, when her strength entirely failed he carried her for half a mile, when, finding his own strength failing, he told her the only chances of saving either of their lives was for him to leave her and go to his father's house, seven miles distant, for assistance. He left here at ten o'clock, and returned with assistance at four o'clock Wednesday morning, finding the lady frozen to death. Her remains were taken to Long Mont, and will be sent to New York. Miss Welton was highly refined, a great lover of nature, and very self-reliant. A heavy snowstorm prevails in the mountains to-night.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AT THE TORONTO EXHIBIBITON.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I see that the EVENING REVIEW contains an article under the above caption from the pen of D. Smart, feeling agrieved at the high honours carried off by the "Dominion Organ and Piano Company" at "Canada's great fair" over all competitors. He does not deny that the honours were achieved meritoriously, but tries by innuendo to deceive the public into believing that the judges made no award at all, and rests his case on a part quotation of the report of the board of directors—(not the judges)—made at a meeting after the closing of the exhibition, wherein they decided, as is sometimes done at fairs, not to grant any prizes to musical instruments. But what has that to do with the judge's report made during the exhibition, with such illustrious names appended as D. C. McGregor and R. Oct. Pelletier? It was not for the paltry sum involved in the prizes that any of the competitors exhibited, but for the supremacy which the "Dominion Organ and Piano Company" has so long and justly held. A vendor of an inferior instrument may think it a Smart trick to rob the "Dominion Organ and Piano Company" of its high honours, but a discerning public will readily see the true inwardness of the matter.

The following is a verbatim copy of the judges' report, referring to these world-renowned instruments, which speaks volumes and is an effectual answer to the writer of the article in question trying to decry their merits:—

IMPROVEMENTS.

Class 13, section 8.

1. New horizontal bellows and extra large air chest, also extra feeding bellows for the foot blowing.
2. New concave and radial top facing pedals, as recommended by the College of Organists of London, England.
3. The centre C of the manual opposite the centre C of the pedal.
4. The front of the pedal sharps form an arc of a circle, having a radius of 8 ft. 6 in.
5. A new pedal to swell coupler.
6. A new double octave coupler.
7. A new stop in reed organ (a three-rank mixture).

ORCHESTRAL ORGANS.

Class 13, section 19.

The new sub-bass in these organs reaches the 16 feet fancy stops of the treble, thus avoiding the usual break noticed in ordinary organs when drawing full organ.

Considering the above improvements, both mechanical and artistic, which enhance the touch, tone, and durability of the instruments, and considering also that this display is the largest and most varied, and best assorted, that has ever been exhibited here, we, the undersigned judges, recommend that the committee should take it into their best consideration to award the highest recompense.

(Signed), D. C. McGREGOR, R. OCT. PELLETIER

Yours, &c., J. J. IRWIN, Agent for the Dominion Organ and Piano Co. Peterborough, Sept. 27, 1884.

Turnbull's Mantle Cutter has returned from a short holiday trip. This is sufficent guarntee that all orders in this department will be executed in A1 style.

PORT HOPE.

A MEAN SNEAK-THIEF.—Hugh Gallagher is a one-armed night switchman on the Grand Trunk Railway. He lives near the station. On Tuesday, after dinner, he lay down to take his usual sleep. About three o'clock some one entered his room, whom he imagined to be his wife and took no notice of his intruder, who searched his pockets, stole two silk handkerchiefs; then went down stairs and made off with a purse containing $13, which had been placed for safekeeping in a bureau drawer. Mrs. Gallagher had just stepped into a neighbor's house, and the thief, who evidently on the watch, went through the premises with the above result during her absence.—Guide.

BOBCAYGEON.

PRIZE CATTLE.—The Polled Angus cattle of Mr. Boyd were at the Show in Toronto, and carried off the highest prizes awarded. They are coming into great favour, and the herd were spoken of in the highest terms by all the cattle breeders who inspected them.

HUNTING.—Great preparations are being made for hunting season, and there is no other talk but about hounds, and rifles, and cartridges, and camping. Everybody is going out on the First, and lots of venison may be expected in the village.

FRUIT.—The season appears to have been singularly conducive to plant growth in this village. All garden crops have been unusually heavy, and in one instance fertility was most remarkable. In Mr. Harlow's garden there is a cherry tree,—a wild cherry,—which blossomed and bore fruit at the usual period. The crop was picked and strange to say the tree blossomed a second time, and has now a second crop of cherries upon it. A crab-apple tree, near to the cherry tree, has been equally singular in its desire of fruit. Its regular crop was taken off some time since, and now there are several branches covered with new blossoms, and the tree is making a wild effort to get off another crop before the snow comes. This island of Bobcaygeon is singularly gifted, and we have much for which we should be grateful.—Independent.

Important, If True.

BUFFALO, Sept. 25.—The Commercial Advertiser says that one of its reporters made the surprising discovery this morning that the incalculable water power of Niagara Falls is being utilized in Buffalo, twenty-two miles from the great cataract. For many years the question how the force of Niagara could be put to practical use at a distance has puzzled inventors, engineers, and men of science. The solution of the problem at last fell to a resident of this city, who is too modest to premit the use of his name. The power, it may be stated, has been in practical use for a week or ten days, and gives perfect satisfaction. During that time the electricity by which all the telephones in Buffalo have been run after dark has been generated at Niagara Falls by water power, the magnetic current being conveyed hither over the Bell Telephone Company's wires. The possibilities of this discovery are unlimited.

Lumber Insurance.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—The principal business transacted by the Fire Underwriters' Association was the classification of lumber risks, the rates on which were materially increased. The principal adopted was that of graduating the rate according to the distance of the lumber from the saw mill, discrimination between steam and water mills was observed. Rates are to be graduated with or without the average clause.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1884.

SPEAKING WITHOUT KNOWING

THE following cool statement is made by the Free Press, the Ottawa organ of the Reformers:—

"The Tory papers amuse themselves by publishing some alleged expressions many years ago by Liberals adverse to the character of the disputed territory. Even were it true that the utterances were made, what does it prove? Simply that these Liberals and Liberal organs spoke at that time with insufficient information."

This may seem a very simple matter to the Free Press, but the fact that the Reform leaders and the organs are admitted to have spoken on an important matter without first obtaining full information, and that they afterwards changed their opinions, may not appear to be such a small matter to the people generally. The Globe, when the award of the arbitrators was made known, proposed to hand the charge of the territory, except that portion more easily accessable, to the Dominion, and Mr. Alex. Mackenzie stated that he would prefer to have the Province pay the Dominion the amount it had paid for the lands to the Indians. Now, however, the Reformers place a very high value upon the territory and go into ecstasies over the riches it contains. Does this simply prove that they spoke with insufficient information, or does it not appear more probable that they are prepared to take either side of a question, as it suits their party exegencies?

And, by the way, does Mr. Mackenzie's statement not show that that gentleman, whom the Free Press recently praised on account of his "purity of motive," "adherence to right," &c., believed that the Dominion had a claim on the territory at the least to the extent of the amount paid by the Dominion for the lands? And the statement was made by him after the award of the arbitrators had been made.

The Reform organs are still speaking in regard to this territory, or rather in reference to the position of the Conservatives in regard to the dispute, "with insufficient information." They have also spoken of other matters with the same absence of knowledge, as when the Globe made the following statement in regard to the Canadian Pacific Railway:—

"The company have been permitted to divert their main line so far to the south that for hundreds of miles it runs through lands which are unfit for settlement."

Mr. Mackenzie has recently been over the line and he declares that he "observed throughout the whole length of the road that there was scarcely any poor soil to be seen." The organ, we presume, "simply spoke with insufficient information," but is it not rather strange that untrue statements adverse to both the disputed territory and the Northwest should be made by the same parties? The object of the Globe in the latter case was to aim a blow at the Dominion Government, and its eagerness to strike was such that it did not hesitate to make the reckless statement quoted above.

When the Reform leaders and organs are so prone to speak without knowing the facts, what dependence can be placed in their utterances? Even if they do not speak incorrectly with a full knowledge of the facts, what credence can be given to their statements when they care so little whether they are true or not that they will publish them without making sufficient enquiries to ascertain the truth in the most important matters? Even when the Toronto organ professes to make a special effort to obtain information, as in the case of its recent calamity hunt, its statements are so wide of the truth that those more particularly interested felt called upon to correct them.

The disposition of the Reform organs, and leaders, to economize truth, or, to use the Free Press' apology, to speak "with insufficient information," has been so frequently observed when political questions have been discussed that intelligent people who desire to ascertain the truth accept their statements with great caution or do not accept them at all.

NOT TO BE PLEASED.

WHILE opening the Dominion Exhibition at Ottawa Sir John Macdonald alluded to the agricultural fertility and resources of Northwestern Ontario. Why this should be a crime in the Premier of Canada, who is also the representative of an Ontario constituency, it is hard to imagine, but the Globe avers that he thereby displayed his "littleness," and was "offensive to the whole Dominion." Possibly the reason for the Globe's absurdity arises from its recollection of its own condemnation of that part of Ontario as a desert through which it would be folly to construct a railway, and also of its disparagement of the district when the arbitrators awarded it to our Province. It is impossible anyhow for Sir John Macdonald to content the Globe, but then he has the consolation of knowing that he contents the majority of the electors of Ontario and as well as of the rest of Canada.

THE MATTAWA MYSTERY.

Suspicion Points to the Three Companions of Deceased.

PEMBROKE, September 25.—Very little additional light has been thrown on the mystery surrounding the death of John Hinton, the section man, whose body was found on the C. P. R. track, near Mattawa, on Tuesday last. At the investigation it was learned that Hinton and three other section men, Curran O'Donnell and Manseau, started for home on a hand car after night, somewhat the worse of liquor. They say Hinton got of the car to walk back when about four miles east of Mattawa and that was the last they saw of him. On Sunday they revisited the place on a hand car, but found no trace of him, but on Monday they reported having found the body near the road. The head and face were badly cut and the doctors think he must have bled to death. Foul play is suspected and suspicion rests strongly on the three section men. One of them, Manseau, was arrested yesterday, when leaving the place on the train.

A Natural Mistake.

They were looking at the chimpanzee in Forepaugh's menagerie on Saturday afternoon.

"How wonderfully human like the fellow is," she said with admiration.

"Ya'as," he replied, "weally quite so—stawtling almost, one might say, dont cher know."

He then inclined himself tenderly in her direction and continued:

"Aw-are you fond of such specimens, Miss —?"

"Well, really Mr.—, er your proposition-er-it is all so sudden—but I am not entirely indifferent—but-er-have you mentioned the matter to Pa?".—Ottawa Sun.

A Village in Ashes.

QUEBEC, Sept. 25.—The parish of St. Aime in the County of Richelieu has just suffered severely by a fire fanned by a terribly violent wind. The destroying element was carried as a torrent of flame from one end of the village to the other. A dozen houses were reduced to ashes, and several of their occupants only escaped with difficulty. A number of barns and outbuildings with their contents were also destroyed, including a large quantity of live stock.

CAMPBELLFORD

FELL INTO A CELLAR.—Mrs. Fraser, of Seymour, fell through the doorway of a cellar in Mr. Petit's residence, as she was passing through a hall in the dark, on her way outside, a few nights ago. She fell a distance of nine feet upon her hands, but beyond a sprained thumb and a bruise above the eye she was uninjured.

A MONSTER SERPENT IN THE TRENT RIVER.—We have the authority of Mr Roderick Keller for saying that a monster serpent was seen by him in the trent river one night last week. Mr. K. was employed catching frogs with a light at about 2 o'clock in the morning at the foot of Hickery Island, six miles below Percy Boom. He says the monster was 25 feet long with a head according to his reckoning, about 6 inches broad. It was in the centre of the river in shallow water, and appeared to him of a drab color, white belly and without scales. Mr. Keller may have been mistaken in the object, but he tells the story with confidence.—Herald.

COBOURG.

BOUND TO KEEP WARM.—Burglars investigated the premises of Mr. Lossee one night last week, and stole twocoats from the shed. They also visited the cellar, and after going over the preserves, butter, &c., walked off with a bottle of rhubarb wine. We suppose the poor tramp has to shoulder the blame.

DIED IN THE HARNESS.—On Thursday Mr. John Purser and a friend took a drive into the country behind the former's well known pony. On returning, and when a distance from town, the animal took suddenly ill and dropped on the road. Mr. Purser came to town for veterinary assistance, but did not get back in time to save the pony's life. Its bloated appearance suggested that it had been poisoned by eating some noxious weed.—Sentinel-Star.

NOT another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Billous attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splendid Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 50 cents.

AN APPEAL TO IDLE CHRISTIANS.

"Go ye also and work in my vineyard."—MATT. XX., VII.

Oh, ye apathetic Christians,
Why stand ye so at ease,
Still with folded hands self-centred
All thy aim thyself to please.
Sole content if thou a refuge
Canst at the last hour obtain,
Little seeking of the many
Who outside the ark remain.

Thou art called by the name of Christian,
How should it be all thy care?
In the first to be such truly,
Then to honour the name you bear
In professing Him to follow,
Who His own life gave for thee;
But possessing not His spirit
Can their any likeness be?

Thou knowest thy Saviour yearneth
Over souls who know Him not,
And yet to rescue lost sinners
Thou givest not one thought.
Paul saith to every Christian,
"Let the same mind be in you
Which was in Christ," and keep ever
His unselfish life in view.

For while upon earth he sojourned,
He pleased not Himself, but went
About doing good, for others
His life was entirely spent.
He says, my friend I esteem you
If doing what I command,
Your love is shown in obedience
To whatever my words demand.

And His last command was, Unto
All nations tell the glad news;
'Tis thine to show forth the Saviour,
'Tis theirs to reject or choose.
Are there not myriads around us,
Complacently wrapp'd in sin?
And yet thou mak'st no endeavor
For Jesus their souls to win.

God a work to each one giveth,
And whether it be great or small,
Him on the great day of reck'ning,
To account for it shall call.
There is work for all, though differing
In degree, and there is none
Who should deem his work too humble,
Or too arduous to be done.

Much need have your hearts or being
Oft touched by the living coals
From the altar, that more intensely
May His love glow in your souls.
Then would you rejoice in working,
Nor gentilous lifers be;
And joys of His loving service
Would divinely circle thee.

Peterborough Association—General Secretary's First Annual Report.

The following is the first annual report of the General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, read by Mr. Williams at the anniversary meeting on Thursday evening:—

It is with great thankfulness to God for the way in which He has led us, that I present to-night my first annual report as General Secretary of the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association. One year ago I entered on the work, with fear and trembling because of its responsibility and of the many difficulties in the way; and also because of my lack of experience in, and qualification for the position. But I believed that God had called me to the work, and that therefore he would supply all needed grace. Although in looking back over the year one can see many imperfections and errors, still we raise our Ebenezer to-night and cry "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us," in spite of all our shortcomings. And we bless His name for His goodness in permitting us to help in the extension of His Kingdom.

We began work a year ago with 45 members, to which number 80 have since been added. After deducting seven who have left town, our membership at the present time is 118, of whom 80 are active and 38 are associate members. The growth in the number of our workers has also been considerable. At the beginning of the year's work they numbered 18. This number gradually increased, and we have now over 45 young men engaged in the work.

During the year these workers have conducted 399 religious meetings, the greater number of which were for young men only. The cross of Christ has been faithfully uplifted in these meetings, and who can doubt that He who hung thereon has drawn some wandering ones to Himself. We have had some encouraging instances of conversion, and hope these are but the beginning of greater things. In order that it may be so we call on all young men who profess the Lord Jesus as the Captain of their salvation, to come and help us in the work. Our fellow young men are being ruined daily; physically, mentally and spiritually; and God has given us the privilege of being co-workers with Him in saving them from ruin. Are there not more Christian young men who will take part in this work?

Besides the conversions that have occurred, we believe the Association has been of service to the Church of Christ by training young men in Christian activity.

Our Bible Class work has been successful, especially during the last few months. Many young men are being, by this means, strengthened in their Christian life, and equipped for service in the Lord's vineyard. The Association acknowledges the debt of gratitude it owes to the Rev. A. H. Munro for his able and interesting expositions of God's Word every Tuesday evening. This class is doing much good, among other ways in creating a strong desire for Bible study on the part of our members.

The Week of Prayer for young men was observed in November last by special meetings being held every night except Wednesday, when by kind permission of the pastors, our members gave accounts of Association work in several of the church prayer meetings. The pastors of some of the churches also preached especially to young men the Sabbath of that week.

The report of the Devotional Committee will give details of the various religious meetings held during the year.

INVITATION AND RECEPTION COMMITTEE.—As its name implies, this Committee's duty is to invite young men to the rooms and meetings, and to welcome them as they come among us. During most of the year, members of the Committee have distributed on the street printed invitations to the Saturday night meetings. In the coming year we hope to get a greater number of workers on this committee, and systematise the work more. Members of the committee have also been on duty at the rooms in the evening, especially during the absence of the Secretary.

TEMPERANCE.—While we are not a Temperance Society, our sympathies are with temperance work, and a pledge book lies on the Secretary's desk, to which 88 signatures have been attached voluntarily during the year. In connection with the Boys' Branch, 28 boys have signed a pledge against intoxicants and tobacco.

WORK FOR BOYS.—The Boys' Branch was started last winter, and meetings were held every week during the season. We hope soon to recommence them. The best boys' periodicals have been provided, and may be read by the boys during the day time.

SECULIAR AGENCIES.—As regards secular agencies, we have not been able to do as much as we would have liked, on account of our limited resources and the smallness of our rooms. The reading room is the chief of these agencies, and is being used much more of late. We have on fyle a large quantity of leading newspaper and magazine literature, including 4 dailies, 28 weeklies, and 15 monthlies, in addition to a great number of smaller periodicals. The report of the Lecture and Entertainment Committee will show what has been done in the way of social gatherings, lectures, &c.

For the convenience of young men coming to town to reside, we keep a register of boarding houses. We have also assisted some young men in getting employment, and would be able to help more in this way, if employers would let us know of vacancies occurring in their establishments.

DEPARTURES.—During the year several of our members have left us to take up their residence in other places. We would specially mention two members of the Executive Committee, Messrs. Wm. Best and O. G. Langford. While we are sorry to loose these fellow workers, we trust they will be much used by the Master in their present places of abode.

CONFERENCES.—Our Association was represented by Mr. Wm. Best and the Secretary at a district conference for Eastern Ontario, held in Perth on Nov. 29th to Dec. 2nd, 1883. The Secretary was also present at the Fourteenth Annual Conference of the General Secretaries of America, which met in Montreal on 11th June last. Both these gatherings were full of spiritual refreshing. In this connection we would like to call special attention to the Provincial Convention to be held here on 23rd to 26th October. This will be an event of great importance to our own Association, as well as to the work in general. It is hoped that all who can possibly do so will attend the sessions, both in the daytime and evening. The proceedings will be of great interest to those who are concerned in any way about the well-being of young men.

"ASSOCIATION NOTES."—We lately began the publication of a small monthly paper devoted to our work, entitled "Association Notes." It is sent free to all members and subscribers, as well as to others, and will no doubt increase the interest in our work. The cost is covered by advertisements.

BUILDING.—For some months past we have been hoping that definite action would be taken towards the erection of a building in which to carry on our work more effectually. Humanly speaking, our results to-day would have been for greater if we had not been hampered by the want of more suitable rooms. Some of the leading business men recognize the want of a building, and Mr. Cox has generously promised us $1,000 as the beginning of a building fund. We hope that others will see the real necessity of the project is such a way as will induce them to subscribe the amount necessary to its being carried out.

In drawing this report to a close, we would express our heartfelt thanks to all those who have in any way helped us in our work; to those who have contributed to our funds; to the newspapers of the town for the large amount of notice they have taken of our work; to the publishers of numerous newspapers and periodicals, both in Canada and the United States, who have either placed us on their free lists or made great reductions in the price of their publications; to the ladies for their willing co-operation whenever occasion required, particularly in connection with the large social held last spring in the Opera House; to the patrons of the churches for their ready sympathy; to the trustees of churches for the use of church edifices; to Geo. A. Cox, Esq., for the free use of the rooms we occupy; to the Provincial Executive Committee and its travelling Secretary, Mr. T. S. Cole, for their valued aid; and to any others who have given us aid. The Secretary would like to give expression to his personal obligation to the officers and members of the Association for their kindly sympathy and hearty co-operation.

In closing, we again praise our Heavenly Father for the blessings He has showered upon us, and that it has pleased Him to use our Association in extending His kingdom. To Him be all the glory. And may the Master, "whose we are, and whom we serve," grant that officers and members may all be fired with one ambition during the coming year, that of winning souls for Christ—the souls of the young men of Peterborough.

GEO. E. WILLIAMS,
General Secretary.

Peterborough, Sept. 19th, 1884.

Disfigured by a Cartridge.

An Italian navvy, whose name could not be ascertained, was one of the crowd who awaited the arrival of the Chicora to convey them across the lake. He drew a dirty old pipe from his pocket, and having filled and lit it, he sat down on an apple barrel to pass the time as pleasantly as possible. He drew something from his pocket and attempted to press the tobacco down into the pipe. A second later there was a loud explosion followed by a terrific yell. The crowd rushed to the spot, and found the Italian standing with his face bleeding and disfigured for life. His right arm was shattered and a good part of his hand was carried away. He refused to say anything about the affair and would not permit them to take him to a doctor, but tied up his hand, washed his face, and went on board the boat. As far as could be learned from his companions he had taken a cartridge, used for blasting purposes, and applied it to his pipe with the result mentioned.—Toronto Mail.

Captured at Last.

ATLANTA, Sept. 21.—Several weeks ago Sheriff Foster of Upson county received an anonymous letter from Texas, stating that Berry Williams, who murdered Mr. Calum in 1871, and who has subsequently escaped from gaol, was living in Johnson county, in that state. The sheriff found on his arrival there that William's first wife had died. By his second wife, who was ignorant of his crime, he had grown to be the wealthiest and most influential man in the county. He was at the head of the church, the schools, and business enterprises, and was in every respect a different man. The arrest of Williams created unbounded indignation. The people refused to believe the charges against him. A petition of all the leading men in that county has been forwarded to Gov. McDaniel asking for a pardon for Williams. The prisoner is now out on bail.

An Ingenious Rat Trap.

A correspondent of the Industrial World describes a trap of his own contrivance as follows:—This trap consists of a sheet-iron pipe with a sort of rim on both ends and a strong two-bushel sack tied firmly around one end. Every hole is stopped in the corn crib but one, which opens into a feed box on the other side of the partition. Then the pipe is placed in the feed box and fitted, the open end firmly over the hole, allowing the sack to hang over the edge of the box into the manger. The trap is prepared, the door of the crib is left open, and the rats permitted to have their own way for an hour or so. Then the door is shut and a noise made to frighten the rats. Having but one means of escape, they rush into the pipe and down into the sack. This correspondent caught twenty-seven rats the first time he tried his trap.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

PETERBOROUGH—Daly's Grand Central Hotel, Sept. 29th and 30th.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 and 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. Hotchkin having had 30 year's experience has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

Prof. Hotchkin has invented an apparatus to hold the piles in their proper place, which has been as successful as his other inventions. Go and see for yourselves.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

It Draws.

The free entertainment on the market square seems to be wonderfully magnetic. Last night at nine o'clock fully 1,200 people stood on the square listening to the fresh jokes and popular songs of the performers.

Evening Social.

An evening social and musical entertainment will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday evening, under the auspices of the ladies connected with St. Peter's Cathedral. The best local talent has been secured, and those who attend will doubtless enjoy themselves. Admission 25c.

Gospel Lectures.

The Rev. Mr. Munro has consented to repeat on successive Sunday evenings four lectures he has given to the Y.M.C.A. Bible Class on the the Gospels. On Sunday evening next he will give that on Matthew. A printed synopsis of the sermon will be distributed at the close of the sermon.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	62°	29.10
One o'clock.....	63°	29.00
Three o'clock.....	65°	28.99

The Fall Meet

The managers of the Driving Park are energetically closing the final arrangements as to the grand fall meet which takes place on the 9th and 10th of October, and already a large number of entries have been made for the numerous events. The meet is being extensively advertised from the Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte and all through Central Ontario. It is expected that on the 8th and 10th the town will be filled with visitors.

Fell in a Fit.

No small sensation was caused on the market square on Friday evening at the free entertainment. A young man named Roland Tivvy, who was standing in the crowd, suddenly fell heavily to the ground in an epileptic fit. Several men carried him to the reading room of the City Hotel, where his hands were chaffed and remedies used to bring the young man back to consciousness. He lay for several minutes stiff and rigid, but finally opened his eyes, arose, and walked out.

Presbytery Meeting.

The Sentinel-Star says that the Presbytery Peterborough met in the Mill street church, Port Hope, on Tuesday. A large amount of important business was transacted. Partial arrangements were made for a separation of the congregation of Cambellford from Percy, the united charge having become too large for one minister. The Rev. Mr. Clarke of Lakefield tendered his resignation as pastor of that congregation. Deep regrets were expressed by all the brethern at the prospect of parting with Mr Clarke, who is much beloved by all who knew him.

Hall, Innis & Co.

The arrangements for the large fall trade which is expected to be done by the above firm have been going on for some months past, and the announcement which has appeared in the REVIEW of the large importations from manufacturers in Europe, selected personally by Mr. Innes, will give some idea of the extent and character of their new fall stock. In rich goods and all the staple line of dress goods, as well as in house furnishing goods, the best which the market could produce, have been bought out. They have also secured a large range of low-priced German Pattern Mantles and Ulsters, that for elegant style and tasteful finish are unequalled. In Carpets they emphasise the peculiar advantages of the make of Brussels, Velvet and Tapestry Carpets for actual wear, beauty of colouring and freshness of design. They are exceptionally handsome goods. Their tailoring department has been stocked with the leading styles in Tweeds and Cloth, and Gentlemen's Furnishings and Underwear. Further particulars of their Millinery Department and opening days will be given in a few days.

ORANGE DEMONSTRATION.

A Monster Meeting of Orangemen at Bethany—Addresses by Members.

An Orange demonstration was held at Bethany on Wednesday, September 24th, under the auspices of L. O. L. No. 1022.

Representatives were present from Port Hope, Peterborough, Lindsay, Toronto, and towns and villages along the lines of the Grand Trunk and Canada Pacific railways. Early in the day the people commenced to arrive, and it was estimated that no fewer than 1,500 people were present. Two brass bands furnished music, viz., the Ballyduff and the Bethany Bands.

A large platform had been erected in the Agricultural Grounds, and at shortly after one o'clock Bro. T. B. Collins, D. G. M. E. O., took the chair. On the platform among others might be noticed Bros. John White, M. P., Wm. Johnston, G. M. E. O., Col. A. T. H. Williams, M.P., Dr. C. H. Brereton, M. P. P., Rev. W. Windell, Rev. D. N. McCamus, and Rev. H. F. Burgess. The representatives from Peterborough who took seats on the platform were: J. Batton, W.M., L.O.L. No. 49, Richard Warham, D.M., C.P., and Geo. Hall, D. of C., C. P.

Eloquent addresses were delivered by the leading brethren and visiting gentlemen. They were warmly applauded by the large gathering.

The object of the demonstration was to provide funds for the purchasing of a substantial Orange Hall in Bethany. A subscription was passed around among the brethren and a very handsome sum was realized.

The proceedings were closed by giving cheers for the Queen, the Grand Master, and Bro. White, M.P. The people then dispersed, departing in their carriages and conveyances of various kinds.

Social in the Opera House.

A social and musical entertainment will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Tuesday, the 14th of October, under the auspices of the lady members of St. Peter's Cathedral. The entertainment will be concluded by a ball.

First and Second Twelves.

There will be a meeting of the lacrosse club at the Little Windsor Hotel on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The Ontario Championship match will be considered, and other matters of importance will be brought forward for deliberation. The first and second twelves are especially requested to put in an appearance.

St. Patrick Potatoes.

Mr. J. H. Daubuz, of Douro, brought two large St. Patrick potatoes to this office, which weighed respectively 1 lb. 3 oz. and 1 lb. 2 oz. each. Mr. Daubuz planted half a bushel of the St. Patrick potatoes, which yielded twenty bushels of large potatoes and four bushels of small ones.

If you want
A Good French Tweed Suit

Opera House Social.

Look out for the social to be held in the Opera House on Tuesday evening, October 14th. A committee has been formed that guarantee the success of the entertainment. No pains will be spared to make it one of the most agreeable evenings that will be offered to the public this season. You should arrange your time to attend.

James Taylor.

The following paragraph appeared in the To-World in reference to Mr. James Taylor, the renouned commedian and mimic, who will appear in Bradburn's Opera House to-night:—

"James Taylor, comedian, and company opened a week's engagement before a large audience at the People's Theatre last night, in Simon, a comedy drama. The play is written with an express view to the exercise of Mr. Taylor's phenomenal powers as a mimic. He appears in five distinct characters and controls and changes his voice and facial expression in a wonderful manner. He is ably supported by Miss Ada Alexander as "Fraulein" (a Dutch girl) and between them the audience are kept in roars of laughter throughout the whole evening."

Chit Chat.

—Would we want wetter weather?

—Who says "Joe" Joyal can't defend a goal?

—There was a blank at the Police Court this morning.

—Several stores on George street were lighted by gas at 12 o'clock to-day.

—The free entertainment on the market square is a strong attraction.

—A musical entertainment will be given at the Barnardo Home at an early date.

—Mrs. Dorn, advance agent for Miss Jessie Couthoui, the celebrated elocutionist, is registered at the Grand Central.

—Mr. Oran Ellsworth, for the past two years employed in the head office of the Rock Island Railway, at Chicago, returned home a few days ago. He will again go westward on Monday.

—The distinguished James Taylor with his troupe arrived in town at noon. They are at the Oriental Hotel.

—Prof. Karl von Waterford, well known in musical circles here, is engaged with the James Taylor troupe as leader of the orchestra.

Ladies remember you can not only get your Dress Goods right, but the latest style of Trimmings to match, at Turnbull's.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity don't fail to try "Wells Health Renewer."

All persons afflicted with asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, severe coughs or any affection of the throat or lungs, can get a trial bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at the above drug store.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices, according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at Port Hope on Sept. 23rd. There were 17 ministers and elders present. Mr. Carmichael was chosen moderator for the next six months.

Very full, interesting and satisfactory reports were read from all the mission fields under the charge of the Presbytery. There have been six fields under cultivation during the summer months. The reports were transmitted to the Home Mission Committee for their consideration.

A meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in the St. Andrews Church, Peterborough, on the 14th October at 2 p.m. to take final action upon them.

The memorial from Campbellford for disjunction from Percy was again considered. Delegates from both congregations were heard. Mr. Sutherland the minister of the united charge was also heard. After lengthened deliberation it was resolved to send another deputation to visit the field with special instructions to hold meetings in both congregations and to ask the people to declare what arrangements are proposed in reference to Mr. Sutherland. This deputation are instructed to report at the meeting of the Presbytery in Peterborough on the 14th October when final action will be taken on the memorial.

The deputation consists of Messrs. Bell and Duncan, ministers and Messrs. Johnston and Roxburgh, elders.

On motion of Mr. Bennett it was agreed to make application to the assembly for leave to put the name of the Rev. Mr. White on the roll of the Presbytery.

The exercises of students present were heard and sustained, and Mr. Bell was authorized to certify the writers to their respective colleges.

Next ordinary meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Paul's Chuech, Peterburgh, on the 2nd Tuesday of January at 2 o'clock p. m.

It was agreed to consider one or more of the remits of the assembly at the meeting in January.

A Wedding.

The attention of ladies while passing the Golden Lion on Saturday was attracted by the handsome wedding dress which was on view in the window. It was a lovely combination of rich brown satin trimmed with brown silk plush and consisted of coat and basque, made in the latest style. The effect was good and gave evidence of some one being present who knew one of the great points of dressmaking, viz., how to choose the colours which best suit one anather. Fair, Van Every & Co. are devoting special attention to this department just now as will be seen by their announcement in another page.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In reply to the letter of Mr. J. J. Irwin, I beg to state that, having good instruments to offer to the public, we do not have to stoop to any means of deception, as is the case with vendors of inferior instruments. The agent of the Genuine Bell and D. W. Karn organs has no reason to feel aggrieved at any honors which other manufacturers have won, as none can successfully compete with them. The improvements which the Dominion Company are boasting of have been used in our instruments for years! It is a very green trick of Mr. Irwin to try to palm off the report he published as a report of the musical judges at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, as no judges of musical instruments were appointed by the directors of that exhibition. Such tricks could only be resorted to by those who have inferior instruments to offer and need something to bolster them up. To show that I am only stating facts, I will quote the following official notice from the Toronto Mail of Saturday, Sept. 27th:—

INDUSTRIAL Exhibition Association,

OF TORONTO, 1884.

No Awards for Musical Instruments

Whereas there appears to be a misapprehension as to awards being made for musical instruments at the Annual Exhibition of this Association for 1884, this is to give notice that no judges were appointed and to any musical instrument exhibited at the said Exhibition.

NO PRIZE WAS EITHER OFFERED OR AWARDED

J. J. WITHROW, President. H. J. HILL, Manager and Secretary.

This, sir, is proof that what I stated was strictly true, and I leave to the public to judge of the high order of an instrument which needs such tricks as those resorted to by the agent of the Dominion organs to make them have faith in its qualities.

D. SMART,
Agent for Karn's and Bell Organs.

ENGLISH POLITICS.

CANADIAN journals are just now bestowing considerable attention on English politics, and the Franchise Bill and the House of Lords have been discussed by many of them. Several Reform journals, not satisfied with the attacks they have made upon the Canadian Senate, join the Radical press of England in their attacks on the House of Lords. The stand which the Peers took in regard to the Franchise Bill has raised their ire, and some have not scrupled to say that the Lords (the Tory Lords, of course) do not wish to have the franchise extended. What grounds have they for making such a statement? The resolution adopted by the Peers did not reject the Franchise Bill nor condemn the principle of the bill: it simply demanded that the Redistribution Bill be considered at the same time. The extension of the franchise necessitates the redistribution of the seats, and the House of Peers believed it to be advisable, nay necessary, in order to guard the interests of the constituencies, to consider both bills at the same time.

The importance of a redistribution was shown very clearly in a recent speech by Sir Stafford Northcote, the leader of the Conservatives in the House of Commons. He pointed out that there are 153 boroughs which contain less than 5,000 electors, and there are 100 counties or divisions of counties that contain more than 5,000 electors. The 153 boroughs have between them 280,000 electors in all, and they return 191 members of Parliament, that is to say, about 1 for every 1,590 voters. But 101 counties have 1,000,000 votes in all, and they return 201 members of Parliament, or about one member for every 5,000 electors, so that the value of a vote in the boroughs is just three times the value of the county vote. And what is the remedy that is proposed? Not to alter anything of the kind, but to add largely to the number of voters in the counties, so that those 101 counties, instead of having 1,000,000 electors, will have 2,700,000, so that in that way the value of the borough vote, instead of being three times what it is in the counties, will be about nine times the value. Such an absurdity as this the Peers claim they wish to guard against, and for that they are denounced in vigorous terms. Whether the House of Lords should be continued, or reconstructed, is beside the question; the attack is based upon their position in regard to this matter, and in order to find a grievance that position is misrepresented.

It is not surprising that those Reform journals that have discussed the question have misstated the stand taken by the Peers. They are so accustomed to misrepresentation when discussing local political affairs, that the habit cannot be entirely shaken off when they attempt to extend the range of their political vision beyond the ocean.

REFERRING to a question, asked in a note in these columns, whether there were any more Presidental candidates to follow, the Kingston News says:—

"We expect that there are a few more to follow, but we will not tell their names until after the election. There is one man, however, who will lead, and do so, whoever may follow."

Very good. One man will lead, no doubt, but just who that man will be is what is troubling our neighbors. Each party appears to be trying to cover the candidate of the other so thickly with mud that he will not be able to run. It almost appears to be a question of who can throw the most mud.

A SCURRILOUS letter has been addressed to Mr. J. B. Trayes, of the Port Hope Times, over the signature "Ref," and bearing the Peterborough post mark. Perhaps it was not written in our town, but only posted here to hide the trail, and we hope this is the case, for we would be sorry to suppose that Peterborough harbours such a disgusting and cowardly wretch.

AN exchange comes to hand wrapped in a page of editorial "copy." We will refrain from reviewing the calography until we know it was sent for that purpose.

Fatal Accident at a Fair.

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 26.—Late this afternoon a guy supporting the frame work of a balloon being sent up from the grounds of the county fair fell, crushing the skull of Samuel C Sherrin, a prominent farmer living within the limits of the city, killing him instantly. It also struck James Wadsworth, a farmer of Girard, on the head, injuring him seriously but not fatally. W. P. Edwards, secretary of the agricultural society, had his teeth knocked out and his face disfigured. The accident was caused by the cutting of the guy ropes by some unknown person. All subsequent attractions to the fair were declared off.

ODDFELLOWSHIP IN 1846.

How Otonabee Lodge was Instituted—The Pioneer "Missionaries."

Many of our old settlers will remember the visit to Peterborough of the "missionaries" in 1846, at which date the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows was instituted. The Grand Lodge of the then Province of Canada (the headquarters being at Montreal), early in the spring of the above mentioned year, decided on sending some of the brethren on a westward "missionary tour."

On Wednesday morning, March 4th, D.G.M. Thos. Hardie, and P.G.'s Geo. P. Dickson and E. Murney, the chosen brethren, started from Montreal by coach for an 800 miles' journey—double trip—having been previously invested by the Grand Lodge with complete powers as to "making Oddfellows at sight," receiving petitions, granting dispensations, instituting lodges, etc., etc. The first point touched was Cornwall, which was reached after 13 hours of travel through the slush sludge of a Canadian spring.

Brockville was reached the next day, and Brock Lodge, No. 9, was instituted, Bro. George Sherwood being installed as the first Noble Grand.

On Tuesday, at Kingston, Cataraqui Lodge, No. 10, was instituted in Bro. Frazer's "Bachelors' Hall.' Bro. John A. Macdonald, our present Premier, then an energetic man in the prime of life, was installed as the pioneer N.G. of the lodge. The "missionaries" remained in Kingston during Sunday, and on Monday organized at Picton, Prince Edward Lodge, No. 11, Bro. Henry Corby, N.G. The worthy brethren then proceeded with difficulty to Belleville, where they rested a short while and then continued their journey to Cobourg, where they instituted Ontario Lodge, No. 12.

The following is taken from the "History of Oddfellowship in Canada under the Old Regime":

"Early on the following morning D.D.G.M. Murney and the Belleville brethern started for Peterborough, leaving the "missionaries" to follow more leisurely. Their leisure, however, instead of being devoted to sleep, as it might well have been, was occupied in giving instructions to the officers of Ontario Lodge. A ten hours trip over not the somoothest of roads, brought the deputation to Peterborough, away in the back woods, as it might justly be termed in those days. It was late in the evening; but the Belleville brethren, who had arrived an hour or two before, had stirred up the people, and all were ready for business. Two members of No. 2 were resident here, Geo. B. Hall, M.P., and L. Ferguson; and three members of No. 6, Charles Perry, (a cousin of J. Harris Perry, now P.G.M. of Ontario) Mr. Cluxton and Henry Easton. It was necessary only to confer the degrees on Bros. Cluxton and Ferguson, and the charter members of the new lodge were fully qualified. A room in the Court House was secured through the kindness of Sheriff Conger (who was initiated the same evening) and Otonabee lodge, No. 13, duly instituted, with the following officers: Goerge B. Hall, N.G.; Charles Perry, V.G.; Wm. Cluxton, Secretary; Henry Easton, Treasurer. Immediately afterwards eight of the leading citizens were initiated, and the work was done in good style. They had the use of the entire Court House. A full supply of paraphernalia had been brought from Belleville. All the brethren were in excellent humor for work, and as the ritual of those days (it was the old ritual) allowed considerable scope for a lively ceremony, we may assume that all the candidates received full value for their admission fees."

The "missionaries" and the Belleville brethren then went to Port Hope and instituted another lodge, with a large membership and fair prospects.

REVIEWS.

HARPERS' MONTHLY.—The October number of Harper has for its frontispiece a beautiful illustration, by C. A. Abbey, of the serial novel "Judith Shakespeare." The Rev. Treadwell Walden continues his interesting history of "The Great Hall of William Rufus," his graphic description being assisted by a profusion of illustrations. Mr. G. H. Boughton, A. R. A., gives us another instalment of his "Artist Strolls in Holland," with views by himself and J. B. Rogers. The early history of "King's College" is narrated by J. McMullen, and Miss Porter gives from the lips of Chas. Stewart a lively series of reminiscences called "My Life as a Slave," showing some phases of the old life in the south. R. F. Zogbaum, in "A Home of Tommy Atkins," describes the life at the great military camp at Aldershot, the illustrations being very effective. F. R. Brown, under the title "The Gateway of the Sierra Madre," gives an account of the city of Monterey and of the effect upon Northern Mexico of the pacific invasion from the States. An excellent portrait is prefixed to "A reminiscence of Dr. Darwin," by J. D. Hague. In "Municipal Finance" W. M. Ivins gives some statistics and deductions therefrom which should be regarded as a warning in Canada also. The continuous tales, "Judith Shakespeare" and "Nature's Serial Story," both show signs of drawing near their completion, one evidence being their increasing interest. There are several lively tales, and the usual editorial miscellanies, ever such a pleasant department in Harper.

SEASONABLE ENTERTAINMENTS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I noticed in a recent edition of your paper an article informing the public that the members of Otonabee Lodge, I. O. O. F., were making arrangements for a course of popular lectures and entertainments for the winter months. This is a step in the right direction. In the said article you mention the names of Talmage and Proctor, both household names throughout the continent, and lectures of an high order may be expected from these two gentlemen. The Lodge, I also understand, have concluded arrangements with Miss Jessie Couthout, of Chicago, a lady well worthy of her claim as being America's greatest elocutionist and reader. I believe it is the intention of the lodge to have this lady take a leading part in a grand concert to be given shortly. Now, Sir, seeing that Otonabee Lodge has undertaken such a gigantic enterprise, the duty of our citizens is plain,—doubly so when we consider that Peterborough is almost a stranger to such talent as has been secured. The Lodge is to be congratulated in their laudable endeavors to provide healthy and recreative entertainment and instruction for the long evenings that are now closing in upon us.

Yours, &c.,
A YOUNG MAN.

LINDSAY.

THE C.P.R.—The Post says that Mr. Thomas O'Neil of this town has taken a contract on the Canada Pacific railway between Gravenhurst and Callendar. The amount to be paid for it will sum up to nearly $40,000.

INDUSTRIAL.—This week Mr. R. Sylvester commenced work on the extension of his already large agricultural works. The amount of work on hand and to get ready for next season's trade rendered it imperative that enlarged facilities should be provided. A large force are at work preparing the ground where the drill shed formerly stood and on which the extension will be erected of brick and stone in the shape of an L 84x120x45 ft. and two storeys high. Messrs. Needler & Sadler have arranged for the enlargement of their flour mill. Contracts have been completed for the building of a special engine large enough to develope 100 h.p., and a steel tubular boiler, 66 in. by 14 ft., to furnish steam. In order to accommodate the additional plant, a brick engine and boiler house will be built east of and possibly adjoining the flour mill. The house will be about 22x30 feet, with stone foundation. As soon as arrangements are completed the building will be commenced and pushed through as rapidly as possible, so as to have the power available, the water in the river falling rapidly from day to day. The improvements will foot up to a large sum, and the firm are to be commended for their enterprise.

To Dyspeptics.

The most common signs of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are an oppression at the stomach, nausea, flatulency, water-brash, heart-burn, vomiting, loss of appetite, and constipation. Dyspeptic patients suffer untold miseries, bodily and mental. They should stimulate the digestion, and secure regular daily action of the bowels, by the use of moderate doses of

Ayer's Pills.

After the bowels are regulated, one of these Pills, taken each day after dinner, is usually all that is required to complete the cure.

AYER'S PILLS are sugar-coated and purely vegetable—a pleasant, entirely safe, and reliable medicine for the cure of all disorders of the stomach and bowels. They are the best of all purgatives for family use.

Will visit the following places again:—

LINDSAY—Benson House, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th.

PETERBOROUGH—Daly's Grand Central Hotel, Sept. 29th and 30th.

Prof. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. Its object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based on scientific principles and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbilical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 and 95 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses to children as well as adults. Prof. Hotchkin having had 30 year's experience has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold in its place.

Prof. Hotchkin has invented an apparatus to hold the piles in their proper place, which has been as successful as his other inventions. Go and see for yourselves.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Would the brilliant New York bar have recognized their cool, inflexible, haughty favorite, in the man who pouring such fervid passionate declarations into the small pearly ear, that felt his lips more than once?

Eric Palma had much to tell to the woman of his love, much to explain concerning the events of the day when Elliott Roscoe witnessed his first interview with Peleg Peterson, and subsequently aided in his arrest, but this morning's long audience was denied him.

In the midst of his happy whispers, a step which he did not hear, came down the stairs. A form for whom he had no eyes, stood awhile, perplexed and amazed, at the threshold. Then a very stately figure swept across the marble tiles, and laid a firm hand on Regina's shoulder.

"My daughter!"

The girl looked up, startled, confused; but the encircling arms would not release her.

"My dear madam, do not take her away."

Mrs. Laurence did not heed him, her eyes were rivetted on her child.

"My little girl, have you too, deceived and forsaken your unfortunate mother?"

She broke away from her lover's clasp, and threw her arms around her mother's neck.

Pressing her tightly to her heart, Mrs. Laurance turned to Mr. Palma, and said sternly:

"Is there indeed no such thing as honour left among men? You who know so well my loneliness and affliction, you, sir, to whom I trusted my little lamb, have tried to rob me of the only treasure I thought I possessed, the only comfort left to gladden my sunless life! You have tried to steal my child's heart, to win her from me."

"No, mother, he never let me know, and I never dreamed that—that he cared at all for me, until this morning. He did not betray your trust, even for"——

"Let Mr. Palma plead his own defence, if he can; look you to yours," answered her mother, coldly.

"It is much sweeter from her lips, and you, my dear Madam, are very cruel to deny me the pleasure of hearing it. Lily, my darling, go away a little while, not far, where I can easily find you! and let me talk to your mother. If I fail to satisfy her fully on all points, I shall never ask at her hands the precious boon I came here solely to solicit."

He took her hand, drew her from the arms that reluctantly relaxed, and when they reached the threshold, smiled down into her eyes. Lifting her fingers, he kissed them lightly and closed the door.

What ailed the birds that thrilled their passionate strains so joyously as she ran down the garden walk, and into the rose-arbor? Had clouds and shadows flown forever from the world, leaving only heavenly sunshine, and Mr. Palma?

"I wonder if there be indeed a quiet spot on earth where I can hide; a sacred refuge, where neither nightingale nor human lovers will vex my soul, or again disturb my peace, with their eternal madrigals?"

She had not seen her uncle who was sitting in one corner, clumsily tying up some roses which he intended for a birthday offering to his niece.

At the sound of his quiet voice, Regina started up.

"Oh Uncle Orme! I did not see you. Pray excuse me. I will not disturb you."

She was hurrying away, but he caught her dress.

"My dear, are you troubled with ophthalmia, that you can not see a man three yards distant, who measures six feet two inches? Certainly I excuse you. A man who is kept awake all night by one set of love ditties, dragged out of his bed before sunrise, and after taking exercise and a bath that rendered him as hungry as a Modoc cut off from his lava beds, is expected and forced to hold his famished frame in peace, while a pair of human lovers exhaust the vocabulary of cooing, that men man can patiently excuse much. Sit down, my dear girl. Because my beard is gray, and crow-feet gather about my eyes, do you suppose the old man's heart cannot sympathize with the happiness that throbs in yours and that renews very sacredly the one sweet love-dream of his own long buried youth? I know, dear, you need not try to tell me, need not blush so painfully. Mr. Palma reached Como last evening; I knew he was coming, and saw him early this morning. I can guess it all, and I am very glad. God bless you, dear child. Only be sure you tell Mr. Palma that we allow no lovers in our ideal home."

He put his hand on her drooping head, and drawing it down, she silently pressed it in her own. So they sat; how long, neither knew. She, dreaming of that golden future that had opened so unexpectedly before her; he listening to memory's echoes of a beloved tone, long since hushed in the grave.

When approaching voices were heard, he rose to steal away, and tears moistened his mild brown eyes.

"Stay with me, please," she whispered, clinging to his sleeve.

Through the arched doorway of the arbour, she saw two walking slowly.

Mrs. Laurence leaned upon Mr. Palma's arm, and as he bent his uncovered head, in earnest conversation, his noble brow was placid, and his haughty mouth relaxed in a half smile. They reached the arbour, and paused.

In her morning robe of delicate lilac tint, Mrs. Laurance's sad tear-stained face seemed, in its glory of golden locks, almost as fair as her child's. But one was just preparing to launch her frail argosy of loving hopes upon the sunny sea that stretched in liquid splendour before her dazzled eyes; the other had seen the wreck of all her heart's most precious freight, in the storm of varied griefs, that none but Christ could hush, with His divine "Be still."

The repressed sorrow in the countenance of the mother was more touching than any outbreak could have been, and after a strong effort, she held out her hand, and said:

"My daughter."

Regina sprang up, and hid her face on her mother's neck.

"When I began to hope in a blind dumb way, that nothing more could happen to wring my heart, because I had my daughter safe, owned her entire undivided love, and we were all in all to each other, just when I dared to pray that my sky might be blue for a little while, because my baby's eyes mirrored it, even then the last, the dearest is stolen away, and by my best friend—too! Child of my love, I would almost as soon see you in your shroud, as under a bridal veil, for you will love your husband best of all, oh! I want all of your dear heart for my own. How can I ever give you away, my own star eyed angel of comfort!"

Stabbing Affray.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—A fight took place on the Exhibition grounds last night, in which a young man named Wm. Clark, stabbed a companion named Jas. Richardson in the back with a knife The blade struck one of the ribs, glancing upward and making an ugly looking wound. Both men were taken to the police station. Richardson was crying, but between his sobs managed to state that he did not think Clark intended to do it.

THE FARM AND GARDEN.

Apples Stored in Pits.

Apples may be stored in pits like potatoes, and if kept dry and frost-proof, will come out in fine condition in the spring. It is a fact, however, that apples thus stored, decay more rapidly when removed from the pits, than similar fruit stored in a dry house cellar with an even temperature, only a few degrees above the freezing point. When apples are kept in pits for the spring market, they should be shipped as soon as possible after being removed, and not to a very distant city. Pitted apples will need frequent assorting when exposed for sale. The apple crop this year is heavy, and only the best fruit should be stored in any manner. Let it be remembered that fruit keeps best in a dry, cool, and dark room. Pits are inexpensive, and if well made, not large, the fruit seperated from the earth by straw, and when opened, quickly marketed, there need be no great loss of fruit. —American Agriculturalist.

Prevent Chicken Cholera.

We find that our flock of thirty Plymouth Rock fowls, confined in a small yard, eat eagerly, and thrive upon, any chopped green food offered them. When the early lettuce was gone, we by way of experiment gave them chopped sunflower leaves, which they greedily devoured. We are convinced that cholera among fowls—as among men—may often be prevented by cleanliness, especially in drinking water. Few fowls confined in chicken yards, or even running at large, have access to perfectly pure water, or as much as they wish. The water left for them in vessels, is soon soiled by their feet and excrement, and becomes a reasonable source of disease. We have kept large sardine boxes, which are about deep enough for fowls' convenience, and a wooden trough in our little chicken yard. These are emptied, rinsed, and refilled with fresh water twice a day—oftener if very warm. We have not lost a chicken by cholera, though our neighbors just across the street, and throughout the town, have lost a great many through that disease. Our care with the drinking water has been rewarded by plump, clean, young broilers.—American Agriculturist.

Dryness in the Fruit House.

After a low and even temperature is secured, the other essentials in preserving fruit are: darkness; an air tight room, to retain the carbonic acid given off by the fruit, and a dry atmosphere. As stated elsewhere fruit ripening gives off both carbonic acid and water, or moisture. The carbonic acid, by excluding the oxygen of the air, aids in preserving the fruit. Moisture is undesirable, as it hastens decay. The only effective method of removing it is by exposing in the room some substance that will absorb it. The French use Chloride of Calcium, which is a very different substance from Chloride of Lime. This salt has such an avidity for moisture that it takes it from the air of the room and becomes liquified. The objection to this is its expense. An American experimenter has found a substitute in the "bittern," or waste material of the salt works, which is thrown away. This is mainly a very impure chloride of calcium, and answers the purpose. The bittern, in a large iron pan, is exposed in the fruit room. When it has become liquified by the moisture absorbed, the pan is set over a fire and the salt dried, by driving of the water it has absorbed, when it is again ready for use. This process may be repeated indefinitely.—American Agriculturist.

Autumn Care of Orchard and Nursery.

The gathering of late fruits will be an important work this month, one which requires more care than is usually given to it. The longest keepers may hang until there is danger of frosts. The color of the fruit, the ripeness of the seeds, the readiness with which the stem of the fruit parts from the tree, and the falling of the fruit, are all signs of ripeneas. Winter pears are to be treated the same as winter apples. Do not mix varieties, but give each kind a separate barrel or box. Fruit to be kept, should not be taken to the cellar or fruit house until frosty nights. In packing fruit for market, make first and second qualities, and use all inferior fruit at home. Have the fruit of even quality all through the barrel, using barrels of full size. Always bring the head in place by sufficient pressure to prevent shaking. Cider apples are not injured by light frosts. Placed in heaps the fruit loses water, and the juice becomes richer. Cool weather is best for cider-making. Top-dress orchards to keep up fertility any time this month. Order nursery trees to be planted this fall, or heeled in for spring planting. Grapes, when quite ripe, hang straight down from the vine, the stem becoming limber. Catawba, Iona, Isabella and Diana grapes, are usually kept by packing in five-pound boxes. Fill from the bottom, using pressure to bring the bottom in place. Expose clusters to the air in a dark room to toughen the skin before packing. Keep the boxes in a low uniform temperature in a dry place. Experiments with keeping grapes with their stems in water, are described elsewhere. Pruning may be done as soon as the leaves fall. New vines may be planted. Top-dress the orchard with fine manure, and throw up a mound of earth around young trees.—American Agriculturist.

A Thief and a Coward.

The village of Drumbo is excited over a horse stealing affair. Six weeks ago Mr. Hersee lost a valuable horse, and after scourging the country in vain advertised it. A livery man at Hespeler saw one of the bill and wrote Mr. Hersee, but it seems that the letter was intercepted. Some persons living near a swamp were nearly driven from their homes by a terrible stench. They searched among the cedars and found the rotten carcase of a fine horse. This news reached Mr. Hersee, and at about the same time he heard that a young man named Hutchinson had sold the horse at Hespeler. It seems that after the sale had taken place, Hutchinson, who lived near Hersee, became very much alarmed least the transaction should be found out. This led him to go back to Hespeler and buy the horse from the liveryman. He had received $115 for the animal, but he gave a joint note for $120 to get it back, his father, who owns the farm near to Hersee, sharing the responsibility of the acceptance of the note. Hutchinson intended to turn the horse loose, so that it would find its way back to Hersee's farm, but he was so greatly alarmed that he took it to a swamp instead and there killed it. The men who found it had buried it, but Mr. Hersee had it exhumed and identified it. Hutchinson skipped at once, and now his father is endeavoring to get the matter settled quietly. The law had, however, been set in motion, and Mr. Hersee refused to compromise.—Berlin Telegraph.

Lead Mining.

KINGSTON, Sept. 26.—Eighteen car loads of lead ore have been so far reduced to metal at the smelting works since re-opening. Work will be continued, as the orders for lead will keep the industry at work until new year. So far 100 tons of lead have been made and sold in Montreal, and there is no prospect of the mine at Arnprior giving out. Ore from it is said to be very rich.

Both Feet Cut Off.

NAPANEE, Sept. 26.—A son of Mr. Woodham, section boss at Ernestown station, had both feet cut off by a freight train this afternoon. He was standing near the switch watching the train approach, and thinking it was coming on the track he was standing on he jumped to the next track, which unfortunately proved to be the track the train was switched on. The young man was 17 years old.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate fresh westerly winds, fair, slightly cooler weather.

Entertainment at Hazelbrae.

An entertainment consisting of vocal an instrumental music and readings, will be given at Hazel Brae, in support of the funds of the Home, on Friday next, October 3rd. Tickets 25 cts. each, may be had at Miss Sanderson's, Mr. J. W. Flavelle's, Mr. T. W. Robinson's, and Mr. A. L. Davis's. To commence at 8 o'clock.

Footballers, Attention!

Now that the date of the match between the home club and the Torontos, the champions of Ontario, is fast approaching, the footballers have decided to practice every afternoon at 4.30, commencing on Wednesday. An especially large turnout will be held on Thursday, when the Captain of the club, Mr. Weller, will choose his men for the coming contest. On Saturday the boys will meet at four o'clock, and a scratch match will be played. The Peterborough Club need to practice hard and steadily, for the club they will meet on the 9th of October is one of high reputation and long standing.

Tour of Recreation.

Some of our citizens, weary of the dull routine of business life, decided to visit the sylvan bowers and bosky dells of the back lakes, to chase the timorous deer, to shoot the flying duck, to paddle the gliding canoe on the picturesque Deer Bay, and to come home hearty and hardened for another year's work. The party is composed of Messrs. Wm. Brownscombe, G. W. Yelland, R. Chowen, and Wm. Brealy. They started this morning to drive to Deer Bay, where they will camp for a week, thence to Stony Lake for another week, and then they will paddle to Lakefield and take the train for our burg.

A Severe Blow.

This forenoon a young man named James Appleyard received a severe blow from the the hands of an Italian. The Italian and an Indian woman were in the Stewart House, and Appleyard, who was under the influence of liquor, went into a small apartment, usually called "stalls," where the two were seated. What he said to the couple is not known, but the female native of America became angry and the son of Italy picked up a heavy spittoon and struck the young man a blow with it on the forehead. He fell on the floor and the wound bled profusely. Another young man who caught the angry Italian, had his finger bitten by him. Dr. O'Shea was summoned to attend to the wounded man, and he found a cut over the left eye extending nearly two inches backwards and upwards. The surgeon dressed the wound, which is not a very serious one, although it may leave a scar.

James Taylor.

The James Taylor Company appeared at Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday night, in "Simon, or More Ways than One," a comedy drama especially composed to bring out Mr. Taylor's versatility in depicting characters. Mr. Taylor took no less than five different parts. He appeared first, as Sidney Cartwright, the young man fraudulently deprived of his property; and subsequently as Joe Steadfast, the sturdy tar; Simon, the leering and idiotic page; Sarah Walker, the prim old house keeper; and James Jones, the witness who had an epediment in his speech. Fraulien, the burly Dutch girl, kept the house in a constant titter, by her odd and humorous sayings. The rest of the company ably supported the leading characters. As many are doubtless aware, Mrs. Taylor, who played in the role of Fraulien, is a former resident of Peterborough. Her maiden name was Billings, eldest daughter of Sergeant Billings. She has for the last nine years been following her profession in England.

EVENTS ACROSS THE RIVER.

Dew Drops Gathered for our Ashburnham Readers.

NEW MACHINERY.

Mr. Wm. Wand has commenced to operate his new sash and door planer, which he recently obtained from the manufacturers in Guelph. It is doing excellent work, and is a wonderful pice of machinery. A common rough door is put in at one end and it comes out of the other end planed, sand-papered, and ready for the paint or oil as the case may be. Mr. Wand evidently keeps up with the age.

EXPORTING WHISKS.

Mr. Hamilton, the whisk manufacturer, is regularly sending out his excellent whisks to the Montreal and Toronto markets. Mr. Hamilton informs us that his trade is steadily growing, and that he contemplates enlarging and improving his factory at an early date.

THE WICKET.

For the past few days Mr. J. Norley has been engaged in putting in a new "crease" in the cricket field. The dimensions of the "crease" is about 40x80 and consists of new, fresh sod obtained from up the river on the flats at the east side. It is needless to say that the work is well done, for Mr. Norley, who has had large experience in such matters, personally superintended the job.

NEW RESIDENCE.

Mr. Stewart Wright is erecting on Stewart street a substantial brick house. It is of white brick, is two stories high, and will make a very comfortable home.

Seriously Ill.

We regret to learn that Councillor Allen is seriously ill with fever. He is under the watchful care of Dr. King, and we hope soon to hear of his recovery.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	63°	29.15
One o'clock	66°	29.18
Three o'clock	68°	29.20

Dumble, quarter of veal; Mr. Payne, vegetables; Mrs. Wallis, fruit; Mr. Wright, fruit; Mrs. Lech, fruit; Rev. Mr. Bennett, fire irons and clothing; Mr. Erskine, 6 illuminated texts.

100 Laughs in 100 Minutes.

A grand complimentary benefit will be tendered Messrs. A. Deliere and Allen, the two funny fellows who for the past week have kept the large audiences on the market square in continual roars of laughter, on Saturday night October 4th. These two young men have an inlimitable supply of wit, and every joke is fresh and crisp. The entertainment will abound in mirthful incidents, and will conclude by a side-splitting farace. Dr. W. VanDorn will explain spiritualism by the mesmeric and psycologic sciences. The press speak very highly of the doctor as a psycologist.

Chit Chat.

—The sun shines and beams benignly once more.

—Bricks are being brought to build the new block at Kingan's corner.

—Mr. Geo. D. Edwards, Peterborough's pioneer telephonist, is in town. He has been for the past two years in the North-West. He will remain here for the winter.

—The James Taylor troupe went over to Lindsay on 11.30 Grand Trunk train.

—A new sidewalk has been put down on the west side of Aylmer street, from Hunter to Simcoe.

—The first and second twelves of the lacrosse club will meet at the Little Windsor to-night.

—The lacrosse tournament will be held on the Ashburnham grounds to-morrow afternoon.

—It is whispered around that the night watchman of the Bank of Montreal, Ottawa, took two Peterborough boys for burglars. The boys merely wished to see a friend and mistook the "house."

—The members of Court Peterborough are requested to meet to-night, so as to complete final arrangements for the dedication of the new hall.

SMITH.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BARNS BURNED.—On Sunday night the barns belonging to Mr. Robert Roseborough, on lot No. 17, in the 5th Concession of this Township, were entirely consumed by fire. The barns were filled with this season's crop and scarcely anything was saved. Loss, in the neighborhood of $3,000; insured at Mr. Cluxton's office for $2,900.

A Gang of Criminals.

MONTREAL Sept. 28.—Detective Fahey, of the Dominion Bureau here, has been engaged for some time past in endeavouring to get a clue to the parties who committed arson in setting fire to the manufactory of Skelton Bros., by which an inmate of a hotel adjoining met his death, and a loss of nearly $100,000 was sustained. He has so far succeeded in his efforts that he has applied for warrants for a gang of desperate burglars who are accused of the crime, and by whom the fire was set to cover up an extensive robbery of fine goods belonging to the firm. If the information the detective has received is reliable, the criminals will meet with their deserts.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering from low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that follows; you will be inspired with new life; strenght and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. a dottle by Taylor & McDonald.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, letter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box For sale by Taylor & Macdonald.

POLICE COURT.

STEALING GRAPES.

TUESDAY, Sept. 30.—A lad named Cushin was charged this morning with having broken into and stolen grapes from the garden of Mr. James Stevenson. He was discharged, subject to the surveillence of the police.

JUDGMENT GIVEN.

The judgment in the Agnes Giroux larceny case was pronounced this morning. The Magistrate asked the prisoner if she had given her real name, to which she replied that she had. The Magistrate said that he had found since yesterday that that was not her real name, and that she had made several false statements. He was indeed sorry to see such a promising young girl leading such a life. Instead of growing up in respectability she was on the highway to destruction. She was committed to the Mercer Reformatory for two years.

ASSAULT.

Wm. Doris was charged with having on the 24th September committed an assault on Catherine Doris with intent to do grievous bodily harm. Mr. J. O'Meara appeared for the defendant, and Mr. G. W. Hatton appeared for the complainant. The case was at the request of the defendant, enlarged until Thursday.

ACKNOWLEDGED SUPREMACY OF THE DOMINION ORGAN AND PIANO COMPANY'S INSTRUMENTS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Mr. Smart's spasmodic effort from Saturday night till Monday noon brought forth his second puerile letter in your yesterday's paper, aiming to detract from the acknowledged supremacy of the Dominion Organ and Piano Company's instruments. He does not attempt to show that the inferior instruments represented by him are superior to those manufactured by the Dominion Organ and Piano Company, but again resorts to means characteristic of the man. In order to back up his assertions he fails to name a single instance where his instruments have been awarded any honors where the "Dominions" have been exhibited, or, indeed, even where his instruments had no competitors. It is different with the "Dominion." It has exhibited along side of his and others superior to his with the most satisfactory results. We need only mention some of the honors it has carried off both where his Company exhibited and where they had not the hardihood to face the music, i. e., "International Medal and Diploma at Centennial (Philadelphia), 1876," "International Medal and Diploma at Sydney, Australia, 1877," "International Medal and Diploma at Paris Exhibition, 1878," and various other gold and silver medals at Toronto from 1878 down to the present time, and other fairs wherever exhibited. The maudlin statements of a deposed agent who rushes into print to decry the merits of a superior instrument in order that his own inferior ones may appear relatively higher, although he may pride himself on being D—Smart, fall flat when opposed by such uncontrovertible testimony. It reminds one of the old saying, "the brighter the moon shines the louder the dog barks." As he is so fond of quoting the Mail in reference to the Directors' report concerning the late Exhibition at Toronto, would he kindly turn to the same authority in its issue of the 20th inst., where he will find the Judges' report as given in my last, word for word.

Yours, &c.,
J. J. IRWIN,
Agent for the Dominion Organ & Piano Co.

A Shocking Atrocity.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—Bob Henderson, a negro, was strung up for horse stealing in West Carroll parish last week. When nearly dead he was taken down and cut with a sharp instruments from the heels to the back of the head on both sides. It has been just discovered that Henderson was innocent. Warrants are out for the arrest of the suspected murderers.

POOR MR. VANDERBILT.

His Sons Speculate and the Father Sells Maud S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The reigning sensation in Wall street to-day was the issue of $10,000,000 debenture bonds by the New York Central. Not one of the Vanderbilts or the company's officers will talk about the matter, although everybody knows that the bonds have been issued and the loan placed. It is an open secret that W. H. Vanderbilt is a poorer man by many millions than he was a few years since. His sons—Cornelius and William K.—have speculated heavily and invariably lost, and William H. was compelled to foot the bills. William K. lost $6,000,000 at one swoop last fall, and Cornelieus dropped $2,000,000 during the panic in May. So heavily had the boys involved in stocks that William H. was compelled to form an alliance with Jay Gould in order to save his collossal fortune. Indeed, Mr. Vanderbilt was hard pinched for ready money when he sold Maud S. for $40,000, and he was somewhat cramped because Gen. Grant could not repay the $150,000 he borrowed and let Ferdinand Ward steal. The financial trouble of the Vanderbilts has been a subject for gossip in Wall-street as well as up town, where it is said that the elder money king is in much trouble. Though the extent of his losses is simply a matter of conjecture, it is believed that they will reach at least $30,000,000, and possibly $50,000,000.

A DOOMED VILLAGE.

Louisville, Quebec, in Flames—Destruction of the Whole Place Feared.

QUEBEC, Sept. 30.—About one o'clock this morning fire declared itself in the village of Louisville, situated about fifty miles from Montreal. At 2 a.m. over twenty houses had been destroyed, and the fire is still raging. Assistance has been telegraphed for to Three Rivers.

The fire is supposed to have originated in the the vicinity of the public market, and the buildings around being nearly all wooden, with shingle roofs, the fire spread with lightning rapidity. There is a strong wind blowing, which fans the fire. There is nothing short of Providence can save the whole town from being laid in ashes.

2.40 a.m.—The Catholic convent has now caught and is burning rapidly. There is believed to be very little insurance. Further particulars cannot be ascertained to-night.

ON THE WAY TO EGYPT.

The Canadian Contingent of the Nile Expedition Arrives at Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 29.—The steamer Ocean King, with the Canadian contingent for service under General Wolseley, has arrived. The men are in good condition.

BELLEVILLE.

THE BURGLARS.—The Zufelt gang were on Saturday committed for trial, on the charge of burglarizing and stealing from the residence of H. B. Rothbun, at Deseronto. Next week they will be charged with robbing the store of Hiram Holden, at Shannonville, and the house of Thomas Van Allen, of this city.

FIRE.—On Friday night a large frame building on the west side of the river, which had been used as a grain elevator but had not been occupied for two years, was set fire to and burned to the ground. The structure was owned by Horace Yeomans, and was insured to a small amount. Loss from $1,500 to $2,000.

SOUTH DOURO.

KICKED BY A HORSE.—On Monday, as Mr. John K. O'Brien was leading a young horse to water, he was severely kicked by the animal on the head. The wound bled profusely, and the services of Dr. Kincaid were called into requisition. The wounds were dressed and the patient is now rapidly recovering.

Attempts to Destroy a City.

ALLANTOWN, Pa., Sept. 28.—Vigorous endeavours to carry out threats made by "firebugs" in an anonymous letter yesterday to lay this city in ashes were made to-day, with the following result:—Total destruction of a stable in first ward, a dwelling house damaged in sixth ward, and an unsuccessful attempt to fire a large stable in fourth ward. Three suspicious characters have been arrested. Considerable excitement prevails, and threats of lynching are openly made.

Distance to the Sun.

As to the distance of 93,000,000 miles, a cannon ball would travel it in about fifteen years. It may help us to remember that at the speed attained by the limited express on our railroads a train which had left the sun for the earth when the Mayflower sailed from Delfhaven with the Pilgrim Fathers, and which ran at that rate day and night, would in 1884 still be a journey of some years away from its terrestrial station. The fare at the customary rates, it may be remarked, would be rather over $2,500,000, so that we should neen both money and leisure for the journey.

Perhaps the most striking illustration of the sun's distance is given by expressing it in terms of what the physiologists would call velocity of nerve transmission. It has been found that sensation is not absolutely instantaneous, but that it occupies a very minute time in travelling along the nerves; so that if a child put its finger into the candle there is a certain almost inconceivably small space of time, say the one hundredth part of a second, before he feels the heat. In case then a child's arm were long enough to touch the sun, it can be calculated from this known rate of transmission that the infant would have to live to be a man of over one hundred before it knew that its fingers were burned. —Prof. Langley in September Century.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. THE SIEGE OF KHARTOUM.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Times publishes telegrams via Kassala and Massowah, giving extracts from the diary of its Khartoum correspondent, Mr. Power, describing the siege of the latter place. From April 28 to July 31 there was daily fighting, which frequently was terrific. Gen. Gordon's total loss during that time was 700 killed. The General despaired of receiving adequate relief. The negroes were the only troops who could be relied upon. On April 27th the enemy captured one of Gordon's armed steamers.

BELGIUM AFFAIRS.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 28.—A meeting of Liberals was held here to-day for the purpose of arranging a platform to oppose the education law. Speeches were made appealing for support at the elections. M. Goblet, in an address, suggested that when the Liberals were again in power they should use the immense wealth of the religious bodies to promote popular education, and that the Liberal motto should be separation of church and State. Mr. Goblet was loudly cheered. A Liberal demonstration was subsequently held on the Bourse in honor of the burgomaster, to whom a bust and scarf of honor were presented in recognition of his services in the educational cause. The crowd quietly dispersed.

M. Morchi, director of the National Journal, who strongly supported the Republican cause and was expelled from the country, left the Kingdom to-day.

A COLONIAL ARMY.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—A bill for the organization of a colonial army will be presented to the Chambers as soon as they convene. The marines are to be transferred to the control of the War Department.

FEEDING THE POOR.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Times' Khartoum correspondent, on April 28, reports General Gordon was laying mines in all directions. Food was dear. General Gordon had issued paper money, the treasury being at Berberi, and was paying the soldiers. The town was quiet. Half of the population had joined the rebels previous to beginning the siege. No news had been received from the British Government. Under date July 30th the correspondent says the town was closely besieged for five months, and would be able to hold out only two months longer. Rations were being issued to the poor.

SEARCHING TRADING STEAMERS.

HONG KONG, Sept. 29.—The French have stopped and searched the English trading steamers "Fuhkien" and "Hailoong" in the Formosa Channel. This has caused great irritation. The fact that neutral powers are conveying soldiers and munitions to various ports will probably be a source of complication.

ADVICE TO YOUNG SPORTSMEN.

Always bear in mind that it is the muzzle of a gun that is dangerous; therefore, never allow the muzzle to point toward yourself or any other person.

Never put your hand over the muzzle of a gun, nor allow another to handle your gun while it is loaded.

Use a breech-loading gun with rebounding hammers. A muzzle-loading gun is both inconvenient and dangerous to load.

Hammerless guns are beautiful and convenient weapons, but they are not fit for boys to use, especially boys who are beginning to shoot.

If you are hunting in company with others, be careful and courteous, always refraining from shooting at birds that are flushed nearer to your companion than to you, and do not allow your gun, under any circumstance, to point at, direction of any human being.

Open your gun at the breech and take out both shells before climbing over a fence, getting into a waggon, going into the house, or handing the gun to a person not used to firearms.

Never drag a gun towards you muzzle foremost.

Treat an unloaded gun with the same care that you would use in handling a lorded gun. I did not know that it was loaded has caused many terrible accidents.

It is best to thoroughly clean and dry a gun after it has been used all day, and when not in use it should be kept in a wooden or leather case.

Never shoot at harmless and worthless birds "just to try your hand." Most small birds are pretty, some of them sing sweetly, and nearly all of them are useful as insect-destroyers. It is brutal to kill them for any other than scientific or artistic purposes

When out hunting, observe everything, so as to remember the minutest details of visible nature. Knowledge thus gathered is invaluable.

Boys, when hunting together, should be very cautious in thick covert; as, there, one may be quite near another and not see him.—From "Marvin and his Boy Hunters,".—Maurice Thompson, in St Nicholas for October.

IMPUDENT AND UNTRUE.

THE Reformers, knowing that a statement of the facts in regard to the Boundary question, would disprove their claims, rely upon bold and reckless assertions. The following specimen is from the Belleville Ontario :—

"Some of our contemporaries, the Peterborough REVIEW and Kingston News among the number, are sadly mixed in their ideas about the Boundary case and the Privy Council. They keep saying that for twelve years Sir John urged a reference to the Privy Council. This is untrue. Since the reference to arbitration, when Sir John agreed that the arbitrators were good men, he never suggested Privy Council. Since the Award, Mr. Mowat was the first to suggest a reference to the Privy Council."

We do not know that this statement is more impudent and untrue than many others which have been made by Reform organs, but it is incorrect. That we stated that Sir John Macdonald urged a reference of the question to the Privy Council, is true. That Sir John never suggested such a reference after the question was referred to the arbitrators by Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mowat, is not true. That Mr. Mowat was the first to suggest a reference to the Privy Council after the award was made, is false, and it must have required a "face of copper" to make such an assertion.

The Ontario does not offer one iota of proof to sustain its assertions. The reason is plain ; it could not. It could not quote from official documents, from the speeches of the leaders of either party, or, we believe, from its own fyles, without showing that it was wrong. The Ontario does not contend that Sir John did not suggest a reference to the Privy Council before the question was referred to the arbitrators, so we presume that it admits that.

That Mr. Mowat was opposed to a reference of the question to the Privy Council has been proven over and over again, and is shown plainly enough in the following quotation of a despatch to the Dominion Government dated Feb. 18th, 1882 :

"The recognition of the award, by the Parliament of Canada, is desirable to prevent doubts and disputes ; but my Government do not admit that the award has no legal force without such Parliamentary action."

Now, Mr. Mowat was not only opposed to the reference, but he held that the award was a legal one. He held to that opinion as long as he could, as one of the questions submitted to the Privy Council was whether the award was legal and binding, and the decision was that it was not. Mr. Mowat was wrong.

On April 18th, 1882, the Parliament of the Dominion adopted a resolution in favour of a judicial decision, yet it is well known that during the election campaign in the following June, the Reformers opposed accepting the suggestion and argued that it was unnecessary. The Ontario must think that the people have a very short memory if it believes that they have forgotten these facts.

The case is plain enough. The Conservatives urged a reference to the Privy Council, and Mr. Mowat refused to agree to it. He attempted to take forcible possession of the territory on the strength of award that has been declared by the Privy Council to be not legal or binding. Finally, after wasting time and money, he adopted the policy the Conservatives had all along urged upon him, went to the Privy Council, secured a settlement, and then shouted "Hurrah ! What a great man am I !"

If the Ontario has any proof to produce to sustain its assertions, let it bring the evidence forward. And while it is doing that, if it does attempt to do so, it might explain why it was, although Mr. Mills had contended that Ontario extended into Manitoba, that when Mr. Mowat and Mr. Mills went before the Privy Council, they only endeavored to establish the claim of the Province to the territory marked out by the line drawn by the arbitrators.

THE Mowat circus has aroused numerous "bards" of the party, who have been grinding out rhymes by the bushel. One who signs himself "Big Ontario" asks :—

"Is he indeed the Premier small Who's driven, weeping to the wall."

Well, we should say that leaning up against the wall and weeping is the act usually of a small boy. We have often seen Mr. Mowat called the "little Premier," but did not know he was accustomed to acts quite so childish as the one described. But perhaps "he couldn't help it" (a boy's excuse), when he thought of his followers making such a fuss over him when he did not deserve it.

It is now stated that the Liberals have such a hatred for the House of Lords that they will—create a number of new Peers !

DELUDED OF HER DOLLARS.

A Woman of Rochester Swindled by Spiritualistic Impostors.

A Rochester despatch to the N. Y. World says :—A most unique method of swindling has been discovered here and will be exposed. Since the Fox sisters made Rochester noted by their spiritualistic performances in 1848, all kinds of characters have periodically stopped here under the guise of believers in or interpreters of spiritualism.

Six or eight months ago a haggard, bony old woman, and sleek, silken tongued son, aged 18 years, alighted here from the spiritualistic firmanent and called their names Van Auken. It was given out that the boy Harry was a wonderful and clever medium, and public seances were given with profit until an exposure of fraud in their pretended spirit performances forced them to close their hall.

Then another method of fraud was invented by these simulators. They united forces with Dr. Tilden, a magnetic healer, and formed what they called the Tilden-Van Auken Spiritual Company. Operations were secretly commenced by agents, who directed ailing people to the company's headquarters, No. 21 Sophia street. Old people known to be superstitious or nervous received notes saying some calamity would befall them unless they consulted the spiritual company. In these consultations the patients were told that the company embraced 240 spirits, comprising Gen. Lafayette, Red Jacket, Starlight, Sunlight, Running Water, Mary Maloney, Topsy and Waubasha. Several credulous people dropped money into the company's coffers, most of whom escaped comparatively with small loss.

But one woman, M. J. Dean, was mulcted to the extent of over $1,100. She has grown wealthy keeping a fancy-house, and is regarded generally as degraded and heartless. While sick with dropsical ailments she was told to consult the Tilden-Van Auken Company. She did so, and agreed to give them $100 to cure her by April 1. She claims to believe they cured her, and paid them the stipulated amount. One day she received a letter written by Dr. Tilden, who said it was inspired by Dr. Bristol, formerly of Dansville, who died twenty years ago, and whose spirit, it was claimed, directs and advises the members of the company. The letter said it was her duty to devote the remainder of her life to advancing the cause of spiritualism.

By means of the letter and some sharp conjuring, which she witnessed at private seances, she was convinced that her future duty lay in spiritualistic praise. She was swindled out of over $500, spent in buying one thing and another for the Spiritualists before they made a grand break for her pocket book, by pretending to have formed a combination to travel and give public seances. They told her she should go as lecturer before the cabinet, Alexander von Humboldt was to be her guide and inspiration and words would be furnished promptly for her lecture. She actually bought Humboldt's Cosmos and studied it for a week. Among other inducements they told her she would become the brightest star in the spiritualistic firmanent. She was to buy the outfit and was about to pay $3,000 therefor when a young man named Goddard exposed the fraud.

He had been hired as ticket seller at the Van Auken seances here, but failed to get his pay, so he went to the Dean woman to get $45. In conversation with him she found he could do all the wonderful things Harry Van Auken could, which opened her eyes to the swindle in time to save her $3,000, but not until it had cost her over $1,000. Several others have been swindled by similar methods for smaller amounts.

[Dr. Van Dorn, the lecturer for the Electric Pad Company, at present visiting Peterborough, will give an exposure of the modus operandi practiced by all such spiritualistic impostors as the above, at the benefit to be tendered to Messrs. De Vere and Allan in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday evening, Oct. 4.]

THE GREAT NORTH-WEST.

Interview with Mr. Collingwood Schreiber—Splendid Prospects for the Season.

Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, Chief Engineer and General Manager of Government Railways, and his Private Secretary, and Mr. P. S Archibald, Chief Engineer of the Intercolonial Railway, arrived in the city on Sunday and took dinner with Senator Allan last night. Mr. Schreiber, in conversation with a reporter last night on the Government car Cumberland, stated that he had inspected the whole of the Canadian Pacific Railway west of Winnipeg, and said that the road from Port Moody east was completed for a distance of 190 miles. The remainder of the track to Saverney's Ferry, the end of the Onderdonk contract, would be completed in about a month from the present time. From there to Kamloops a large force was now employed in grading and tunnelling on the east side of the Selkirk Mountains. It is expected that the track will be laid to the western foot of the Selkirk Mountains before snow flies. East of the Selkirk Mountains the same activity prevails and grading, bridging and track laying are being prosecuted with the utmost vigor. There are over five thousand men employed on each side of the summit of the Selkirk Mountains, and the line will be connected from Port Arthur to Port Moody this fall or at latest in the spring of 1885. The crops along the road are looking splendid and farmers are delighted with the prospects. Wheat is worth more there just now than in Chicago, and Mr. Schreiber stated that a farmer at Minnedosa had, in his presence, sold the produce of two hundred acres of wheat at 80 cents a bushel.—Globe.

OUTRAGE BY A TRAMP.

A Lady Brutally Beaten and Her Horse Stolen—Capture of the Culprit.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 27.—This afternoon, while a young lady named Stroll, the daughter of a well known and respected farmer, was out riding on a valuable horse she was stopped by a tramp, who demanded that she dismount and give him the animal. Upon her refusal, he knocked her off the horse, and, after beating her until insensible, mounted the animal and rode away. Miss Stroll was found shortly afterwards, and searching parties immediately started in all directions to hunt her assailant. He was captured some distance away and taken to Sharpsburg, where he gave the name of Hugh Adams. He admitted the assault, but said it was only for robbery. There was great excitement, and for a time it was feared he would be lynched, as threats were freely made ; but finally moderate counsel prevailed, and he was brought to this city and lodged in gaol. The young lady is greatly prostrated, but will recover.

Houses Wrecked by a Cyclone.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 28.—A terrific cyclone passed over Alton, a few miles south of Bradford, this afternoon. The cyclone came from the south-west. At Alton six houses were wrecked, but no lives lost, the path of the storm was five rods wide. It swept everything before it. Several families had thrilling adventures and narrow escapes from death.

Rescued from Savages.

The British steamer Lord of the Isles, rescued the crew and passengers of the French transport Averyon which, while returning to France from Tonquin, went ashore near Cape Guardafui, eastern Africa. Those on board were in extreme peril from the savages, who swarmed around the transport and had to be kept off by a marine guard, stationed with loaded rifles in the chains.

THE PRINTER'S TERROR.

How a "Form" was Pied—A Warning and a Hint How to Act in Such a Case.

The Kingston News of Friday came to hand with two editorial pages (the same good matter reproduced), and no local page. From some offices all sorts of apologies for a properly printed paper are sent out as "exchanges," and we feared that the News had fallen into that habit. However, the following explanation is afforded by Saturday's issue of that paper :—"Last evening it was amusing to notice people examining the News and turning it over and over again to find the local page. Their scrutiny was in vain, as a most unfortunate accident happened in this office just before we went to press. The forms, or pages, in type, are lowered from the composing room to the press room, a distance of about twenty-five feet, by means of a rope and pulley, and while men were in the act of lowering the local page the rope broke loose from the hook and the form went thundering down the slide with a terrible clatter, passing through a table and going into a thousand fragments on the stone floor. Through some means or other the boy whose duty it was to receive the forms was absent from his post. If he had been there he would have been killed on the spot, as it is his custom to stand immediately beneath the slide and gaze upward in order to see the form, which weighs all of two hundred pounds, making its descent. Mr. P. Hunter, the pressman, in the boy's absence, was present to receive the forms, and being a man, was enabled to stand some three feet from the tube, which distance he was away when the the type rushed down and fell with a loud noise at his feet, almost covering them with "pi." For an instant he was paralyzed. His escape was a narrow one, and one that he will long remember. A new rope was placed in position on Thursday, and it was the sailor's knot that gave way. Seeing that our local page was destroyed, our only plan in order to secure the issue of our paper on time, was to reproduce the editorial page, which we did, and thus the make up is accounted for."

To Dyspeptics.

The most common signs of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are an oppression at the stomach, nausea, flatulency, water-brash, heart-burn, vomiting, loss of appetite, and constipation. Dyspeptic patients suffer untold miseries, bodily and mental. They should stimulate the digestion, and secure regular daily action of the bowels, by the use of moderate doses of

Ayer's Pills.

After the bowels are regulated, one of these Pills, taken each day after dinner, is usually all that is required to complete the cure.

AYER'S PILLS are sugar-coated and purely vegetable—a pleasant, entirely safe, and reliable medicine for the cure of all disorders of the stomach and bowels. They are the best of all purgatives for family use.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

DESERVING OF HONORS.

A proposition to give Sir John Macdonald an entertainment on the completion of his fortieth year in public life, has been well received by the members of the party which he has led so long and so successfully. The idea is a good one, and will doubtless be acted upon. Sir John deserves all the honors his friends can confer upon him.—Ottawa Sun (Indep.)

DO THEY PAY RYMAL?

As a Liberal said not long ago, when the Liberal party wanted to be amused by a mountebank they can hire one.—Globe.

OR OLDER MEN, EITHER.

The Grit party, with its present aims and policy, has but small claims on the services of the young men, and they will be acting unwisely if they quietly fall into the traces at the bidding of the party leaders.—Toronto News (Indep.)

A FOOLISH ACTION.

There has been too much noise made about Mr. Mowat—far more than prudence or decency would warrant—and by-and-by, when the whole story of the boundary business is told, those who are now shouting themselves hoarse over it will learn how foolishly they have acted in a matter with which they were imperfectly acquainted.—Irish Canadian.

WHY IS IT?

Can any nation, by putting duties on imports, tax the people of another nation? A loud chhorus of voices says, "No, no, the thing is impossible." At present we would merely inquire how it happens that the biggest part of the grumbling is always done by the people whom it is said we cannot tax? If all duties are always paid by the consumer, whence comes it that it is the party of the other part who is by far the more anxious of the two to have them removed? The truth is that protective duties are on the whole felt by the producer more than the consumer, and this is the reason why the former kicks so vigorously against them.—Toronto World (Indep.).

THE GLOBE AND THE C. P. R.

If, as the Globe declares, the story is a malicious falsehood, thesooner it is proved such the better it will be for that journal, as far, at least, as Reform support is concerned. It must be confessed that its late articles on the Syndicate are milder and more ambiguous than its readers have been accustomed to, and, coupled with the statements of the Mail and the News, are calculated to raise suspicious we would gladly see dispelled.—Fenelon Falls Gazette (Reform).

NORTHWEST WHEAT.

The wheat crop of the experimental farms of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been disposed of at 87 cents a bushel. This figure is somewhat higher than the ruling quotation in the North-west, which runs in the neighborhood of 70 cents a bushel, but even this latter figure is materially higher than the prevailing prices in the Western States. At Kansas, the capital of Mr. Blake's paradise, the price for the highest grade of wheat is only 58 cents, and in Minnesota and Dakota millers have established such low quotations that farmers will not market their crops. The higher range of values in the Canadian North-west is principally due to low transportation charges established by the Canadian Pacific Company.—Guelph Herald.

MINDEN.

Plenty of Partridges.—Messrs. Z. Cole and John. A. Dale, of Dorset neighborhood, came down in a boat on Monday to attend court. On the way down they shot no less than eleven partridges. When this number was secured the ammunition played out and the gentlemen were unable to capture any more of the birds, although they saw and got within range of full forty.

Bears and Sheep.—Mr. Wm. McKay, of Mountain Lake, had two sheep killed by bears this week, both victims having had their necks eaten away. While Mr. McKay was in Minden on Tuesday a bear chased the flock to the house, where Mrs. McKay took the rifle and fired two shots at it, but it went off apparently without injury. The lady was alone with a small child when she met the bear in a field near the house.

A New Road in Hindon.—In accordance with a motion of the council at its last meeting, Mr. Mortimer, Reeve of Anson and Hindon, surveyed the line of a new road about to be established across lot 30, con. A, to lot 1, 11th con., where it will follow the concession line to the Bayaville road. Mr. Mortimer says the land in this neighbourhood is as good as any in this part of the country, and that if the Government would open it for settlement it would be a great benefit to the municipality. As the pine is nearly all gone there is no reason for keeping it locked up for timber limits. The new road is about 20 miles north of Minden on the Bobcaygeon road. Mr. Mortimer says that game is very plentiful there; partridge and deer being in abundance. Mr. Isaac Trumble is almost the only settler on the new line.—Echo.

FENELON FALLS.

A Voracious Fish.—One day last week Mr. Carpenter, while fishing near the mouth of the river, caught a maskinonge weighing over eleven pounds, and upon opening it he found in its stomach a sucker nine or ten inches long and a piece of a square pine stick as thick as a man's wrist and as long as the sucker. The supposition is that the sucker was lying on the stick, and that the "lunge," opening his mouth unnecessarily wide when he dashed at his prey, unintentionally swallowed the piece of wood also. But still he wasn't satisfied, and, seeing Mr. Carpenter's bait, snapped it up, and thus came to an untimely end.

Singular and Painful Accident.—Mr. George Foreman, who takes contracts for the removal of stumps, was working with his machine on Wednesday forenoon on Mr. M. Muachison's farm near Glenarm, in the township of Fenelon. As he was standing by one of the legs of the machine, holding the rope that steadies the puiley, a link in the draught chain snapped, the heavy stump that was being raised fell, and one of the rods of the lifting apparatus broke. Whether it was the link of the chain or the nut off the rod is not known, but something struck the back of Mr. Foreman's left hand below the forefinger, passed entirely through, and came out near the base of the thumb. The wound was so terrible a one that Dr. Wilson, who was promptly sent for, had to amputate the finger and then remove several splinters of the first metacarpal bone, which was smashed all to pieces. He fears it will be several weeks before the patient will have the use of his hand. —Gazette.

OMEMEE.

Collar Bone Broken.—On Saturday Mr. John Sheridan had his collar bone fractured by jumping off a train while in motion, at the Omemee station. We are pleased to learn that the patient is doing well.

Narrow Escape.—About half past two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the large and magnificent brick building on King street, owned and occupied by Mr. Jas. Evans as a foundry and dwelling house, had a very narrow escape from destruction by fire. The fire started in the north-east corner of the mansard roof, and fortunately had made very little progress when first noticed. Abundance of water in the foundry tank and numerous willing workers soon extinguished the flames. This is the finest block in Omemee and had it suffered total destruction would have been a great loss to Mr. Evans and the village. This we hope will be a warning to our citizens and cause them to bestir themselves for the purpose of securing better protection against fire.—Herald.

POTATOES.

Smoking hot, delicately browned, and delicious, who doesn't wish the week brought more than seven breakfasts, if only every household fairy could be induced to present them in such a tempting form?

To have them moist, and yet free from an abundance of grease, depends entirely upon two things—tht condition of the fire and the lard; for lard it must be fresh, firm, and sweet, for neither dripping, skimming, nor any of the other little economies the heart of the mistress is so apt to delight in will answer so well, no matter how nicely rendered. Put in at first a generous supply, and see it becomes hot over a fire not to bright at first, but steadly increasing in temperature. On these two commandments hang all one's skill and success.

The mashed potatoes left from dinner can be presented at the next morning's breakfast in a very attractive and toothsome form. While yet warm, add a small quantity of milk, or, better still, good cream, until like the very little bear's chair in the charming story, it is neither too hard nor too soft. Put the mass into a vegetable dish sufficiently large to cover the bottom of it about an inch in depth; work in evenly and nicely with a spoon until it is smooth, and set aside to become cold. When ready to use, turn out the dish, and cut into strips that will be an inch in width and thickness, and two inches in length. Fry, or rather boil, in enough lard to cover them, as oysters or doughnuts, and when browned all over, remove, and laying on a napkin, put in the oven a few minutes, where they will drain off all extra fat, and at the same time keep their heat. If of the right consistency, and rapidly cooked, the potatoes will be crisp and brown on the outside, and soft and creamy within. Garnish with parsley sprigs, and send to table in an odd fancy china dish.

The double pans having the inner one pierced with innumerable tiny holes, or made entirely of wire, are the nicest. They are sold at the house furnishers for frying oysters, but are equally nice in cooking other articles of food. A piece of heavy wire is fastened at one side of the outer pan, comes up to and hangs over the top, having at the end a hook on which the inner vessel is hung, and drains off the superfluous fat. The lifting out and danger of breaking in pieces any delicate article of food are thus also avoided.

Chop very finely cold boiled potatoes, and cook slowly in sufficient fat about twenty minutes. Do not let them brown the least particle, but only take out the raw taste, and become very hot and well mixed together. To one pint of potatoes allow two tablespoonfuls of rich milk or cream and half of a raw egg. Beat them well together, take the potatoes from the pan, and stir in. Season with pepper and salt; put in the same pan, and replace on the fire, first pressing well down with a spoon that they may lie compactly over its whole surface. Do not stir them, but let them become nicely browned on the under side, which will be in about fifteen minutes. Have an oval dish well warmed; place it over the pan, and then, reversing the position of the two quickly, there will be a sort of potato omelet in good shape, and its nicely browned side on top.

In place of chopping the potatoes for ordinary frying, one can make a pleasant change by forking them. When well boiled, and the skins removed, work with a silver fork until there is a fine flasky mass, even in texture, and looking very light and inviting. Either cook them plainly in plenty of boiling lard, stirring frequently, or adding cream and egg if preferred.

In a small skillet heat half a pint of rich milk, sliding into it six or eight medium sized potatoes previously boiled and sliced across. Stir together four table spoonfuls of cream and half the raw yolk of an egg; pour over the contents of the skillet, shaking to and fro, but not using a spoon to stir them, until they give one good bubble. Take from the fire, add salt, pepper, and a generous amount of butter. If desired, a very little finely chopped parsley may be added. Harper's Bazar.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

The best way to strengthen and promote the growth of the hair is to wash it every morning in cold water.

Hay water is a great sweetener of tin, wooden and iron ware. In Irish dairies everything used for milk is scalded with hay water. Boil a handful of sweet hay in water and put in the vessel when hot.

The best way of paring peaches for canning is to treat them like tomatoes. That is, pour on boiling water sufficient to cover them, let them stand for a moment or two, and then the skins can be easily removed without much waste of the fruit.

Chicken Salad.—Take equal prats of chicken and celery in quarter Inch slices. Scrape wash and cut the celery in slices. Mix with French dressing and keep on the ice till ready to serve. Make a maycnaise dressing and mix part of it with the chicken. Arrange the salad in a salad-bowl or dish, and pour the remainder of the dressing over it, and garnish with celery leaves and capers.

Two small square mats can be arranged so as to make a common pine bracket an addition to the parlor. The bracket must have no back, but, instead, one of the mats is fastened cornerwise against the wall. The other mat, also placed corner-wise covers the bracket. Thus a good back-grownd is provided for a vase or plaster bust, especially if the centre of the mats be velvet. Even a shilling plaster cast looks well against crimson plush or velvet.

To Pickle Cauliflowers.—Take two or three good cauliflowers and take off the green leaves, and boil them five minutes; then take them to pieces nicely without breaking the flowers, then lay them to salt and water for two days; then take them out and let them thoroughly well; then have a quart of vinigar, add to it twe ounces of mixed spices; lay the pieces of cauliflower carefully in a stone jar and when the vinigar is cold pour it over the cauliflower; tie down for use.

Mushroom Ketchup.—Take a quart of freshly gathered mushrooms, break them up and put them in a basin, and sprinkle a thick layer of salt amongst them. Let them stand three weeks; then strain the liquor from them, and put one quart of cold water on them. Put them in a stewpan, and let them boil half an hour; strain the liquor from them; then put all the liquor together into a stewpan; add to it half an ounce of whole mace, a quarter of an ounce six chillies, a clove of garlic. Let all these boil together twenty minutes; stand aside to get cool and bottle for use.

Lemon Flavoring.—Take six lemons, cut them in quarters, put them in a deep basin, and cover them thickly with salt; let them lie three weeks then take them out, put them in a stewpan with two quarts of vinegar, one ounce of whole mace, a quarter of an ounce of cloves, a quarter of an ounce of chillies, half an ounce of ginger, three bay leaves; boil all these together let them get cold; then add half a pound of mustard seed and put them in an earthern jar; lay paper over it; it will be ready for use in a fortnight. A teaspoonful of the liquor is a delicious flavoring for any savory dish, or the liquor may be bottled off, and more vinegar boiled and put on the lemons.

A Substantial Windfall.

When Mr. Bell Belmont, manager of the St. Julien restaurant, on King street, left his home in London, Eng., 15 years ago, he intended going to Australia. En route, he stopped in Toronto a few days, and thinking he might go further and fare worse, he resolved to remain here, and became engaged in the hotel business. Before leaving London he placed in charge of his father a number of shares he had acquired in certain railway, gas and water companies. At that time these shares were comparatively worthless, but as time wore on their value increased, till they became a very considerable property. Besides his father and the shares referred to, Mr. Belmont also left at home a sister and a son. The father died three or four years afterwards, and the sister's inquiries after her brother in Australia were of course furtile, and he was given up for dead. A few days ago Mr. Boddy, city clerk, received a letter from the son's solicitors in London asking for a certificate of Mr. Belmont's death. The city clerk communicated this fact to Mr. Belmont, who now discovers that he is the possesor of a property composed of the shares and dividend and interest accured thereto, amounting in all to an income of some $10,000 a year. Mr. Belmont made money in the White Oak hotel which he carried on at the corner of Yonge and Elm streets, but lost it again, and was spending his latter years in somewhat reduced circumstances. It appears that he was not absolutely ignorant of the fortune belonging to him in England, but for reasons known to himself he never took pains to lay claim to it.—Toronto Mail.

Remedy for Poison Ivy.

Dr. S. A. Brown, United States Navy, states in the Medical Record that he has found a specific to the troublesome eruption produced by the poison oak or poison ivy so common in our woods and along old fences. This specific he finds in bromide, which he has used with unvarying success in at least forty cases. He uses the drug dissolved in olive oil, cosmoline or glycerine, in the strength of from ten to twenty drops of bromide to the ounce of oil, and rubs themixture gently on the affected parts three or four times a day. The bromide is so volatile that the solution should be renewed every twenty-four hours. The eruption never extends after the first thorough application, and it promptly disappears within twenty-four hours if the application is persisted in.—Boston Transcript.

A Peculiar and Sad Case.

Winfield, W. Va., Sept. 26.—Mrs. John Young was bitten by a calf and died in a few hours. The child she had nursed was taken with convulsions and died.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentious to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all oth-

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid Society.

The working meeting in connection with this society meet to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock p.m. at G. M. Roger's house, Park street.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to-day were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	59°	29.25
One o'clock	64°	29.20
Three o'clock	65°	29.20

Church Sold.

At the auction sale of the Aylmer street Baptist Church on Monday afternoon the church was disposed of to Mr. James Stevenson, $2,500 being the highest bid. The new church on Murray street is being handsomely refitted and refurnished. New seats are being put in and the church will be newly carpeted. Opening services will be held early in October.

Entertainment at Hazelbrae.

An entertainment consisting of vocal an instrumental music and readings, will be given at Hazel Brae, in support of the funds of the Home, on Friday next, October 3rd. Tickets 25 cts. each, may be had at Miss Sanderson's, Mr. J. W. Flavelle's, Mr. T. W. Robinson's, and Mr. A. L. Davis's. To commence at 8 o'clock.

The Trains Will Stop.

The Guide says that in response to the deputation that went down to interview Mr. Hickson in reference to railway matters, and as a first instalment of what the Company intend to do, Mr. Fairbairn, the station agent at Port Hope, has received instructions to order the trains that arrive from the north at 8.50 and 12.45 and those leaving at 9.40 a.m. and 3.15 p.m. to stop at the old Midland Station. No tickets will be sold or will any baggage be checked only at the main station.

Standing Advertisements.

The Monetary Times says:—

"Concerning what are known as 'standing advertisements' in newspapers, which some merchants say are useless, it has been remarked, and truly, that they command confidence. The man who for years resides in a community and lives a reputable life, even though he be of moderate ability, will grow in the confidence and esteem of his fellows. On the same principle a newspaper advertisement becomes familiar to the eyes of the reader. It may not be carefully read every day, still it makes the name and business of a man familiar, and its continued presence in the columns of a paper inspires confidence in the stability of the advertiser."

Fine Wool Gloves in all colors and patterns at Andrew McNeil's, George St.

The Intermediate Championship.

At the meeting of the lacrosse club on Monday night it was decided that a challenge should be sent to the Ontarios, of Toronto, the intermediate champions of the world, to play a match as soon as is convenient. At a recent match with the Mets., of Ottawa, after a hot struggle, the Ontarios won by three games to two. The Peterborougha few days ago won a match with the Mets. by three games to two. If the match is arranged with the Ontarios no doubt it will prove to be one of the best intermediate matches played. A vote of thanks to the City Band for turning out to meet the team on its return from Ottawa was put and carried unanimously.

The Fire in Smith.

Mr. Robert Roseberry, whose barn was burned on Monday morning, was in town to-day, and he carries with him a mark of the danger he ran in rescuing his horses from the flames. His hair was scorched and his right ear was severely burned. The last horse got out had its mane scorched and the halter by which it was tied was almost burned in two. All the grain in the barn, and the hay and straw, and twenty bushels of oats which Mr. Roseberry had borrowed to feed his horses until he threshed, were consumed, together with a reaping machine, fanning mill and other articles, and 42 hens. A large number of the neighbors gathered after the fire had been discovered, at about 5 o'clock, and it was with much difficulty that the house and driving shed were saved. It is supposed that the fire was started by lightning.

If you want a nice Calf-Skin Glove try Habiliment Hall.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong winds, mostly south and west; fair to cloudy weather with showers; not much change in temperature.

Nappa Buck Gloves and Mitts in stock at McNeil's.

Lacrosse Tournament.

Owing to the heavy rain this morning, the visiting teams which were to have competed at the lacrosse tournament this afternoon, have sent messages to Mr. Calcutt to the effect that they thought it useless to be present. The tournament is thus necessarily postponed, but will be held early in October. The day and date will be given shortly.

Will They Do It?

Referring to the Toronto Football Club, the Mail says:—

"The average attendance at club practices, so far, has been six. The club meets the Peterboroughs, at Peterborough, on Saturday week, Oct. 11th, in the first round of ties for the Ontario challenge cup, last year won by Toronto. The Peterboroughs are turning out twenty-five or thirty men regularly to practice, and the chances at present are that on Saturday week they will 'whip the Torontos out of their boots,' to use the vernacular."

To be Paid for.

The Rifle Association, after maturely considering the matter, have decided to pay for the cow which was recently shot in the vicinity of the Association Range. Although there is no direct proof that the cow was shot by a member of the Association, yet the presumptive evidence is so strong that the Association think it sufficient to warrant them to recompense Mr. Parnell for his loss. The action on the part of the Association is very honourable.

Flesh Torn from the Fingers.

This morning at about nine o'clock a boy named Adam Davidson, an employee of the Auburn Woollen Mills, was engaged in working at a loom. By some means one of his hands got caught in the cogs of the gearing and part of the flesh of the hand was torn off. Dr. Kincaid was summoned and the painful wound was successfully dressed. The doctor says it is a very severe laceration, but fortunately no bones were broken.

Fast Through Freight.

A consignment of oranges for Ostrom & Ostrom, wholesale fruit dealers, arrived on Monday at noon at the Grand Trunk station. The oranges were shipped at Boston on a freight train per Grand Trunk Railway and connections, and occupied only the short space of three days in transporting to Peterborough. This is indeed very creditable time for freight. The freight receipts at the Grand Trunk sheds have been heavy for the past week, nevertheless, the arrival of every article is duly recorded by the two careful freight clerks, Messrs. J. Billington and Fred. Clementi.

A Handsome Bar.

Mr. A. D. Faucher's "Bodega" is well worth visiting. Instead of the ordinary glassware dressing we see casks of different shapes and sizes filled ceiling high, all original packages, containing different kinds of liquor direct from the manufacturers. The popular bartender "Sam" presides over the trade, and supplies the thirsty customers with every conceivable refreshment. A grand banquet under the auspices of Court Peterborough will be held at Faucher's Hotel to-night.

Personal.

Mr. Fred K. Stancliffe, the General Manager for Canada of the British Empire Mutual Life Assurance Company, is in town.

Mr. Ormiston Dixon the celebrated ventriloquist is in town on a visit to his relations and friends. He has just completed a five months trip to the Far West including British Columbia, Washington Territory, California, &c. He was in connection with "Wiggin's Museum," which had a most successful tour. He is now taking a brief interval of rest, but will shortly fill his winter engagement commencing in Providence R.I., from thence going to New York for two weeks, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburg, New Orleans (where he plays a four weeks' engagement) and numerous other places.

Chit Chat.

—The "red leaves" are fastly falling.

—There was the usual large attendance at the free concert last night.

—There was a grape stealing case before the Police Court this morning.

—Who'll win the lacrosse intermediate championship?

—Mr. Wm. Watt is commencing to build his horse collar manufactory. He will manufacture collars for the wholesale trade.

—Mr. M. Ostrom has arrived home from his southward trip. A car load of different kinds of fruit direct from Florida will follow him.

—A meeting of the stockholders of the Peterborough Skating and Curling Rink Company will be held at the Grand Centrel Hotel to-night.

A Successful Social.

The social held at the Ashburnham Town Hall on Monday evening under the auspices of the Ashburnham ladies connected with St. Peter's Cathedral was a decided success. The concert was opened by a chorus in the French language given by Messrs. Peicord, Le Grois and Peicord, and Miss Archambault. During the evening vocal solos were contributed by the Misses Dunn, Miss Begley and Mr. Peicord. Prof. Doucet favoured the assembly with two violin solos, the accompaniments being played with good taste by Miss Annie Delaney. Miss Laplante furnished a piano solo with her well-known execution, and after the concert was over the gathering indulged in the refreshments which had been provided by the good ladies of Ashburnham. The company enjoyed themselves and "made merry" in different ways until late in the evening. The social was very successful financially, about $100 having been realized.

We are showing the nicest line of Kid Gloves, lined or unlined, ever seen in Peterborough, at McNeil's.

Ladies,

Your happy expectations soon to be realised. Fair, VanEvery & Co's Millinery Parlour is being elegantly furnished and replenished with most artistic designs of trimmed and untrimmed millinery. The assortment will be large, varied and exquisite. They will soon announce their Grand Opening, and every effort is being made to make you comfortable, and convinced that shopping at the Golden Lion is most profitable and enjoyable.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

For a good Driving Glove, try Habiliment Hall.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices, according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

A Half Mile Run.

The matched half-mile foot race between Messrs. Ed. Brown and H. LeBrun came off at the Driving Park on Monday afternoon. Messrs. Geo. Lipsett and P. Myles acted as judges, and Mr. A. Elliott was chosen starter. At the word "go," a good start was made, Mr. LeBrun slightly in advance. The race was indeed exciting. Mr. Brown made strenuous but unsuccessful efforts to overtake his opponent. Our friend of the City Clothing store maintained the lead until the quarter-mile post was reached, when he left the track. Mr. Brown finished the race in good style and came in to the winning post amid the shouts and cheers of his admirers.

COURT PETERBOROUGH

A LARGE ASSEMBLY WITNESS THE DEDICATION OF THE NEW HALL.

The Dedication Ceremony—Bro. Long's Address—The Concert—The Banquet—A Happy Reunion.

On Tuesday forenoon Mr. Long, of Waterford, Right Worthy High Past Chief Ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters, arrived in Peterborough for the purpose of dedicating the new hall of Court Peterborough, No. 49.

He was met at the station by representative officers of the Court, and during the afternoon was driven to several places of interest in and about Peterborough. In the evening a large and select assembly, the chosen guests of the brethren, hall assembled in the which is situated over Mr. H. Long's fruit store. The hall is a really beautiful one. It is capable of containing about 275 people, and it is furnished with handsome and costly furniture. The floor and daises are covered with tapestry carpet of pretty design, the walls are handsomely frescoed, and the ceiling is freshly calcimined. At the edges of the room a platform raised about four inches runs along the sides, and on which rest comfortable sofas beautifully upholstered in green rep. At opposite ends of the hall thrones for the Worthy Chief Ranger and Vice Chief Ranger are erected. They are gracefully draped with the royal crimson rep, and the sceptres and the usual lodge room adornments make them look quite regal in appearance. The chairs for the higher officers are indeed of an elegant design. They are of ash, trimmed with walnut. A deer's head ornaments the pinnacles, and the letters "L. B. C." of walnut, also adorn them. The chair of the Worthy Chief Ranger stands 6 feet 9 inches high, that of the Vice 6 feet high, and those of the other officers 4 feet. The walls of the hall are decorated with oil paintings of a forest suggestive character, and the heads of antlered monarchs and other fine specimens of taxidermity are placed here and there in spots which show good taste on the part of those who arranged the decorations. On the left side of the throne of the Worthy Chief Ranger a very beautiful regalia press stands. At the rear of the hall there is a snug little robing room, and on the whole Court Peterborough, No. 49, of the Canadian Order of Foresters is to be complimented on possessing so delightful a place for meeting.

At shortly after eight o'clock Acting Worth Chief Ranger Lee took his seat on the throne and announced that the

was about to commence. Silence at once fell on the people and all held their breath. Suddenly three quick raps were heard on the inner gate and the Senior Beadle—Bro. R. H. Adams, said:—Worthy Chief Ranger, there is an alarm at the inner gate. The Worthy Chief Ranger replied—Ascertain the cause and report to me forthwith.

The Senior Beadle—Worthy Chief Ranger, I have to report that the alarm was caused by the High Marshal demanding admittance for High Chief Ranger and High Officers.

Worthy Chief Ranger—Admit the High Chief Ranger and High Officers.

Senior Beadle—Enter the court in the name of liberty, benevolence and concord.

The High Chief Ranger and High Officers, in their beautiful green velvet dresses, being admitted, marched to the throne, where the Worthy Chief presented the hall to the High Chief for dedication. The High Chief Ranger acknowledged the gift and D. D. H. C. R. Watson announced that the dedication was about to commence.

The Chaplain—Bro. J. Braden, then made a short and impressive prayer.

The brethern then formed in a procession, marching around the outer aisle, singing the Forester's national anthem. At the end of the first verse three ominous knocks were given and

The R. W. H P. C. Ranger said—By virtue of the authority in me vested in the name of the Canadian Order of Foresters I dedicate this hall in the principles of liberty.

He then poured water, the free gift of God, upon the alter.

The brethern then resumed the march and at the conclusion of the next verse the hall was dedicated in the principles of benevolence, the High Past Chief Ranger scattering wheat, the emblem of plenty, upon the altar.

The song was again commenced and at the end of the third verse the hall was dedicated in the principles of concord, the High Past Chief Ranger pouring oil, emblematic of peace and joy, upon the alter.

D. D. H. C. Ranger then received orders from the Past High Chief to proclaim the hall dedicated. The D.D.H.C. Ranger went to the centre of the hall and proclaimed the hall to be dedicated in the name of Liberty, Benevolence and Concord. Afterwards all the High Officers proclaimed the hall dedicated and all the brethern heartily responded "so mote it be." The Chaplain led in prayer, the High Past Chief returned the hall to the Worthy Chief, and thus closed a most solemn and impressive seremony.

THE CONCERT

was now commenced. It was opened by an address by the R. W. P. H. C., R. Long, in which he lucidly traced the short but brilliant history of Canadian Forestry. He explained its principles and the benefits accruing to members. He made an eloquent appeal to the people of Peterborough to assist in the noble work and closed by wishing the Peterborough Foresters "God Speed." Mr. D. D. Galletly sang two well chosen songs in his excellent style. Professor Doucet contributed a violin solo which elicited loud applause. Misses Huston and Wells rendered, in the first and second parts, two very pleasing vocal duets. They sing with good taste and their voices blend harmoniously. It is needless to say that they were well received. Mr. A. D. Browne rendered a song in the first part in a very creditable manner. He possesses a high tenor, enunciates well, and exhibits considerable critical training.

Miss Begley sang in the first and second parts two charming solos. She has a bell-like mezzo soprano, and sings with that gustoso which is peculiar to good vocalists. The second part was commenced by a short, crisp address and a reading by the Rev. I. Tovell. Misses Logan and Galletly rendered a vocal duet. The manner in which the young ladies rendered their duet called forth demonstrative testimony from the audience. Mr. T. McNaughton in the first part gave an exhibition of fancy club swinging. The bewildering evolutions which the clubs went through called forth bursts of applause from the assembly. In his exhibition of illuminated swinging the irridescent things seemed to have life. They chased each other up and down, through, between, and once in a while would get all wound up in a knot. When Mr. McNaughton put down the clubs he was greeted with perfect salvas of applause. The concert was closed by the gathering singing "God Save the Queen" and "Auld Lang Syne."

The accompaniments during the evening were played by Miss Hattie Johnston in her well-known exquisite style.

The piano used was the "Williams," kindly loaned by Mr. D. Smart.

THE BANQUET.

At the conclusion of the concert, a number of the members of Court Peterborough and other friends of the Order proceeded to Faucher's Hotel, where a splendid repast had been prepared for them. The supper was a sumptuous one, and reflected credit on the proprietor of that house of entertainment. After justice had been done to the tempting edibles, a number of toasts were proposed and honored. Mr. R. J. Lee occupied the chair and Mr. Andrew McNeil the vice-chair. The first toast honored was that of the "Queen and Royal Family." The company sang the National Anthem, and Mr. D. Galletly sang "Hail to the Chief." The next toast was "the Medical Profession," coupled with the names of Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, and Mr. G.W. Morgan.

Dr. BELL expressed the pleasure he felt at being present, and said that Court Lakefield had now 60 members. He complimented Court Peterborough on the handsome hall which they now possessed.

Mr. G. W. MORGAN said that he felt flattered at having his name connected with the medical profession, and felt that he hardly deserved the honor. He returned thanks in a humorous speech.

Mr. A. D. Browne sang a song, and the chairman called on Mr. Long, of Waterford, for an address.

Mr. LONG stated it that afforded him great pleasure to be present. He had been surprised when he saw the town, for, although he knew something of the population and industries of Peterborough, he had not expected to see such an exhibition of enterprise as he had witnessed. He congratulated Court Peterborough on the character of its membership and on their new room. The room was one of the finest, or the finest, room of the Order in Canada. He thanked them for the reception they had given him. The Order had 3,000 members, yet among these men with different ideas, he knew of no Court or section where there was discord. The Order was never in better condition financially. One new Court had been instituted since the meeting of the High Court and nine more were ready to be established.

Mr. A. McNeil sang "Brown, the Tragedian," and in response to an encore, "The Rocky Road to Dublin." "The Ladies" were honored and Mr. Hooper responded. "The Representatives of Court Little John" was the next toast, and it was acknowledged by Mr. T. Rutherford and Mr. H. T. Holmes in neat speeches. Mr. McNeil sang "Castles in the Air." The toast of "The Press" followed and was responded to by the REVIEW representative. "The Prosperity of Court Lakefield" was drank, and Dr. Bell and Mr. Clarin responded. The Vice-Chairman, in complimentary terms, proposed "Bro. Long, P.W.H.C.R." Mr. Long responded and proposed the prosperity of "Court Peterborough," which was honored and responses were made by Mr. Lee, Mr. H. W. Watson and Mr. J. Fannig. Mr. Whitehair sang a song, and "The Health and Happiness of Every Forester's Home" was drank. Mr. Hooper said that Mr. McNeil having done so much towards the fitting up of the new hall and the success of the evening, they should drink his health, which proposal was heartily agreed to and carried out. Mr. McNeil returned thanks and gave a song. Mr. Sabin also sang a song, "I really can't keep Still." Mr. Galletly sang "The Barlee Brae," and, being encored, "The Kiss Ahint the Door." The next toast was "Our Host and Hostess," and Mr. A. D. Faucher responded. The company sang "God Save the Queen" and "Auld Lang Syne," and dispersed after spending a very pleasant night.

The opening services of the new hall and the entertainments in connection therewith were very successful, and Court Peterborough are to be congratulated upon that fact, as well as upon the possession of their very fine hall.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—It is positively stated that the powers are discussing the question of a renawal of the London conference, in order finally to settle the Egyptian financial question. It is stated that Germany is willing to join the conference if there is a reasonable prospect of bringing the matter to a successful issue.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Mr. J. J. Irwin, in his letter of Sept. 30th, tries to let himself down easy from the position he first took in regard to the musical instruments at the Toronto Exhibition. Having been driven into a corner, he makes a desperate attempt to hide his retreat, and defeat, but it will not succeed. His first statement—and the one I contradicted—was that the Dominion instruments were awarded the highest honors at the Toronto Industrial exhibition this year. I proved, over the signatures of the President and Secretary of the Industrial, that that statement was erroneous and was made in order to deceive the public, as no prize was either offered or awarded for musical instruments, and no judges were appointed to report on such instruments, at that Exhibition. He drops that point—it burned his fingers—and runs away to Australia and other distant places. Perhaps Mr. Irwin could give us more light in regard to those exhibitions also, and let us know whether at those exhibitions, where he now states his instruments carried off the "highest honors," there were any judges appointed to award the honors. There were no judges appointed at the Toronto exhibition, yet he states that they received such honors there, and what evidence have we that the "honors" obtained at the other exhibitions were not obtained by the same cheap means?

I have no need to blow about "diplomas" and "awards" to try to deceive the public, as the instruments I offer will sell themselves Their merits are appreciated and no deception is necessary to cause them to be purchased, but vendors of inferior instruments are compelled to adopt such means. The public should remember this, that Mr. Irwin stated that the judges at the Toronto exhibition this year awarded the Dominion the highest honors, and the President and Secretary state that no such judges were appointed. Is not that proof of trickery? Then what dependence can be placed on his statements? And what must the public think of instruments which need such tricks to uphold them? That is the point; no amount of vulgarity or attempted wit can evade it. I have proven what I stated. The instruments I offer to the public always give satisfaction to purchasers, which is a much better guarantee than any doubtful honors such as are boasted of by the agent of the Dominion Organs.

Yours, etc.,

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

THE more the subject of the navigable route by the Trent Valley is considered, the greater do its advantages appear. The usefulness of such a means of economical transport is obvious to anyone who considers the matter dispassionately and without prejudice. This is not only true of it as a great national work, as a method of facilitating the transport of the produce of the great West to the consumers of the populous East, but it is also of the utmost local importance as tending to the development of the districts through which it would pass.

We have now another instance of this local usefulness in the interesting letter by Mr. A. P. Cockburn, which we publish in another column. Our own information on the subject leads us to believe that he has good grounds for supposing that a very moderate expenditure would suffice to connect the Muskoka Lakes with the main line of the Trent Valley Navigation. This would insure the more rapid development of that important section of our Province, and would enable the settlers of a large portion of Muskoka to transport their produce in barges direct to the ports at the mouth of the St. Lawrence, without any transhipment being necessary, except into the ocean-going vessels about to cross the Atlantic. This would really be more beneficial to Muskoka than the construction of any railway. Of the similar benefit to the territory traversed by the main line of the T. V. C. we need not speak, beyond the merest allusion, for our readers are too well aware of it to require any further information on that point.

But these local benefits, though great, are not so important as the value of this navigable route in a national point of view. It is now known that our great North-West will this year have a large quantity of surplus grain to export. That this surplus will increase largely and rapidly in future years is obvious. It is therefore of the utmost consequence that a cheap means of transport should be obtained, and no other route can afford this so readily as the economical barge navigation of the Trent Valley and St. Lawrence route. Our ports, too, and their shipping would benefit largely by the trade that would be thus brought to them.

In short, by the opening of this route, at a comparatively trifling cost, an enormous advantage would accrue to the Dominion as well as to the localities that seem to be more immediately interested.

WHEN the Toronto News was puffing the Mowat "demonstration" before that event took place, in the eyes of Reformers it was "the leading independent paper of Toronto," but when it said some things unpleasant about that affair, and spoke plainly about Mr. Blake, it suddenly lost its leading position in their eyes and is being vigorously denounced.

A REFORM paper boasts that it could cite many instances of living manufacturers in London who became wealthy before the adoption of the N.P. We will not dispute that it could cite some instances, but few of them, we think, rolled up much wealth during the time of depression and Reform rule, when factories were doing little and men were idle.

The N. P. Again.

The Wanzer Sewing Machine Company in Hamilton is making further additions to its factory on Barton street, which will extend the entire length of the block from Elgin to Mary street. When finished the whole factory will be 600 feet in length, a portion of it 50 and part 60 feet wide, part two stories and part three stories high. The property and the new machinery it is to contain, says the Spectator, will represent about half a million of money.

A Somewhat Thrilling Act.

On Friday evening a woman got in a G.T.R. car, bound east. She held the baby up to the window near Wales. Suddenly it dropped from her hands and disappeared. The woman frantically jumped out of the car after it, the train's speed being about forty miles an hour. It was stopped as soon as possible and a freight train notified to pick up the mangled remains of the woman and child, as it was not expected that they were alive. Both were found, however, alive and but little the worse of the episode through which they had passed.—Kingston Whig.

Fatal Railway Collision.

WHEELING, Sept. 28.—This afternoon a Baltimore and Ohio express train and a freight train collided a mile west of Farmington. Both trains were at full speed. Six freight cars and the mail car of the passenger train were demolished. Five men were killed, three fatally, and several badly injured, all employes.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

PRAISE FROM RIVALS.

Prospectively this Saskatchewan region is one of the most promising portions of the American continent for settlers. It has a mild climate, notwithstanding it is situated about twenty degrees north of New York State. The latitude is about that of Labrador, which must be several degrees colder than the same latitude on the Pacific. There is a wide contrast between the Saskatchewan country and that traversed by the Southern Pacific. The latter crosses dry, arid sterile plains and desert regions that will only grow the hardy cacuts, while the former is rich and fertile, and susceptible of the highest cultivation.—Buffalo Times.

HE DESERVES CREDIT.

The Hamilton Spectator endeavors to prove that Judge O'Connor is a working man. It says he was once a common labourer, that he lost his leg by an accident, then fitted himself for a school teacher and afterwards qualified for a lawyer. This may be all true, and if Judge O'Connor has not forgotten whence he sprung, as too many who rise to wealth or position do, he deserves credit. Of his abilities as a lawyer we know nothing, but we have no fear that he will degrade the position he has been appointed to fill. If he does he will prove an exception.—Waterford Star (Reform).

OVERCROWDING THE PROFESSIONS.

One of the subjects discussed at a meeting of American scientists in Philadelphia recently was the increase of members of the learned professions, and a paper on the subject read by Prof. Warren showed that the rate of increase of lawyers, ministers and doctors was in excess of the rate of increase of the general population. —Fenelon Falls Gazette.

OUR INLAND NAVIGATION.

A Muskoka Branch of the Trent Valley Canal.

The following letter appears in the Gravenhurst, Muskoka, Banner:—

"DEAR SIR,—Your readers are familiar with the name of the "Trent Valley Canal," a project which the Government of Canada has undertaken, for the purpose of connecting the waters of Lakes Huron and Ontario, (by means of a mixed canal, lake and river system) via the Simcoe and Trent waters. But I do not suppose that it has occurred to them how deeply and happily Muskoka interests may possibly be effected by the consummation of the above mentioned enterprise.

At this juncture I shall only mention the fact that the distance across from the foot of Lake Muskoka to the Severn River is less than seven miles, and, further, that a cut of only one mile from our bay, here, will tap the Severn waters at Leg Lake—thence into Morrison Lake and Severn River. Our lakes being the highest can act as feeders from the short canal.

The River Severn is one of two or three possible routes between Lake Simcoe and the Georgian Bay; and as the Severn is the natural outlet of Lake Simcoe, it should stand a good chance of forming part of the Trent Valley Canal.

Assuming, or at least hoping, that such will be the case, it will then be a feasable and inexpensive undertaking to incorporate the Muskoka lakes into the above mentioned system. The public of Muskoka will readily appreciate and comprehend the magnitude of such a boon, if it should be their good fortune, some day, to realize what must now be to all investigators, even more than a dream.

Yours truly,
A. P. COCKBURN."

Commenting upon this letter, the Banner says:—

"Attention is directed to Mr. Cockburn's letter in another column. If the completion of the Trent Valley Canal is assured, and from the fact that the Dominion Government is committed to the scheme, and that a certain amount of work has already been done, it would seem that its consummation is reasonably certain. By Mr. Cockburn's project the greater part of the district would then be brought into direct water communication with the sea board. There are some thirteen municipalities situated on the shores of Muskoka lakes which would probably receive the most direct benefit, and it might be to their interest to petition the Government to send up an engineer to investigate the matter, and ascertain the practicability of the understanding."

Another Train Wrecking Attempt.

On Saturday night the third attempt made since the 17th of August to wreck the C.P.R. night express near St. Scholastique was frustrated by the sharp lookout of the engine driver. A number of ties and rails had been laid across the track and a serious disaster was barely escaped. The intention of the guilty persons seems to have been to wreck and rob the pay car which was expected to pass on Saturday night and on each of the occasions when the obstructions were placed near St. Scholastique as before. The Company will probably offer $1,000 reward for the apprehension of the criminals.

SHOT BY A BURGLAR.

The Assailant Escapes and is Pursued by a Number of Armed Men.

BROCKVILLE, Sept. 29.—Considerable excitement was caused here to-day by the report that a man had been shot at Bellamy's Station, nine miles from here, on the Canada Pacific Railway. The following are the facts of the case:—During the past few days burglaries have been perpetrated in the village of Irish Creek, on the C.P.R. Early on Sunday morning the burglars, three in number, entered the general store of Mr. C. Richards, of Irish Creek, but when they were alarmed by a boy sleeping in the store they took a hasty departure without securing any booty for their trouble. Mr. Richards, surmising that the burglars had gone towards Brockville, started in pursuit, taking eight men with him on a hand car. When they arrived at Bellamy's Station at 8 o'clock this afternoon they discovered three men sitting on the fence beside the railway. The hand car was stopped and Richards asked where they were going, whereupon one of the men pulled a revolver and shot him through the face, the ball entering his cheek on the left side and after passing through his mouth and dislodging a number of teeth, passed through his right cheek. He was at once placed on the hand car and brought to Brockville, and the alarm was given in the neighborhood where the affair occurred. The Chief of Police accompanied by two officers and a number of men armed with revolvers and rifles, immediately started for the scene of the shooting, and hopes are entertained that the guilty parties will be captured. The wounded man is now lying at the St. Lawrence Hall here and it is expected that he may recover.

Afloat on the Ocean.

The Hon. Francis George Hay, who died last week of typhod fever, was a man of somewhat varied experience of life. He served before the mast for three years in the Navy, and, at the time of his death, was in the service of the British-India Steam Navigation Company. One, at least, of his adventures is worth recording. One of the company's steamers was a few miles off Aden. Mr. Hay was in command of the watch about 4 a.m., when he fancied he noticed a boat drift by and that he heard a faint scream. He at once stopped the vessel, lowered a boat, and proceeded to search for the castaway. He was rewarded by discovering the dead body of a lady and a living child tied together in a boat, which was half full of water. The child he adopted, and she is now in the charge of his family. Oddly enough, he was never able to discover her birth or parentage, or even the name of the vessel on which she had been a passenger. This sounds like a chapter from a sensational romance; but it is true, notwithstanding.—London Truth.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

CHOLERA
—IS—
COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Her white hand caressed the head upon her bosom, and clasping her mother's waist, the girl said distinctly:

"Let it be as you wish. My mother's happiness is far dearer to me than my own."

"Oh my darling! Do you mean it? Would you give up your lover for the sake of your poor desolate mother?"

She bent back the fair face and gazed eagerly into the girl's eyes.

"Mother, I should never cease to love him. Life would not be so sweet as it looked this morning, when I first learned he had given me his heart; but duty is better than joy, and I owe more to my suffering mother than to him, or to myself. If it adds to the cup of your many sorrows to give me even to him, I will try to take the bitter for my portion, and then sweeten as best I may the life that hitherto you have devoted to me. Mother, do with your child, as seems best to your dear heart."

She was very white, but her voice was firm, and the fidelity of her purpose was printed in her sad eyes.

"God bless my sweet, faithful, trusting child!"

Mrs. Laurance could not restrain her tears, and Mr. Palma shaded his eyes with his hand.

"My little girl, make your choice. Decide between us."

She moved a few steps, as if to free herself, but in vain; Regina's arms tightened around her.

"Between you? On no! I cannot. Both are too dear."

"To whom does your heart cling most closely?"

"Mother ask me no more. There is my hand. If you can consent to give it to him, I shall be—oh! how happy! If it would grieve you too much, then, mother hold it, keep it. I will never murmur, or complain, for now, knowing that he loves me, I can bear almost anything."

Tears were streaming down the mother's cheeks, and pressing her lips to the white mournful face of her daughter, she beckoned Mr. Palma to her side. For a moment she hesitated, held up the fair fingers and kissed them, then as if distrusting herself, quickly laid the little hand in his.

"Take my darling; and remember that she is the most precious gift a miserable mother ever yielded up."

After a moment Mrs. Laurance whispered something, and very soon the lovely face flushed a brilliant rose, the soft tender eyes were lifted timidly to Mr. Palma's face, and as he drew her to him, she glided from her mother's arms into his, feeling his lips rest like a blessing from God on her pure brow.

"Does my Lily love me best?"

Only the white arms answered his whisper, clasping his neck; and Mrs. Laurance and Mr. Chesley left them, with the dewy roses overhead swinging like centres in the glorious autumn morning, and the sacred chime of church bells dying in silvery echoes, among the olive and myrtle that clothed the distant hills.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

In consenting to bestow Regina's hand on Mr. Palma, Mrs. Laurance had stipulated that the marriage should be deferred for one year, alleging that her daughter was yet very young, and having been so long separated she wished her to remain with her, at least for some months. Mr. Palma reluctantly assented to conditions which compelled him to return to America without Regina, and in November Mrs. Laurance removed to Milan, where she desired that her child's fine voice and musical talent should be trained and developed by the most superior instruction.

Swiftly the twelve months sped away and in revisiting the Mediterranean shores, linked by so many painful reminiscences with the period of her former sojourn, Mrs. Laurance, despite the efforts of her faithful and fond companion, seemed to sink into a confirmed melancholy.

By tacit agreement no reference was ever made to her past life, but a shadow, chill and unlifting, brooded over her, and the sleeplessness that no opiate could conquer, a sleeplessness born of heart ache which no spell could narcotize, robbed her cheek of its bloom, and left weary lines on her patient hopeless face.

Mr. Chesley had returned with Mr. Palma to the United States, and late in the following autumn Mrs. Laurance and Regina sailed for New York.

The associations of the voyage were peculiarly painful to the unhappy wife, whose lips never unclosed upon the topic that engrossed her thoughts, and soon after their arrival, her physician advised a trip to Florida or Cuba, until the rigour of the winter had ended, as an obstinate cough again aroused fears of consumption.

To accompany her mother, Regina postponed her marriage until June, and notwithstanding Mr. Palma's avowed dissatisfaction and earnest protest, spent the winter and spring in the West Indies. Mrs. Laurance gradually regained health, but not cheerfulness, and in May, when they returned to New York, preparations were made for the wedding, which in deference to her mother's feelings, Regina desired should be very quiet.

In accordance with her daughter's wishes, she had taken for the summer, a villa on the Hudson, only a short distance from the city, and a week before the day appointed for the marriage, they took possession of their country home.

As the time rapidly approached, Mrs. Laurance's depression of spirits seemed to increase; she jealously counted the hours that remained, and her sad eyes rested with fateful foreboding on her daughter's happy countenance.

On the afternoon previous to the wedding the mother sat on the verandah overlooking the velvet lawn that stretched between the house and the river. The sun was setting, and the rich, red glow rested upon the crest of distant hills, and smote the sails of two vessels gliding close to the opposite shore.

On the stone step sat Regina, her head leaning against her mother's knee, her hand half burried in the snowy locks of Hero, who crouched at her side.

"Mr. Palma and Uncle Orme will not arrive until noon; but Olga comes early to-morrow, and mother, I know you will be glad to learn that her brother has at last persuaded her to abandon her intention of joining the———"

She did not complete the sentence, for, glancing up she that Mrs. Laurance's melancholy eyes were fixed on the crimson sky and purpling hills far away, and she knew that her thoughts were haunting gray ashy crypts of the bygone.

For some moments silence prevailed, and the mother and child presented a singular contrast. The former was clad in some violet coloured fabric, and her wealth of golden hair was brushed smoothly back and twisted into a loose knot, where her daughter's fingers had inserted a moss rose, with clustering buds and glossy leaves.

Destructive Cloud-Burst in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 29.—A cloud-burst occurred at Pachuca on the 28th, causing a terrible inundation. The amalgamating works were destroyed, and considerable silver under treatment lost. It is estimated thirty persons were killed. A great deal of property was destroyed and many cattle drowned.

THE BLYTH MURDER.

Verdict of Manslaughter Returned Against the Three Beamishes.

GODERICH, Sept. 29.—At the Assize Court this morning the Blyth murder case was concluded, the evidence being finished on Saturday night too late for his Lordship to charge the jury. His Lordship charged the jury at great length, going over the evidence in detail. His charge was rather against the prisoners. The jury retired, and after an hour's absence, returned with a verdict of manslaughter against all three prisoners, recommending them to the mercy of the court.

The father, James Beamish, is a delicate, feeble man, over 60 years of age. He completely broke down during the charge, and his moans could be heard all over the court room. His son, Henry James, acted very kindly to his father. He seemed to pay more attention to caring for his father than about his own fate. He sat holding his father's head, and bathing him with cold water while the jury were out, and tried to comfort him by saying he hoped the jury would take a merciful view of his case.

His Lordship sentenced the father and Henry James to wenty years in the penitentiary, and Thomas, the younger son, to five years. Henry James, on being asked what he had to say, said he had committed his case to Almighty God, who alone knew all the truth, and who would acquit him on the great day of judgment of being the cause of Mr. Main's death. The father had to be supported by his son while he received the sentence of the court.

MURDER OR ACCIDENT?

Several Men in a Row—The Body of One Found in the River.

QUEBEC, Sept. 29.—Joseph Desrosiers, aged 25, a native of Levis, and a seaman on board the Government steamship Napoleon III, received his week's wages on Saturday evening, and after leaving all but a couple of dollars of it with his mother at Levis, returned to the city with one Cote for the purpose of having a spree. They visited various low taverns about Lower Town, drinking freely until finally they reached that kept by a man named Laflamme in Sault au Matelot street about midnight, where they fell in with three others named Bastien, Martineau and Foisy. An altercation ensued between Cote and Martineau, which was continued later on in the street, Desrosiers and Foisy interfering. What followed is still wrapped in mystery, but Desrosiers' body was found floating in the river at the end of Dalhousie street yesterday morning, and now the question is whether he was murdered and thrown in or whether, in his intoxicated condition, he accidentally walked into the water while trying to find his way back to the ship. His body bears all the traces of drowning, but a post-mortem will be held to-day. His companion, Cote, and two other persons have been arrested and the police are looking out for others. Cote, who bears the marks of very severy ill-usage, claims that he and Desrosiers were brutally assaulted and kicked, that he lost sight of Desrosiers in the row, and that he shortly afterwards lost his own senses and remained on one of the wharves all night, only returning to Levis in the morning.

SMASHED TO ATOMS.

Fearful Ride on a Runaway Engine in the Rockies.

BATTLEFORD, N. W. T., Sept. 24.—A serious accident lately occurred on the C. P. R. at the second crossing of the Kicking Horse Pass. An engine specially fitted for work on the steep grades which occur on the C. P. R. in the mountains was taking down two carloads of material. The grade is one of the steepest in America, being 238 feet in the mile. The engine got beyond control and rushed down the grade at a speed of about thirty miles an hour. As the place was known to be a dangerous one, a spur track had been built, so that in case of an accident such as this the train might run upon it instead of upon the bridge below, which is in course of construction. At the end of the spur is a big rock, on which the engine ran and was shivered into a thousand pieces. On the train were about seventy workmen going out to the front, and as the train rushed down the incline they thought to save themselves by jumping. Unfortunately they alighted on rough ground and rocks, and nearly every one received more or less injury in the way of broken arms, legs, and ribs, and severe bruises. One of the sufferers, a Swede, was so injured that his leg had to be amputated, and he has since died. Out of the whole number who were on the train, only five or six, who did not attempt to jump, escaped from injury.

COBOURG

Fire.—Shortly after twelve on Tuesday morning a fire was noticed in the cellar of D. York's barber shop and fancy store, which is situated in one of the largest blocks of stores in this town. The firemen were promptly called out and after half an hour's hard work the flames were with difficulty subdued, saving Cobourg from a very disastrous fire. D. York's loss is about $200, mostly from water and smoke.

Burned to Death.

A three-year-old child of Mr. Laderonte, cabman, of Rose street, Ottawa, met a horrible death on Sunday night. While its mother was upstairs the child procured a box of matches and lit them on the stove and its clothes caught fire. Mrs. Laderonte heard her child screaming and ran down stairs, where she found the child lying at the door screaming bitterly, and its clothes a mass of flames. The woman extinguished the fire as rapidly as possible, but the child was so badly burned that it died in a few hours afterwards.

Ingenious Idea.

It is told of a man in Connecticut who wanted to put a water pipe through a drain several feet below the surface of the ground, without digging up the drain. To accomplish it he tied a string to a cat's leg, thrust her into one end of the drain, and giving a terrific "scat," the feline quickly appeared at the other end, and the pipe was drawn through the drain by means of the line, thus saving considerable expense.

A Great Swindler.

We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Town Council.

A regular meeting of the Town Council will be held at 7.30 o'clock to-morrow evening.

Personal.

Mr. Max Toellner, manager for Mr. Chas. M. Caughy, the art lecturer, is in town making arrangements for two lectures on "Rome the Eternal City" and "Historic Paris" on Monday and Tuesday next week.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh, northwesterly to northerly winds; fine cooler weather.

Through Freight.

The Grand Trunk railway have made arrangement whereby freight, being delivered at the offices of the company at Montreal, will be delivered to the consignee in Peterborough at same hour the next day. This will be a boon to our merchants.

Challenge Sent.

As announced in Tuesday's REVIEW, the Peterborough First Twelve have sent a challenge to the Ontario's of Toronto, who are at present the proud holders of the intermediate championship of the world, to play a match with them before the close of the present season. It is to be hoped that the Ontario's will accept, as a match between these two clubs would prove to be a decidedly good one, and the result of the challenge will be awaited with interest.

Fine Wool Gloves in all colors and patterns at Andrew McNeil's, George St.

Go and Enjoy Yourselves.

The ladies connected with St. Peter's Cathedral are arranging to have a grand evening social on Tuesday, Oct. 14th., in the Opera House. Vocal and instrumental music will be provided and several new and novel features will take their places in the programme. After the concert, refreshments will be indulged in and the entertainment will be concluded by a sociable dance. All those who attend may rely on being warmly welcomed.

"That's What I Said."

The Brockville Recorder contained the following notice of the appearance of the two comedians, Devere and Allen, in that town:—

"George Devere and Harry Allen, the two American artists, now well and favourably known to our citizens, in their black face specialities created no end of merriment. They appeared in a comedy act entitled, "That's What I Said," introducing double and single trick banjo and bone playing, songs, funny sayings, dances, &c. Both these young men are versatile artists, Mr. Devere being one of the best bone players we have ever seen, while Mr. Allen handles the banjo with equal ability. Both being good vocalists they are together capable of furnishing an entertainment in themselves."

More New Machinery.

We were mistaken in stating that Mr. Wand's new sash and door planer was manufactured in Guelph. It is from the factory of Messrs. Cowan & Co., of Galt. Mr. Cowan, who is now in town, has also just placed a new planer, matcher and tenoning maching in Mr. Baptie's factory. Mr. Cowan is on his way home from the Provincial Exhibition at Ottawa, where these machines were awarded the first prize. He speaks very favourably of the exhibition and of the extent of business done there, not only by his own firm, but also by exhibitors generally. The fair was, he says, a great success.

Rome Illustrated.

Mr. Chas. M. Caughy will lecture in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings next. Of his lecture on "Rome" the Toronto World of Sept. 30th says:—

"The crowd that visited the People's Theatre last night enjoyed a rare treat. Chas. M. Caughy took them in imagination on a trip across the Atlantic to Italy, and after showing them the bay and city of Naples, led them to Rome, where a couple of hours were spent examining the wonders and admiring the grandeur of this famous city. Guided by the lecturer, the audience visited the coliseum, churches and museums of Rome, read the inscriptions upon the tombs in the catacombe, saw the Popes upon the Papal throne in the Vatican palace, beheld the combats of the gladiators and witnessed the persecutions of the early Christians. The entertainment is highly moral as well as interesting and instructive, and should be visited."

If you want a nice Calf-Skin Glove try Habiliment Hall.

A NEW RINK.

Removal and Improvement of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink.

On Tuesday evening there was a special meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company, at the Grand Central Hotel, with the President, Mr. Ferguson, in the chair. There was a full representation of the shareholders.

The President explained the object of the meeting. The directors had considered the state of the rink and found it necessary to remove. One proposition was to purchase a lot on Charlotte treet, to remove the old rink there, to enlarge it and to brick it. For this purpose it was proposed to raise $2,000 of new stock, while the old stockholders would contribute the present building and property, with the cash in hand, over $500, to represent the old stock. Another suggestion was to purchase a lot at the corner of Edinburgh and Water streets, and to remove the rink to it. This scheme would be less costly, as only $500 in extra stock would be required. Some canvasing for new stock have obtained subscription to the extent of $1,750 and the remainder of the $2,000 could be obtained.

There was a full discussion as to the rival merits of the two localities and plans. Other sites were also suggested, but were shown not to be suitable, the directors having very fully considered and investigated these matters.

A ballot was taken as between the two plans, the result being a majority of 124 to 26 in favour of the Charlotte street site and the $2,000 new stock.

This was a very decisive vote, for even if all the stock unrepresented at the meeting had been voted with the minority (a most unlikly supposition), there would still have been a majority of 2 to 1 in favour of the removal to Charlotte street.

It was understood that the Directors were to proceed at once with obtaining the small amount of stock still required and making the changes resolved upon.

The shareholders then separated to meet again at the annual meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 14th.

There was a general feeling that Peterborough would now have a rink more commodious and more readily accessible than the old one, though it was by no means to be despised.

The Mets.

A photograph of the first twelve of the Metropolitan lacrosse club of Ottawa, is on exhibition at the City Clothing Store. Mr. H. LeBrun, President of the Peterborough lacrosse club, has received the notice of an excursion to be run from Ottawa to New York and Boston, on the fourth and sixth, under the management of the Mets. The Mets will play the first twelve of the New York and Boston clubs. No doubt our lacrosse boys will anxiously watch for the result of these matches.

More Pedestrianism.

Early this morning a foot race was run on the Driving Park between Messrs. Ed. Brown and C. Stapleton, jr. It seems that these two gentlemen have long doubted each other's powers of endurance, and they eventually decided to have a final test on the Driving Park. They agreed to start by "mutual consent." Mr. P. Myles gave the word and the two competitors sprang forward. Mr. Stapleton led out from the first and kept in advance until the finish, coming in an easy winner. The nominal stake was a bottle of champagne. Who is going to challenge Mr. Stapleton?

Chit Chat.

—Beautiful breezes and warm weather.

—The Lindsay Central Exhibition opens today.

—Mr. D. Belleghem is building a spirit cabinet for Dr. Van Dorn. It will be used on Saturday night, when the doctor will expose the trickery of the soi diant spiritualists.

—Mr. Jas. Sheehy, chief clerk at Mr. J. Hackett's dry goods store, has returned to town from his pleasure trip to Boston and New York.

—The Foot Ball Club commences regular practice this afternoon and will continue to train every afternoon at 4.30 o'clock until next Thursday. On Friday they will take a rest and on Saturday they will play the Torontos.

—The Cavan, Hope, Hamilton, N. Monaghan and S. Monaghan Agrirultural Exhibition opens at Baillieboro to-day.

The Dumb to Speak.

The Brockville Daily Times of July 28th contains the following paragraph under the caption "The Dumb to Speak":—

"Mr. W. L. Van Dorn, who is the orator at the liver pad concerts, has also figured in sundry wonderful instantaneous cures. In August last year he was at Lapeer, Mich., when a man who had been dumb from the effects of a paralptic stroke for over eighteen months was brought before him. The doctor placed him under powerful mesmeric influences, and finally, after much perseverance, was rewarded by hearing the patient speak audibly. Our information was not gleaned from the doctor, but from the Lapeer Democrat, which published the wonderful cure at the time. A number of papers also gave publicity to the case, and among them Harpers' Monthly and several scientific journals."

We may just add that several newspapers throughout the country record miraculous ures performed by Dr. Van Dorn. In one instance a rheumatic old man, hobbling with crutches, was brought to the doctor. He placed the man under very strong psychological influence, took his crutches away from him, and the man walked out to all appearance cured. On Saturday night, at Bradburn's Opera House, the doctor will take several invalids from the audience, and those who are capable of becoming "subjects" the doctor will relieve from their complaints. Dr. Van Dorn evidently possesses wonderful mesmeric power and animal magnetism. Those who witnessed the side splitting scenes at Madame De Montord's entertainments in Peterborough some eight years ago will now have another opportunity of spending a couple of hours of solid fun.

POLICE COURT.

D. & D.

THURSDAY, Oct. 2.—James Daniel was charged with having been drunk and disorderly in a public place. He pleaded not guilty. Constable Pidgeon was sworn and Daniel was fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

DRUNK.

Martin Foley was charged with having been drunk. He urged that it was the first time he had tasted liquor in three months. He was discharged.

ASSAULT.

The Wm. Doris assault case, enlarged from from Tuesday, came up before the court this morning. Mr. G. W. Hatton appeared for the prosecution and Mr. J. O'Meara for the prisoner.

CATHARINE DORIS was sworn: I am the wife of the prisoner. We have eight children and live in the Township of Otonabee. My husband is a farmer. I have been compelled to leave several times before on account of his rough conduct. On Thursday last my husband went to Peterborough with a load of grain. I was uneasy about his coming home drunk. He returned at about four o'clock in the afternoon. I saw him in the barn yard showing signs of being drunk. I was ironing at the table and was fearful that he would be violent. He is violent when drunk. He had been drunk about a month before when I had to fly from the house. I stayed away for a night and a day. He was slightly affected with delerium tremens. The doctor was sent for and I returned to him. On this Thursday he came into the house, took off his hat and put it on my head. He handed me his goggles and I hung them up. I asked him what price he got for the grain. He did not answer. He then went into the dining room and sat on the sofa. I then went to him and commenced to chat to him, thinking to keep him in good humor. I showed him a book and told him the book agent would come for the pay to-night. I asked him to let me pull off his boots, with which request he complied. We then had supper. He went to another part of the house and after a short time came back. He used violent language, struck the table and demanded what I was saying about his friends. I replied that I had not said a word about his friends. He called me a liar and said that he would finish me this time. I ran out of the house and he pursued me. He caught me and forced me back to the house. He shoved me into the bed room and while he was shutting the door I tried to escape by jumping out of the window. I did not succeed. He jumped and swore and struck the bed close to where I sat. My little boy came in and entreated him not to kill me. I beseeched him to spare my life. I am enciente and was unable to defend myself. He would not cease his violence and again said, "I'll finish you this time." I thought he was going to kill me. I begged him to spare me and told him that he might not have me long. I prayed to God to save my life, and I am confident that He answered my prayer. My little girl came to the room and said that the book agent had come for the money. He calmed somewhat. My boy brought me a drink of water, and my husband went out in the kitchen. I went to the dining room, rested for a minute, and then escaped from the house. I went to Powers', I obtained a drink of water and then went to my mother's, where I have been ever since.

To Mr. O'Meara—I think we were in the bed room about three minutes. He did not strike me in the bed room. We agree fairly well, but sometimes have differences of opinion. I never abused his friends to the neighbours. While bringing me back to the house he struck and shoved me on the back. When not under the influence of liquor we live on pretty good terms, but if I interfere in the government of the children he abuses me. It is less than a mile to Powers' place. I am afraid to live with my husband. He has taken the pledge twice and broken it.

A little son was sworn and corroborated the evidence of the first witness.

The prisoner was committed for trial subject to bail at $500. He was also bound over to keep the peace at $500.

ALL ABOUT A LOT.

The Story of a Bit of Real Estate, and the Tribulations that Followed It.

The history of lawsuits in general are interesting only to the parties whose individual rights are involved, but the one in which the name of John McIntosh appears for almost a quarter of a century as one of the principals, is replete with incidents sufficient almost to furnish the ground work of an interesting romance. About 24 years ago, John McIntosh, by trade a tailor, was the owner of a certain plot of ground on the corner Trinity and King streets. Being in want of money he mortgaged the property to Mr. John Leys, barrister, and with the money thus procured left the city for the States. Mr. Leys finding that McIntosh did not rturn, took possession of the property under the mortgage, paying all the taxes and other charges, getting the necessary power from the Court of Chancery. Three years ago McIntosh returned to Toronto, and seeing his old property still a vacant lot, surrounded it with a high board fence, and built a wooden shanty on it in which he and his family took up their residence. Mr. Leys, finding one day that McIntosh had settled on his old claim, appealed to the Court of Chancery for power of ejectment. Blake, Kerr, Lash & Cassels championed the cause of McIntoth, while Delamere, Black Reesor & English looked after the interest of Mr. Leys. The action dragged its weary way through the court, until May 31, 1883, when Judge Ferguson granted an order calling for McIntosh to give up procession, the property to be sold, and he to receive a certain share, McIntosh refused to, until the sheriff forced his way into the wooden stronghold and landed he and his family on the street. Even then he was not subdued. The land was duly sold, but when it came time for McIntosh to sign certain deeds giving over the land to the purchaser he flatly refused to do so. After another year's wrestling with him Delamere, Black, Reesor & English made a motion for his committal for contempt, which was granted last week, and the bold McIntash was sent to jail to cure his obstinacy. One of the reasons given by McIntosh for not signing the transfer deeds is that the property was sold for less than its value.—Toronto Telegram.

THE SUICIDE MANIA.

Attempted Self-Destruction by General Throop, of Detroit.

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—Gen. Wm. A. Throop, one of the best known citizens of Detroit, attempted to end his life at 2 o'clock this morning, by shooting himself in the head. His wound is not necessarily fatal, although it is pronounced by the attending physicians as a very dangerous one. Gen. Throop is a member of the firm of Lapham & Throop, stationers and printers, Woodward avenue. At the above mentioned hour a noise was heard in the store by a neighbouring merchant, who believed that there were burglars in the premises. A voice was heard, and without making an investigation a police whistle was blown. A few minutes later a pistol was fired inside of the building, and as several policemen heard the shot they ran to the store. They gained an entrance, and in a room over the store they found a man sitting against the wall bleeding from a wound in the head, and in a very weak condition. He was at once identified as the junior member of the firm, and a close examination showed that he was shot in the head. Gen. Throop was questioned as to how it occurred, but it was difficult to get an intelligent answer from him. He appeared to be in great pain, and asked to be sent to an hospital, which was done. The reason of what is apparently attempted suicide is not at present known. Neither his wife nor business partner can assign any cause for the act.

STRUCK A ROCK.

A Steamer Goes Down in Thirteen Fathoms of Water—The Crew Safe.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 30.—A telegram received by Lloyd's agents reports that the steamer Finchley struck and sunk off Isaac's harbour yesterday morning, in seven seven fathoms of water, Another despatch received later stater the steamer was a total wreck, having struck on the middle ledge of the south-east breaker, off Country harbour, and sunk in ten fathoms. The captain and crew are at Isaac's harbour. The Finchley, Captain Garston, was from Coosaw, S. C., with a cargo of pho-phate rock, bound to the United Kingdom, and was to call at Sydney for bunker coal. She was an iron steamer of 1,265 tons register, built in Sunderland in 1881 registered at London, and owned by Edmund H. Watts of that place.

A telegram from Isaac's Harbour to-night states that the steamer lies west of Island Harbour, in about thirteen fathoms of water. There is not much probability of saving any of the cargo except by the aid of divers. The ship struck during a thick fog and began to leak badly. Captain Garston, seeing she was in a sinking condition, engaged fishermen to run her into the mud that she might be kept afloat. She sank, however, before a place of safety could be reached, the crew barely escaped with their lives. The men are to be forwarded to Halifax.

Another Railway to Ottawa.

A telegram from Toronto to the Ottawa Sun says:—Arrangements are being made here to push to completion without delay the railway, known as the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway, which will run to Ottawa from a point at the terminus of the old Nipising Railway through the following counties: Victoria, Haliburton, Peterborough, Hastings, Addington, Frontenac and Renfrew. This road was started in 1880 under the name of the Nipising Railway extension. The enterprise is projected by Toronto and New York capitalists.

The Coachman Again.

TROY, Oct. 1.—W. B. Bartholomew, a coachman employed by W. J. Simmons, a wealthy business man, secrectly married Simmons' adopted daughter, Mary Emma Babcock, 19 years old, on Friday night. Bartholomew is 30, and was born in Schoharie County. Simmons is a widower with no children, and resides in a fine mansion in the suburbs. The couple are preparing to leave Troy. Simmons was not informed of the marriage until this afternoon.

A MOWAT JOURNAL.

It will be remembered that the members of the Mowat Cabinet, in order to force the fraudulent Lyon upon the electors of Algoma at the last election, sent to that constituency a number of their officials to corrupt those who were purchasable, to disfranchise those who could not be bought, and to subsidize or buy up the local press. These officials were in close and constant correspondence with their chiefs, and with their connivance the gross illegalities were committed that seated Mr. Lyon for one iniquitous session, that he might run away from his usurped position as soon as there was a prospect of appearing before a judge. It is not surprising to learn that one or more of these official electioneerers has been found guilty of a libel of a very disgraceful, filthy and scurilous nature. It is not of much consequence that these base official tools should be fined, for they will be none the poorer, and the people of Ontario, who will have to pay the amount under some device, will find it a very small addition to the huge bills they will have to foot for the purchase of Lyon's seat for one session. Nor is it of much consequence that the vileness of these officials should be exposed by judge and jury, for these men had no character to lose, and the law has only expressed the public conviction as to these tools of the Mowat Government.

But the matter is of importance to the people of Ontario as affording authoritative proof before a law court of the actions of these official hirelings of the Provincial Administration, and throwing light upon the corrupt dealings of Mr. Mowat's colleagues with the constituency of Algoma. Mr. Patullo, who described himself as a Commissioner to Algoma, and other witnesses, testified that he bought the Port-Arthur Herald just before the election, that he took an active part in its management, and that he arranged to do this under the fraudulent use of other names, so that this purchased organ of Mr. Mowat might masquerade as an independent exponent of public opinion. This testimony, wrung from one of the basest of the culprits, most fully corroborates the official cypher correspondence that passed between these official electioneerers and the members of the Mowat administration. It will be remembered that this man Patullo officially consulted his chief as to the purchase of this or some other newspaper, and as to the dirty trick of hiding the transaction so that they might stab political opponents in the dark and misrepresent public opinion. It is not strange that such strenuous efforts were made to conceal the rest of this disgraceful official correspondence, so that the Cabinet consent to the iniquitous proposition should not be made public. Every possible manœuvre was practiced to effect this concealment. The telegrams read in the House could not be contradicted, so they were falsely asserted to be stolen. That no more might come to light all sorts of tricks were played; committees of the House were prevented from sitting; information even as to the names of the senders and receivers of these telegrams, for which the people of Ontario have to pay, was refused to the Public Accounts Committee; the Great Seal was set up to prevent the production of the incriminating documents before the law courts, on the ground that they were correspondence on the public service; and then their production was refused because they were only private messages.

It is not strange that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues endeavoured to hide the fact that they hired newspapers with the public money that they subsidized with our money libellous journalists, and that they did this under false names in order to misrepresent public opinion in the constituency. Their whole proceedings in Algoma were corrupt and fraudulent, and this revelation gives only a specimen of their evil practices.

THE "machine" is at work again. A move is being made by Reformers to head off Dr Dowling in South Renfrew and secure a seat for the Hon. T. W, Anglin, formerly Speaker of the Commons and printer for the Mackenzie Government, in the House of Commons. The plan, as proposed by a Reform paper, is for Mr, Cameron, the present M.P., to resign and contest the constituency for Mr. Mowat, thus leaving the seat in the Commons vacant to give Mr. Anglin an opportunity to try to regain a constituency. Since the "kick" in South Ontario, the "machine" is more cautious and is feeling its way in South Renfrew.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

REFORM RUIN.

It will be found that when Liberal-Conservatives think it necessary to organize a demonstration to their chiefs it is based on more tangible public service than any which Mowatism has yet rendered. For under that regime not only have the savings of the past been dissipated, and present opportunities marred or ignored, but the prospects of the future have been so mortgaged with responsibilities, that it will be difficult for any future administrator to escape from the toils which have been woven on so many hands with such preverse and malignant ingenuity.—Winnipeg Times.

THE "REFORM REVIVAL."

The Toronto Globe sees signs of a great Reform revival throughout the country and expects showers of blessings shortly. At certain recent political gatherings "the light of conviction illumined the features which doubt had darkened. It was especially remarkable that no one appeared any longer to believe in the N.P." Hope does tell flattering tales. Unfortunately the Globe has been seeing these signs for a long time past and often in richest abundance just before some signal overthrow of all its calculations. The light of conviction has to illumine a great many physiognomies yet before the position of the party now in power is seriously affected.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

IMMIGRANTS TO THE U.S.

Minnesota and Dakota have this year not welcomed half so many immigrants as applied for homesteads in 1883. This has been a bad season notwithstanding the large amount of money spent by the various railroads in advertising the country abroad.—Minneapolis Canadian-American.

A HARD STUDY.

It is a queer world, with queer people in it. The profoundest study of mankind is mankind itself.—Ottawa Sun.

THE REFORM "POLICY."

Give them power, and "shut your eyes and open your mouth and see what the gods will give you." This is really the Liberal programme. There is no other, and there can be no other. No one knows better than Mr. Blake that he dare not set aside any of the leading features of the National Policy. He cannot go back to the Mackenzie 17½ per cent.; nor can he destroy the imposts that the financiers on both sides find it necessary to meet the national obligations. They railed against the trade legislation of Sir John A. Macdonald, but now the Reformers, as they think they are likely to get back to the treasury benches, rail no longer at it, but endeavour to draw the people's attention aside to the consideration of dead issues.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

BETTER AS WE ARE.

Why should we vote for Edward Blake & Co? Is it that we might behold a sorry spectacle of an "organized hypocrisy," a government of false pretences, doing what it has long professed to undo? If the country can get nothing by the coming elections but a change of men, we had far better remain as we are.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

LAKEFIELD.

From our own Correspondent.

YOUNG'S POINT DAM.—The major portion of this fine structure now approaches completion, the main dam from the Douro side of the river to Mr. Chalmer's mill being complete except a few finishing touches. This is one of the most if not the most substantial structure for the purposes for which it is designed on the Trent waters. The engineering supervision of the construction of this dam has been done alternately by Messrs. Weller and Greenwood. Mr. Weller having charge part of the time and Mr. Greenwood being sent in Mr. Weller's absence. These young men in their profession are a credit not only to Mr. Rubidge, the chief or superintending engineer, but to the public service. They have at times seemed severe and very exact to the foremen during the work, but they were doing their duty to the public in a quiet and unostentatious manner, and the result is that a public work approaches the finish which nearly every one declares to be everlasting. Visitors to this work are unanimous in the expression of their admiration of the workmanship, and substantial appearance of it. They also greatly admire and speak highly of the timber in the work, this part has been under the care and supervision of Mr. John Dinwoodie, of Lakefield, who has been unremitting in his attention to his duties.

HURT.—Mr. John Dinwoodie of this place hurt his back severely last week rolling a log and has been laid up for a few days, but is recovering and we hope will be all right shortly.

GOVERNMENT WORKS.—Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintendent of Trent works, has a couple of gangs of men erecting and placing piers and booms on the water between Lakefield and Young's Point, for the purpose of assisting navigation. These piers and booms will be a great boon, not only to boat owners, but to lumbermen. By dividing portions of the water-way into two parts a navigable channel will be kept for boats, without interferring with saw logs and timber drives. If this is accomplished, of which there seems no doubt, a very great and permanent benefit to the public will be the result. Mr. Rogers has taken hold of this matter with promptness and energy.

MEN SCARCE.—Working men in this part cannot complain of bad times. Provisions of nearly all kinds are reasonable in price at least and work plentiful. Good men notwithstanding good wages are scarce. At least 50 men willing to work could find constant and profitable employment in and about Lakefield and Young's Point. A large number of men are wanted at the Lakefield and Young's Point dams and at the building of the new piers at the Young's Point bridge, and other places, so far as the working man is concerned, are good in this part of the County of Peterborough. No room for grumbling now.

FORESTERS' MEETING.—The semi-monthly meeting of Court Lakefield, No. 43, will be held in the Foresters' Hall, Lakefield, on Thursday evening next, the 9th inst., at 8 o'clock.

ORANGE MEETING.—The regular monthly meeting of L.O.L., No. 122, will be held in the Orange Hall, Lakefield, on Monday evening next, the 6th of Oct, at 7.30 sharp.

INDIAN RIVER.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SERIOUS INJURY.—At about two miles west of this place, on Tuesday afternoon, an old man named Millan, 65 years of age, was struck by a down freight train. He was struck on the stomach and rolled down an embankment When he was picked up it was found that he had sustained a severe blow on the head. He was carried to the train where he vomited considerable quantities of blood. The train hands took charge of him and took him to Norwood, where the necessary medical attendance was procured.

THE MYSTERIOUS MOTER.

Keely Explains the Power of a Pint of Air and Six Drops of Water.

John W. Keely, the inventor of the Keely motor, who has denied himself to all interviews for four years, has explained at length the wonderful experiments with his new motor gun which were made at Sandy Hook, Saturday, at the expense of the Government. "Stripping the process of all technical terms," said the inventor, "the motor gun is simply this: I take water and air, two mediums of different specific gravity, and produce from them by generation an effect under vibrations that liberates from the air and water an interatomic ether. The energy of this ether is boundless, and can hardly be comprehended. The specific gravity of the ether is about four times lighter than that of hydrogen gas, the lightest gas so far discovered. The gun I used at Sand Hook was a breech-loading rifle, weighing 500 pounds. It was specially constructed for me. It was four feet long and had a four-inch bore. Wednesday last I charged my tube, a five gallon reservoir of wrought iron, one and a half inches thick, with etheric vapour. Then I boxed it up, and did not even test it, so certain was I of its power. For three hours before the experiment it remained untouched in my shop. The process of charging it consumed less than four seconds of time. You could not guess how much material was used in making the vapour," and the inventor smiled. "To project twenty leaden bullets, each weighing nearly five ounces, at a velocity of over 500 feet a second, there were required six drops of water and about a pint of air. From this combination I derived sufficient force to fire 250 bullets of light weight as those used. And the most curious thing about it all is that I found that at the end of my experiments that I had increased the power in my tube, instead of diminishing it. Just as a race horse needs to be warmed up before he can do himself justice, the initial velocity of the last bullet was more than that of the first one. I can take that same tube and operate it another day."

"Have you ever estimated the power of your inter-atomic ether?" was asked.

"I have produced frequently," was the answer, "a pressure of 10,000 lbs. to the square inch in a quarter of a second. The process, in reality, is instantaneous. I have succeeded in making a vacuum of thirty-one pounds pressure. The steel coil attached to the gun increases the intensity of the vibrations fifteen fold. After the ether is introduced into the weapon, behind the projectile, the vibrations liberates it, it expands, and the bullet is propelled out with great force—four times as great, as I told you, as that of gunpowder. I have succeeded in generating a pressure of 56,000 pounds to the inch; and I have torn a Shaw gage to pieces under the immense pressure. I have propelled a lead bullet through a four-inch plank of wood. In this instance, after passing through, it flattened itself out the size of a plate."

LARGE FIRE AT LACHINE.

Sixteen Houses Burned Down—The City Brigade to the Rescue.

Shortly before three o'clock on Monday afternoon, a fire was discovered at Lachine locks, near the toll gate, in rear of Mr. Ouellet's grocery. The origin of the fire is hardly explained, nobody being near at hand at the outburst. The alarm was promptly given and by order of Mr. Lyman, the Secretary of the Dominion Bridge Co., all the men in the employ of this company were set to work to extinguish the constantly increasing flames. The Lachine firemen also came down, but their efforts were almost useless, the burning houses being far from the canal. Mr. Lyman then set out to command his men and render their efforts as useful as possible. But owing to the very strong wind and the want of water power the fire soon spread over to the adjoining houses, and in four hours had completely destroyed all the houses in the immediate neighborhood. The city firemen were called, but, being delayed for nearly two hours at Point St. Charles for want of a train, only reached Lachine about six o'clock. When they arrived the disastrous element was in full blaze, from the toll gate downward to Ste. Marie street. The city brigade was composed of the guardian, (Mann), Elder, Gordon, R. Mack, and Mr. Guest, of No. 5 station, with a reel and steamer and 1,000 feet of hose. They soon succeeded in abating the intensity of the blaze and remained till a late hour to see the last of the fire.

The scene of the fire this morning presented the most desolate aspect. Of all the pretty little cottages along the road, only six remained. The following are the names of the sufferers from the disaster, along with their losses:—La Clement, $9,000; Mrs. Gainer, $1,500; Guillaume Ouellette, $5,000; Alfred Pare, $3,000; Mrs. O'Grady, $800; Louis Fabeau, $400; Mayor Pigeon, $100; J. Bte. Poirier, $4,000; Ludger Emond, $800; Joseph Larche, $2,000; Louis Pigeon, $4,000; P. Gauthier, $2,500; Major, $1,500; and Louis Pare, $10,000. The total loss is estimated at $50,000, of which there was about $25,000 insured.

This is the fourth fire at Lachine within two months and a half, and there are yet no water works. The question is, however, not very new, having come up several times before the Council, but nothing has yet been done. It should be a sufficient warning, for Lachine has already lost by its fires more than three times the cost of the intended water works.—Montreal Witness.

Canada at New Orleans.

Mr. Stevenson, Secretary to the Council of Arts and Manufactures for the Province of Quebec, has received a circular from Mr. E. A. Burke, Director General of the World's Industrial Exposition, to be held at New Orleans from December 1, 1884, to May 31, 1885. The circular sets forth that this exposition is the first systematic and comprehensive advance upon the important, but hitherto neglected, fields of Spanish and Portuguese America. It offers to manufacturers a most timely and advantageous introduction to those new foreign markets. For the purposes of the Exposition, the general government has appropriated $1,300,000; the city of New Orleans and the State of Louisiana, each $100,000; the citizens of New Orleans have contributed $500,000; Mexico has appropriated $200,000, and other amounts have been appropriated, amounting in the aggregate to hundreds of thousands of dollars. The main building is 1,378 by 905 feet, the largest building ever erected. It covers 1,656,030 feet of ground. The other buildings, comprising the machinery hall, horticultural hall, art gallery, cotton annex hall, &c., &c., are large and spacious. The music hall is in the centre and has a seating capacity of 11,000, and a stage capacity of 600 people. Exhibits will be received up to November 15th. In creating new outlets for our surplus manufactures, the Exposition will be the most useful ever held on the continent. The people of the Spanish Republics, and Empire of Brazil, need our railway iron and supplies, farming implements, cottons, boots and shoes, and a thousand and one products of our invention and skill. Mr. Stevenson informed our reporter that there will likely be several exhibits from Canada, and the more the better.—Montreal Witness.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD.

A Demonstration in Honor of the Veteran Dominion Premier.

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.—Six committees, composed of influential citizens, have been appointed to make preparations for the demonstrations in November next in honour of the Conservative chief's, Sir John Macdonald's, fortieth anniversary of entering into public life. The banquet will be on a scale of magnificence never attempted here before, and will have the characteristics of a national demonstration in which all, no matter what their party leaning, may join.

A Dungeon without a History.

Yesterday afternoon the workmen occupied in making an excavation at the back of the Minerve establishment uncovered the wall of a small vault, which was about seven feet deep and measuring seven feet by nine at the bottom. The upper part was covered with large timber, which ran across a ventilator. The walls are well preserved. It is difficult to conjecture for what purpose this was built and so carefully hidden underground, nor can even a guess be given at the time it was made. It is covered by about two feet of earth.—La Minerve.

Lime in Baking Powder.

Prof. R. A. Witthaus, M.D., Medical University, Buffalo, N.Y., who is the highest authority, says that "Calcium Tartrate (improperly called Tartrate of Lime), advertised as the lime found in Baking Powders is derived from the vines that produce Cream of Tartar. It is a constituent of the grape and other fruits, and is absolutely harmless.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

ALLANDALE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FORCES WITHDRAWN.—The Saved Army have withdrawn their forces from this outpost after three months of faithful labor. There efforts have not been successful, the principal difficulty being, perhaps, the resistance of a stubbern foe who would not be benefitted although earnestly exhorted from time to time.

I. O. G. T.—The temple still reports progress under its faithful W.C.T.. Mr. David Nelson. It has now upwards of 100 members. What about the Scott Act? Will Peterborough County be placed in the position of Ephraim as found in Hosea, iv, chapter and 17 verse?

SERVICES IN THE HALL.—Religious services are discontinued in the hall, except a Sabbath school under the directions of Mr. L. Glover. The Methodists and Church of England came, "saw" and withdrew their appointments for various reasons, thus leaving the great unsaved army in full possession of the field.

BIG POTATO.—Having noticed an item in last week's issue giving the united weight of two potatoes at 4lbs 6ozs., we feel that our little town must not be left behind, and therefore to give you some idea of our potatoes, mention the fact that Mr. Frank Brenton dug up one potato on Thursday last in his garden weighing 3 lbs 8 ozs and measuring 2 feet one way and 1 foot 11 inches the other. Bring on the next!

PERSONAL.—Dr. Harrison has fully recovered his usual health, able to attend his numerous patients with his accustomed promptness and skill. Dr. Shaw moves into the "Victoria Drug Store," nearly opposite Gall's Hotel, this week where he will be better able to attend to an increasing practice. He intends to furnish the public with all classes of goods usually found in the best drug stores and these articles of the best quality.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DEATHS.—Miss McCutcheon died on Friday evening last. The funeral was held on Sunday morning last to the Pine Grove Cemetery, Keene. Master Richard Wedlock died on Sunday afternoon last, aged 16 years past, and was laid at rest in the Pine Grove Cemetery on Monday afternoon. About one hundred followed the remains. He was well liked by everyone and his bright and obliging disposition will be sorely missed by all. The family have the deepest sympathy of all in their sore and sudden bereavement.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The building of the new church is progressing very favourably, and the roof will be on in a few days, if the weather permits. It will be both a commodious edifice and a credit to the village.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

NEW DRUG STORE.—Dr. Shaw has just opened in connection with his extensive and increasing practice a first class drug store on the corner of Division and Main streets, in the village of Keene. He will keep a stock of the best and purest drugs in the market, and all articles usually sold in a first class establishment of this nature. In addition he purposes to have a full assortment of the finest brands of cigars and tobacco to be procured. Victoria Drug Store will, in short, fill a long felt want in the flourishing village of Keene.

HASTINGS.

THE RIFLE.—The return rifle match between No. 4 Company of Keene, and No. 6 Company of this village will come off at an early date.

LAND SALES.—Mr. Chas. O'Rielly, of Asphodel, has purchased the McCarey farm, Dutch line, Percy, at $40 per acre. Mr. Charles McCarthy, of Asphodel, has purchased Mr. Wm. O'Shea's farm, price $53 per acre,

FALL OF A BARN.—A large barn 65x30 belonging to Mr. D. Cameron, Asphodel, lost its equilibrium last Saturday evening and fell from the posts on which it was standing. Mr. Cameron had nearly all his agricultural implements stored away under the building, all of which with the exception of an old waggon and sleigh were crushed to pieces. The barn is a complete wreck, and being full of grain makes the accident a very serious one to Mr. Cameron.

SUCCESSFUL GARDENING.—As a gardener, Mr. Wilson, sr., is remarkably successful, more particularly with experiments. The result of the past season has been as follows:—From 15 potatoes of the "Defiance" variety he obtained 21 pails; from 4½ bush. of early rose the yield was 84 bush.; two grains of oats produced 1,335 grains, and from 16 Lima beans he obtained 1,385 perfect kernels.—Star.

Suicide of Sir J. L. Seton.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Society circles in London were shocked and horrified to-day by the discovery that Sir James Lumsden Seton had committed suicide. Sir James was one of the richest baronets of Scotland, about 49 years old, and inherited his title and estates from his father, the seventh baronet of his line, only four years ago. During the most of his life, Sir James was a soldier, and when he retired from the army he was captain of the 102nd Foot. His usual residence was at Pitmedden, in Aberdeenshire, but he had lived in London during the past few weeks. This morning he was found in his bath tub dead and still clutching a razor, with which he had cut his throat. There is no reason assignable for the suicide, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that he killed himself while insane.

Misplaced Pease.

On Saturday evening, at Ste. Cunegonde, the guardian of Mr. Coursol's orchard, who thought thieves had entered the place, went to inform the police and left his gun with a companion, telling him that if he noticed anyone before his return to fire at him, as the gun was loaded with pease. After about an hour the man saw a shadow, which came slowly up to his side. Thinking he had got his man he pulled the trigger, and the charge of pease lodged in the back of a policeman, for such the individual turned out to be. The policeman had entered the orchard to look for the thief, for whom he was mistaken. Not being accustomed to the treatment he rolled over on the ground, and it was only on the arrival of the guardian that the mistake was found out. The wounds, though severe, are not at all dangerous.

Mysterious Disappearance.

A young Englishman named B. W. Briggs, the son of a wealthy civil engineer in London, who was stopping at the Windsor hotel, Montreal, for some time and was well provided with money, mysteriously disappeared about a month ago, leaving his valuable luggage behind. All enquiries have failed to obtain any tidings of him, and the detectives are seeking his whereabouts, if he is alive, by directions of his relatives in England.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.

The Phenomenon will Occur on Saturday—Will it be Visible Here?

On Saturday evening, according to all astronomers, there will be a total eclipse of the moon, which may or may not occur too early to be fully visible to the Peterborough public. Its hour of commencement is set some time before the moon rises, and it is also probable that the twilight and fading sunlight will do much to obscure the view. Again, the weather must be propitious to an uninterrupted sight of the celestial phenomenon. If it happens to be cloudy the public need not expect a sight of the eclipse. In Quebec the earth's shadow will have completely obscured the moon at 5.31 p.m. and at Toronto this point will be reached at an earlier hour. In Toronto the end of the total phase will be at 5.30½, and the last contact at 6.31.3.

A TRUE BILL.

Dr. Cosse Arraigned for Murder at the Barrie Assizes.

BARRIE, Sept. 30.—The assize Court for the county of Simcoe was opened here to-day by the Hon. Mr. Justice Armour. There are twenty civil and four criminal cases to occupy the attention of the Court. The only criminal case that excites public interest is that of "Doc" Cosse, the detective who is charged with having killed a man named Hamilton in a house of ill-fame at Orillia. In this case the Grand Jury returned a true bill for murder against the accused. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. He will be tried on Thursday next.

A Pugilist on the Down Grade.

"Every dog has his day" is an old saying, and John L. Sullivan has seen his best day, writes the correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Rum has got the best of him and is rapidly knocking him out. Sullivan's tour through the country was one glorious drunk, which culminated in the Mitchell fiasco in New York. Although at that time he promised to "swear off" and keep sober, he has not kept his word. For two or three weeks while the disgrace lasted, he abstained form all intoxicants, but he has now gone back to his liquor worse than ever. At a recent sparring exhibition given in this city Sullivan was so drunk that he was unfit to appear, but did so nevertheless. He made a poor showing, and would have fallen down at one time had he not been held up by his adversary. A few nights since he attended a wake held over the remains of his sister's child, and got "chock ablock". He has been drunk ever since, and, in the opinion of the sporting men, it is only the question of a short time when he will be easily knocked out by those whom he has "done up". He has very little money. He has spent it as fast as he made it. He dosen't even own his "mahogany palace" or gin-mill. A man named Clark owns it, and gives him a certain percentage on sales for the use of his name and his attendance when in the city.

WHITE PINE ORNANENTATION.

Some recent attempts with white pine appears to give it a value as an ornamental wood which its common uses have not heretofore suggested. The softness of its texture and its susceptibility to injury may have had some influence in preventing its general use for ornamental purposes, but the wood can be "filled," so that much of this objection is removed. Its pure white color—white as compared with other woods—recommends it for purposes for which holly has been heretofore used; and the size of the timber from which clear lumber may be cut is greatly in its favor, boards of a width of sixteen and even twenty inches being not uncommon, with no shade of distinction between sap wood and heart, and only the faintest preceptible grain.

Some specimens lately examined show a greatly enhanced beauty by very simple treatment—the filling with warm shellac varnish, bleached shellac in alcohol, applied with a brush while warm. Several coats are given, the last coat being rubbed with pumice and rotten stone moistened with water, not oil. A finish of a flowing coat of copal varnish completes the preparation. Thus treated the wood is of a faint creamy tint with an appearance of semi-transparency. Beautiful gradations of tone were obtained by panels of this prepared pine, mouldings of holly, and stiles of curly or birds-eye maple, and fine contrasts were made with the pine and oiled black walnut.

The pine is too soft for floors, but for doors, casings, and chamber furniture it seems to be admirably adapted. The finest specimens of the wood noted come from Michigan, having fewer pitchy streaks and being of a more uniform color than the Maine product. Its ease of working by carving, and the coherence of its grain, are being utilized by masters and amateurs in the interior wood decorations. A beautiful carved mantel relieved by pilasters of oiled black walnut has been recently finished, which suggests the mellow tints of statuary marble after a short exposure to the atmosphere, while being free from the chilling sparkle and sheen of the marble.

A Forest Mine.

There is a sunken forest of white cedar in New Jersey which has been mined for timber over seventy years. The industry of digging the sunken logs is carried on by the people of Dennisville, a village which was brought into existence through the buried wealth of lumber in its vicinity. Over the sunken forest, trees of large size are growing, and in many instances these are cut away to reach the more valuable timber three or four feet below the surface. The sunken trees are of enormous size. Their age is a matter of curious conjecture. It is probable they were buried many centuries ago by the act of an earthquake.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

CHOLERA
—IS—
COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged lone ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

How the Queen Writes.

A few days ago I saw a long letter written by the Queen two or three months back. I should like to have made a copy of it, for the homely, motherly words would have gone straight to the hearts of all who read it. The theme was her majesty's last great sorrow, and it brought the "unaccustomed brine" to my eyes as I glanced at the composition. The Queen does not now write in that fine running hand that characterizes so many of the royal autographs, but has adopted a much rounder style. This letter was evidently written in a great hurry; still there was no blot or erasure What struck me most was the extent to which the Queen unbends when she is writing to a subject about one so dear to her as her lost son. Her majesty writes almost as affectionately to the children of those whom she has known intimately as to the members of her own family.—Life.

POEM FROM MR. TELFORD.

We have been requested to publish the following:—

LINES RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED TO ROBERT H. THOMPSON, CHICAGO, ILL.,

For his very kind letters addressed to me, some of them very heart-stirring, upon our "auld hame" and the days of our youth.

Composition of William Telford, Smithtown, Peterborough P. O., Ontario, Canada.

Brither Scot, man, your letters were mair than a joke,
For they gaed to my heart like an electric choke
When you spake o' the braes, o' the craigs an' the cairns,
Where we slidied an' speeled when we baith were but bairns.
I ken that the notion was fixed in your mind
That ma auld Scottish heed was poetic inclined;
Tho' I hae little brains, an' sair scrimpet o' time,
I thought I wad gie ye a bit answer in rhyme;
But ta tell ye the truth, I felt greatla perplext—
Baith the poet an' the preacher maun hae a bit text—
When it flashed through ma noodle, like the crack o' a whup,
How the puir Scottish bairns at hame were brought up;
Why, their first year o' livin' is easy explained,
They were nursed just like ithers until they were spained,
Then a wee horn spune to supply them their feed,
They were fed upon bolla o' guid milk an' bread.
But that feed didna last muckle mair than a year,
For the flour-bread an' sugar was rather ower dear,
An' their mithers declared that sweet stuff was na guid
To mak' young bairns grow an' increase flesh an' bluid,
Sae the bolla was stap't, tho' the bairns did squeel;
Then their livin' was parritch o' guid oaten meal.
As years passed away, an' as higher they rose,
At times, for a change, they were fed upon brose.
It was parritch for breakfast; for supper likewise;
An' if ane tuk the pet an' his parritch despise,
Then the faither's loud voice, wi' authority borne,
Sayin', "Wife, set them past; they will sup them the morn."
Their dinner was varied, but a guid halesome meal,
As day later broth, an' the next it was kail;
Ye wad needed guid specs a bit pork to discern,
An' they aft made their dinner on taters an' herrin'.
Some may speer if a mouthfu' o' bread they did get;
Haud a wee, canna friend, I will tell you that yet.
When hungra, a bit oatmeal cake, if you please,
Or a piece o' guid bannle, made fra barley an' peas.
They needed nae doctorin' for dyspepsia or gout,
Sweet bites or flesh meat they kenned little about;
Just a little fat grumpah was fed in the pen
To serve a hale year for a family o' ten.
When the Sunday came round, sic a smile on their face,
For the kenned on that day a bit feast wad take place;
Oatmeal dumplin' for dinner; at nicht, watch their glee
Ower a piece o' flour sconce, an' a cup o' weak tea.
At the Scotch bairns' livin' some people may sneer,
But sic fat sonsie bairns they canna show here;
Sweet cakes, tarts an' pies, an' the baker's puffed bread,
Keeps the rose frae their cheeks—rots the teeth oot their head.
Some Scots, fu' o' pride, shake their heads, screw their face,
Sayin', "Stap, man; on Scots you are bringin' disgrace;
But I think it nae shame o' my puir bite or sup,
Let the hale warld ken that's how I was brought up.

But it was na the parritch, brose or bannies, I say,
That mak's the Scotch shine in the warld to-day;
'Twas the fireside instruction an' the teachin' o' truth,
Strict obedience an' order instilled in their youth.
There was something so hallowed round the Scottish fireside,
So deep planted its germ through this life to abide,
Tho' they roam to strange lands an' at times step astray,
All their early Scotch training they can't drive away.
The carritch, the school-book, the Bible was there,
An' the voice o' a faither wi' his family in prayer,
The kind words of a mither, they can ne'er be forgot,
But through life yield their fruits in the heart o' the Scot.
The auld Scottish fireside shed its lustre o' bliss,
An' it aft cheers the Scot in a warld like this;
Strict Scottish up-bringin' was the standpoint, I say,
Unto mony bricht Scots in this warld to-day.
O, I wish there were mair proved o' true worth a son,
Show their licht as a proof what Scotch trainin' has done;
Tho' they live in a land void of heather or fairn,
May their lives show how they had been taught when a bairn;
Tho' he joins wi' companions on the broad road of vice,
Or sit down with the gambler at cards or at dice,
The deep sigh if he loses, or the laugh if he wins,
Are suppressed, for his trainin' in youth shows his sins.
He may throw off restraint an' wax bold in his crimes,
But his lessons in youth will restrain him betimes.
He may rush to the wine-cup to drown a' his cares,
But its fumes canna quench a' his auld faither's prayers.

He may revel in throngs of debauchery or shame,
Ever strivin' to crush what was taught him at hame,
It is there, an' it sweells like the waves by the tide,
From the lessons an' the altar at his father's fireside.

I have watched a wild Scot sever all but one link,
Rushin' on to destruction—yes, up to the brink,
Something checked his career, he the power did not know,
'Twas the word of a mither, uttered long years ago.

No, I dinna uphand evera Scot to be guid,
There are some bad enuch, boasts o' pure Scottish bluid;
As a rule, in the Scot, parents' influence preside,
From example an' precept at the Scottish fireside.

Interesting Items from the Monthly Association Notes.

The following items regarding the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association are taken from the October number of Association Notes, published by that Society:—

THE PROVINCIAL CONVENTION.

The indications point to a large and profitable gathering. The opening session will take place on Thursday, the 23rd of October, at 2.30 o'clock, p.m. The afternoon will be devoted to organization and reports from local Associations. In the evening a short welcome meeting will be held; words of welcome to be given by Rev. E. F. Torrance, Messrs. Geo. A. Cox and J. F. Jeffers, on behalf of the churches, the business men, and the Association, respectively. The Convention will then immediately proceed to take up the following topics, discussion of which will occupy the time till Saturday night:—Why should our work continue to be especially for men? What can we do for young men socially? (D. A. Budge, Montreal). Discussion on Executive Committee's Report. College work (conducted by L. D. Wishard, College International Secretary, New York—Papers from Toronto, Queen's, and Montreal Universities). How can Secretaries assist Associations already existing in their neighbourhood, and in organizing new ones? To what extent have secular agencies been helpful in Association work? Work for Boys (W. H. Sallman, London). The Young Men's Bible Class: why should there be one in every Association? (W. H. Howland, Toronto). Railroad work, (W. J. Orr, St. Thomas). How can loca Associations assist the Executive Committee? (R. C. Morse, Secretary International Committee, New York). The Sustentation of Associations in small towns, (J. F. Jeffers, Peterborough). Interspersed with the topics will be frequent devotional exercises and Bible readnigs. On the Sabbath, 26th October, a Consecration Meeting will be held at 9.30 a.m., a Young Men's Meeting at 4 p.m., and the Farewell Meeting at 8.30 p.m. The places in which these three meetings will be held will be announced later. We ask our members and Christian friends to remember the Convention frequently in prayer, that God may bless it to our own Association and town, and to the work throughout the country. Unless we have the blessing of the Lord which maketh rich, our meeting together and discussing methods will be fruitless.

FINANCES.

As will be seen from the report of the Annual meeting, we closed the year with an indebtedness of $178. The need of work specially in behalf of young men has been more apparent than ever during the last few weeks, and it is hoped that when our Finance Committee begin their canvass this month they will meet with liberality on the part of our friends, so as to enable us to clear off our debt, and have no financial fears for the balance of the year. The following is an extract from a recent letter from one of our largest subscribers, who is well acquainted with the details of our work: "I shall consider the small amount I subscribed as the best investment I ever made."

THAT BUILDING PROJECT.

We feel constrained to refer to this matter again. Our young men—those employed in the offices, stores &c., are being led into temptation and sin daily, or rather nightly. In many cases for the want of an innocent place of recreation they go at first to the billiard saloon, never intended to bet or drink, but simply to have a game with their fellows. Then they get led off by degrees, till there comes a tiffie when they come to a full stop, for a while at least. They tell us, some of them, that if there was a better place where they could enjoy themselves, and have the companionship of their fellow young men, they would rather go to it than to the saloons and billiard rooms. As it is, a large number of the young men in the best families in our town are being ruined, and in many cases we fear the heads of the families, and the employers of these young men, are unconscious of the fact. It would probably open their eyes, if they dropped in some night to one or other of the five licensed billiard saloons, and saw whose money it was that enabled the proprietors to pay high licenses, and still pocket a pretty large surplus. For a town of this size, the amount of gambling done is enormous. And what is the remedy for all this? Well, the grace of God is the only remedy; but this grace comes through means, and one of these means in many towns and cities is, undoubtedly, a building where our young men can get necessary recreation under good influences. And as a matter of purely business speculation, such a building should be provided here at once.

NOTES.

We hope that Lindsay, Omemee, Lakefield, Millbrook, Campbellford, and similar places near us where no Association exists, will be represented at the Convention, and that it may be the means of starting Associations in some of these places. Lindsay, especially, is large enough to have a good organization.

Peterboroughites who have met Mr. Budge, Secretary of the Montreal Association, are delighted to know that he intends being present at the Convention. It was under him that our Secretary was brought out in Association work, and he gratefully remembers his connection with the pioneer Association on this continent.

Our "Notes" is two pages larger than usual this month, owing to press of matter. We are indebted to Mr. Gardner for his offer to defray the increased cost.

We are sure there are many who would like to help us in entertaining the delegates to the Convention while here. Will those who will take one or more guests kindly send their names now to the Secretary.

All the sessions of the Convention (9 a.m. to noon, 2 to 5, and 7:30 to 10 p.m.), will be open to the public. Our members, especially, are urged to attend as often as possible.

We are glad to announce that Messrs. R. C. Morse and L. D. Wishard, Secretaries of the International Committee, are coming to the Convention, and will take a prominent part in it.

Those who did not hear the Rev. A. H. Munro's address on "Our English Bible" at the commencement of the Tuesday night Bible Class, will have another opportunity, as Mr. Munro has kindly consented to deliver it again at one of the sessions of the Convention.

To young men who are not yet members of our Association we would say that by joining, you can help us to a large extent. If you are not able to come to our meetings often, come when you can. Our membership fee is small but your dollar would be a help to us.

Several friends have again placed us under obligations, by sending us bouquets and parcels of reading matter. Many thanks.

The Devotional Committee's annual report contained thanks for the contributions towards the fine organ we now have in our rooms. It also acknowledged the untiring services of Miss Stephens as organist at the Sunday night meeting. In this connection we are glad to state that Mr. W. Sykes has kindly volunteered to play the organ at the Saturday night Young Men's Meeting.

WHEN TO CUT WOOD.

Many seem to have an idea that wood should be cut in cold weather to have the stump sprout well, and there is a great prejudice against cutting in August, unless it is desired to clear up the land, because it is believed that a tree cut at this season of the year kills the root, or injures it so much that it will sprout but little, if any. June is also considered a bad month. Last year we had occasion to begin to cut wood in August, and continue it every month until August came again. The 20th of July a careful examination was made of the sprouts growing from the stump cut at the different seasons, and measurements made. We confess that the difference was so slight that it surprised us. The sprouts coming from maple stumps from which the wood was cut last August measured five feet, and we could discover no difference in the growth from the other stumps until we come to those that were cut in June. The sprouts from stumps that the wood was cut from during the first two weeks in June were about 12 inches in height, but it must be remembered that these stumps had to force out buds and make the growth in from five to six weeks. As the land is being cleared up the sprouts were all broken off the last of July, so the experiments ended, but it would have been interesting to have continued it, that the full growth of the year might have been ascertained; to all appearance those cut in June promised the best. The stumps looked in the best condition, and the sprouts were growing very rapidly, much more so than those cut in the autumn or winter. The stump from which the wood was cut in March and April was wet and mouldy from the sap that flowed from them, while the stumps of those cut in the autumn and in June were dry and hard.

From former experience we have found that the stumps of trees cut in March often decay so rapidly that the sprouts when two years old will often blow down, because of the rottenness of the stump, while the stump of a tree cut in autumn, will dry hard and remain comparatively sound until the sprouts get large enough to support themselves.

The stump from which the wood was cut in July are sending up sprouts, but the first of August, were not more than 6 to 12 inches high. —Massachusetts Ploughman.

Queer Marriage Law.

Fearful and wonderful are the vagaries of the Scotch marriage-law. From time out of mind it has been considered legal for people to marry merely by making a declaration in the presence of witnesses. But by a statute of Charles the II., which is about as obsolete as the Lord's Day Act, such marriages were forbidden and declared punishable. Last week a couple were brought up at the Edinburgh Police Court for having contravened this statute by declaring themselves husband and wife before witnesses. They pleaded guilty, and were fined a shilling each. Oddly enough, however, the conviction itself becomes a legal celebration of the marriage, and the document recording it is a certificate of marriage which can be produced in case of necessity.—London Truth.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Literary.

We are requested to state that a preliminary meeting of the Young Men's Literary Club wil be held at the Mechanics' Institute, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and moderate gales from the east and south, cloudy to rainy weather.

House and Lot.

A comfortable rough cast house, situated on Harvey street, adjoining the residence of Mr. Wm. Cowie, will be sold at public auction at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, It is the property of Mr. Thos. H. Darcy, and Mr. Charles Stapleton will conduct the sale. The property at present rents for $7 per month.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to day were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	60°	29.60
One o'clock	54°	29.55
Three o'clock	53°	29.51

Back to the Old Bed.

Mr. P. Connal, executor for the Robert Paterson estate, has engaged workmen to change the course of Peterborough creek, between Charlotte and King streets, back to the original bed. As the creek runs now it is washing away the foundation from valuable buildings belonging to the estate.

New Clothing Store.

As will be seen by their advertisement Messrs. Phillips and Fraid have opened a new ready made clothing establishment next to the telegraph office, on George street, where they purpose to keep a full stock of goods. The Grand Union Clothing Store will no doubt attract customers.

A Telephone Item.

Mr. W. C. Kent is at present engaged in stripping the telephone wires from the electric light poles at the west part of the town. The wires will be run on the main line out as far as Downie street, when they will branch off on the new poles which have recently been erected, and there to the private residences.

Nappa Buck Gloves and Mitts in stock at McNeil's.

Shown the Way.

P. C. Pidgeon in the course of his rambles on Wednesday night encountered a drunk, who was fast asleep on the sidewalk on Charlotte steeet. The urbane officer kindly shouldered the inebriate, who was incapable of walking, and deposited him in the police cells. In that sweet smelling institution, the drunk informed the bobby that he was going off on the C.P.R. and asked to be shown the way. The P. C. opened the door of a cell and invited him to enter and go straight ahead. The drunk did so, but after walking a few feet, asked whether he went straight ahead or turned to the right or left. In a few minutes he seemed to realize his position, and asked the officer to let him out and quit his fooling, as he had to go east on the next train. He didn't get out until 9 a.m. to-day.

A. C. A.

At a meeting held last Friday a committee was appointed to call upon all the Peterborough members of the A.C.A., and to receive the subscriptions of those who are desirous of keeping up their connection with the Association. Mr. R. E. Wood was appointed treasurer pro tem. The committee have already called upon a large number of the members, and find that a considerable proportion of them still intend to keep up their membership. Mr. Wood will take the list with him to the meeting of the Executive Committee or the Association of which he is a member, at Albany, on Saturday next, when it is to be hoped Peterborough will be found to be largely in advance of any other place in its list of members of the A.C.A. The annual fee is $1. Any member desiring to do so may pay the fee to Mr. Wood.

If you want a nice Calf-Skin Glove try Habiliment Hall.

Remember

The auction sale of Mrs. Dr. Sproule's Real Estate on Brock street, to morrow at 2 o'clock, on the premises.

The Bones.

Bone rattling is again coming into fashion among the Peterborough small boys. The click and clatter of the osseous articles may be heard in the gloaming on any back street. Perhaps Devere, the prince of the bones, has given the impetus.

Still Improving.

For the past week three ballast trains have left the Ontario and Quebec Railway station every morning to do grading out on the line. Several other gravel trains are also at work in the vicinity and it is expected that the road will be in perfect order when winter closes in.

Worthy of Mention.

The rich and beautiful furniture in the No. 49 Forester's new hall was supplied by Mr. Aaron Comstock. This gentleman is well known in Peterborough as a reliable dealer, and Court 49 evidently showed discretion in awarding the contract for hall furnishings to Mr. Comstock.

Ontario Ladies' College.

We have just received a calendar of the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby. A single glance at the Faculty and courses of study will explain the increasing popularity and success of this institution. The buildings and grounds are considered the finest of the kind in Canada. The special aim of the directors is to provide for young ladies a pleasant home and a liberal education. The next half term will begin Oct. 12th. Further information may be obtained from the Principal, the Rev. J. J. Hare, M.A.

A Cold Winter.

Present indications point to a cold and prolonged winter, and it is, of course, in order to make preparations for keeping the household cheerful and warm. To meet this end, Mr. Adam Hall, of the well-known Giant T store, has just received a consignment of Countess Base Burners, Countess Double Heaters and Parlour Stoves. Also the Radiant Home Stove, in no less than seven different varieties. The public will consult their own interests by buying from the Giant T tin store.

Fall Exhibitions.

The following dates have been announced on which agricultural exhibitions will be held:—

East Peterborough, at Keene, Oct. 2nd and 3rd.

Lindsay Central, at Lindsay, Oct. 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Port Hope, at Port Hope, Oct. 7th and 8th.

Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, at Norwood, Oct. 14th.

Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield, at Lakefield, Oct. 7th and 8th.

Union Exhibition, Baillieboro, Oct. 1st and 2nd.

Cavea, at Millbrook, on Oct. 6th and 7th.

Chit Chat.

—There will be a meeting of the Town Council to-night.

—The East Peterborough exhibition opens at Keene to-day.

—The City Band departed this morning to furnish music at the Baillieboro exhibition.

—Trenches for gas pipes are being dug at the south end of George street.

—Workmen are engaged in slating the roof of the new Ontario & Quebec railway station.

—Speeding at the Driving Park is still interesting. This morning several well contested foot races took place. One defeated man complained of "corns."

—A triangular quarrel took place at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets this afternoon. Loud talk was indulged in, but no one was hurt.

Midland Railway.

Mr. W. B. Ferguson and Mr. J. Duncan, Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway, have resigned. Mr. Ferguson has been connected with the railway for many years and was popular with the employees of the company, as well as with the public, and his retirement will be generally regretted. Mr. Duncan was also an obliging official. Mr. Riddell succeeds Mr. Ferguson as Superintendent. Before retiring Mr. Ferguson issued the following circular:

"To the Employees of the Midland Division, G. T. R.:

"My connection with the Grand Trunk Railway, as Superintendent of the Midland Division, will cease to-night, and I wish to thank the employees, who have been under my charge, during the past five years, for the faithful and efficient manner which they have discharged their duties, and would ask them to give my successor, Mr. Riddell, the same hearty support.

"W. B. FERGUSON,
"Superintendent, Midland Division.
"Peterborough, Sept. 30, 1884."

Personal.

On Sunday last the Rev. Father Conway officiated at 7 a.m. and the Rev. Father Keilty at 10.30 a.m. in the Cathedral, Portland, State of Maine.

We take the following paragraph from the New Westminster British Columbian of a recent date:—

"Messrs. Coulter & Co. have taken the premises adjoining C. McNaughton's, and fitted up a very handsome drug store, which will be fully equipped in a few days."

The firm referred to are Mr. Fred. Coulter, formerly of Peterborough, and Mr. Thos. Armstrong, son of Mr. W. J. Armstrong, who removed from Millbrook to New Westminster in 1858.

Mr. R. Long, of Waterford, P.W.H.C.R. of the Order of Foresters, paid a visit to Court Lakefield on Wednesday night, the members of the Court having been called together to meet him.

Mr. Wm. Johnson, of Belleville, Inspector of Weights and Measures, paid an official visit to Peterborough to-day.

Col.-Sergt. Cooper, of the Queen's Own, was in town to-day. As usual, he was much surprised at the "town of the back woods," but yet he still hangs to the opinion that Toronto is ahead of our town.

CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR.—I do hereby challenge Mr. J. Henderson to run me a half mile foot race in the Peterborough Driving Park, and I will leave Mr. Henderson to name the date.

(Signed), R. S. KELLY.
Peterborough, October 2nd, 1884.

The Driving Park,

All those who hold season tickets for the Driving Park and who have been debarred from the park for the past few days on account of the wet weather, will again be admitted to speed on the ring to-morrow, if the weather continues fine. The object in keeping the horsemen from the track is to prevent it from becoming cut during soft weather.

NORWOOD.

FOOT BALL CLUB RE-ORGANIZED.—The Norwood High School Foot Ball Club was re-organized last week with the following officers: Hon. President, Mr. Davidson; President, Mr. Hutchinson; Vice-President, Mr. Jackman; Sec.-Treas., Mr. C. W. Waters; committee, Messrs. Hutchinson, Jackman, Waters, Pearce, Stephenson and McKelvy.

RUNAWAY AND SMASHUP.—As a young man named Bailey was driving Messrs. Rogers & Davis' express waggon across Peterborough street at "the corner" on Saturday last, the deep cut in the street at that place proved too much for the strength of the vehicle and it snapped in twain, the two hind wheels remaining in the mud. Mr. Bailey being shot forward into a mud-puddle and the horse and front wheels going off at a fourious pace up Colborne street. The boy, we are glad to say, beyond a few slight bruises, escaped uninjured. We believe Messrs. Rogers & Davis intend suing the council for damages. A Belleville man broke a spring at the same place the other day. The street at this place is in a very bad condition.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A terrible accident occurred at Mr. Chas. Calder's steam saw-mill, 8th concession of the township of Dummer, on Saturday last. A 16 year old boy named Fred. Rattle, an employee in the mill, while in the performance of his duties, accidentally fell over a shaft, and, the machinery running at full speed at the time, the unfortunate young man was sent whirling around at a terrible rate. Steam was shut off as promptly as possible and the young man carried to a neighboring house. Drs. Ford, and Pettigrew, of this village, were summoned, and on their arrival found his right arm so badly lacerated that they had no alternative but to amputate it immediately below the shoulder. The back of the young fellow's head was also terribly cut, a gash eight inches in length leaving his skull completely bare. It is hardly expected he will recover. His parents reside near Orillia.—Register.

Seasonable.

Every department in the Golden Lion is being made replete with Choice New Seasonable Goods. Ladies,

Your happy expectations soon to be realised. Fair, VanEvery & Co's Millinery Parlour is being elegantly furnished and replenished with most artistic designs of trimmed and untrimmed millinery. The assortment will be large, varied and exquisite. They will soon announce their Grand Opening, and every effort is being made to make you comfortable, and convinced that shopping at the Golden Lion is most profitable and enjoyable.

Go and Enjoy Yourselves.

The ladies connected with St. Peter's Cathedral are arranging to have a grand evening social on Tuesday, Oct. 14th., in the Opera House. Vocal and instrumental music will be provided and several new and novel features will take their places in the programme. After the concert, refreshments will be indulged in and the entertainment will be concluded by a sociable dance. All those who attend may rely on being warmly welcomed.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

For a good Driving Glove, try Habiliment Hall.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

PORT HOPE.

A BAD ACCIDENT.—Silas Winters had one of his feet crushed while assisting in loading car wheels in the Midland railway yard on Tuesday. It is feared the young man will be crippled for life.—Guide.

THE assessment of Toronto for 1885 shows a total of $89,231,007, an increase of $3,557,230 over that of 1884. The population of the city is 104,276, an increase of 5,145. These increases, however, are partly attributed to the annexation to the city of two suburban wards.

A LADY from Syracuse writes: "For about seven years before taking Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I suffered from a complaint very prevalent with our sex. I was unable to walk any distance or stand on my feet for more than a few minutes at a time without feeling exhausted, but now I am thankful to say I can walk two miles without feeling the least inconvenience." For Female Complaints it has no equal.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1884.

FORTY YEARS' SERVICE.

THE proposal to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the entrance of Sir John A. Macdonald into public life is received with flouts and jeers by some of the Reform journals, who are mortified at the spontaneous adoption of the idea of a grand demonstration on the occasion. Their criticisms are not very complimentary to the great Conservative leader, but they are quite as uncomplimentary to the people of Canada. The fact that almost continuously for so many years Sir John has been maintained in office shows how great has been the popular appreciation of his services, and the endeavor to maintain that it was folly so to support him, is an insult to the people of Canada as much as to him. Of course he has had, and still has, able colleagues to share the credit, but it will never be forgotten that under his premiership our scattered Provinces have been cemented into one grand Dominion, flourishing and progressive. It will also be remembered that under his statesmanlike guidance our great national railway, uniting the country from ocean to ocean, has been constructed with such marvellous energy and despatch; that a commercial policy has been adopted that has fostered Canadian industries, or that his long career teems with other benefits to his grateful country.

It is not surprising that the idea of manifesting the gratitude of the people of Canada is so enthusiastically welcomed. That it should be so is naturally a cause of grief to the Reformers, whose only hope of office is based upon their efforts to persuade the people that they have been foolish to give their adhesion to the great Canadian statesman.

TWO LOANS.

THE leading Reform journal is endeavouring to show that the last Dominion loan was issued at too low a rate, owing to the mismanagement of the Administration of Canada. It is not correct in its figures or in the deductions it draws from them, but even if it were, it fails to explain how it was that Mr. Mowat had to sacrifice his new Provincial loan at a far lower rate. If Canadian finances are badly managed, and Ontario finances are well managed, as the Reformers aver, how is it that the credit of the Province is so much lower than that of the Dominion? With a new debt to place upon the shoulders of the people of Ontario, Mr. Mowat should surely have been able to obtain better terms. If half his boastings were true, how is it that he failed so signally? Let the Globe give its explanation of the Mowat loan—of this first instalment of a Provincial debt.

A REFORM paper says that "these who voted for the N.P. can now figure up and see how far they have been gainers." It would take too long. People had plenty of time under Reform rule to figure up their losses, but those who voted for the N. P., and those who voted against it, are too busy now to devote weeks to figuring up what they have gained by it.

A VICTIM OF PASSION.

An Enraged Barber Attacks a Man with a Razor and is Killed.

CALGARY, Sept. 24.—That Wm. Foster, formerly a barber in this town, was murdered at End of Track, was the brief intelligence received here on Sunday last. From particulars we have since learned it appears that Foster was in the habit of moving forward with the C. P. R. men. On Friday last his outfit was being carried to the front on a train which was in charge of Finn. In unloading the effects a barber's chair was broken, which aroused Foster to almost an uncontrollable degree of excitement. After the matter had subsided Foster called Finn into his tent and commenced to abuse him shamefully. Finn retaliated, and Foster then rushed at the former with a razor. Finn receded until cornered, when he drew his revolver and fired four shots, three of which took effect. Foster died the next day. The victim was of a morose disposition, and regarded as a dangerous man. It is said he shot a man in Montana and that this was the fourth time he was known to have drawn a razor, in one case cutting a man seriously in the abdomen. Finn has been engaged on the C. P. R. construction some two or three years, and at the time of the shooting was foreman of the iron car. He is represented as being a quiet and inoffensive man and was a favorite with the workmen, who believe the act was done in selfdefence. Finn was arrested yesterday at Eldon by Constables Davidson and Gould, to whom he stated he was then on his way to Calgary to give himself into the hands of the police. He was brought to Calgary but will be sent back to British Columbia, as North-West magistrates have no jurisdiction in the matter.

ORILLIA'S FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY.

Grand Semi-Centennial Celebration — A Magnificent Success.

ORILLIA, Oct. 2.—To-day Orillia celebrated its fiftieth anniversary by a grand simi-centennial celebration. In the afternoon there was a grand street parade of manufactures, trades and societies. The procession was headed by the resident Indians of 1834 in costume, and Orillia's citizens' band, followed up by the volunteer company, and the white pioneers. The manufactures came next, and made a very creditable appearance. The various trades and societies came next in order, and were followed by the Orillia fire brigade, then the Mechanic's Institute, the rear being brought up by the school children, one thousand strong.

The manner and order of the procession was a beautiful sight to behold, and was a wonderful undertaking for a small town like Orillia. The result, however, was a magnificent success, and exceeded the best expectations of its most ardent promoters. To-night the town is beautifully illuminated, all doing honor to Orillia's semi-centenial.

CUT BY AN AXE.—On Thursday, as Mr. John McNairn was chopping wood for his employer, Mr. George Hooey, who lives about a mile east of the village of Springfield, the axe slipped and cut his instep. The main artery was severed, and the man almost bled to death before a surgeon arrived. Dr. Kincaid attended.

Surprised Workmen.

A week ago about a hundred men were at work on Fifth avenue, near thirty-fourth street, laying steam pipes for the New York Steam Heating Company. At noon the men took their dinner pails and sat on the steps of the fashionable houses there. While they were eating a lady came out of one of the finest of the houses and gave each man a dollar. The surprise and gratitude of the workmen knew no bounds. Park Commissioner Crimmins, who is the contractor for the job, says the men were in doubt whether their benefactress was flesh and blood or a visitor from the spirit world. The lady was a member of Mr. William Astor's family.—N. Y. Sun.

Shocking Accident at a Fair

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—Minnie Leach, eighteen years of age, of Flushing, Genesee county, today, with her aunt and cousin, came to the fair at Lansing, Mich. Her skull was crushed and she died in a very few moments. Her cousin, Baker Code, who was with her at the time, was rendered insane by the shock.

An Abandoned Enterprise.

HAMILTON, Oct. 1.—The Emerson Natural Gas Company have abandoned the field at Albion Mills, near here, and finally decided to give up all attempts to sink a paying shaft. Messrs. Stratton & Kee, who were the practical men of the Emerson company, are staying here and keeping the machinery in an endeavour to induce the farmers in the neighbourhood of Albion Mills to form a joint stock company and make another attempt to find a gas vein. In the meantime, however, the derrick has been taken down and the effects are all ready to ship.

A Political Incident.

REPORTS.

Councillor KELLY, Chairman of the Committee on Appointments, then read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend that John Borland be appointed as night watchman with one of the policemen, and that they be required to go on duty every night at nine o'clock and remain on duty until six o'clock the following morning.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOMAS KELLY,
Chairman.

Councillor KELLY then moved the adoption of the report.

Councillor RUTHERFORD objected to the report on account of there being no quorum at the Committee meeting.

Councillor KELLY said that he had called several meetings, and that the report was agreed to by the majority of the members at the last meeting.

No one seconded Councillor KELLY's motion, and the report was accordingly dropped.

Councillor RUTHERFORD, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council:—

GENTLEMEN,—In reference to the petition of Richard Hall and others, regarding the smoke nuisance at Baptie's planing mill, your Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the smoke chimney be built thirty feet higher.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A RUTHERFORD,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE SKATING RINK.

Mr. W. G. Ferguson was heard in reference to the skating rink. He stated that the way in which the building would be constructed would be equally proof against fire with a brick building. The petition had been signed by the property holders in the vicinity.

Councillor MILLAR thought that it was in the interest of the public that the rink be moved.

The MAYOR'S opinion was that it would be a better plan to get a few more hundred dollar's worth of stock subscribed and then erect a substantial building. He did not oppose the removal of the rink, but perhaps the company wish to dispose of it in after time and a solid building would be much more valuable.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that a fire was not likely to originate in a skating rink. He suggested referring the matter to the Building Committee.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor MILLAR,—That Mr. R. H. Green be appointed chairman of the Building Committee and that the petition be referred to the Building Committee with power to act.—Carried.

THE CREEK.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That owing to the lateness of the season and the water being high in the creek, and other causes, it is not expedient to proceed with the building of the new iron bridge on Hunter street this fall, and that one thousand dollars of the appropriation in the estimates for the construction of the said bridge be devoted to the repairing the said bridge and Simcoe street bridge and to make other improvements; that the Clerk be instructed to prepare a by-law, if necessary, to give effect to this resolution.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that three thousand dollars had been appropriated for the building of the Hunter street bridge. The creek was not any higher than at any other time during the season. The foundation could be laid and the job could be completed in a few weeks. Other bridges would have to be built next year, and if this this one was laid over it would raise the rate of taxation. He thought the building of the bridge should be proceeded with.

Councillor HARTLEY did not think that it was a very heavy job. One week's work would put the foundation past the water. If it was laid over till next year the work could not be gone on with until the middle of the summer. The walls could be built in three weeks.

Councillor CAHILL said that it was not proposed to spend $1,000 on repairing Hunter street bridge, other street improvements were badly needed. These bridges would have to be repaired, or the town would be liable to damages. It was for the Council to decide whether the work would be gone on with. The bridge would cost $1 more than what was appropriated for the building of it.

Street Inspector JOHNSON said that the Simcoe street bridge was in a worse condition than the Hunter street bridge. The walls were fallen and crumbling. He had been patching up both bridges for a long time.

Mr. R. Z. RODGERS was heard. He said he intended to build in the vicinity of Hunter street bridge this fall. He had been seriously damaged by the delay of building of the bridge and was uncertain what to do.

Councillor KELLY said that Mr. Rodgers would be placed in a very awkward position if he went on with his building and then the town to build a bridge that would interfere with his property. He thought the bridge should be built at once, and then Mr. Rodgers might see what to do.

Councillor CAHILL said that he was as anxious as anybody to have the bridge built, but the money set apart was totally inadequate.

Mayor COX thought the money should be spent in building the new bridge as far as it went. If it was spent in repairing it would be thrown away.

Councillor DOUGLASS said that in his opinion the season was too far advanced for a good job to be done.

Councillor CAHILL agreed with the Mayor's suggestion: to do the excavation, build the stonework, and carry over the balance for another year.

Councillor RUTHERFORD referred to the remarks of the preceding speakers and said that in his opinion, the work should be commenced at once. Plenty of stone masons might be procured and the work could be disposed of with despatch.

Councillor Cahill withdrew his motion.

Councillor HARTLEY moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD—That the matter of the Hunter street bridge be referred to the Street and Bridge committee with instructions to proceed with the work.—Carried.

THE FIREMEN AT TORONTO.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the Firemen and Band had gone to Toronto to participate in the recent tournament and had paid their own expenses. He thought they should be reimbursed.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY.—That the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough pay to the Treasurer of the Fire Brigade Band the sum of $90 expenses to Toronto.

Councillor DOUGLASS thought that the money could be better expended on the bridge.

Councillor MILLAR said that the Firemen should have given notice if they expected the Town to pay their expenses to Toronto.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the Firmen had trained considerably for the contest and that the town would profit by that exertion. The Firemen should be encouraged.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor MILLAR,—That the matter in reference to the paying of the expenses of the Firemen to Toronto be referred to the Finance Committee.—Carried.

STONE BREAKING.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to receive tenders for the breaking of the stones on the north side of the Central Park.

Councillor KELLY thought that the matter should be left over until the winter. It cost considerable for charity and these men might have a chance to earn their living.

Councillor YELLAND said that he was confident that it would cost more to pay these paupers than to keep them and let the work by contract. He knew several of them who were not worthy of charity.

The motion was put and carried.

SIDEWALKS.

Councillor MILLAR asked if an appropriation had been made last year to build a sidewalk from the skating rink to London street.

Councillor CAHILL said he did not think the appropriation had been made.

Councillor MILLAR moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to proceed with the building of a sidewalk from the skating rink to London street.—Street and Bridge Committee.

Councillor HARTLY moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That a sidewalk be laid on Antrim street, leading to Mr. Chisholm's residence.—Street and Bridge Committee.

The Mayor and Councillors Kelly and Douglas spoke of other sidewalks that were badly needed.

CHARITY.

Councillor YELLAND said Mr. Hope should be recompensed for the keeping of the boy Trotter, who had a sore leg, and who had been kept by Mr. Hope.

Councillor YELLAND moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the matter of Mr. Hope's application for pay for the keeping of the boy Trotter be referred to the Charity Committee.—Carried.

CLOSING WOLFE STREET.

Mr. R. E. WOOD was heard in reference to the closing of a part of Wolfe street. He said that the proposed closing would not interfere with the property holders; 33 feet, half the street, would be left so as to give them access to their property. The company had paid for the passing of the first by-law, and it was willing to pay for the quashing of it. It was also willing to pay for the passing of the by-law now asked for.

HYDRANTS.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the petition of the ratepayers living on George street, asking for fire hydrants be referred to the clerk, he to at once notify the Water Company to provide the necessary hydrants.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the Fire, Water and Gas Committee be authorized to ascertain from the Peterborough Electric Light Company the cost of three lamps, one to be placed in the Central Park, one in the market, and one in the Council Chamber.—Carried.

THE TOWN CLOCK.

Councillor KELLY said it was a shame the way the town clock was kept. It was a great annoyance to people going to the trains and to workingmen. Something should be done in the matter.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor MILLAR,—That the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee be instructed to have a wire netting placed over the town clock in order to properly protect it, and that the Committee report to this Council before taking action.

The Council then adjourned until Monday, the 20th Oct.

CHAPTER XXXVII, CONTINUED.

The girl wore a simple white muslin, high in the throat, where a quilling of soft lace was secured by a bunch of lemon blooms and violets and around her coil of jet hair twined a long spray of Arabian jasmine that droopod almost to her shoulder.

One face star-eyed and beaming as Hope, with rosy dreams lurking about the curves of her perfect mouth; the other pale, dejected, yet uncomplaining, a lovely statute of Regret.

Very soon the white hand that wore the black agate, wandered across the daughter's silky hair.

"Yonder goes the train; and Mr. Palma will be here in a few minutes. How little I dreamed that cold, undemonstrative, selfish man would prove such a patient, tender lover? Truly—

'Beauty hath made our greatest manhoods weak.'

Kiss me, my darling, before you go to meet him. My blue-eyed baby! after to-morrow you will be mine no longer. In the hearts of wifes husbands supplant mothers, and reign supreme. Do not speak, my love. Only kiss me, and go."

She bent over the face resting on her knee, and a moment after, Regina, followed by the noble old dog, went down the circuitous walk leading to the iron gate. On either side stood deodar cedars, and behind one of these she sat down on a rustic seat.

She had not waited long when footsteps approached, and Mr. Palma's tall handsome figure passed through the gate, accompanied by one who followed slowly.

"Lily!"

The lawyer passed his arm around her, drew her to his side, and whispered:

"I bring you glad tidings. I bring my darling a very precious bridal present—her father."

Turning quickly, he put her in Mr. Laurance's arms.

"Can my daughter cordially welcome her unhappy and unworthy father?"

"Oh! how merciful God has been to me! My father alive and safe, really folding me to his heart? Now my mother can rest, for now she can utter the forgiveness which her heart long ago pronounced; but which, having withheld at your painful parting interview, has so sorely weighed down her spirits. Oh! how bright the world looks! Thank God! at last mother can find peace."

Looking fondly at her radiant face Mr. Laurance asked in an unsteady voice:

"Will my Minnie's child plead with her for the long lost husband of her youth?"

"Oh father! there is no need. Her love must have triumphed long ago over the sense of cruel wrong, and the memory of the past, for since we learned that you were among those who perished, she has silently mourned as only a wife can, for the husband she loves. Because she sees in my face the reflex of yours, it has of late grown doubly dear to her; and sometimes at night, when she believes me asleep, she touches me softly, and whispers, 'my Cuthbert's baby.' But why have you so long allowed us to believe you were lost on that vessel?"

Briefly Mr. Laurance outlined the facts of his escape upon a raft which was hastily constructed by several of the crew when the boats were beyond their reach. Upon this he had placed Maud, and on the morning after the wreck of the vessel, they succeeded in getting into one of the boats which was floating bottom upwards, and providentially drifted quite near the raft. For several days they were tossed helplessly from wave to wave, exposed to heavy rains, and on the third evening poor little Maud, who had been unconscious for some hours, died in her father's arms. At midnight, when the moon shone full and bright, he had wrapped the little form in his coat and consigned her to a final resting place beneath the blue billows, where her mother had already gone down amid the fury of the gale. He knew from the colour and lettering of the boat that it was the same in which he had placed his terrified wife, and when it floated to their raft he could not doubt her melancholy fate. A few hours after Maud's burial a Danish brig bound for Valparaiso discovered the boat and its signals of distress, and taking on board the four survivors, sailed away on its destined track. Mr. Laurance had made his way to Rio Janeiro, and subsequently to Havana, but learning from the published accounts that his wife had indeed perished and that he also was numbered among the lost, he determined not to reveal the fact of his existance to any one. Financially beggared, his ancestral home covered by mortgages which Mrs Laurance held, and utterly hopeless of arousing her compassion or obtaining her pardon, he was too proud to endure the humiliation that would overwhelm him in the divorce suit he knew she intended to institute, and resolved never to return to the United States, where he could expect only disgrace and sorrow.

While in Liverpool, preparing to go to Melbourne, he accidentally found and read Mrs. Laurence's advertisement in the London Times offering a reward for any definite information concerning Cuthbert Laurance, reported lost on Steamer ——. Had she relented, would she pardon him now? He was lonely, desolate; his heart yearned for the sight of his fair young daughter, doubly dear since the death of poor Maud, and he longed inexpressibly to see once more the love of his early, and his later life.

If still implacably vindictive, would she have continued the advertisement which so powerfully tempted him to reveal himself? He was fully conscious of his own unworthiness, and of the magnitude of the wrongs inflicted upon her, but after a long struggle with his pride, which bled sorely at the thought of the scornful repulse that might await him, he had written confidentially to Mr. Palma, and in accordance with his advice, returned to New York.

Only the day previous he had arrived and now came to test the power of memory over his wife's heart.

"Father, she is sitting alone on the verandah, with such a world of sadness in her eyes, which have lost the blessed power of weeping. Go to her. I believe you need no ally to reach my mother's heart."

Mr. Laurance kissed her fair forehead and walked away; and passing his arm around Regina, Mr. Palma drew her forward across the lawn, till they reached a branching lilac near the verandah.

Here he paused, took off his glasses, and looked proudly and tenderly down into the violet eyes, that even now met his so shyly.

"My Lily, to-morrow at this hour you will bow my wife."

His haughty lips were smiling as they sought hers, and with her lovely flushed face hidden on his shoulder, and one small hand clinging to his, she watched her father's figure approaching the steps.

Mrs. Laurance sat with her folded hands resting on the rail of the balustrade, her head slightly drooped upon her bosom, and the beautiful face was lighted by the dying sunset splendour, that seemed to kindle the nimbus around the golden head, and rendered her in her violet drapery like some haloed Mater Dolorosa, treading alone the Via Crucis.

Dusky shadows under the melancholy brown eyes, made them appear darker, deeper, almost prophetic, and over her lips drifted a fragment from "Regret."

"Oh that word Regret!
There have been nights and morns when we have sighed,
'Let us alone Regret! We are content
To throw the all our past, so thou wilt sleep
For aye.' But it is patient, and it waits;
It hath not learned to cry itself to sleep,
But 'plaineth on the bed it 'is hard. . . ."

"Ah, yes. In the room of revenge reigns regret. Where is my revenge? It gleamed like nectar, and when I drained it—consuming poison clung to my lips. To revenge is to regret—forever! To-day how bitterly widowed—to-morrow—childless. Oh stranded life! Infelice! Infelice!"

Upon the stone steps stood the man, whom her eyes, turned towards the distant hill tops, had not yet seen, but when the passionate pathos of that voice, which had so often charmed and swayed its audiences, died away in a sob, a musical yet very tremulous tone fell on the evening air:

"Minnie—my wife! After almost twenty years of neglect, injustice, and wrong, can the husband of your youth and the father of your child hope for pardon?"

"There is no ruined life beyond the smile of heaven,
And compensating grace for every life is given,
The Coliseum's shell is loved of flower and vine,
And through its shattered rents, the peaceful planets shine."

THE END.

THE STRONGEST PART OF A TREE.

It might be supposed that every layer from pith to bark is in a different stage of perfection, the innermost or earliest being the most matured, would be the strongest, but experience teaches us that this is only true up to a certain period of growth; the greatest strength and toughness lies nearer the more recently formed heartwood, or part nearest the sap-wood. For this reason it becomes a matter of great importance in selecting timber for special purposes requiring great strength and toughness, to have as little sap-wood as possible and as little pith. That is to say, cut as near the sap-wood as the timber will allow, for it should be observed that a tree does not cease growing when it comes to maturity. As long as it is alive it continues to increase in bulk by the addition of the annual layer, but when maturity is once passed each succeeding year produces a certain degree of deterioration. This decay appears in various stages, and generally exhibits in the first instances either a white or yellowish color at the but or root end of the stem. If white the decay is very slight and does not appear more than a few feet up, but if a yellowish red in color, it is not unfrequently of a most serious character; again if the effected parts have assumed a decidedly red tinge, the tree is said to be foxey, and scarcely fit for any purpose, as the decay will be found to prevade a great portion of it. A more advanced stage is that which may be described as a drying up or wasting away of the wood surrounding the pith. It forms a hollow, first at the butt, and then spread upward, gradually increasing in size as the tree gets older, while the defect may eventually reach into the branches. Trees are most valuable as yielding the largest amount of good timber just prior to their reaching maturity, which is indicated by the topmost branches and branchlets becoming stunted. If, therefore, we wish to select a healthy tree for felling, we must seek one with an abundance of young shoots, and the topmost of which look strong, pointed, and vigorous, this being the most certain evidence that it has not passed maturity. When there is evidence of permanent decay in a tree the best thing to do is to cut it down and convert such parts of it as will answer the purpose into lumber, and the balance into firewood. The longer it is permitted to stand, after decay sets in, the more worthless it will become for any purpose.—Builder's Journal.

And why not work their way into every business.

At Alexander's for the past month the Milliners have been busy preparing for the OPENING DAYS, (which will be announced at an early date), and they can say with confidence that the most fastidious will be suited with Fall Millinery at Alexander's.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Concert at Hazelbrae.

There will be a concert at the Hazelbrae Home this evening. Solos will be sung by some of our leading vocalists and several choruses will be rendered. All those who attend will doubtless enjoy themselves.

Dropped Dead.

Mr. John Bailey, Reeve of Emily, well-known in the town and county of Peterborough, dropped dead at the Lindsay Central Exhibition on Thursday. He had been rubbing down his horse and was about to take him out for exhibition when he suddenly fell over and expired.

Mesmerism.

Don't fail to attend Messrs. Devere and Allen's grand complimentary benefit to-morrow evening. Dr. Van Dorn will give an exhibition of his mesmeric power and will expose the subtle trickery of the so-called spiritualists. The programme will be concluded by a side splitting farce.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to day were as follows :—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	45°	29.35
One o'clock	48°	29.20
Three o'clock	50°	29,20

Nappa Buck Gloves and Mitts in stock at McNeil's.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows :—Fresh to strong, east to south-east winds, cloudy to fair weather with occasional rain, more particularly in the northern portion, higher temperatures.

The Town Franchise.

The number of votes in the town of Peterborough, according to the voters' list, for 1884, is as follows :—

First Ward	526
Second Ward	576
Third Ward	607
Fourth Ward	528
Total	1,997

The number of persons liable to serve as Jurors is 1,014.

The Whistle-Wing.

On Thursday the steamer Whistle-Wing carried down the river the last consignment of brick for the new Presbyterian Church at Keene. The brick for the church was supplied by Mr. John Heap, but other brick manufacturers have also been, during the past summer, shipping their production down the river to various points. Mr. Calcutt informs us that no less than half a million of brick has been carried down the river by his steamers during the present season.

The Coming Meet.

The coming Meet at the Driving Park is looked forward to with interest by the townspeople generally and the people of the surrounding country. The Meet has been extensively advertised and no doubt the combined races and exhibition will draw a large attendance. The local horsemen who intend entering their steeds are carefully looking after training. Every morning and afternoon pacers, trotters, and runners may be seen on the Driving Park being put through their exercises.

Fall Millinery.

The announcement that Miss Delaney will open her millinery and mantle show rooms on Monday to display her new goods for the fall and winter season, will be received with lively interest by our lady readers. Miss Delaney's well known taste and skill in selecting her stock, the reputation she has for the genuine good quality of her wares, and her success in dressmaking, both as regards accuracy of fit and fashionable style, will ensure her many visitors and customers. Besides a carefully chosen assortment of bonnets and hats, Miss Delaney has made a specialty of a varied stock of mantle cloths. But it is useless to enter into particulars, for the ladies will go and judge for themselves.

POLICE COURT

DRUNK.

FRIDAY, Oct. 3.—James Dancel was again before the Court charged with being drunk. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

The Sibley embezzlement case, twice enlarged, came up this morning.

Mr. C. A. WELLER appeared for the prosecution and stated that no evidence could be brought to bear on the case. In the articles of clerkship Mr. Sibley had given security. During the absence of Mr. Edwards, Mr. Sibley had received a certain sum of money. It was true that Mr. Sibley did not deposit the money to Mr. Edwards' credit. He had engaged in speculation which he had hoped to be remunerative, and, like many other cases, it had not turned out very successful. The surety has made good the deficit to Mr. Edwards, and Mr. Edwards thinks that it is not in the interests of society that the matter be pressed. The young man has suffered considerable, and he has had ample punishment for his fault; more severe punishment might do more harm than good. The young man did not from time to time take money and make false entries, he had only taken the money once and engaged in the unfortunate speculation. He did not commit embezzlement.

The MAGISTRATE said since the Crown Attorney had made this statement he had only one course to pursue, namely, to discharge the case. The remarks that have been made by the County Attorney shows that your conduct has been open to question. I am glad for your sake that the circumstances are such that the prosecutor does not feel himself called upon, in the interests of society, to prosecute further. I hope you will hereafter not leave your conduct open to any such attack. It is not necessary for me to say anything more, as you no doubt feel your present situation keenly enough. You are now discharged.

The case was then dismissed, costs to be paid by the informant.

We are showing the nicest line of Kid Gloves, lined or unlined, ever seen in Peterborough, at McNeil's.

Go and Enjoy Yourselves.

The ladies connected with St. Peter's Cathedral are arranging to have a grand evening social on Tuesday, Oct. 14th., in the Opera House. Vocal and instrumental music will be provided and several new and novel features will take their places in the programme. After the concert, refreshments will be indulged in and the entertainment will be concluded by a sociable dance. All those who attend may rely on being warmly welcomed.

The First Cargo.

The first cargo of Mr. Calcutt's hardwood, consisting of 50 cords of the best beech and maple, arrived at the wharf per steamer Whistle Wing on Wednesday night. The wood was readily disposed of, and on Thursday teams were busily engaged in drawing it away. Mr. Calcutt will supply several hundred cords of this fire wood. It is obtained in the township of Alnwick, on the shores of Rice Lake. Mr. Calcutt it very reasonable in his prices, and the wood may be ordered per telephone or at Mr. W. Millar's hardware store.

Chit Chat.

—Musical entertainment at Hazel Brae this evening.

—The East Peterborough exhibition at Keene closes to-day.

—The Central Exhibition at Lindsay closed yesterday.

—A new stone cellar wall is being built in the rear of China Hall.

—Mr. Frank Fairin has been appointed agent for the Driving Park Company. Season tickets may be obtained from him.

Mr. C. Young's real estate sale was conducted by Mr. Charles Stapleton at the Albion House, Ashburnham, yesterday afternoon. The bidding on the valuable block was lively at first, but the highest bid only reached $5,200 Mr. J. C. Sullivan having made that bid. The estate was withdrawn from sale, as the bid was considered a low one. The property remains for sale by private arrangement till Mr. Young leaves, about the 15th of this month.

THE ORILLIA MURDER

Dr. Cosse's Trial Postponed Until Next Assizes.

BARRIE, Oct. 2.—The assizes opened this morning with Judge Armour presiding. The first case called was that of Dr. Cosse, indicted for the murder of Hamilton. Mr. N. Murphy, of Toronto, appeared for the defence, and asked for a postponement of the trial till the next assizes, on the ground of strong local feeling adverse to the prisoner, the absence of material witnesses, and being taken by surprise, a true bill for murder having been brought against the prisoner, whereas he had been committed on the coroner's warrant for manslaughter. The Judge granted the application.

A GOOD MAN'S WILL.

J. W. Garrett, of Baltimore, Leaves $50,000 a Year for Charity.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1.—The will of the late Jno. W. Garrett, filed to-day, gives his two sons and a daughter all his estate, real, personal, and mixed, in equal shares. It provided that $100,000 be invested so as to yield $6,000 annually, which amount is to be distributed yearly among the poor of Baltimore, and that further the sum of $50,000 annually from the income of the estate be given to such objects or benevolence and educational purposes, to aid virtuous, struggling persons, and to such works of public utility as are calculated to promote the happiness, usefulness and progress of society. Special reference is made to the stock of the Baltimore & Ohio road, owned by Garrett, and the will directs that his three children, who are also his trustees, and their successors, in order to perpetuate the policy pursued by deceased in the management of the road, shall jointly hold 30,000 shares of common stock of the road for twenty years. It is understood that the stock above referred to constitutes only the individual holding of Garrett, and does not include the large holdings of the firm of Robert Garrett & Son.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1884.

ANOTHER ENLARGEMENT.

OUR readers will see that we have again enlarged the DAILY EVENING REVIEW, although we have already increased its size not long ago. We found that the steady increase of our advertising patronage, and the consequent pressure upon our columns was unduly restricting the space for reading matter, and this in justice to our subscribers we could not permit to continue. We have therefore increased the size of the paper so as to add what is equivalent to a column on each page, or, an additional four columns on the paper.

While acknowledging and thanking our customers for the additional patronage that has led to this increase, we would also call the attention of our readers to our constant efforts to study their interests by giving them a paper unsurpassed by any town in Canada of the size of Peterborough, or indeed by many larger towns and cities.

It is satisfactory to be thus enabled to make these successive improvements, and it adds to our gratification to reflect that this is not altogether a selfish feeling, for the continually increased dimensions and circulation of the DAILY EVENING REVIEW, as well as of the WEEKLY REVIEW, are among the many proofs of the progress of Peterborough.

DOMINION ORGANS AND PIANOS AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The Dominion Organs and Pianos were again awarded the first prizes at the Central Fair held in Lindsay ending yesterday over all competitors, including Mr. Smart's would-be-famous Bell organ. I only returned from there last night and learned this morning that he was again in a state of ebullition, and instead of answering my former letter was wriggling and writhing, as appeared by his third letter of the 1st instant in Wednesday's REVIEW. True to his instincts, he does not deny one allegation in my letter in a straightforward manner, but as usual make sincoherent statements and calls them proofs. He does not and dare not say that his instruments are superior to the Dominions Then if by his silence, evasion or otherwise, he admits he can not do so, he must also admit that he falsely and fraudulently represents his to be superior to intending purchasers to induce them to buy where there is no opportunity to controvert his statements. As to the copy of the judges report taken from the Mail he would like to make a mountain out of a mole-hill. He says it is my statement. I have denied that it is mine, and have referred him to the Mail as my authority, which is also his authority. If it exercises him too much he can settle with the Mail. One drop in bucketful of honors conferred on the "Dominion" does not materially affect it. He says he has no need to blow about diplomas and awards. I agree with him that he has no diplomas and awards to blow about, but he has the "blow." He talks of wit. His attempt is far fetched. He also speaks of vulgarity. Whatever may be in the man, I can see nothing in the name implying vulgarity. If he sees so much hollowness in prizes, why does his company try so hard to get them. They also tried at St. Catharines the other day, where, as usual, they took a back seat, the Dominion taking first prizes in cash on both organs and pianos over all competitors. I can still mention other cases, but the thing is getting monotonous, and this is why he raves.

Yours, &c.,
J. J. IRWIN,
Agent for the Dominion Organ & Piano Co.

G. T. R. WORKSHOPS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—About a month ago I wrote you with reference to the delegation (Messrs. Stevenson, Cox and Cluxton), appointed by the Town Council, to go to Montreal and urge the location of the G. T. R. workshops here. Next day these gentlemen replied through your columns that a meeting was then being arranged for.

How is it that no report of such meeting was presented to the Council last evening? Are we to understand that it is still being arranged for, and if so will these gentlemen kindly inform us when we may reasonably hope that these important preliminaries will be all satisfactorily arranged and this long expected meeting become an accomplished fact?

Do not try our patience too far, gentlemen.

Yours, &c.,
AN ANXIOUS ONE.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I hereby accept the challenge of Mr. R. S. Kelly, which appeared in the REVIEW on Thursday, the 2nd instant. I will run Mr. Kelly a half-mile foot race on the Peterborough Driving Park on the evening of Friday, the 17th instant.

A MIDNIGHT SENSATION.

Serious Encounter Between Night Prowlers and the Toronto Police.

This morning about a quarter past one o'clock, as P. C. Charles Jarvis was on duty on the Esplanade, he saw three men acting in a suspicious manner near the back entrance of Lyman & Co.'s warehouses. Upon seeing him they ran away, and he gave chase along Front street, calling to P. C. Geddes, who was on duty there, to stop them. The Constable jumped out of a doorway and caught the foremost one of the three, when either he or one of his companions shot at Geddes, who immediately returned the fire. The three men then continued their flight, keeping up a running fire at Geddes who, being a good runner, pressed them hard. Other constables came to their assistance, but the burglars succeeded in evading pursuit, and up to three o'clock had not been captured, although a vigorous search was prosecuted. When last seen the men were in the neighborhood of George and Duke streets.

While searching the buildings in the neighborhood the constables came across three tramps sleeping in a barn, and one of the constables, drawing his revolver, ordered them to throw up their hands. This they did, dropping on their knees, and begging the constables piteously not to shoot. They were let off with a caution. —Globe, Oct. 4.

COLLAPSE AT A FAIR.

Fall of a Main Building Balcony at Almonte—Several Ladies Injured.

ALMONTE, Oct. 4.—The balcony on the eastern side of the main building, on the North Lanark Agricultural Society's grounds here, fell with a dreadful crash shortly before three o'clock this afternoon, and great consternation was caused. It was owing to the very large crowd standing on the balcony examining the exhibits that the structure fell. At the time of the accident the interior of the large hall was literally packed with spectators, and an exciting stampede occurred in which many were badly crushed. It is next to impossible to obtain information, but among those who were badly injured were the following:—Miss Elmeley, aged 14, of this place, had some of her ribs broken, and now lies in a precarious condition; Miss Robertson, of the Saved Army, had one of her legs broken; Miss Barr, of Renfrew, is also injured considerably. Mr. Robinson, hardware merchant, Almonte, also received a slight injury. Mr. Heckmett, of Ottawa, had a large assortment of pictures and other articles in this balcony, and they are completely destroyed. The loss is placed at about five hundred dollars. The unfortunate accident brought the annual exhibition to an unhappy termination. There was great excitement in the town for some time after the accident.

CAPTURED.

Three Burglars Arrested—One of Them the Man Who Shot Mr. Richards.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 3.—Interest in the shooting affair at Jelley's Crossing last Sunday, in which Mr. C. Richards, of Irish Creek, was shot at by burglars, has been intensified here by the arrest at Morristown, N. Y., this afternoon, of three men supposed to be the parties wanted for the offence.

Hearing that three men were camping below the village named, which is opposite this town, our county authorities went over at noon, and with the assistance of American officers succeeded in making the arrest. The men were found asleep in the bush, and after being covered with rifles were easily captured. Upon being searched each man was found to be the possessor of a large revolver, whilst a valise found in the camp contained a full kit of the latest styles of burglars' tools. The prisoners consented to come to this side without being extradited, and are now safely lodged in gaol here. Mr. Richards has indentified the larger one of the three as the man who did the shooting.

FRIGHTFUL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

A Train Plunges into a Washout—Six Men Scalded to Death—Others Injured.

BAYFIELD, Wis., Oct. 3.—A construction train with 22 men aboard, ran into a washout near here yesterday. Two men were killed and 14 injured. Several were horribly scalded by the escaping steam, and will die.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 3.—Particulars of the railway accident near Bayfield say the crew of 22 men were all riding on the engine and tender when the engine plunged into the washout. The boiler was staved in and every man but one killed or injured. Two were killed outright, and nine others badly scalded. They were removed to Ashlands where four died before morning, including the conductor, engineer and fireman. It is believed three more will die from scalding.

Hall, Innes & Co. are selling a lot of rich German Pattern Mantles, bought in London at a discount of 40 per cent. Call and secure one.

Type Setting Machine.

The Ilion (N. Y.) Citizen, which claims to be the first newspaper in the world printed by machinery driven by electricity, appeared last Friday printed from type set up by a type-setting machine invented by John L. McMillan. The paper says: "Two operatives are required for the setting machine—one to manipulate the key-board and one to space, while the distributor requires about half the time of an attendant to feed the lines to it. The capacity of the setting machine is 5,000 ems per hour, and no power other than the fingering of the key-board is required. This distributor is automatic in its distribution of the letters, and has a capacity equal to the setting machine. Type can be set and distributed at considerable less than half the cost of hand labor." The average speed of an ordinary compositor is 1,200 ems per hour, and there are men who have set 2,000. The Citizen boldly predicts that the new machine will come into general use in daily newspaper offices."

Railway Accident.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 2.—About seven o'clock this evening, as the Grand Junction train was mounting the grade in the city, it ran into the delivery waggon of Geo. Ritchie & Co. The train was going at a speed of from twelve to sixteen miles an hour, and as it was passing the crossing at the Montreal Bank the delivery van was coming down the steep hill at the crossing. The train struck the waggon and knocked it several feet. In the van were Mr. A. W. Challen, Mr. Ritchie's foreman, and the boy who drives the waggon. The boy escaped with slight injury, but Mr. Challen was carried a long distance. His leg was literally crushed above the knee, and he received internal injury. He was immediately taken to the office of Dr. Tracy, where Dr. Tracy and Dr. Eakins attended to his injuries. Latest reports state that he is very low, and there is a probability that amputation will be necessary.

Officials Assassinated.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 3.—At Salinos, Mexico, yesterday the citizens attacked the municipal hall, overpowered the authorities and murdered Judge Santos and the Chief of Police. Over twenty persons were killed during the riot and many wounded. The people were exasperated on account of the judge's mean and arbitrary acts It is believed they were led by the celebrated outlaw El Cayote who escaped from gaol a few days ago.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. IN MEMORY.

OF OUR OLD CAMPING GROUND UNDER THE BLACK OAK TREE, ON THE WEST SHORE OF CLEAR LAKE.

I stand in memory by the lake
Where we two stood some years ago,
A thousand loving memories wake,
As flashing wavelets eib and flow.

I think of all the bright sweet past,
While blinding tears unbidden come,
So dark and deep the shadow cast,
I scarce can say God's will be done.

I live those joyous days again,
To you, to me now like a dream;
They flash across my aching brain,
They cast o'er my sad life a gleam.

The darkness deepens far and near,
An aching void there seems to be,
"I'm weary, Lord, of living here,
I long to give myself to Thee."

An earthly friend needs not my love;
Two lives once near drift far apart;
But one unchanging Friend above
Still knows each thought within my heart.

I seem to hear a whisper say,
My child I know thy heart is sore,
I drew the one so dear away
Only to make thee love Me more.

"Father, I know Thy ways are right,
Forgive these oft rebellious tears;
In sorrow I must kneel to-night
And pray for strength for coming years.

"Ever the name of her I love
I'll breathe to Thee in earnest prayer,
And if we meet in Heaven above
Our hands shall clasp no coldness there."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1884.

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE commission to investigate the alleged attempts to corrupt members of the Legislature, is now dealing with a new branch of the subject, the plot of Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and decoys to induce bribery. And now those who were so anxious for a searching investigation, are equally anxious to stifle enquiry into their own acts. The counsel engaged, Mr. McCarthy, was absent at an assize court, but they would not consent to even a day's delay. They kept Sir David Macpherson waiting on a false and fraudulent pretence, though he wished to return to his official duties, but Mr. Mowat wanted to leave, so his convenience must be consulted, even if counsel could not attend for a day. Mr. Fraser, as the mouthpiece of his collesgues dared not face a general investigation, but must have information beforehand of the points to be attacked, through his lawyer had been allowed and had used the utmost freedom. Such impatience under investigation is not symptomatic of innocence.

Mr. Mowat proved to be only a minor conspirator, who knew little or nothing of the details of his colleagues' plots. He seems to have given a general assent to them, but not to have been trusted by them with the mode of operations. That he was thus made the tool of Messrs. Hardy, Pardee and Fraser is not surprising after the pitiable exhibition he made of himself last session, when he sat as if cowed and humiliated, hardly daring to speak or or move without the leave or the prompting of the bolder offenders among his colleagues. We may almost suppose that after all he was not the friend of the embezzler Peck, but that some other members of the Cabinet foisted this culprit onto the bench. But then we remember that the Attorney-General defended in the House the appointment of a judge with embezzled money in his pocket. So too he was the mouthpiece of the bolder conspirators in this bribery plot. Mr. Mowat is apparently too weak to resist the temptations of dishonest associates.

EVASION.

THE Belleville Ontario returns to the subject of the boundary question, but it evades the points previously raised by itself. It offers no proof of the assertions it made, but insinuates that the quotation we gave from the despatch to the Dominion Government does not show that Mr. Mowat was opposed to a reference of the question to the Privy Council. The quotation proved that Mr. Mowat depended on the validity of the award—that he contended that it had legal force even without being confirmed by the Dominion Parliament. That was his position, and he accordingly declined a reference to the Privy Council. But that position was wrong, and the policy which he finally adopted was the one which Mr. Meredith had urged upon him.

The Ontario claims that we misstated what it said. That is as untrue as its other assertions. If its position was misrepresented, it was misrepresented by itself, for we quoted in full the editorial we referred to. We did not ask proof for what it did not state, but for what it did assert, and the proof is not forthcoming. The Ontario evaded the points; that was its only chance for escape from the dilemma it placed itself in. It acknowledges that Sir John Macdonald twelve years ago suggested a reference to the Privy Council. Now let it acknowledge the remainder of the truth and fall into line with those who believe in every Province receiving its rights and in having legal questions decided in a lawful manner—the Conservatives.

THE Attorney-General states on his oath that he believes Mr. Meredith to be innocent of any complicity in the alleged attempt to corrupt members of the Legislature. Mr. Mowat then must be a poltroon indeed toallow and encourage his organs to slander Mr. Meredith without uttering one word of remonstrance in favour of an innocent man unjustly accused.

IT now appears that the mysterious Lynch is not Mr. Mowat's friend. It was one of his colleagues who knew Lynch to be an American citizen. Perhaps this friend of Lynch will state where Lynch is now and where he got the money that was used in the coup de theatre in the House.

Hot in Virginia.

The temperature has scarcely fallen below ninety degrees, night or day, for a week. Vegetation is burned up and the ground parched to a great depth, making plowing impossible. The hay crop is destroyed. In the south of Virginia grazers are driving stock into Tennessee for water, as the small streams are drying up.

A Girl Killed by Burglars.

At Mineville, Ohio, early on Wednesday morning Kate Richards, daughter of the postmaster, heard burglars in the post office. She attempted to frighten them off, but was stabbed and killed. The burglars escaped with $800.

Imprisoned under Water.

ELKTON, Ind., Oct. 1.—A caisson of the Baltimore and Ohio bridge over the Susquehanna river at Frenchtown, sunk this morning. Seven men are imprisoned in the caisson sixty feet under water. Air was pumped and all were rescued.

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS CALLED TO ACCOUNT AGAINST THEIR WILL

The Attorney General Consenting to the "Traps," but Leaves Details to his Colleagues—Mr. Fraser Tries to Narrow the Enquiry.

The Royal Commissioners to investigate the alleged bribery of members of the Legislature met again on Thursday, October 2nd.

WOULD NOT WAIT FOR COUNSEL.

Mr. Meredith asked for an adjournment till next day on account of the absence of Mr. McCarthy at the Barrie assizes.

The counsel for Mr. Mowat opposed the application, but the judges consented to adjourn till 2 o'clock.

A PRETENCE EXPLODED.

Mr. JOHNSTON, Mr. Mowat's junior counsel, declined to examine the telegraph operators for whose presence he had detained Sir D. Macpherson from his official duties.

NARROWING THE ENQUIRY.

Mr. FRASER asked for exact particulars that they might know precisely what charges were to be brought against them.

Mr. MEREDITH said that the investigation should not be so circumscribed. Mr. Blake was allowed full liberty and called whom he pleased, and now their hands should not be tied.

Mr. FRASER and Mr. BLAKE argued strenuously for the technical restraints of a court of law.

The COURT said that the names of witnesses to be examined should be given, and others might be added if necessary.

Mr. MEREDITH undertook to give these next morning.

At two o'clock the commission again sat.

A MINOR CONSPIRATOR.

Mr. MOWAT was sworn and in the absence of Mr. McCarthy was examined by Mr. McMaster. The memory of the Attorney-General seemed very defective and his knowledge very imperfect. He admitted that the decoys acted with the knowledge of some members of the government. Some of his colleagues acted without his knowledge. During the continuance of the debate on the address the matter was discussed at the council board, but he could only remember the name of Wilkinson. He was not aware of Mr. McKim being sent by members of the Government to Bunting or Lyon—being advised by them to assent till the petition against him was withdrawn.

EMPLOYING DETECTIVES AND DECOYS.

He was not aware of detectives being employed, but thought it was justifiable. He agreed that money should be accepted to afford proof. Criminal proceedings being taken, he admitted that the evidence of those accused could not be received to contradict the testimony of their accusers.

THE THEATRICAL SCENE.

The money was exhibited by the Speaker on the 17th March, because, for one reason, they thought an amendment to supply, as to the timber policy, was to be introduced then by the Opposition. Mr. Pardee had so informed him.

APPROVING DECOYS.

Mr. MOWAT also swore that the advice to the informers, to seem for the time to countenance the approaches, had his approval. He did not know the exact steps taken by his colleagues.

Mr. BLAKE cross-examined Mr. Mowat, who formally denied the charges that he had advised members to approach persons to induce them to make corrupt offers, or to entrap others into criminal acts. Mr. Pardee and Mr. Hardy gave him the details and he wrote the paper that was read in the House.

MR. KIRKLAND.

Mr. MOWAT, in answer to Mr. Caswell, could give no information as to Mr. Kirkland's share in the matter, except that he had heard his name mentioned. He made the statement that Lynch was an American citizen, not of his own knowledge, but on the information of his colleagues.

Mr. MCMASTER re-examined Mr. MOWAT, who had not the slighest recollection of advising, as Balfour swore he did, to let the partie go on to see how far they would go.

EXONERATING MR. MEREDITH.

He did not think that Mr. Meredith was a party to the corruption, but he did not inform him as it was done in his favour.

The Commission adjourned until the following morning.

ANOTHER DARING BURGLARY.

A Jewellery Store is Ransacked and Most of the Valuables Stolen.

Some time during Friday night the jewellery store of Mr. James Renton, George street north, was broken into and the larger portion of the valuables stolen. Mr. A. Potvin, who lives with his cousin, Mr. J. Potvin, grocer, came down stairs and went into the back yard. Mr. Renton's shop adjoins the grocery store. As Mr. Potvin was looking around he saw that a hole had been bored in the back door of Mr. Renton's store. An investigation was made and it was found that the burglars had bored beneath the lock of the door a hole large enough to allow the arm of a man to pass through. The key, which was in the lock, was turned and the burglars had easy access to the store. The drawers and cases were all ransacked and watches to the number af sixty one were carried off.

The burglars must have been well acquainted with the place, as they knew exactly where the back door was. With the assistance of an old shutter they climbed over a shed and a brick wall and let themselves down into a small court, towards which the back door faces.

In going away they left the tools used by them behind, namely, a brace and bit bearing the stamp of "B. Lloyd." A chisel bearing the name "R. Cook," and another small chisel. Messrs. Cook and Lloyd are at present engaged at work on a small house in the north-west part of the town, and their tools were left at the house where they worked.

P. C. Adams, on hearing of the burglary, proceeded to the place and took charge of the tools. The owners may have them by applying at the police office.

Business Prudence.

A life insurance man got into a row with a man, and let him pound him up pretty thoroughly.

"My, my," said the president of the company, when he reported, "what did you do that for? Weren't you a bigger man than he was?"

"Yes, sir, and I could have licked him under ordinary circumstances, but he pulled a gun on me."

"Why didn't you kill him on the spot? You would have been cleared by any jury in the land."

"Maybe I would, but I didn't want to do it."

"Well, you ought to be discharged, for cowardice. I've got no patience with such a man," continued the president, getting hot under the collar.

"Hold on, don't be rash, sir I could have killed the man very easily, but I'd had written him an unconditional policy on his life only last week in this company for $10,000, and it didn't feel that it was exactly business-like to kill the blame brute and stick the company in that style."

"Oh—ah—indeed—" hemmed the president, "that puts it in a different light. Mr. Bookkeeper, give this gentleman $50. Discretion gathers a good deal of moss."—Merchant Traveller.

KILLED ON THE ALPS

A German Professor's Dying Thoughts Alone on an Alpine Abyss.

About three weeks ago a German professor, Herr Dreikorn, of Mannheim, disappeared while making a tour on the Alps of Vorarlberg, near the Lake of Constance. It was conjectured that an accident had befallen him, and the surmise has been verified by the discovery of his body at the foot of the precipitous western side of the Widderstein mountain. Professor Dreikorn, who was proceeding through the mountains from Bregenz to Lindau, appears to have lost his way in a mist, and to have fallen over the mountain side into the valley below—a distance of upwards of six hundred feet. When discovered the body was in an advanced state of decomposition, and the medical examination showed that the deceased had in his fall suffered mortal injuries, including broken limbs, ribs and skull. The fact that his watch and finger ring had disappeared excited suspicions of foul play; but these were set at rest when it was discovered that his cash, amounting to 180 marks in gold and silver coin, was still in his pockets. On his body being lifted a piece of paper was found, with a few words in pencil to the following effect:—"Telegraph Professor Dreikorn, Mannheim. My last thoughts are of Antonie and mother. Terrible fall."

READING FOR SUNDAY.

THE PATH OF LIGHT.

O patient Father! hear my prayer,
And make me wise this day to know
That every creature of Thy care
Shares Thy protection here below,
When comes the night
The stars pour on my path their light.

Thy loving kindness followed me
When from the narrow way I strayed;
Thy word was light, and I could see
The footprints that the saints had made
Upon the road
They trod, the cross of Christ their load.

Along the path are stains of red,
And ashes of the martyr's fires
And crosses where the saints have bled.
And the reflected light of spires
That point the way
And guide the steps, so prone to stray!

Above the straight and narrow way
The hosts that bear His banners white
March under sheltering clouds by day
And pillared fires that guide by night;
Nor rock, nor sea
Can block the path that God makes free.

Poor wanderers, we have forfeited
The favor of a Father's love;
Yet He has been our help; He led
Us with His light from Heaven above.
It cometh down,
Where leans a cross, to light a crown.

—GEORGE W. BUNGAY

Ever Towards God.

Brooks and rivers are born of the sea, and whither are they they set to running but toward and into the sea? It is living water imparting health and vigour as long as it has motion toward its parent sea, bestowing to the world, in its course, the beneficence of springs, wells, and rivers. But let it loiter and utterly stop in pools and marshes, and it becomes foul and malarious and deadly to those dwelling near. So man's life that comes from God must not stop and stagnate in the foul pool of selfishness, sensuality, and passion. Life must flow on toward God, its source, showing itself according to the devine and beautiful circuit, in pure habits, good deeds, adoration, humility and love. Then,

"Though inland far we be,
Our souls have sight of that immortal sea
Which brought us hither."

The Light of the World.

The electric light has not yet superseded the sun. The blazing pine-knot gave place to the candle, and the candle to the oil-lamp, and the lamp to coal-gas, and now gas gives way to the greater brightness of the electric light; but the light which God kindled in the heavens, gives place to no light kindled by man. So the true Light of the spiritual world shines on undimmed among the changing lights of man. Knowledge supersedes knowledge, and system conquers system; and at each new accession of human light—whether the light of the true lamp, or the light of a will-o'-the-wisp, men cry out that now, at last, we have no need of the divine Light. But human lights flicker and fail, while that Light shines on, and they who walk in that light shall neither walk in darkness, nor find that Light eclipsed by a more glorious light.—S. S. Times.

Pentecost a Living Power.

The power of Pentecost is not yet exhausted. It is well that the church should avail herself of the best human acquirements. Let every thing that is true be consecrated to the service of God. But it is not by these that the world is to be won, nor by those that the god of this world is to be conquered. It is not by wisdom of words that we are to meet the world's wisdom of words; it is not by oratory that were are to meet oratory; it is not by culture that we are to meet culture; it is not by sensationalism that we are to meet sensationalism. If we would successfully confront the dark mass of human evil that rises around us, we must fall back on Pentecost and on Pentecostal power. That is still in store for the Church of God. For its full exercise she is responsible. The church has not cast anchor over an uncertain Bible or an untried creed. If she has, then she has no message to deliver and no authority to lift up her voice in the name of God and his Christ. It would better become her to be silent. But she believes and therefore she speaks. She has a divine commission to stand upon, and a true gospel to deliver. Hence she can afford to face not only opposition, but disappointment and apparent failure. She can also afford to wait all the more because she has been forewarned of delay, and of the need of patience. "He that believeth does not make haste."—Dr. H. Bonar.

Divercity of Service.

No one follower of Christ should condemn the other because the other's spiritual life is not of the same stamp as his own. Let not Martha, wearied with her much serving, running every where to missionary meetings, or to visit the sick and the poor, find fault with Mary in her quiet devotion, peaceful, thoughtful, gentle, loving, because she does not abound in the same activities. Nor let Mary, in her turn, judge Martha, and call her piety superficial. Let each of these follow the Master closely, see as much as possible of the infinite loveliness of His character, and copy all she can into her own life, but let her not imagine that she has seen or copied all of Christ, and let her look at every other believer's life with reverence, as bearing another little fragment of the same divine likeness. Let every man do earnestly and well the particular work which he is fitted and called to do, but let him not imagine he is doing the only kind of work which Christ wants to have done in this world. Rather let him look upon every other faithful servant who does a different work as doing a part equally important and equally acceptable to the Master.

The bird praises God by singing. The flower pays its tribute in fragrant incense as its censor swings in the breeze. The tree shakes down fruit from its bending boughs. The star pours out its silver beams to gladden the earth. The clouds give their blessing in gentle rain. Yet all with equal faithfulness fulfil their mission. So among Christ's servants, one serves by incessant toil in the home, caring for a large family; another by silent examples is a sufferer, patient and uncomplaining; another with a pen, sending forth words that inspire, help, cheer, and bless; another by the living voice, whose eloquence moves men and starts impulses to better, grander living; another by the ministry of sweet song; another by sitting in quiet peace at Jesus' feet, and then shining as a gentle and silent light, or pouring out the fragrance of love like a lowly and unconscious flower. Yet each and all of these may be serving Christ acceptably, hearing at the close of each day the whispered words, "Well done."—Exchange.

THE DAM.—Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintendent of the Trent Works, was in this village last week, and made a close examinatson of all the works on the dam, slide and canal. It is to be hoped that during the approaching seasons of the Dominion Parliament an appropriation may be made for the repair of the dam. Such repairs are badly needed, for the leakage is so great that it is difficult to maintain navigation on the upper lake.

BIG ISLAND STOCK FARM.—The Big Island herd has been very successful at our two leading shows, the Dominion, held this year at Ottowa, and the Toronto Industrial. The following is a list of prizes taken:—At the Dominion; 1st for aged bull, 1st for 2 year old bull, 1st for bull calf and silver medal for best bull of any age, 2nd for cow four year old and upwards, 1st and second for three year old cows, 2nd for 2 year old heifer, 1st, 2nd and 3rd for yearling heifer, and 1st, 2nd and 3rd for heifer calves. At the industrial: 1st for 2 year old bull, 2rd for yearling bull, 1st and 2nd for bull calves, 2nd for yearling heifer, 3rd for heifer calf, and bronze medal for herd. The grand 4 yr. old bull, Chivalry, (1765) winner of two firsts and two silver medals at Toronto Industrial, this year and last, as best bull of any age, in the hands of Messrs. Hay & Patton, by whom he was imported, has been purchased from them by Mossom Boyd & Co., and will form a considerable addition to the Big Island herd. He will be exhibited at our local show next week, as will also the 2 yr. old bull, King of Trumps (2895), winner of first in his class at th[illegible]ndustrial and Dominion, and they are well w[illegible]r journey to see. THE FARM AND GARDEN.

The Smallest Breed of Sheep.

The very smallest of all kinds of sheep, says a contemporary, is the tiny Breton sheep. It is too small to be very profitable to raise, for of course it cannot have much wool, and as for eating, why a hungry man could almost eat one at a meal. It is so small when full grown, that it can be hide behind a good-sized bucket. It takes its name from the part of France where it is most raised. But if not a profitable sheep it is a dear little creature for a pet, for it is very loving, and because it is so small it is not such a nuisance about the house as the celebrated lamb which belonged to a little girl. It would need to be a very large little girl—a giant girl, indeed—who could take an ordinary sheep in her lap and cuddle it there; but any little girl could find room in her lap for a Breton sheep quite as easily as for one of those very ugly little dogs called the ugly name of pug. One of this little creature's peculiarities is its extreme sympathy with the feelings of its human friends, when it has been brought up as a pet in the house, and has learned to distinguish between happiness and unhappiness. If any person whom it likes is very much pleased about anything, and shows it by laughing, the little sheep will frisk about with every sign of joy; but if, on the contrary, this person sheds tears, the sympathetic friend will evince its sorrow in an equally unmistakably way. A kind word and a loving caress will fill it with happiness, while a cross word or harsh gesture will cause it evident distress.

Raising Onion Seed.

For two years onion seed has been very cheap. If we may judge from past experience it will sooner or later be high again. It is a good time for those who have had the experience in raising seed, and wish to engage in the business, to set out a few bushels of onions. Let them select the very best onions, and especially avoid all those with thick necks. It does not pay to grow your union seed unless you grow the very best. You can buy plenty of poor seed—and lose money by it. Onions for seed can be set out in the autumn or in the spring. If proper precautions are taken, autumn is the best time. The land must be moderately rich, and thoroughly worked. Onion roots run down deep into the subsoil, and it is therefore essential that the subsoil should be free from stagnant water. Low, mucky land that will produce good crops of onions, will not always produce onion seed. Dry upland is better and more certain—or rather it is less uncertain, for at best onion seed growing is rather an uncertain business. You may get a good crop of seed and a good price, and the crop may bring you in one thousand dollars per acre—or it may all "blast." We mark out the rows three and a half feet apart. Make a furrow three or four inches deep. Set out the onions in the rows so thick that they will almost touch each other, and cover carefully and well two or three inches deep. If heavy rains wash the soil away from the onions, they must be covered again before winter sets in. If they cannot be well covered with earth, draw out some manure or straw, and spread it two or three inches thick over the rows, or over the whole surface of the land. There is no danger of the onions being injured by the frost, provided they are well covered, but if this precaution is not taken, and we have little snow for a cover, many of the onions will be killed. The same remarks apply to union sets. These can be safely set in the autumn, but they must be carefully covered with earth, or with earth and and manure or straw. When proper care is used, we would much prefer setting them out in the autumn.—American Agriculturalist.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly grasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of no much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 8, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

THE PATH OF LIGHT.

O patient Father! hear my prayer,
And make me wise this day to know
That every creature of Thy care
Shares Thy protection here below.
When comes the night
The stars pour on my path their light.

Thy loving kindness followed me
When from the narrow way I strayed;
Thy word was light, and I could see
The footprints that the saints had made
Upon the road
They trod, the cross of Christ their load.

Along the path are stains of red,
And ashes of the martyr's fires
And crosses where the saints have bled.
And the reflected light of spires
That point the way
And guide the steps, so prone to stray!

Above the straight and narrow way
The hosts that bear His banners white
March under sheltering clouds by day
And pillared fires that guide by night;
Nor rock, nor sea
Can block the path that God makes free.

Poor wanderers, we have forfeited
The favor of a Father's love;
Yet He has been our help; He led
Us with His light from Heaven above.
It cometh down,
Where leans a cross, to light a crown.

—GEORGE W. BUNGAY

Ever Towards God.

Brooks and rivers are born of the sea, and whither are they they set to running but toward and into the sea? It is living water imparting health and vigour as long as it has motion toward its parent sea, bestowing to the world, in its course, the beneficence of springs, wells, and rivers. But let it loiter and utterly stop in pools and marshes, and it becomes foul and malarious and deadly to those dwelling near. So man's life that comes from God must not stop and stagnate in the foul pool of selfishness, sensuality, and passion. Life must flow on toward God, its source, showing itself according to the devine and beautiful circuit, in pure habits, good deeds, adoration, humility and love. Then,

"Though inland far we be,
Our souls have sight of that immortal sea
Which brought us hither."

The Light of the World.

The electric light has not yet superseded the sun. The blazing pine-knot gave place to the candle, and the candle to the oil-lamp, and the lamp to coal-gas, and now gas gives way to the greater brightness of the electric light; but the light which God kindled in the heavens, gives place to no light kindled by man. So the true Light of the spiritual world shines on undimmed among the changing lights of man. Knowledge supersedes knowledge, and system conquers system; and at each new accession of human light—whether the light of the true lamp, or the light of a will-o'-the-wisp, men cry out that now, at last, we have no need of the divine Light. But human lights flicker and fail, while that Light shines on, and they who walk in that light shall neither walk in darkness, nor find that Light eclipsed by a more glorious light.—S. S. Times.

Pentecost a Living Power.

The power of Pentecost is not yet exhausted. It is well that the church should avail herself of the best human acquirements. Let everything that is true be consecrated to the service of God. But it is not by these that the world is to be won, nor by those that the god of this world is to be conquered. It is not by wisdom of words that we are to meet the world's wisdom of words; it is not by oratory that were are to meet oratory; it is not by culture that we are to meet culture; it is not by sensationalism that we are to meet sensationalism. If we would successfully confront the dark mass of human evil that rises around us, we must fall back on Pentecost and on Pentecostal power. That is still in store for the Church of God. For its full exercise she is responsible. The church has not cast anchor over an uncertain Bible or an untried creed. If she has, then she has no message to deliver and no authority to lift up her voice in the name of God and his Christ. It would better become her to be silent. But she believes and therefore she speaks. She has a divine commission to stand upon, and a true gospel to deliver. Hence she can afford to face not only opposition, but disappointment and apparent failure. She can also afford to wait all the more because she has been forewarned of delay, and of the need of patience. "He that believeth does not make haste."—Dr. H. Bonar.

Divercity of Service.

No one follower of Christ should condemn the other because the other's spiritual life is not of the same stamp as his own. Let not Martha, wearied with her much serving, running every where to missionary meetings, or to visit the sick and the poor, find fault with Mary in her quiet devotion, peaceful, thoughtful, gentle, loving, because she does not abound in the same activities. Nor let Mary, in her turn, judge Martha, and call her piety superficial. Let each of these follow the Master closely, see as much as possible of the infinite loveliness of His character, and copy all she can into her own life, but let her not imagine that she has seen or copied all of Christ, and let her look at every other believer's life with reverence, as bearing another little fragment of the same divine likeness. Let every man do earnestly and well the particular work which he is fitted and called to do, but let him not imagine he is doing the only kind of work which Christ wants to have done in this world. Rather let him look upon every other faithful servant who does a different work as doing a part equally important and equally acceptable to the Master.

The bird praises God by singing. The flower pays its tribute in fragrant incense as its censor swings in the breeze. The tree shakes down fruit from its bending boughs. The star pours out its silver beams to gladden the earth. The clouds give their blessing in gentle rain. Yet all with equal faithfulness fulfil their mission. So among Christ's servants, one serves by incessant toil in the home, caring for a large family; another by silent examples as a sufferer, patient and uncomplaining; another with a pen, sending forth words that inspire, help, cheer, and bless; another by the living voice, whose eloquence moves men and starts impulses to better, grander living; another by the ministry of sweet song; another by sitting in quiet peace at Jesus' feet, and then shining as a gentle and silent light, or pouring out the fragrance of love like a lowly and unconcious flower. Yet each and all of these may be serving Christ acceptably, hearing at the close of each day the whispered words, "Well done."—Exchange.

BOBCAYGEON.

THE DAM.—Mr. R. B. Rogers, superintendent of the Trent Works, was in this village last week, and made a close examinateon of all the works on the dam, slide and canal. It is to be hoped that during the approaching seasons of the Dominion Parliament an appropriation may be made for the repair of the dam. Such repairs are badly needed, for the leakage is so great that it is difficult to maintain navigation on the upper lake.

BIG ISLAND STOCK FARM.—The Big Island herd has been very successful at our two leading shows, the Dominion, held this year at Ottowa, and the Toronto Industrial. The following is a list of prizes taken:—At the Dominion; 1st for aged bull, 1st for 2 year old bull, 1st for bull calf and silver medal for best bull of any age, 2nd for cow four year old and upwards, 1st and second for three year old cows, 2nd for 2 year old heifer, 1st, 2nd and 3rd for yearling heifer, and 1st, 2nd and 3rd for heifer calves. At the industrial: 1st for 2 year old bull, 2rd for yearling bull, 1st and 2nd for bull calves, 2nd for yearling heifer, 3rd for heifer calf, and bronze medal for herd. The grand 4 yr. old bull, Chivalry, (1765) winner of two firsts and two silver medals at Toronto Industrial, this year and last, as best bull of any age, in the hands of Messrs. Hay & Patton, by whom he was imported, has been purchased from them by Measom Boyd & Co., and will form a considerable addition to the Big Island herd. He will be exhibited at our local show next week, as will also the 2 yr. old bull, King of Trumps (2895), winner of first in his class at the Industrial and Dominion, and they are well worth a long journey to see. At the Toronto Industrial the firm disposed of several young bulls at good prices.—Independent.

THE FARM AND GARDEN.

The Smallest Breed of Sheep.

The very smallest of all kinds of sheep, says a contemporary, is the tiny Breton sheep. It is too small to be very profitable to raise, for of course it cannot have much wool, and as for eating, why a hungry man could almost eat one at a meal. It is so small when full grown, that it can be hide behind a good-sized bucket. It takes its name from the part of France where it is most raised. But if not a profitable sheep it is a dear little creature for a pet, for it is very loving, and because it is so small it is not such a nuisance about the house as the celebrated lamb which belonged to a little girl. It would need to be a very large little girl—a giant girl, indeed—who could take an ordinary sheep in her lap and cuddle it there; but any little girl could find room in her lap for a Breton sheep quite as easily as for one of those very ugly little dogs called the ugly name of pug. One of this little creature's peculiarities is its extreme sympathy with the feelings of its human friends, when it has been brought up as a pet in the house, and has learned to distinguish between happiness and unhappiness. If any person whom it likes is very much pleased about anything, and shows it by laughing, the little sheep will frisk about with every sign of joy; but if, on the contrary, this person sheds tears, the sympathetic friend will evince its sorrow in an equally unmistakably way. A kind word and a loving caress will fill it with happiness, while a cross word or harsh gesture will cause it evident distress.

Raising Onion Seed.

For two years onion seed has been very cheap. If we may judge from past experience it will sooner or later be high again. It is a good time for those who have had the experience in raising seed, and wish to engage in the business, to set out a few bushels of onions. Let them select the very best onions, and especially avoid all those with thick necks. It does not pay to grow your union seed unless you grow the very best. You can buy plenty of poor seed—and lose money by it. Onions for seed can be set out in the autumn or in the spring. If proper precautions are taken, autumn is the best time. The land must be moderately rich, and thoroughly worked. Onion roots run down deep into the subsoil, and it is therefore essential that the subsoil should be free from stagnant water. Low, mucky land that will produce good crops of onions, will not always produce onion seed. Dry upland is better and more certain—or rather it is less uncertain, for at best onion seed growing is rather an uncertain business. You may get a good crop of seed and a good price, and the crop may bring you in one thousand dollars per acre—or it may all "blast." We mark out the rows three and a half feet apart. Make a furrow three or four inches deep. Set out the onions in the rows so thick that they will almost touch each other, and cover carefully and well two or three inches deep. If heavy rains wash the soil away from the onions, they must be covered again before winter sets in. If they cannot be well covered with earth, draw out some manure or straw, and spread it two or three inches thick over the rows, or over the whole surface of the land. There is no danger of the onions being injured by the frost, provided they are well covered, but if this precaution is not taken, and we have little snow for a cover, many of the onions will be killed. The same remarks apply to union sets. These can be safely set in the autumn, but they must be carefully covered with earth, or with earth and and manure or straw. When proper care is used, we would much prefer setting them out in the autumn.—American Agriculturalist.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of no much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child." Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Don't Fail to be There.

Don't fail to attend the grand evening social at Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Tuesday, the 14th inst. A good musical programme has been arranged; refreshments of almost every description will be provided, and the social will be closed by "tripping the light fantastic toe." All are cordially welcome.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh southerly to westerly winds, generally fair, warm weather, with a few light showers in the northern portion.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to day were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	78°	29.10
One o'clock	78°	29.09
Three o'clock	78°	29.07

Real Estate.

The roughcast house on Harvey street belonging to Mr. T. Darcey, which was to have been disposed of on Friday afternoon, was not sold on account of the amounts offered not reaching the reserve bid. Mr. C. Stapleton conducted the sale. The residence of Dr. Sproule, on Brock street, was not disposed of for the same reason, the residence being withdrawn from sale on account of the lowness of the bids. Fairweather & Co. were the auctioneers.

North-West Potatoes.

Mr. H. Long, who has just returned from Winnipeg, has shown us a sample of potatoes he brought with him. They were being purchased by Mr. Headley, of the Grand Pacific Hotel, for the use of his guests, and were only fair specimens of the bulk. Three of them weigh 5 lbs. 7 oz., and they are clean grown, bright and firm. Mr. J. T. Vinceley grew them on his farm at Stonewall, Victoria county, Manitoba; planting a third of a bushel and digging twenty bushels. Such facts speak volumes for the fertility of North-Western Canada.

Turnbull's Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms will be formally opened for the Season on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 7th and 8th Oct.

The Dufferin Literary Club.

The above club was organized at the Mechanics' Institute on Friday evening. A good attendance of the literary inclined young men of the town were present, and the following officers were elected:—Hon.-President, D. W. Dumble; President, J. D. McIlmoyle; 1st Vice-President, Aurther Stevenson; 2nd Vice-President, F. P. Henry; Secretary, W. Cushen. The following gentlemen were elected honorary members:—Dr. Tassie, B. Earl, A. P. Poussette, F. Lewis, Rev. V. Clementi, Geo. A. Cox, M. Millar, J. F. Jeffers, W. Manson, Dr. O'Sullivan and J. H. Roper. The club starts with a good membership, and at the first meeting, although a preliminary one, considerable enthusiasm was shown. The object of the club is mutual intellectual culture.

Special Rates.

The Driving Park Company have completed arrangements with the Grand Trunk Railway to run cheap excursions to Peterborough on Thursday and Friday, the 9th and 10th. Excursions will be run from Belleville, Lindsay, Port Hope, Lakefield and intermediate stations at a fare and a third, good to return up to the 11th. These excursions will no doubt bring a large number of people into the town and the Directors of the Driving Park deserve credit for the way in which they are pushing the matter forward and trying to make the meet successful. The Directors have not asked the citizens to contribute any prizes, having supplied the valuable prizes themselves. The Driving Park Company should receive hearty support from the townspeople on the 9th and 10th.

Art Union of London.

Many of our readers will doubtless remember the fine oil painting which was on exhibition last year in Messrs. A. L. Davis & Co's window, it being a prize drawn by Miss A. Dugan, and received from the Art Union of London. We have now the pleasure of directing the attention of all lovers of fine art to another beautiful oil painting entitled "A Woodland Pool," drawn at the last distribution of prizes in London by Mr. A. D. Faucher, valued at £20 sterling; also to the fine chromo lithograph of "Bologio" on Lake Como, drawn by Mr. W. H. Budden, both to be seen in the same window. These gentlemen, among many others, are subscribers to the Art Union of London. We are informed that during the past five years seven prizes have been drawn by Peterborough subscribers. Mr. J. H. Roper, the honorary agent here, will be glad to give any information as to the objects and working of the Art Union, and receive the names of subscribers, who upon payment of $5.25 can select an engraving from a long list, and in addition, are entitled to a chance of drawing a prize valued from £10 to £100.

Boys' Underclothing to suit all ages can be bought very cheap at Turnbull's.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.

Mr. Wm. Lech's Hat and Fur Store is Entirely Renovated.

Mr. Wm. Lech has long been known in Peterborough as one of her most reliable merchants. He has endeavored to deal squarely with his customers and thus has earned for himself a name of honesty which has established for him a large connection throughout the town and county. Mr. Lech came to Peterborough when it was in comparative infancy and has, commercially speaking, grown with its growth and strengthened with its strength. This statement will be amply corroborated by a cursory glance through his premises on George street.

Mr. Lech has so transformed the appearance of his store that a person who had not seen it for a few months would scarcely recognize it. The front of the building has been freshly painted, and new plate glass windows have been put in. The store has been extended through to Chambers street, and now has a length of more than a hundred feet. The customers now walk on an oil finished oak floor, and the counters have been handsomely painted and grained. The first object when entering which strikes the eye is a large mirror which stands in the centre of the floor. It is of British plate and stands 7 4 inches high. To the right stands, we may say, the handsomest case in Peterborough. It reaches nearly to the ceiling, is of black walnut, and six lights of plate glass, 9½x2½ feet, separated by silver bars, are placed in the frame. It was constructed by Mr. D. Belleghem. A cosy office has been fitted up at the Chambers street entrance, and the work-shop, which was formerly on the first flat, has been removed to the second flat. Hat and cap cases and cabinets stand here and there, and various specimens of texidermy appropriately ornament the store.

Mr. Lech may be complimented on having a place of business worthy of the city of Peterborough. Mr. Lech has also handsomely fitted up the stoor next to the one occupied by himself as a clothing store for Mr. Hugh Ross. The front of this building has also been painted, and internal improvements have been made.

Sermons on the Gospels.

The Rev. Mr. Munro will continue his series of sermons on the Gospels to-morrow evening, in the Aylmer street Baptist Church, when his subject will be the Gospel of Mark.

The Market.

There was a large attendance at the market this morning. Fowl and fall fruit was offered for sale in abundance. The following are the prices of some of the principal commodities:—Butter per pound, 22c.; eggs per dozen, 16c.; potatoes per bag, 50c.; geese each, 50c.; ducks per pair, 50c.; chickens per pair, 40c.; turkeys each, $1.00.

Personal.

Mr. R. E. Wood and Mr. J. H. Weller departed for Albany, N.Y., on Friday night to attend a banquet given by Gen. Oliver, the Commodore of the American Canoe Association, and to attend a meeting of the Executive Committe. Mr. Wood is a member of the Executive Committee, and Mr. Weller is a new member of the Regatta Committee.

Chit Chat.

—Rain follows sunshine.

—Coal stoves are in operation with the thermometer at 78°.

—Large attendance of pedestrians at the Driving Park this morning.

—The free show on the market square drew a large crowd last night.

—This is the season for literary clubs to be organized.

—No trace of the jewellery store burglars has been found.

Marvellous Disappearance.

The disappearance so quickly is something which cannot be understood even by the interested parties. Enquiry is being made and facts elicited which will no doubt disclose what appears now to be a mystery. One of the facts known is that numbers of people have been congregating in a large back room at different times during the last two weeks for the express purpose of carrying away the stock—one reason for doing so is the cheapness of the Room Paper. Further particulars as to quality and designs can be had by enquiry at A. L. Davis & Co's.

Fall From a Ladder.

This morning at about half-past seven o'clock as Mr. Anthony Hickey, groom for Mr. E. Brown's Fanny B., was coming down on a ladder from the hay loft of the stable belonging to the Little Windsor Hotel, his foot slipped and he fell to the ground, a distance of about ten feet. He came down head first and put out his hand to protect himself. Both bones of his arm were broken a little above the wrist. The young man took great interest in his charge, Fanny B., and expressed himself as being more pained at leaving the mare than at having his arm broken. Dr. Kincaid was in attendance.

Habliment Hall.

The above popular establishment is always to the front with the choicest and most fashionable goods that money will buy. In gents' furnishings it is noted as being the store par excellence, the stock being always well assorted, and the designs of the latest patterns in English, American and Canadian cloths. The attention of parents is called to our new line of jersey suits for boys, just the thing for winter wear. A large range of fashionable overcostings has been opened up. It will pay those wanting a nobby fall suit to call and inspect the handsome range of Tweeds in Scotch, French, Irish and Canadian. They are, without doubt, the best line of goods sent out from the markets this season. Call and satisfy yourself by an inspection. A. McNEIL, Habliment Hall.

At Hazel Brae.

A very pleasant musical entertainment was held at the Hazel Brae Home on Friday evening. Mr. D. W. Dumble occupied the chair and the entertainment was commenced by an instrumental trio by the Misses Smith. During the evening Miss Bannerman contributed vocal solos, rendering, "When the Heart is Young," in excellent style. Miss Rahtjon sang a pretty German song and Miss Cottingham also acquitted herself well, as she always does, in some well chosen solos. Several choruses were interspersed through the programme and all were well sung, but "April Night" may be particularized as being especially well rendered. Prof. Doucet and Mrs. Duff gave two piano and violin duets, which were well received, and Mr. Duff and Miss Bannerman pleased the audience in two vocal duets. Mr. P. E. S. Cooper recited "The Last Words of Marmion," and Mr. Duff also contributed a recitation, "The Duke of Clare's Dream." Both recitations received well deserved applause. Mr. Geale, during the evening, rendered a vocal solo, which amply bore out his reputation as a vocalist. Mrs. Duff presided at the piano and played the accompaniments with good taste and precision. The entertainment was closed by singing the National Anthem. The entertainment was a financial success, a handsome sum having been realized.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

All the Latest Styles in Millinery will be displayed at Turnbull's Opening on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 7th and 8th Oct.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours,

J. M. JOHNSON,

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

POLICE COURT.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.

MONDAY, Oct. 6.—J. Alford was charged by J. P. McNamara with having used abusive and and insulting language. The charge was proven and the defendant was fined $5.

J. P. McNantara was charged by J. Alford with a similar offence. As the evidence was not conclusive the case was dismissed.

LINDSAY.

A GOOD SEASON.—The Post says that the Trent Valley Navigation Co's boats have discontinued the double trips on the summer time-card arrangement. The season has been a very good one if it may be inferred from the steady and large passenger travel up and down the Lakes.

A RAILWAY WAR.—Some years ago the Midland railway company arranged for the right of way for a track through Mr. Cullon's lot and through another vacant lot now owned by Mr. McArthur. Last week some men were sent over to fence it up, but they had proceded no further than getting in the posts when Mr. McArthur appeared on the scene with a crowbar, knocked all the posts down and drew them away. It is not known what the company intend to do about the matter and Mr. McArthur at present holds the fort.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.—The central exhibition was well attended. On Thursday there could not have been much less than 10,000 in the grounds. Over 8,000 tickets were sold at the gates, and a half-holiday having been made at the schools, the children turned out en masse, headed by their teachers, and were admitted in a body. A passing enquiry made to the secretary brought out the information that the number of entries exceeds last year by 1,470, and gives a grand total of 3,960 entries. The show of horses, cattle and sheep was good. Among the exhibitors was Mr. Joseph Redmond, of Otonabee, who showed a draught mare and colt, two fine devon cows and a heifer. Mr. Redmond made the largest exhibit of swine. Mr. M. M. Boyd & Co. made a splendid exhibit of cattle from their Big Island herd. There was a large show of farming implements, among the exhibitors being Mr. P. Hamilton, of Peterborough. The inside show of plants and flowers, vegetables ladies work, &c., was all very good.

FENELON FALLS.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL.—Mrs. Corrier, of Fenelon Falls, has a young apple tree which was only planted last spring. It began to bloom on the 15th of August, kept blooming about two weeks, and is now covered with young apples. We have not seen the tree, and our informant could not tell the variety which it belonged to.

THRESHING MACHINE ACCIDENT.—Mr. John Schell, Sr., of Somerville, was threshing with his own machine in his own barn on Wednesday, the 1st inst. While oiling and examining the machine, which was running at the time, he had doubts about one of the nuts being tight, and put his right hand in to feel it. While he was doing so the wrist-band of his shirt came unbuttened, the sleave was caught in the gearing and wound up, and a large piece of flesh was torn out of his arm about midway between the wrist and elbow. A messenger was immediately sent to Dr. Wilson's office at the Falls, and, as he said Mr. Schell's arm was torn all to pieces, both doctors went out and took their instruments, expecting that the limb would have to be amputated; but found that no bone was broken, and that the accident, though a bad one, was not as serious as they had been led to believe. Mr. Schell has been working with threshing machines for more than twenty-five years, and was never before hurt by one of them.—Gazette.

BAILLIEBORO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHANGE OF SUITS.—On the afternoon of Thursday, Oct. 2nd, while Mr. James Byers and family, who live about a mile south of this village, were attending the Bailliebore agricultural show, two tramps entered the residence and stole a quantity of clothing. The family left the house at 12 o'clock noon and a boy and girl returned at about 5:30 o'clock. During that interval the tramps had disrobed themselves of their old clothing and one had donned a tweed pair of pants and a blue serge coat and vest belonging to Mr. Byers. The other decked himself out in a tweed vest and pair of pants belonging to Mr. Byers and a coat belonging to Mr. Byers' hired man. They took also an overcoat, a guernsey, two pairs of socks, two silk handkerchiefs, and a pair of lace shoes. They then rummaged around and broke open the trunk of the hired man, out of which they took a razor, a tie, and a white shirt. They left their clothes behind them, and finally before leaving entered the pantry and filled themselves with toothsome edibles. Their clothes indicate them to be low set men.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. Address: H. A. L. WHITE, Sec'y., St. Marys.

Is it Another Tragedy?

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 5.—On Friday night two men sailing down the river discovered the corpse of a man floating alongside the boat. They were somewhat excited over the event, and allowed the boat to drift from its course, after which they searched for the body, but owing to the darkness did not succeed in finding it. The body must have passed down through the rapids and over the falls.

Child Killed.

HAMILTON, Oct. 4.—This afternoon on the track of the Grand Trunk Railway, about a mile west of the Hamilton station, at the junction of the Toronto branch, a child about two and a half years old, son of night watchman Ross, of the Grand Trunk yards, was accidentally run over by the Atlantic fast express going east, severing the body in twain. JERSEY CITY, Oct. 5.—Geo. Bates, a ship carpenter, while returning from work last night, was accosted by Patrick Murphy, Harry Jackson, and a number of companions known as "the bridge gang," who demanded seven cents for beer. Bates refused, and an altercation ensued. Bates was knocked down, fracturing his skull, and died this morning. Alex. Campbell, night watchman, was attacked by Murphy and some companions at the same place early this morning, but escaped by drawing his revolver. Murphy was arrested, and five members of the gang are held as witnesses. Jackson has not been found.

Train Wrecking in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kas., Oct. 5.—A passenger train which left Kansas City Saturday night on the Santa Fe railroad struck a cross-tie laced on the track near Empoira junction. The engine pushed the cross tie betwen the guard rail and outside rail on a bridge crossing a small stream and passed over safely. A freight train following was thromn from the track by the obstructon, wrecking the engine and nine cars. The fireman was crushed and killed under the engine, and the engineer slightly wounded. It is supposed the cross tie was put on the track track for the purpose of wrecking the passenger train.

A Sensational Murder Trial.

A trial in progress in Austrian Gallicia is creating much excitement. The accused are a Hebrew named Ritter and his wife and two daughters, and a Christian named Strachlinki. It is charged that Ritter betrayed a Christian girl, and when she was about to become a mother, enticed her into a cellar and murdered her with an axe. The others are accused of being accessories to the murder and of aiding in concealing the body. Portions of the girl's body it is claimed were found in the river. Strachlinki at first confessed to participation in the crime, but afterwards recanted, saying he had been tortured into making the confession by gendarmes. The daughters of Ritter were discharged for lack of evidence, but the others was tried at the Razeszow assizes and all three were convicted. Ritter was condemned to death and his wife and Strachlinki were sentenced to penal servitude for life. The prisoners appealed from the verdict and are now being retried. The cost of the defence, which will be very large, is being paid for by certain rich Hebrews in Vienna, who say the whole thing is but a part of the anti-Semitic prosecutions which have been rife throughout the empire.

The English Sparrow.

The Ornithologists' Union listened to the report of the English sparrow in New York on Wednesday. The report of the committee was based on replies to a circular letter of enquiry sent out to agriculturists and skilled observers in various portions of Canada and the United States. The conclusion of committee may be summarized as follows:—The sparrow is able and willing to destroy various crops of grain and fruit, and in large numbers to threaten very seriously the husbandry of agriculture and horticulture. By the enormous increase of the sparrow many native insectiverous birds have been forced away from public parks. As introduced foreign species it creates a disturbance in the economy of bird life. The most serious feature of the bird is the possible damage it may accomplish in the great wheat fields of the west. The enormous increase of this bird must very soon result in furnishing ample numbers for that purpose, and this subject thus assumes proportions of immense and serious importance. The committee make these suggestions:—That the report embodying the result of its investigations be sent to every legislative body in the United States and the British provinces, that the legislatures be at once asked to fix a penalty for sale or introduction of the bird, the penalty to be as severe as possible, and that all protective laws affecting the sparrow be repealed; that measures for lessening the numbers of the bird whenever they have become a nuisance, be at once taken, such measures to be in the hands of the authorities; all facilities for protecting and feeding being denied, the birds being thus put on an equal footing, at least with native birds. The report was accepted and sent back to the committee to complete.

THE TRAPPERS.

THE evidence of Messrs. Hardy, Pardee, and Fraser before the Bribery Commission shows that they formed a little clique within the cabinet, working by their peculiar methods without taking Mr. Mowat and the two Rosses into their full confidence. It is not expedient to discuss the details of the evidence till it is more complete, but it is obvious according to the unwilling confessions of these gentlemen, that they were encouraging their informers and decoys to entrap certain political opponents into committing an offence. Another point worthy of notice is that these three ministers, and the informers, gave absolutely contradictory evidence on many important points, so great being the contradiction that perjury is necessarily implied on one side or the other. It would be unjust to hold that Messrs. Hardy, Pardee and Fraser are guilty of misrepresenting the facts on such evidence as this, unless corroborated, for on the testimony of Mr. McKim, Cascaden, Dowling and Balfour, it would be unfair to condemn a dog, much less Ministers of the Crown. They, however, have only themselves to thank if others take a less charitable view, for they were employing vile tools to entrap their opponents if possible, and those who touched such pitch might expect to be defiled. They all know enough of such matters to be aware that informers, if they fail in their dirty work, are apt to manufacture evidence, and if there are not crimes to detect they not unfrequently induce illegal acts in order to have something to denounce. Complicity with such men is not creditable to Cabinet Ministers.

A BLUNDERING CRITIC.

THE Lindsay Post is an excellent newspaper, but in its editorial columns it is either surprisingly economical of the truth or displays strange ignorance of the current history of our country. In last week's issue it makes an attack upon the REVIEW as to the boundary award, blundering most absurdly in its statements. For instance it talks of Mr. Mousseau and his Quebec confreres laying down the conditions on which they would remain in Sir John Macdonald's cabinet. Surely the Post should know that Mr. Mousseau could not possibly lay down conditions for remaining in the Cabinet, as he had not a portfolio at the time nor indeed till after Parliament had come to its decision. It is equally astray in other matters.

THE Globe is still discussing the last Dominion loan, and to make out its case is drawing comparisons with New Zealand and Australian loans. Why need the Globe go so far afield when a comparison with the Ontario loan, placed upon the market by Mr. Mowat, would be far more interesting to the people of this Province?

A PUBLIC HOSPITAL.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—It has long been in my mind to ask why we have not a hospital. Taverns can be rebuilt, and stores, and fine houses, and good sidewalks, and pleasure grounds, and yet no hospital. There is an orphan's home, and a Protestant home for those who can get in, but no admittance for the sick there. Dear friends, I have been living in Peterborough for forty-one years, and I have not seen a place erected for our sick yet. Money can be got for railways and buildings, and everything else but the one thing most needed. We do not count our jail a hospital in such a prosperous town as ours. Our councillors must be asleep. They have been advocating a hospital for over twenty years, and have not got to the point yet. If they were as long consulting about everything else as they have been about a hospital, we would have very few of the things we have at the present time. It cannot be for want of material to build it with, as there is plenty of material if the gentleman who have money to spare would each give as much as they are able, we would soon gather up enough to build one, for I myself, although a poor woman, would give five dollars, while I earnestly hope that everyone will take it up and give whatever they are able. I don't think they need be afraid of building a home for our sick for fear of there not being enough doctors for we have doctors enough in Peterborough for ten hospitals if needed. Thanking you very much for the space in your paper,

I am your obedient servant,
A WOMAN.

A Miserable Man.

Corbett, the man who killed John Wikes Booth, leads a life of misery. The plaudits of a nation fell dull upon his ear, and they have long since died away. He justifies himself continually for his act; the law exonerates him, and the public gives him credit for the deed, yet the phantom of the dead actor haunts him still, and he cannot rest in peace. He declares that the glare of Booth's eyes, his white teeth, the bitterness in his voice, his defiant manner, his sombre knightly dres, are before him, waking and sleeping, and will not down.

FALL SHOW AT KEENE.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF THE EAST RIDING AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Weather not Favorable—The Departments Fairly Well Filled—Very Fair Attendance on the Second Day—List of Prize Winners.

The annual exhibition of the East Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society was held at Keene, on Thursday and Friday, the 2nd and 3rd of October The weather was unfavorable, as on the first afternoon rain fell, and the morning of the second day was cloudy. However, there was a fair attendance on the second day. The number of entries was not quite as large as last year, the number this year being 721, against 790 in 1883. There were some fine horses shown, as well as good specimens of cattle. The vegetable department was a good exhibition, and in farming implements there was quite an exhibit, including Walker's and Sargent's hay lifters. The ladies' work department was also well filled. Mr. Smart was present with the Bell organs, Mr. G. A. Mitchell with a specimen of the improved Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine, and Messrs. Wright and Payton with samples of their pumps. The Victoria Brass Band, of Keene, furnished good music on the second day. The following is the prize list:—

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS CALLED TO ACCOUNT AGAINST THEIR WILL.

The Inner Circle that Controlled the Cabinet—How They Employed Decoys—The Attorney-General Superseding a Law Court—Timber Limits for Corruption.

The bribery commission sat again on Friday.

Mr. McMASTER handed in the required particulars that the persons approached by members of the House at the instance of members of the Government were J. A. Wilkinson, E. Meek, C. W. Bunting and F. S. Kirkland.

Mr. BLAKE still complained of want of detail in the particulars.

EMPLOYING DECOYS.

Mr. HARDY, the Provincial Secretary, was examined by Mr. McMaster. He said he was first informed by Cascaden that he had been approached; then from McKim and others. It was witness, Mr. Pardee and Mr. Fraser who had held communication with these men and had encouraged them to dissemble till they could obtain money. Mr. Mowat and the Rosses seem not to have been informed of the details. He declined to swear that he had not told Balfour to go on and see Mr. Bunting.

REWARDING AN INFORMER.

It was Mr. Mowat who had drawn the amendment to the election law removing the disqualification of Dowling, though Mr. Harcourt had moved it. He acknowledged that Cascaden swore at him, but seemed to think that of no consequence.

AFRAID OF ENQUIRY.

Mr. LEES, M.P.P., an independent Conservative, testified that early in the session Mr. Caldwell, M.P.P., approached him with the offer of a share in a timber limit in the North-West Territory.

Mr. BLAKE interferred to stop the enquiry into this corrupt offer from his clients' side of the House, objecting that particulars had not been given of the charge.

TIMBER LIMITS FOR VOTES.

Mr. CALDWELL, M. P. P., admitted that he had spoken to Mr. Lees about his getting a share in a timber limit, and also about obtaining the county patronage if he supported the Government, but said he only spoke in joke. He denied that he was sent to Mr. Lees by members of the Government.

Mr. McMASTER now applied for an hour's adjournment, as Mr. McCarthy, whose place he had taken in his absence, had arrived in town.

Mr. BLAKE, of course, objected to thus facilitating a thorough investigation, but the court consented to an hour's adjournment

THEIR SUPPORTERS DESERTING.

Mr. PARDEE, Commissioner of Crown Lands, was examined by Mr. McCarthy. He corroborated Mr. Hardy's evidence as to the inner Council of Three, and as to the encouragement given to obtain bribes. He described Kirkland's efforts to obtain a change in the timber policy, and a deputation of members, among whom was Mr. Caldwell, coming to him on the subject. He admitted that Lyon at least was in favour of Kirkland's views. He knew Lyon and McKim signed the round robin to vote against the Government.

TIMBER FOR CORRUPTION.

In re-examination by Mr. McCarthy, he admitted that an order in council had been passed, enabling the Government to dispense with the usual practice of sales of timber limits by public auction on the Thunder Bay District and to give away timber there without this safeguard.

PREPARING IN ADVANCE.

Mr. FENTON, the County Attorney, was sworn and testified that he had drawn the information in advance at the instance of Mr. Hardy, who had told him that he expected the crime to be completed. He declared that he knew nothing of the round robin though he had examined the papers taken from Kirkland and Wilkinson after their arrest.

MINISTERS AS TRAPS.

Mr. FRASER, Commissioner of Public Works, was examined by Mr. McCarthy and gave evidence to the same general effect as his colleagues. Being bolder however than the others he adhered to his statement that he had advised these men to entrap the defendants. He also flatly contradicted the sworn evidence of Informer McKim as to communications between them in reference to Lyon.

Mr. LEES was again called, but arrangements were made to adjourn till the following day.

SPRINGVILLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SEVERE INJURY.—Samuel McNare, an old pensioner who served in the British army all over the world, received a severe injury last week. He was chopping wood in Mr. Hooey's woods, when his axe caught in a limb, and glancing down struck his foot, making a bad gash and severing a main artery. Dr. Kincaid was summoned and having dressed the wound, reports favorably of the case.

RUNAWAY.—A horse, belonging to Mr. Ryan, of Peterborough, having run away in town and thrown out the occupants of the vehicle, thought it would take a little country air, and made its way to the O & Q railway crossing near our village, where it was found and taken care of until claimed. The buggy was in rather damaged condition.

THE SEASON IN THE WOODS.

The prospects of the lumbering business for the approaching season are not favorable. All the operations in the back country will be greatly reduced, and in every branch the production will be very limited. Our back country friends will do well to prepare for a considerable curtailment in all lumber operations, which means low wages and low prices for the farm products they have been in the habit so many years of supplying to the lumber shanties. It appears probable that there will not be half so much lumbering as was done last year,—and last season the work was done not by any means extensive. The three firms, Hilliard, of Peterborough, Smith, of Fenelon, and Boyd, of this village, according to report, will confine their operations to small limits, and the other firms will do but little. The cause is to be found in the lack of American demand for lumber. For clear stuff the demand is fair and the price good, but for common lumber the price is not only low, but the demand is very slight. In fact the lower qualities can not be sold at all. This depression will probably be only temporary, and after the close of the Presidental contest, business will be resumed and a better demand arise, but it will be too late to effect this year's operations, and the large firms are acting wisely in shutting down and reducing the season's cut to the lowest point possible. The Georgian Bay Lumber Company will lessen its output of logs to one-half its usual quantity, whilst the British Canadian Lumber Company will close entirely for the season. It may be that in this district the output will reach one-half of that of last season, but it is quite possible it may not reach more than one third. Our back country friends should bear this in mind, and govern themselves accordingly.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Fast Logging.

The Minden Echo tells of a logging-bee at Mr. A. J. Archer's, lot 8, con. 4, Minden, on Tuesday, at which there were three teams of horses employed, two of them working eight hours and one only five hours. They were assisted by twelve men. The men and horses logged in ten hours no less than six acres and six rods of heavy pine fallow. Evidently the men were brawny and the horses well used to the work of drawing.

Membrane of Egg for Skin Grafting

In a case extensive burn unhealed after six years, Dr. Frank C. Wilson, of Louisville, Ky., in Med. News, says: "I made use of three different kinds of skin grafts, namely, from the skin of a young rabbit, from the human skin, and from the inner membrane of a perfectly fresh hen's egg." Of the three he much preferred the egg membrane as being much more readily obtained, and one egg will supply any number of grafts needed.

EVENING AT THE FARM.

Over the hill the farm boy goes;
His shadow lengthens along the land,
A giant staff in a giant hand;
In a poplar tree, above the spring,
The katy-did began to sing;
The early dews are falling.
Into the stone-heap darts the mink;
The swallows skim the river's brink;
And home to the woodland flies the crow,
When over the hill the farm-boy goes,
Cheerily calling,
"Co', boss! Co' boss! co'! co'! co'!"

Now to her task the milk-maid goes,
The cattle come crowding through the gate,
Lowing, pushing, little and great;
About the trough, by the farm-yard pump,
The frolicsome yearlings frisk and jump,
While the pleasant dews are falling:—
The new milch heifer is quick and shy,

But the old cow waits with tranquil eye,
And the white stream into the bright pail flows,
When to her task the milk maik goes,
Soothingly calling,
"So, boss! so, boss! so! so!"
The cheerful milk-maid takes her stool,
And sits and milks in the twilight cool,
Saying, "So! so, boss! so! so!"

To supper at last the farmer goes,
The apples are pared the papers read,
The stories are told, then all go to bed,
Without the crickets ceaseless song
Makes still the silence all night long;
The heavy dews are falling.
The house wife's hand has turned the lock,
Drowsily ticks the kitchen clock,
The household sinks in deep repose,
But still in sleep the farm-boy goes,
Singing, calling,—
"Co', boss! co'! co'! co'!"
And oft the milk maid in her dreams
Drums on the pail with splashing streams,
Murmuring, "So, boss! so!"

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

AN English authority says that "Mr." is absolutely necessary on a visiting card.

CHILDREN should never be allowed to wear garters, they are most injurious, and impede growth and circulation.

CLEAR boiling water will remove tea stains. Pour the water through the stain, and thus prevent its spreading over the fabric.

BAKED ham will not keep moist so long as plain boiled; this should be born in mind so that too large a piece will not be cooked at one time.

LET a parent teach his child to obey, and he will give him the most precious lesson that can be given to a child. Obedience is the grandest thing in the world to begin with.

To clean the waste pipes leading from the sink, pour down them a strong solution of potash dissolved in hot water. Be very careful that none of this mixture gets on your hands or clothing, as it will destroy all animal matter that comes in contact with WHEATMEAL PORRIDGE.—To two pints boiling water add a small teaspoonful of salt, and ½ lb. of wheatmeal carefully stirred in to prevent lumping. Let it boil up for a few minutes; then draw to the side, cover closely, and steam for an hour, stirring it a few times.

POTATOES AND MILK.—Slice or chop up cold potatoes. Put into the saucepan with a little butter, pepper, salt, and milk. Set over the fire and boil a few minutes. The quantity of milk will depend on the taste. If required rather dry only use very little. This forms a nice breakfast dish.

BREAD STEAKS.—But some slices of stale bread about half inch thick. Soak in a little milk till rather soft. Season with pepper and salt; dip the slices in beaten egg; sprinkle lightly with flour, and fry in a little butter till nicely browned. Serve with brown, white, or onion sauce, or or eat alone with potatoes mashed.

DRIPPING TOAST.—Cut the bread about ¾ of an inch thick; take of the crusts; put in the oven for ten minutes; hold the slices before the fire on a toasting fork for a couple of minutes to get browned; spread over with some fresh dripping, sprinkle with a little salt, and send to the table hot. Easy to make, and very good.

THE dried leaves of the bitter orange tree are largely used in South America as a household remedy. An infusion of them made as we make tea is considered in Brazil a specific for sick headache, flatulence, indigestion, hysteria, spasm, recent colds, and chills and fevers. Its free use promotes abundant perspiration.

ONE way to prepare asparagus is to boil it in salted water until it is tender, then serve with drawn butter; or make a sauce of eggs, butter, pepper and salt, put a lump of butter into the frying pan, break half a dozen eggs into a bowl, beat them with a spoon, and then pour them into the frying pan, stirring all the time; when they begin to harden pour them over the asparagus.

BEEF KIDNEY STEWED.—Parboil a beef kidney and cut it in slices the thickness of a penny piece, toss them in a saucepan with a piece of butter for five minutes; into another saucepan put one ounce of butter and a dessertspoonful of flour, stir on the fire until it begins to brown, moisten with a teacupful of stock, add some finely-minced parsley, the juice of a lemon, pepper and salt to taste. Pour this sauce into the saucepan with the kidney, and let it simmer gently until thoroughly done.

AS A GENERAL THING ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. A Handsome Organ.

We noticed on Saturday that Mr. D. Smart had received another consignment of Bell organs. They were all of a beautiful design, but one in particular with a pipe top was especially attractive.

Ontario Canoe Co.

At the Provintial Exhibition at Ottawa the Ontario Canoe Co., of Peterborough, were awarded a silver medal for their exhibit of canoes. Although no prize was offered for canoes, the judges considered the exhibit was worthy of a medal.

Court Peterborough No. 29, C. O. F.

The officers and members of the above Court are requested to attend a special meeting at the hall at 8 o'clock p.m. this evening, to arrange for the funeral of the late Bro. Allen, which will take place at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. By order of the Chief Ranger, R. McWHINNIE.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong winds from the south-west and west, increasing to moderate gales in the northern portion, fair weather preceded by local showers, not much change in temperature.

Improvements at the Croft House.

During the past few weeks Mr. Wm. Croft has been making considerable improvements at his hotel on the corner of Hunter and Water streets. Hardwood floors consisting of alternate strips of birch and maple have been laid in the reading room, bar, stalls and in the hall leading to the billiard room. The floors are handsomely finished in oil, and the manner in which they are laid reflects credit on the contractor, Mr. Wm. Roberts.

Warning to Housekeepers.

On Saturday last a lady residing in the west part of the town, went to the market and purchased a bag of apples, paying therefore the sum of 70 cents, on condition that the woman from whom she bought them would deliver them during the afternoon. During the afternoon the lady grew anxious about the apples, but neither woman nor apples put in an appearance. We have heard of several similar instances, and this is a warning to those who are in the habit of paying for an article before they get it.

The Eternal City.

This evening Mr. Chas. M. Caughy will deliver an illustrated lecture in Bradburn's Opera House, on "A Journey to Rome." To-morrow evening his subject will be "Paris." The Toronto News, speaking of the lecture on "Rome," delivered in Toronto, says that the People's Theatre was filled and that a column might be written and yet convey no idea of the excellence of the entertainment. Of the views, it says they were grandly realistic. The notices of the Toronto press, and of the press generally, of these lectures are very flattering.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Class.

The Rev. A. H. Munro announced last Tuesday night, that this week he would commence a course of lessons on the book of Exodus. The recent explorations at Zoan, the starting place of the Israelites in their exodus, gives a greater interest than ever to the study of this wonderful forty years journey from Egypt to Canaan. These lessons will afford young men an opportunity not often had, of learning about the wonderful confirmation of scripture that the explorations and excavations in Bible lands are supplying. Mr. Munro will probaby be greeted by a large attendance of young men to-morrow night.

Complimentary Benefit.

On Saturday night Bradburn's Opera House, on the occasion of Messrs. De Vere and Allen's complimentary benefit, was crowded. The performance was commenced by an overture by the City Band Orchestra. Mr. Frank Clark then came forward and played a solo on several musical instrumeats at the same time. He was well received. A vocal solo, with guitar accompaniment, by Mr. H. Allen, was the next event on the programme. Messrs. Simons and Wallbrook then appeared in their Lancashire clog dance. They were loudly applauded and compelled to respond with another of their well performed evolutions. "That's What I Said," a comedy act by Messrs. De Vere and Allen, was then introduced. The two commedians kept the audience in a continued roar of laughter by their funny sayings and odd performances. The double and single banjo and bone solos were especially well rendered. Dr. W. L. Van Dorn exhibited several spiritualistic tricks, including the cabinet scene, slate writting, etc., etc. The entertainment was concluded by a most laughable farce entitled "The Five Cent Barber Shop." Dr. W. L. Van Dorn then came on the stage and, after a neat speech, presented Messrs. De Vere and Allen each with a handsome ebony gold headed cane. Messrs. Devere and Allen made suitable replies and the curtain dropped amid loud applause. The canes were furnished and engraved by Mr. F. Clarke and reflect much credit on his skill as an engraver.

Bass' English Ale.

Another consignment of twenty hogsheads of the above world-renowned ale, at W. H. Chamberlain's.

KILLED ON THE TRACK.

A Section Foreman Struck by a Train on the Ontario and Quebec Railway.

This morning at about 7.30 a section boss, named John Brennan, on the Ontario and Quebec Railway, was instantly killed about one mile east of the Indian river. It seems that he and his men were out on the track with the hand car, and the morning being very foggy they failed to see or hear the west bound express until it was close upon them. Mr. Brennan, in his eagerness to remove the hand car from the track, unfortunately was not quick enough in getting out of the way. The engine struck him and he was instantly killed. The deceased was a resident of Georgetown, Ont., and leaves a wife to mourn his loss. Mr. M. McFadden departed this forenoon to take charge of the funeral.

Personal.

Mr. A. Guy, who now lives at Oshawa, is in town visiting his numerous acquaintances. He appears to be in good health.

Fine Old Wines and Whiskies.

Spanish Wines, Portes and Sherries drawn from the wood, at the Parlour Restaurant of W. H. Chamberlain.

Peterborough Real Estate Investment Co.

The shareholders are reminded of the annual meeting to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A large attendance is desired.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to day were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer
Nine o'clock	64°	29.00
One o'clock	67°	29.01

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

Theft of Valuable Papers.

A despatch from Montreal to the Mail on Saturday said:—

"Mr. Elias Thompson, a wealthy lumber king, was robbed on the train coming from Quebec this morning, while taking a nap, of a satchel containing papers and deeds belonging to property exceeding $10,000 in value. A respectable farmer named Pelletier, who was sitting behind the sleeper, was arrested, and some collars of Mr. Thompson found on him, but there is no clue to the bag with the deeds, and is it thought that it was thrown out of the window by Pelletier after he found it did not contain any money."

A Large Funeral.

The funeral of the late James Bailey, Reeve of Emily, took place on Sunday afternoon, and was one of the largest funerals ever seen in this part of the country. The processisn was about two miles long, and Mr. D. Belleghem, who had charge of the funeral, informs us that no fewer than two hundred and sixty conveyances joined in the cortege. Friends and acquaintances were present from almost all the townships in the county, and from Peterborough, Port Hope, Lindsay and Omemee, to show marks of respect to a man who was held in high esteem by the general public.

Obituary.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. S. F. Allen, one of the representatives in the Town Council of No. 1 ward. The sad event occurred at 2 o'clock this morning, caused by typhoid fever with lung complication. The deseased was a native of Devonshire, England, and had been a resident of Peterborough for the past twelve years. Last January he was elected to a seat in the Town Council Chamber, and has occupied the position of chairman of the Building and Health Committee during the present year. He has been engaged for the past three years in the pottery industry.

A Narrow Escape.

This forenoon Mr. A. Jones, tinsmith, who is engaged in working on the mansard roof which is being erected on the building on the corner of George and Hunter streets, was removing a piece of scaffolding consisting of two boards nailed together. He was walking along the edge when the nails which held the boards together gave way. The over hanging board fell to the ground and Mr. Jones was, for a moment, in imminent peril, having been overbalanced by the sudden fall of the board. He happily saved himself by catching a window frame. During its downward course the board came in contact with an electric light wire, stripping it from the post and coming in close proximity to one of the plate glass windows in Messrs. McKee and Davidson's hardware store.

Falling Leaves.

That leaves have their time to fall and flowers to wither is a fact that is very readily admitted by every right-minded individual; but there are, also, other things that at certain seasons of the year have their time to fall, as well. Do not fancy that anything of a serious nature has happened; on the other hand, it is something that every citizen in this town is interested in—and that is the fall in prices of many articles that are just now in great demand, such as Fall Suits, Winter Suits, Overcoatings, Underclothing,—in fact everything in the gentlemen's furnishing line has been reduced in price at the now well known "Habiliment Hall." That A. McNEIL can cut and make you a suit of clothes to perfection, there is no doubt, and a look at his fine stock is sure to draw you out without any urging on the part of the obliging attendants.

Chit Chat.

—Delightful day.

—There will be a meeting of the School Board to-morrow evening.

—Workmen are engaged in repairing a water pipe which burst in front of the Croft House.

—Our lacrosse club will probably play for the Ontario championship in Toronto at an early date.

—The managers of the Driving Park have made arrangements with the hack-men to convey passengers to the park on Thursday and Friday for ten cents.

—There will be held to-morrow the regular fall meeting of the Association Riflemen at the association range.

—The electric light machines will be moved across the river to the pulp mill in the course of a few days.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

DIG sweet potatoes as soon as the frost touches the vines.

THE lawn should not be cut too closely; leave it long to protect the roots in winter.

MIXING hen feed with a strong suds of common soft soap is recommended both as a preventative and a cure for gapes.

CELERY, cabbages, spinach, etc., should have their late growth aided by keeping the soil loose and free from weeds.

WIRE fence should not be stretched too tightly. The contraction of the iron in cold weather brakes many wires.

LOCAL NOTICES.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

AT FAUCHER'S RESTAURANT, Dow's, Labatt's and Cosgrave's Ales on draught.

CINGALESE Hair Renewer restores, beautifies, invigorates and renews the hair. Restores grey hair to its natural color by a few week's use. Sold by J. D. Tully.

"My daughter has taken the medicine faithfully, according to directions, and her health and spirits are now perfect. The humor is all gone from her face. I wish every anxious mother might know what a blessing Ayer's Sarsaparilla is in such cases."

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering from low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that follows; you will be inspired with new life; strenght and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. a dottle by Taylor & McDonald.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

A Motion of Condolence With the Family of the Late S. F. Allen.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held in the Council Chamber at two o'clock this afternoon.

The MAYOR rose and said that it was unnecessary to state why this meeting had been called; all the Councillors were aware of the death of their worthy confederate, Mr. S. F. Allen. It was their melancholy duty to attend his funeral.

Mr. CAHILL said that, as the senior member of No. 1 Ward, it was his sad duty to offer a resolution of condolence. He offered the resolution with deep regret at the loss of his colleague. Although he had been in the Council only a short time, he had done his duty and made himself useful. If it had been the Lord's will to have spared him he had no doubt that Mr. Allen would have been elected again and again to perform the duties devolving upon a Councillor.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that he could only repeat what Councillor Cahill had said. He had found Mr. Allen a most amiable and exemplary man. He had always been ready to act with the Council in any matter of benefit to the town. He had not taken a prominent part in the Council, but in committee meetings they had profited by Mr. Allen's sound sense and judgment. As a member of the Board of Health, Mr. Allen had always done his duty.

Councillor MILLAR said that all the Councillors might join in similar sentiments. They had all known him to be a man of sterling qualities and all offered their condolence to the bereaved family.

The MAYOR said that in submitting this resolution he desired to say that he had been associated with Mr. Allen in the Council, in business, and in the church. He had always found him to be a most estimable man, and every person spoke of him in the highest terms as being a most worthy citizen.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That this Council do record its deep regret on learning of the death of the late Samuel F. Allen, Esq., who has been a member of this Council for the present year. The Council joins with their fellow citizens in lamenting the death of a worthy and respected member of the community, who, although a member of this board for but a short time, has greatly endeared himself to his associates. This Council offers its respectful condolence to his bereaved family in their great loss, and as a mark of respect this Council do now adjourn to attend the funeral in their corporal capacity, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

LOST HUNTERS.

Two Farmers Wander in the Woods for Five Days.

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—Joseph Drouillard and Gilbert Jubinville, two farmers, who live in Anderdon township, Essex county, Ont., went hunting last Tuesday and said they would return in the evening. Their friends felt no uneasiness at their continued absence, as it was thought they had gone on to Amhersburg or Windsor. Both men turned up at their houses on Saturday in a half-starved condition. Shortly after leaving home they lost their bearings. The first and second nights were spent in wandering through the woods, which in Anderdon township are very thick. When morning came they found themselves near the spot which they had left the night before. From this night until Saturday morning they were almost constantly on the move. They had about given up when they met a man, of whom they asked where they were. The man, probably thinking they were joking, told them the wrong way out. Again they tramped round for miles. About Saturday noon they heard a whistle and knew it must come from a Canada Southern engine. They at once struck out in the direction of the sound, and finally succeeded in reaching the track only to find themselves about sixteen miles from home. This distance they walked, and reached home in safety after an absence of five days and nights, all of which were spent in the woods.

Stabbed with a Stiletto.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Thomas McManus, C. H. Wells, John Radigan and Timothy Noonan stopped in front of a low saloon last night to witness a fight, when Joseph Jowas an Italian, ran out with a stiletto and stabbed all of them. Two were dangerously cut. Jowas was arrested.

Canadian Captains Wanted.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—It is understood that Mr. Lambert, of this city, has been engaged to procure eight captains of small steam crafts to go to the Nile in connection with the relief of Gordon at Khartoum. They will be despatched on Saturday from Quebec.

Gould Gets a Fright.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The steam yacht Atlanta, ran on the rocks at Hellgate yesterday, but came off without much damage. Mr. Gould and forty others on board were badly shaken up and frightened.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. A FIGHT WITH ITALIANS

A DESPERATE AFFRAY IN THE COUNTY OF ADDINGTON.

The Italians Attack and Threaten to Murder a Man—The Villagers Interfere—Firearms and Other Weapons Used—Many Wounded.

TAMWORTH, Oct. 6.—This morning Messrs. Chrisholm, McDonald & O'Brien's foreman here notified about forty Italians whom they had, with a large number of others employed upon the ballasting of the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec railway, that they would not be required on this job any longer, and for them to prepare to move to Calabogie Lake, on the Kingston and Pembroke railway, to work on another ballasting contract there. Some of the Italians were not contented to go until they got their pay for work done here, and soon stirred up a very strong feeling in the minds of all the men, who drove from their work a small gang, who yet continued at their work in a gravel pit near here. They then attacked John O'Brien, a brother of Mr. O'Brien, of the above named firm of contractors, and their representative here, demanding their pay at once or they would murder him. They followed him from the telegraph office to Wheeler's hotel, then back to the telegraph office, and thence to Douglas' hotel, near which place some drew knives and others revolvers, and threatening to take his life they rushed him in their midst away to the bridge crossing the river.

An alarm was given at once. The Township Council was in session in the village, and the Reeve, Leonard Wager, with a number of the Council and those in attendance, rushed, with several of the villagers, to the rescue of Mr. O'Brien. A lively encounter took place. The Italians fought desperately with knives, axes, pistols and stones; the villagers with guns, pistols, old swords, and clubs. O'Brien was rescued and not much hurt, but badly shaken up. Four of the Italians were badly used up, two being hurt with clubs and two with gunshot wounds, and several others slightly wounded.

Of the villagers and township people, the following are hurt:—Jas. R. Fraser, left arm badly bruised by blows from clubs; John A. Fraser, both arms badly bruised by blows from clubs; W. N. Somers, constable, two stabs in left breast, obliquely, or his heart would have been pierced; Wm. Brown, councillor, stabbed over the right shoulder blade; Ed. McLaughlin, councillor, knocked down by a stone. The reeve got a blow from a stone, but was not hurt badly. John Sherman, J. P., who led the attempt at rescue, had a narrow escape from a blow on the head by an axe. His son John got knocked flat by a club in rescuing his father, but is not seriously hurt. James Smith did grand service in getting O'Brien out from a circle of howling Italians crying for his blood, but did not get hurt. His is considered a wonderful escape. There would doubtless have been several villagers seriously hurt but for prompt rescue, thus, a villager down, and an Italian over him with a drawn dirk just about to strike, is knocked floundering by a blow from a club in another villager's hand, and so neighbour saves neighbour. The wounded are all doing well.

Mr. O'Brien has a lively sense of the sand in the people here, who so nobly rescued him from what he thinks would have been certain death. Part of Capt. Cox's company of the 46th Batallion of active militia has been called out to aid the civil authorities in keeping peace, as trouble is feared to-night. The Italians have been on good terms with the villagers all summer, but are now enraged because O'Brien was rescued, and threaten all sorts of evil. They live at one side of the village, and are kept this afternoon and evening in their own quarters by the military guard. One was caught up street just at dusk and was unceremoniously relieved of his dirk knife and faced for home. There is no lockup here. Warrants are issued for the arrest of some of the offenders

AN HOTEL BURNED.

The Windsor in Kingston—Thrilling Episodes—Narrow Escape of the Guests.

KINGSTON, Oct. 6.—The Windsor Hotel was burned this morning. The fire was caused by a gas explosion in the kitchen. The fire spread with great rapidity, filling the house with dense smoke, which suffocated and bewildered the inmates. The firemen worked nobly, and confined the fire to the building, which at 4:30 a.m. was a seething mass of flames. The losers are: B. M. Britton, building, valued at $30,000, insured for $12,000; Martin O'Brien, proprietor, value of goods, $11,000, insured for $6,000; Franklin Brothers, flour dealers, loss $2,000; G. Sarsfield, boot and shoe dealer, $18,000. The boarders and guests escaped in their night clothes, many of them losing valuable watches and money. There were some thrilling episodes. Women screamed wildly and ran up and down the corridors, crying for "God's sake to be rescued." The men acted nobly and saved the women rather than secure their own property. George McMahon and Frank Cowan found escape from the stairs impossible. They jumped from the third story to a shed. Cowan was safe, but McMahon's suspendors caught in the window, and he was thrown between two narrow walls and seriously hurt. Cowan, who heard him moan, jumped from the shed and resting on a fence, kicked off the boards and saved his comrade from the flames. Rhoda Wager became bewildered in the hallway and before she could escape had her hair, hands, face and legs, burned. Martin O'Brien fell down stairs with a child in his arms and sprained his ankle. George Ferren, as he crawled down stairs on his hands and knees, had his hair singed off his head. Mrs. Cosgrove, an old lady, fainted on the stairs, and at the last moment was rescued by Thos. Cochrane. Capt. Campbell saved Miss McGill, and Harry O'Brien, who found three domestics in their night dresses praying as they clung to each other in a corner, helped them down a fire escape. Thomas O'Brien carried out a little girl, while some of the saved ones got a ladder to the window, and Prof. McDonald, his wife and two children were taken out in their night robes. Wm. Hickey, porter, jumped from the roof, and O'Reiley, the night watchman, while alarming the people, lost his way, and escaped with difficulty. C. Bryan, agent for the Davis Manufacturing Company, got out safely, losing his money, samples, tickets, etc. He had a narrow escape. He left his watch in his room, but these were afterwards recovered and returned to him. J. H. Stockhouse, of Ottawa, saved a few garments, and as he rushed out a woman pounced upon his back, and he carried her half dead to the fresh air. He saved two other persons. The firemen, who worked heroically, prevented the conflagration from spreading, but they were assisted by a providential shower of rain, which poured down and drenched the roofs of adjoining buildings. The fire was the worst here for years, but happily no lives were lost.

Arrested for Murder.

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—Early on Sunday morning Sergeant Condreu, of the Windsor police force, arrested Benjamin Garrison, master of the scow Bedford, which had just arrived in Windsor The warrant for Garrison's arrest was issued last Friday, and the crime he is accused of committing is of murdering Joseph Flynn, a young man whose body was found floating in the river near Windsor last Wednesday.

OUR INLAND NAVIGATION.

WHILE we are glad to see the Ottawa Free Press calling attention to that important work, the Trent Valley navigation, we cannot refrain from correcting it as to a most extraordinary blunder or series of blunders, that it perpetrates. In speaking of Mr. A. P. Cockburn's very sensible suggestion to connect the Muskoka lakes with this route by means of the short canal required, it says that "the difficulty with the Trent Valley navigation scheme has been the limited character of the water supply." It is strange that anyone who has the most superficial acquaintance with the project should be so ignorant of its chief merit. There is a superabundance of water not only for a barge canal, but for the largest ship canal, if it were required. Balsam Lake, which is the summit level, is fed by a perfect network of lakes and streams covering a large district and affording a practically unlimited supply. This is not only the opinion of the engineers who have reported on the subject after full investigation, but it is known to all who are acquainted with the geography of Ontario. It would be quite unnecessary indeed to correct the error in this district, where everyone is acquainted with the fact, but we set the matter right less the mistake should do the project harm where its merits are not so well known. Again, the Muskoka lakes do not empty into the high level, which, as we said, is Balsam Lake, but would have their outlet in the Severn River running from the lower waters of Lake Simcoe, which notoriously require no addition to its volume. We may remark that Mr. Cockburn says nothing to countenance these strange mistakes.

We thoroughly agree with the Free Press and Mr. Cockburn that the connection of the Muskoka lakes with the Trent Valley navigation, the short line water route to the St. Laurence river, would be a great benefit to that district and would promote its settlement.

A LAWLESS ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

On the evidence of his colleagues it now appears that Attorney-General Mowat drew the iniquitous clause, foisted into a bill on the last hours of the session, to reward Informer Dowling for his dirty work by snatching him from the hands of the law courts, and seating him, although condemned by the law and by the judges for corruption. Though Mr. Mowat, however, drew this clause he was ashamed to father the iniquity, but placed it in the hands of one of his supporters to move, so that we may hope that he is not an altogether hardened offender. It will be remembered that while this outrage on law and justice remained anonymous, one of our learned judges explained that it was not effective in carrying out to the full its evil design, because whoever drew it was evidently ignorant of the state of the existing law. And it is this Attorney-General, who is ignorant of the law, who takes upon himself to interfere with the decision of a law court, because the culprit has connived with him in another misdeed, and has rendered him a degrading service.

A POLICY OF FRAUD.

IN reporting the resolutions passed at the meeting of working men at Hamilton, the Globe has deliberately falsified them, so as to convey the impression that the present Dominion Government was alone censured, when the blame was general, not being thus restricted. That this is a deliberate fraud, and not a mere blunder, is certain from the fact that no less than five alterations are made, all perverting the meaning, and conveying this false impression. It is the habit of the Globe to commit these forgeries, and then the minor Reform organs copy and repeat them in the hope that the people of Canada, or at all events a portion of them, may be deceived. This is the only hope the leaders of the Reform party have of ousting their political opponents.

POOR Dr. Cascaden, when acting as a decoy and informer, was in a very strange state of health. He was too feeble to resent what he describes as an attempt to bribe him, but he was well enough to swear at Mr. Hardy, at least so Mr. Hardy swears. Perhaps, however, Dr. Cascaden has himself for a patient, and is in the same category as a lawyer who has himself for a client.

REVIEWS.

THE COMPLETE DEBATER.—We have received from the Toronto News Company a handy little volume, one of the Excelsior series, entitled "The Complete Debater." It will be found very useful for young people organizing a debating society, containing, as it does, the rules of debate, specimens of complete debates, outlines of other subjects for discussion, and a number of questions that may be argued. One excellent feature is the list of authorities appended to the various subjects. Indeed, though we have described this work as being adapted to the wants of young people establishing a debating society, it will be found to contain many hints that would be useful for their elders who may wish to prepare themselves for more important discussions.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

A BASE SLANDER.

Two hundred and twenty-five women will have the right to vote at the municipal and school election at Peterborough next year. The handsome but incapable candidate will now have a chance.—Belleville Ontario.

PROOF OE LITTLENESS.

The fact is that the success of Mr. Mowat and the enthusiasm which it has created throughout the province is gall and wormwood to Mr. Blake. A failure himself, he cannot bear to see any rival eclipse him in the popular estimation, and finds it hard work even to effect a pleasure at the triumph of the local government. That the principal speaker at a Grit gathering should thus deliberately ignore the only success which his party have achieved for years at a time when it is still fresh in the minds of the people is a striking proof of that littleness of soul which has always stood in the way of Mr. Blake's success as a party leader.—Toronto News (Indep.)

A SOLID FACT.

A single year of Liberal-Conservative action has been infinitely more advantageous to the public weal than the whole of Mr. Blake's career has been able to supply.—London Free Press.

QUESTIONS FOR REFORMERS.

Does it ever occur to them that the foundation of a party platform must be a policy? And have they any policy? What is it? Where is it? When was it announced?—Ottawa Citizen.

LEVEL HEADED MINISTERS.

Every Canadian must feel proud of his country when he reflects on the fact stated by Sir John Macdonald, at Bell's Corner's yesterday, that Canada is the only part of the American continent from which live cattle can be taken into Great Britain and Ireland. With all their faults the members of the Canadian Cabinet are pretty level-headed men.—Ottawa Sun (Indep.)

THE GLOBE AND THE C. P. R.

The changing tone of the Toronto Globe towards the C. P. R. is very noticeable. Last Tuesday's issue has a complimentary notice of a recent report which Manager Van Horne has in regard to the mountain section, which is said "to have excellent land, and such an abundance of good timber, not only near the coast, but from Little Shuswap to the Rockies, that the road will pay cost of working by his local traffic." Who would have expected such criticism in the columns of our cotemporary one short year ago: not many.—Newmarket Era (Reform).

CANADA'S PREMIER.

Let the Conservative party honour their chieftain; their demonstration will unquestionably be one of great enthusiasm and magnificence. They have every reason to be proud of his diversified gifts and general intellectual pre-eminence. They can claim with truth that the impress of his mind is upon almost every great measure of the last thirty years.—Montreal Star, (Indep.).

A BUSY DEPARTMENT.

Mr. J. C. Stewart read on interesting paper at the recent meeting of the British Association at Montreal, setting forth, among other things, the great advances that have been made in the amounts entrusted to the Post Office Savings Banks in Canada. The returns for the year ending on the 30th day of June last shows that the total amounts on deposit had reached to the large sum of $13,345,000, being an increase over the deposits at the same period in 1883 of no less than $1,269,315. Such an accumulation of savings on the part of the people is an incontestible evidence of prosperity, and just where it is most gratifying to find it. But the Post Office Department gives many other evidences of progress. Thus, the postage stamps, postal cards, and envelopes issued during the last five years have increased as follows:—

Year ending June,	1880	1,603,814
" "	1881	1,736,892
" "	1882	1,986,669
" "	1883	2,176,606
" "	1884	2,313,711

It does not require any argument to enforce the evident lesson that this record teaches. It is clear upon the face of it that the general interests have been rapidly advancing, or neither the savings nor the letters would have augmented. And the Post Office Department is not only the custodian of the moneys of a large number of the people, but it is the agency that is keeping pace with the rapid advances that are being made. In November last the post offices that were open had reached the number of 6,395. Now there are 6,761, being an advance of 366 during a period of ten months. The miles of travel have also increased to a considerable extent. In 1882 the miles travelled in order to carry the correspondence to the homes of the people were 738,206. Now they have risen to 1,136,024, being an increase of very nearly 400,000 miles within so short a period as that of two years. It is scarcely necessary to point out that this is indicative not only of great progress, but of very considerable industry on the part of those who have the postal matters of the country in their charge. To enter upon all the arrangements implied and necessary to carry out and to carry on this work involves no common care, no ordinary attention. In order that those entering upon the new lands in the North-West might be put in possession of letters and papers from home at the earliest possible moment, railway post offices have been established, so that the most remote settler has now his letters brought home to him in a manner that is almost astonishing. The entire force engaged in carrying on the postal business of the country numbers not less than ten thousand people. Continual correspondence has to be kept up with them all. Accounts have to be kept with them all, and the most minute mistakes rectified. Irregularities have to be looked into and mended, and measures taken to prevent a repetition of them, if possible. The accuracy with which the postal duties are performed is among the marvels of the day. It is seldom that a letter goes astray, and if it does many hours do not elapse before rectification takes place. Some few people, who wish to let the world know what clever persons they are, sometimes scrape up a grievance as to the non-delivery of a letter. But when such cases have been enquired into it has generally been found that the error has lain with the sender or with the receiver of the letter rather than with the post office employes. The Department in question is that which comes home to the people more than any other in the range of administration. And so earnest are they that the correspondence of the country should be quickly and efficiently collected and delivered that no expense is grudged to secure it. Already the papers are carried free of cost, a measure that was secured by means of the co-operation of the present Postmaster-General, and many other ameliorations have been introduced and are in contemplation. Among the former may be mentioned the exchange of money orders that has recently been established between Canada and several other countries and colonies. It is not very long ago that it was not possible to send a money order from the post office to any other countries than England and the United States. Now they are issued on Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Austria-Hungary, Roumania, Jamaica, N. S. Wales, Victoria, Tasmania, New Zealand, Belgium, Barbadoes, Norway, Holland, Denmark, Iceland, Faroe Islands, Sweden, France and Algeria. These two last will go into operation on the first of next month. Thus it is seen that there has been going on correspondence with the postal authorities with all these countries to bring about a great convenience to the public. If the condition of the revenue present and prospective would permit of it a reduction would undoubtedly take place in the rate of letter postage, from three to two cents per letter. Indeed, it may be hoped that the Finance Minister may see his way to accede to the well-known policy of the Hon. John Carling in this matter. The post office is a great and all pervading institution for the purpose of carrying on a most important portion of the affairs of the people. The more completely this duty can be affected the more are the public advantaged, the more will they be gratified. The day may yet come when all postal matter will be carried free by the means of what may be called an internal industrial army. But till that day arrives it is well to know that the Canadian post office under Mr. Carling and his staff of able assistants is second to none in the energy with which it is conducted and the enterprise which it exhibits. It is kept well up with the times in all its departments, and leads in not a few points. Society is developing many ways to its own advantage, and amongst them there can be none more truly useful than that which makes the postman a frequent visitor to every man's door.—London Free Press.

OFFER TO BRIBE MR. LEES, M.P.P.

Timber Limits and Patronage in Exchange for Conservative Votes—Reform Corruption.

The following letter has been published by Mr. Lees, M.P.P., telling how the Reformers attempted to buy him, and giving the statement which he was prevented from making before the Royal Commission by the successful efforts of Mr. Blake, the counsel of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, to exclude this evidence against his employers:—

SIR,—I was subpœnaed here to give evidence before the Bribery Commission, and attended yesterday for that purpose, and on being sworn proceeded to give evidence as to a conversation which took place between Mr. Caldwell, member for North Lanark, and myself; some discussion then arose, Mr. Blake objecting that Mr. Caldwell should be examined first, Mr. McMaster the contrary, when I was asked by Mr. Proudfoot, the chairman, whether I had any objection to step down and let Mr. Caldwell be examined first. I did not object and he was sworn, when he stated that any conversation he had had with me, in reference to securing my support for the Government, was only a joke, and on my taking the stand to-day to continue my evidence, it was ruled by the commission that I should not do so. Now, it certainly does seem strange to one that while Mr. Caldwell was allowed to give evidence as to what occurred between us, I was prevented from making my statement, but it strikes me that it looks very much as if there was a disposition to hear only one side of the case. I understand the object of the commission was to make a thorough investigation. This seems a queer way of doing it, and not likely to elicit the truth. Under these circumstances I wish to state here what my evidence would have been had I been allowed to give it. It is as follows:—Sometime during the first part of last session, after an adjournment of the House, meeting with Mr. Caldwell, we entered into conversation, when he asked me whether I would not like to have a share in a limit in the Thunder bay section of country, and said that he and some others were going to get a limit there, and that he expected within a few days to see a man who would tell him all about it, and said when he heard this he would let me know and then said that I would be able to bring influence to bear with the Dominion Government to make it all right there. About a week after this Mr. Caldwell came across the House after an adjournment, sat down by me, and began a conversation by saying, "You have not got the patronage of your riding?" I replied, "No, you know well enough that I could not get even a magistrate appointed without getting your assistance!" Well, he said, just turn round and support the Goverment and you will get it all right and besides that I think you can get a limit from the Government in that North-West country as well; to this I replied: Mr. Caldwell, I would not support this Government or any orther for all the limits in the North-West unless I thought they were right. This closed the conversation and he said no more on the subject. Mr. Caldwell says and swears this was only a joke; all I can say is that there was nothing in the way he put it to suggest this, as it was done gravely and in earnest, and with the evident desire to procure my support for the Government. I do not think I should have mentioned this had it not been that all those who did not support the Government were, shortly afterwards charged as being a brawling brood of bribers, and with being guilty of all sorts of corruption. This was very galling to me and to others, who knew not only that we were innocent of all this, but that this very corruption with which we were being charged, was being practised by supporters of the Government. I then said that if what was charged was true, that the attempts to purchase support were not all on one side, and mentioned what had taken place with myself. I was and am ready to substantiate this on oath.

BLACK BIRCH.

Black birch is a close-grained, handsome wood, and can be easily stained to resemble walnut exactly. It is just as easy to work, and is suitable for nearly, if not all, the purposes to which walnut is at present applied. Birch is much the same color as cherry, but the latter wood is now scarce, and consequently dear. It is with difficulty that cherry wood can be obtained at $50 a thousand feet, while birch wood can be purchased at any saw-mill for $10 per thousand feet. When properly stained it is almost impossible to distinguish the difference between it and walnut, as it is susceptible of a beautiful polish, equal to any wood now used in the manufacture of furniture. In the forests throughout Ontario birch grows in abundance, especially if the land be not boggy. There is a great difference in the wood of different sections. Where the land is high and dry the wood is firm and clear, but if the land is low and wet, the wood has a tendency to be soft and of a bluish color. In all the northern regions it can be found in great abundance, and as the tree grows to such a size, little trouble is experienced in procuring a large quantity. The forests of Manitoulin Islands abound with it, as well as those of Peterborough and Haliburton districts. The Muskoka district also contains a plentiful supply. During the past few years large quantities of this wood have been exported from the Province of Quebec at a low figure. It is very easily detected among other trees by its height, large trunk, and the peculiar color of its coarse bark. Most of the perforated chair bottoms now in use are manufactured from it. There is a species of bird's-eye birch, but it is very scarce. An evidence of the weight and solidity of the wood is the fact that it will sink after being a few days on the water.—Toronto Globe.

METALLIC SHINGLES.

We copy from the Mail, of the 18th Sept. a description of metallic shingles, which we understand are being largely used in Ontario, where the ordinary shingles are much cheaper than here. We therefore infer that these metallic shingles require only to be known to come into common use. We understand that a car load has been ordered from Prince Albert, and has been shipped by the manufacturer to that distant point. We would advise architects and persons intending to build to communicate with the manufacturers and obtain full information, as any roofing that combines the advantages of durability while reducing the danger from fire cannot but be matter of general interest.

The description is taken from the Mail's report of the exhibits at the Toronto Industrial exhibition: In this class is prominent the exhibit of metal shingles by Messrs. West, Peaching & Montrose, Simcoe. They show a small building roofed and sided with these tin and iron shingles, which are of unique design, being provided with certain corrugations to stiffen the sheets, while they interlock with each other, forming obstacles against snow or rain driving through the joints, and at the same time presenting an exceedingly ornamental appearance. Contraction and expansion of the metals are provided for by the corrugation and methods of nailing. They are very securely fastened to the roof, having six barbed wire nails through each shingle. These iron shingles are preserved by dipping in composition of pure oil and ironclad paint, which effectually protects from rust. The matter of repainting once in six or eight years must be trifling, as iron does not absorb; one gallon is sufficient for ten or twelve squares. These shingles possess the advantage over slate of being thoroughly fire-proof, of not breaking, and of being lighter. They require no repairs, will conform readily to the shape of the roof, and must beyond doubt be the most durable in this climate. This exhibit should prove interesting to our railway companies, where many stations and buildings are so much exposed to fires from passing trains, especially as the first cost of roofing with this material is very little in excess of wood shingles. This firm is the only one in the Dominion engaged in this line of manufacture. Yet metal shiugles are not an experiment, as several firms in the States have been for many years past engaged in the manufacture of a somewhat similar tile, and the rapidly increasing demand proves their merit. They are adopted by many American railway companies as a standard roof. The firm showed as several flattering testimonials from influential men in this country and the States who have their shingles in use.—Winnipeg Times.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS CALLED TO ACCOUNT AGAINST THEIR WILL

Stifling Enquiry into an Attempt by a Reformer to Corrupt a Conservative Member—Hardy's Little Plot—McKim or Pardee a Perjurer.

The Commission to enquire into the bribery conspiracy met again on Saturday and resumpd their investigation.

THE PLOTTERS STIFLE ENQUIRY.

Mr. LEES, M.P.P., was called and examined by Mr. McCarthy. He gave some evidence as to his election, and his position as an Independent Conservative. He was proceeding to testify as to the approaches made to him.

Mr. BLAKE jumped up to prevent the exposure that he foresaw. He raised technical objections such as might befit a thief's lawyer in a criminal court, instead of counsel in a serious public enquiry.

The COURT, bound no doubt by the instructions of Mr. Mowat, of which we have heard but which we have not seen, decided in favour of the strict rules of a law court.

Mr. LEES was therefore not allowed to tell in Court the manner in which an attempt to corrupt him had been made from the Reform benches.

HARDY'S LITTLE SCHEME.

Mr. E. J. S. VICARS was sworn, and testified that on one occasion, several evenings before March 17th, he saw Mr. Hardy and Mr. Fraser at the corner of Simcoe and Wellington streets walking westward. He heard Mr. Hardy say to Mr. Frazer, "If our little scheme with Balfour works we will fix them." They had got too far for him to hear the reply. In vain Mr. Blake tried to shake his evidence, failing failing signally in doing so.

MCKIM AND PARDEE.

Informer MCKIM was recalled, and in answer to Mr. McCarthy, swore to the truth of his deposition in the Police Court. His evidence flatly contradicted Mr. Pardee, so Mr. Pardee is either perjuring himself, or he is employing a Titus Oates. McKim places Mr. Hardy in a similar position.

DENIALS.

Mr. HARDY was recalled by Mr. Blake and contradicted the evidence of Mr. Vicars.

Mr. FRASER did the same.

After some discussion as to the time when Mr. Bunting and Mr. Meek could call their witnesses the Court adjourned.

FIVE PEOPLE MURDERED.

Particulars of the Tragedy—No Trace of the Assassins Found.

FULLERTON, Neb., Oct. 4.—Harry Percifal his wife, infant and a young man living on a neighboring farm, have been murdered 10 miles west of here. The mother and child were shot in bed. The father was found beside a haystack his body partially consumed by hogs. The young man was shot in bed. Peecifal's house was robbed and everything of value except his wife's watch taken. The deed is supposed to have been committed by a farm hand and his partner, who is missing.

THEORIES OF THE CRIME.

No arrests have yet been made, but the citizens are scouring the country in hope of finding some trace of the murderers. It is thought the crime was committed by Baird, a hired hand, and Furnival, a neighbour, who are missing. Both, however, were known as honest men. One theory is that the man, who was visiting at Percival's, Mrs. Percival and her child were killed Monday night before Percival returned from Fullerton, and that the murderers lay in wait for Percival and killed him just as he was about to start from the stable to the house. The vicinity where the tragedy occurred is occupied by a prosperous English colony, the victims all being English people. Percival's house is in a lonely spot, and the murders were not discovered for three days.

ANOTHER VICTIM DISCOVERED.

Yesterday a new victim was added to the list of the murders. George Furnival, the partner of Percival, who had disappeared and been suspected of the murders, was found dead in the bottom of a pond.

LARGE REWARD FOR THE CRIMINAL.

FULLERTON, Neb., Oct. 5.—The recent murders are now attributed solely to the farm hand Baird, for whose arrest a thousand dollars reward is offered. The theory is that Baird, during Percival's absence, outraged Mrs. Percival, killed her and her child to hide his crime, and then killed Percival on his return. Percival was shot twice, and five hundred dollars he drew from the bank are missing. Mair was next smothered to prevent him telling of the tragedy. Baird is then supposed to have gone to Furnival's house where Mair lived, half a mile away, and killed Furnival to prevent him from searching for his partner, Mair. Baird has been traced as far as Omaha, and it is supposed he is on his way to New York with the intention of returning to England.

Fatal Shooting Accident.

GUELPH, Oct. 6.—A shooting accident of a painful and fatal nature occurred on the farm of John Scott, Killean, Puslinch, on Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Two of the hired men, R. Bowermaster and Henry Halliday, were leaving the house on their way to enjoy an afternoon's shooting. While Halliday was opening the gate Bowermaster was coming out of the woodshed, adjusting a cartridge in a breechloader, and when closing up the breech the gun by some means was discharged, the whole charge striking Halliday behind the leg, between the knee and thigh, shattering the leg to a jelly. The two men were only about four feet distant from each other at the time. Doctors were speadily in attendance, but their services were of no avail, and the wounded man died at 8.30 in the evening. Halliday was about 26 years of age, and came from the vicinity of Ayr. He leaves a wife and young child. Bowermaster feels his position keenly.

An Absconder Captured.

Detective Kellert, of the Metropolitan Detective Agency returned to the city on Monday, from a successful search after the lad J. Villeneuve, who recently absconded with some $1,400 of his father's money. The detective found the boy, after tracing him to Chicago and other places, near Troy, N.Y., where he had retreated to the woods in company with the girl with whom he left. The boy at once gave up all the money that was left, about $1,000, and promised to do better in future. Detective Kellert said, in conversation with our reporter, that the boy would have been found sooner had it not been that he was encouraged in his misdeeds and informed of the detective's movements by another man.—Montreal Witness.

Burned in the Gulf.

By a despatch from Halifax it is learned that the three-masted schooner on fire off Pictou Island was the Xebec, of Digby, 195 tons, commanded by D. H. Slocumb, and owned at Port George, Annapolis, N.S. She was laden with tan bark from Buctouche for Boston. The fire took in the deck load, probably from the galley fire. The crew used every effort to put it out, throwing the deck load overboard, and pouring water on the flames. The efforts were useless, and the Xebec was abandoned, the captain making for Pictou Island, which the boats reached in safety. He reports seeing a schooner about two miles to windward, when the fire was first discovered, and flying a signal of distress, but no notice was taken of the signal.

A Horible Murder.

UNIONVILLE, Pa., Oct. 6.—On Saturday night William Vandeveer, a noted character, made a boast he could whip ten men in ten minutes, Charles Lally, a miner, laughingly remarked, "Oh, I reckon not." Vandeveer rushed at him and cut him through the heart. Vandeveer was captured and narrowly escaped lynching.

For Twenty Long Years.

SANDWICH, Oct. 6.—George Wilson was sentenced to 20 years in Kingston penitentiary on Saturday by Judge Wilson on his confession of having burned down the house and barn of Daniel Marcutetts, a few weeks ago. The prisoner is an immigrant and is only 22 years of age.

WEATHER NOTES.—September has again seen the in-gathering of a good harvest completed, with almost everything a full average crop. Up to the 10th the month was warm, on several days the thermometer rising to 90° and two days to 91°, after which a cold change took place and on the morning of the 14th it dropped to 2° below the freezing point, a sharp frost and the first ice of the season, the average for the month being 59°. Rain fell on 17 days to the depth of 3 inches and 17-100 of an inch, with thunder on four different days. Taking the month as a whole, it has been good for farming operations and fall ploughing.

BELLEVILLE.

FIRE.—On Saturday morning about 1:15 an alarm was sounded for a fire which had taken in the stables of the Willard House on Front Street, owned by Mr. Samuel Kyle and occupied by Mr. Fred. Gauthier. The engines took position in the bed of the river in the rear of Walker's Foundry, but the fire had gained too great headway to permit of the building being saved. At the time there were five horses in the stables, only two of which were saved. After enveloping the stable, the fire sprad to a house on Pinnacle street occupied by Henderson Brown and owned by J. W. Walker. The fire took on the L. of this house, which with the main part it completely gutted. The horses burned in the stable belonged to Mr. Gauthier, Mr. Ranson (a cattle buyer) and Mr. Wannamaker, of Madoc, and were valued at about $150 each. Besides his horse Mr. Gauthier lost about $200 worth of stable property. Mr. Kyle had $2000 insurance on the stable and will lose about $200. Mr. Walker's house was insured for $500, and he estimates his loss at about $200. Mr. Brown saved all his household goods except a large stove and a few small articles.—Intelligencer.

NEW STOCK.—The inhabitants of this village are now well off in the store line, and can buy goods just as cheap as in Lakefield and Peterborough. Our lively neighbor, Mr. I. We wish him success in his new undertaking and long may he flourish. He has got a large lot of posters printed at the REVIEW Office extolling his goods, etc.

AFFLICTION.—Our worthy grist miller, Mr. D. McLean, lost a fine healthy boy the other day from spinal complaint. Both he and his amiable wife have the entire sympathy of the community.

STUCK.—The steamer Fairy got stuck on a rock for the first time last week, below the locks. Cause, the lowness of the water.

THE DAM.—As your Lakefield correspondent has his new dam nearly finished in your last issue, I cannot say more, but pat him on the back and say, well done, etc.

BALL AND SUPPER.—Mr. Kearney, of the Lakeview House, had a ball and supper last Thursday evening. It was well patronized by all the young chaps and their lassies, and the light fantastic toe business lasted till nearly 4 a.m. All were orderly. Friend James is always noted for having things kept so.

AN organized effort will be made in England to protect the holders of American securities.

To resist malaria, ague, fevers, headache, colds, kidney disease, pain in the side or back, constipation or costiveness, keep Zopesa handy, and take a dose twice a week. It acts upon the liver and stomach like magic. Ask J. D. Tully.

THE burglars who fired on the Toronto police on Saturday, had entered a place and opened the safe.

So many write us of the merits of Zopesa, from the west, Canada, the east and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles of dyspepsia, of urinary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

A RIGID enforcement of the rules with regard to the importation of American cattle is to be made.

AS A GENERAL THING ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. A few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1.00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Curling Club.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club will be held at the Grand Central Hotel at 8 o'clock this evening.

Hunter Street Bridge.

The contract for the building of the Hunter street bridge has been let and the work is now being vigorously prosecuted. The planks on the south side of the bridge have been removed, and the stonework will be commenced immediately.

Personal.

The Calgary, N. W. T., Herald of Sept. 24th says :—

"Mr. F. W. Haultain, barrister, of Peterborough, arrived in town last Wednesday en route to Fort MacLeod, where he will enter into partnership with Mr. McCaul. Mr. Haultain is a rising young man, and we feel sure he will make his mark in his new home."

The Book of Exodus.

The above is the subject of the course of lessons to be taken up in the gathering for Bible study held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, and conducted by the Rev. A. H. Munro. All young men are invited to attend this evening at 8 o'clock.

The New Superintendent.

The Port Hope Guide says :—

"Mr. J. M. Riddell, the newly appointed superintendent of the Midland Division of the G. T. R., has been assistant at Stratford for a number of years past, and was a general favorite among all with whom he had business transactions. We have known Mr. Riddell for many years, and are confident he will fill the bill. He is an old Port Dover boy."

Journalistic.

The Trent Valley Advocate, published at Trenton, has come out as a bi-weekly. It is a four-paged, lively local paper, and its patrons will no doubt be pleased to receive a copy of it twice during the week instead of once. We wish it success in its enterprise, and are pleased to see this evidence of its prosperity and of the progress of the town in which it is published.

A Dwarf Defies a Giant.

The Lindsay Post, speaking of its town, says :—

"Just a word for Peterborough. We defy competition. A man in Lindsay has painted his house with all of—each and every—nine distinct colors. Lindsay leads the Province when chromatic effects in house painting come to be considered."

That's nothing. In Peterborough we have small shade trees that sport more colors than that.

Fire in the Suburbs.

At about twelve o'clock last night the fire bell was rung and the firemen turned out. The cause of the alarm was found to be at the south-west part of the town. The firemen proceeded southward as far as the tank near Mr. L. Spry's geocery, when it was ascertained that it was useless to go farther, as no water was available any farther south. Quite a number of people went to the scene of the fire, a frame dwelling house near the Catholic Cemetery, occupied by Mr. Thomas Kent. The house together with the adjoining stables, were totally desproyed.

The Last Night.

The series of free concerts for the last two weeks held on the market square will be closed to-night. Dr. Van Dorn will lecture on "Courtship and Marriage, or How to Select a Wife." Messrs. DeVere and Allen, who have made themselves favourites during their short stay in Peterborough, will be present in their usual capacity. Dr. Van Dorn will then lecture on "Phrenology, or the Delineation of Character," and will take subjects from the audience. During his stay here Dr. Van Dorn has disposed of about 1100 electric liver pads, and only three have been returned. He if justly proud of such a pronounced success. The factory at Toronto has had to cease making the pads on account of the lack of supply of the medicine. The vessel containing the herbs and roots out of which the pads are made, was recently wrecked on its way from Brazil.

A. C. A.

Mr. R. E. Wood has returned from the annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Canoe Association, held at Albany, N.Y. On Saturday the Executive Committee, comprising the three flag officers, the secretary-treasurer, and two members at large, one of them being Mr. R. E. Wood, met and transacted a large amount of business. The same place as this year was chosen for the camping ground next year, Delany's Point, on Grindstone Island, one of the Thousand Islands. A chart was submitted of Grenadier Island, near Brockville, but that situation was negatived on account of the water being too shallow to permit landing from steamers. Mr. A. White, of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, was, among others, elected an honorary member. On Saturday afternoon the Mohican Canoe Club, of Albany, held their fall regatta, in which Mr. J. L. Weller took part with credit to himself. On Saturday evening General Oliver, the Commodore of the A. C. A., entertained the officers of the Association at a banquet at his residence. The Regatta Committee of which Mr. J. L. Weller is a member, met on Friday and Saturday, making some changes in the programme and in the classification of canoes, the particulars of which will be published in due time, for the information of members.

JOHN BRENNAN'S DEATH.

Fuller Particulars Regarding the Sad Accident—An Inquest Held.

It seems that the man Brennan, who so suddenly met his death on Monday morning, was with his men, going to work on a hand car to the 1st concession of Asphodel. Before starting out from Indian River, he went to the station master and enquired as to whether the track was clear or not. The station master replied that the track was as clear as usual. The men were in the habit of going down to work every morning and when the west bound express came in sight they would remove the hand car from the track till the train went past and then would proceed to their destination. As before mentioned the morning was very foggy. The foreman and his men started out and went as far as the 1st concession of Otonabee, where they stopped the hand car and listened for the expected train. None of them heard a sound and they accordingly resumed their positions on the hand car. They had not gone more than about three hundred yards before one of the men cried out "The train is on us!" All the men jumped off the hand car and attempted to remove it, but when they saw the train so close at hand they let go of the hand car and got out of the way as quickly as possible. The foreman, however, whose back was turned to the approaching train, did not see it in time. He was struck on the back of the neck and, after one shudder, silently expired. The train was stopped and the body was taken to Indian River.

On receipt of a telegram Dr. Fife, County Coroner, at once proceeded by the 12:10 train from Peterborough to the village. On arriving at the village he immediately empannelled a jury from the crowd which had collected at the station. The inquest was proceeded with and six witnesses, four who were on the hand car and two who stood on the train at the time of the accident, were examined. The inquest lasted two and a half hours and the jury brought in their verdict to the effect that the man was accidentally killed by being struck by an engine while in the act of attempting to remove a hand car from the track.

The deceased is not so much marked as would naturally, under the circumstances, be expected. A discoloration on the back of the neck and behind the ear constitutes all visible injuries.

The deceased was a middle aged man and leaves a wife and family. One of his sons was engaged as a section man and was assisting to remove the hand car just before his father was killed.

Auction Sale.

Remember the sale of household furniture at Dr. Sproule's residence, Brock street, west of George, at 1.30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Eye, Ear and Throat.

Dr. Ryerson will be at the Oriental Hotel on Saturday, October 18th, not on the 11th, as previously stated, when he will be prepared to treat all those who are suffering from any disease of the eye, ear or throat.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

What to Teach Girls.

Teach them to cook and prepare the food of the household. Teach them to wash, to iron, to darn stockings, to sew on buttons, to make their own dresses. Teach them to make bread, and that a good kitchen lessens the doctor's account. Teach them that he only lays up money whose expenses are less than his income, and that all grow poor who have to spend more than they receive. Teach them that a calico dress paid for fits better than a silken one unpaid for. Teach them that a full, healthy face displays greatter lustre than fifty consumptive beauties. Teach them good common sense, self-trust, self-help and industry. Teach them that an honest mechanic in his working-dress is a better object of esteem than a dozen haughty, finely-dressed idlers, and in order that their brothers, or, yes, we venture the assertion, even their lovers may appear respectable when the week's work is done, teach them the necessity of causing said brothers and lovers to purchase their wearing apparel from A. McNEIL, at Habitinent Hall,

Rome the Eternal.

On Monday night Mr. Charles M. Caughy, the celebrated art lecturer, gave one of his interesting entertainments in Bradburn's Opera House. The subject was "Rome, the Eternal City," and the lecture was illustrated by stereoptician views. The first scene was a representation of the "Baltic," one of the White Star line of steamers, crossing the ocean. The ship landed at Liverpool, and the lecturer and the assembly went on to Genoa, the home of Christopher Columbus, where the audience beheld the beautiful monument erected to his memory; at Pisa, where they were shown the famous leaning towers; and at Naples, that beautiful city of southern Italy. The lecturer then vividly took his audience up the arduously to be climbed sides of Vesuvius, to the very crater of the volcano, and then descended to Pompeii, that town where twenty centuries ago art and fashion flourished, and all was gaiety. The tourists, so to speak, then proceeded to Rome, the Eternal City. St. Peter's Cathedral, the grandest specimen of architecture or of architectural design the world has ever seen, was first visited. Several scenes revealed the grandeur of the architecture, and especially the symmetrical statuary of the magnificent temple. The Colisseum, that massive pile where centuries ago thousands upon thousands of Rome's proud citizens assembled to witness the gladitorial contests, was next brought before the eyes of the audience. The lecture closed with a moonlight scene where the mangled bodies of martyrs were to be seen in all their ghastliness, with the descending angels hovering over them. The lecturer is the happy possessor of a lucid style of speaking. He has a copious command of language, and his explanations are quite clear to everyone. He is humorous at times, but when the solemnity of the scene demands it he impresses his audience with rich and reverent eloquence. It is needless to say that this is simply a brief outline of Monday night's entertainment. Much more might be written on the subject, and then leave it very ill described. Among the many beautiful scenes were the life-like representations of Popes Pius IX. and Leo VIII. Mr. Caughey will lecture on Paris, the historic, to-night.

Escaped from Prison.

Fred. Collins is the name of a man about 23 years of age, who was sent to the Central Prison for eighteen months, he having been convicted at London of robbing with violence. Fred did not properly appreciate the fact that he was being supported by the Government, or else he was dissatisfied with his board, as at an early hour on Monday, being slimly built, he managed to squeeze through between an iron bar and the stonework of his window in the south wing, and scaling the wall unobserved by any of the guards, made good his escape. The city police have been notified, and are assisting the prison guards in the search for the convict.—Toronto News.

A HOME DRUGGIST

TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists; $1, six bottles for $5.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

Beautiful Displays of Fall Millinery at Our Leading Establishments.

This is the season of the year when those black individuals from the tin shops commence to come around to examine our stoves; when the many tinted leaves part from the tree and return to mother earth; when the careful farmer begins to stop up all the chinks and holes in his outbuildings, preparing for winter, and last, but by no means least, when the ladies begin to think about laying by their summer garments and chosing fitting apparel for the fast approaching cold weather.

This season our millinery dealers have each made their best efforts to supply stocks of the newest and most interesting articles of millinery which the most fastidious person or the connoisseur could find very little, if any, fault with.

HALL, INNES & CO.

held their formal opening on Tuesday and Wednesday. They made a very extensive display of every imaginable article of finery. The department on the second flat was tastefully decorated and ornamented by intertwining laces and different kinds of drapery. Two large mirrors on the south side were gracefully dressed by imported Turkish window blinds (new and odd) and artificial flowers. We call especial attention to the beautiful silk cut sealette cloth, and the silk plush which Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co. have in stock in all the most fashionable shades. The numerous tables are laden with hats and bonnets of every conceivable shape and trimming, and pyramids of gracefully drooping ostrich plumes stand in the centre. On the east side of the room a long row of mantles and dolmans are hung on exhibition. The department is brilliantly illuminated at night by electric light so that customers may be assured that they can buy at night with equally good light as in the day time.

Miss W. Coon, together with her assistant milliner, Miss L. Wells, efficiently presides over the department.

WM. FAIRWEATHER AND CO.

Messrs. Fairweather & Co. are, as usual, to the front in their display of millinery goods. Their show room on the second flat is gorgeously trimmed and decked with all the most elegant and fashionable designs of millinery. Miss C. V. Elliott, judging by the artistic arrangement of the goods, is accomplished in her profession. On the north side of the show room, a large open case, ornamented by pillars of flowers, reaching from the bottom of the case to the top, is the first thing that attracts attention on entering the room. The case contains ostrich feathers, different shades of silk plush, the latest kinds of hat and bonnet trimmings and a multitude of other articles. The special features in Messrs. Fairweather & Co.'s display are the new Persian lamb and Astrachan cloth for mantles, the costly and elegant lines of sealettes, and his pacementary and chenille trimmings. All the newest shapes in hats and bonnets are shown to good advantage, and the crape goods are especially worthy of mention. They held their opening on the 7th and 8th.

J. C. TURNBULL.

Mr. Turnbull has his millinery show room on the first flat. It is a very neat place and conveniently situated. The most critical fair one may here find all that the heart could desire in the way of bedizenment. The arrangement of the room shows that careful attention had been given to the showing off of the goods to the best possible advantage. The wall cases are filled with finery of every description, and the tables contain on stands a good range of the latest fashions in hats and bonnets, among which are a "Tam O'Shanter" exquisitely trimmed with cut plush and ornamented by aigirette trimmings. Mr. Turnbull shows some very elegant and substantial looking made up dolmans and mantles. Some of the specialties in Mr. Turnbull's display are the goat's hair trimmings for mantles, the new and novel medallion trimmings in every fashionable shade, a fine range of feather trimmings, and the materials for mantles and dolmans, consisting in wool ottomans, ottomans with silk top and cream silk, and velvet nap for children. All orders entrusted to Miss M. Irons, who is in charge, will receive prompt and satisfactory attention.

He formally opened out yesterday and to-day.

COLONIZATION FEVER DYING OUT

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says the German colonizing fever is visibly dying out. The hopes that the acquisition of vast tracts in Africa would divert emigration from America have vanished.

THE DEATH OF COL. STEWART.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Conservatives are making political capital out of the death of Col. Stewart, which they say affords a fresh proof of the Government's idiocy, in delaying relief while holding out false hopes until the delay resulted in the murder of General Gordon's most trusted friend and lieutenant.

A PRINCE AT CORK.

CORK, Oct. 6.—The Duke of Cambridge arrived to-day and was favourably welcomed by the populace. He reviewed the troops.

THE GUNBOAT WASP.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The court-martial investigating the loss of the gunboat Wasp has found that the disaster was due to the absence of care and inattention in navigating the vessel. The survivors were acquitted.

DEATH OF M. HERBIN.

CAIRO, Oct. 7.—M. Herbin, the French Consul at Khartoum, was killed at the same time as Colonel Stewart and party were massacred.

EGYPT'S FINANCIAL CONDITION.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Mr. Vincent, financial adviser of the Khedive, reporting on the financial condition of Egypt, makes the proposition that the Khedive suspend the payment of the tribute paid to the Sultan of Turkey, amounting to $3,600,000 annually. Lord Northbrook vetoes the proposition, and Nubar Pasha threatens to resign unless a nucleus of the army is left.

COL. STEWART'S BROTHERS.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Lord Granville has written a graceful letter of condolence to Col. Stewart's family, in which he says he fears it is unwise to entertain hopes of that gallant officer's safety. Col. Stewart's brothers in London are furiously indignant and roundly curse the Government for his slaughter.

ARRIVAL OF THE CANADIANS.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 7.—The steamer with the Canadian contingent has arrived.

FAILURE OF A RUSSIAN BANK.

MOSCOW, Oct. 7.—The bank of Kamischin has failed. A series of trials for fraudulent bankruptcy and forgery will ensue. The Mayor of Moscow is implicated. Over 200 families have been reduced to despair by the failure.

THE EGYPTIAN ARMY.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Lord Northbrook proposes the abolition of the Egyptian army, and the substitution of 9,000 police. The Egyptian Ministry oppose the plan.

ARAB TREACHERY.

CAIRO, Oct. 7.—It is reported that after the steamer on which Col. Stewart and his men were stranded three natives came on board and stated to Col. Stewart that they were only a short distance from Meramee, which they could easily reach on foot, and where they could obtain assistence to float the steamer. Col. Stewart and two of his companions started, and when out of sight of the steamer a number of men sprang from ambush and murdered the party. Afterward they attacked those remaining on the steamer, killing all except four.

DISSENSION IN THE CABINET.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—There is dissension in the Cabinet concerning the action relating to matter at the Cape. The majority of the Ministry is opposed to the inaugurating of a campaign against the Boers. It is reported instructions will be sent the governor of the Cape to limit his action against the Boers to sending a local force to maintain the British protectorate in Bechuana Land.

A Sharp Witness.

During a recent trial the following occurred, varying the monotony of the proceedings. Among the witnesses was one as verdant a specimen of humanity as one would wish to meet with. After a severe cross-examination, the counsel for the government paused; and then, putting on a look of severity, and an ominious shake of the head exclaimed:—

"Mr. witness, has not an effort been made to induce you to tell a different story?"

"A different story from what I have told, sir?"

"That is what I mean."

"Yes sir; several persons have tried to get me to tell a different story from what I have told, but they couldn't."

"Now, sir, upon your oath I wish to know who those persons are."

"Waal, I guess you've tried 'bout as hard as ony of 'em."

The witness wa, dismissed while judge, jury and spectators indulged in a hearty laugh.

Exploration in Africa.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—Dr. Geo. August Schweinfurth, the famous African explorer and author of "In the heart of Africa," has started on a new tour of exploration at the head of a scientific party, fitted out by the Berlin Academy of Science. Unlike recent German explorations, which have been confined to the western coast of Africa, Dr. Schweinfurth has chosen Nubia and the White Nile as the field of his operations. Just before his departure, Dr. Schweinfurth had a long confesence with Prince Bismarck, after which both were given an audience by the Emperor. This is regarded as somewhat significant, as Dr. Schweinfurth is going to the seat of war in Upper Egypt, and he has hitherto been very outspoken in criticising the acts of the English in the Soudan.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1884.

A MERE FARCE.

Counsel for the real conspirators have been heard, and that is very right, for even the worst culprit should have a hearing. But Mr. Meredith, though a member of the very committee of the Legislature whose labours the Royal Commission was supposed to carry on, could not be heard to insist in the investigation without being tied down to make specific charges against individuals.

Sir D. Macpherson and Messrs. Pope and Carling could be examined to endeavor to fish out evidence if possible connecting any leading Conservative with the matter, but the Reform leaders could not be examined unless they were specially charged and particulars were given.

Mr. Caldwell, as a Reformer, could be examined to laugh away his own corrupt offer, and to testify to the absence of complicity of his leaders, but Mr. Lees, as a Conservative, could not be heard to prove that a Reform member offered to buy his vote with public property given to him by the Reform Ministry under an Order-in-Council, especially framed to set aside the law and to facilitate such corrupt dealings with the estate of the people of Ontario.

We must not be supposed to blame the Commission for this one-sided arrangement. It is evident that the Commissioners are acting on instructions to restrict the enquiry which the Legislature resolved should be a searching investigation into all the circumstances connected with this matter.

FALSE PRETENCES.

Mr. S. H. Blake poses before the Royal Commission as counsel to conduct an investigation into serious charges and countercharges of corrupt practices that have been brought, and nto which a full enquiry has been ordered by the Legislature of this Province. But in reality he is acting as the private counsel of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, and does his best to frustrate the investigation wherever it threatens to expose the misdeeds of his clients and their political friends.

Elsewhere astonishment might be felt at Mr. Blake occupying such a false postion, but not in Peterborough, where his true character is known. It was shown by his attempt to obtain money under the pretence of rendering professional service, when he was not asked or wanted to interpose, and when in reality he rendered no service, a piece of dishonesty for which he would have been disrobed, but for the evidence against him being withheld through political sympathy.

Mr. Mowat and his colleagues made a fitting choice of one to pretend to carry out a public duty, while really acting for the private advantage of those private clients.

MORE ALGOMA TACTICS.

Bit by bit the doings of the Mowat Government in connection with the now notorious Algoma election are coming to light; and each fresh revelation makes more evident the desperate lengths to which they were prepared to go in order to capture the constituency. The attempt to bulldoze and bribe the electors around Rat Portage by the aid of Commissioners Pattulo and Burden have passed into history, as have also the infamous attempt to disfranchise the voters, the scandulous conduct of the partizan Returning officer, the convenient failure of ballot boxes and Deputy Returning Officers to reach their destination, and the over-running of the district by road bosses and forest rangers. By the trick of getting Mr. Lyon to throw up the sponge, the Government prevented a full exposure of their doings in court, and confined the evidence to Mr. Lyon's personal corruption; but even then enough came out incidentally to give a taste of revelations which might have been made if a full enquiry had gone on, and the mysterious "Smith" with his money bags will henceforth figure as one of the heroes of the fight, while "Spondulix" and "Shuniah" will go down to posterity along with "Big Push" and "Come along, John! as Grit rallying cries.

And now a libel suit tried at the Assizes in Toronto incidentally makes another contribution to the literature of the Algoma campaign, and further reveals the work of precious Pattulo while he was in the pay of the Province, and ostensibly engaged on public business. It will be recollected that Pattulo and Burden attempted to buy up a newspaper at Rat Postage, and a cypher telegram was sent to Pardee for the funds—$600 down to $500 after the election. Then the recent election disclosed the fact that while the "party of purity" were negotiating to buy up the Rat Postage Progress, they were bribing the publisher of the Gore Bay Guide at the other end of the district, to secure his paper also. Now the trial at Toronto reveals the fact that Pattullo resolved to make the job complete by securing a paper in the centre, and to that end bought up the Port Arthur Herald! It is no wonder the Colonization Roads expenditure in Algoma increased so much last year, when no less than three papers had to be purchased to support Grit candidate in the election.

But Pattullo's last venture turned out an unfortunate one for him; for while he owned the paper it got violent and abusive, and published a letter grossly libelling a citizen of Port Arthur. At the trial on Saturday it was proved that Pattullo had purchased the paper, with a stipulation that the sale should be kept till after the election; and although he now tried to shuffle out of responsibility by representing that he acted simply as an agent for his nephew, (one Rennie, whom he installed as manager, but who has since skipped out), it is clear he gave his notes for the purchase, and the jury gave a verdict of $500 against both him and Rennie. This will make another $500 for the Mowat Government to add to their Algoma election account, for of course they will not let their commissioner in for this, while he was acting in their interest.

Meanwhile, in view of the facts as to what Commissioners Pattullo and Burden were doing, the public are naturally asking, is this the work the Province was paying them each $5 and expenses for?—Owen Sound Times.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

DISCUSSION OF THE SUBJECTS TAUGHT IN THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

The Primary Department—The Resignation of Mr. Kidd Accepted—Mr. A. Jones Appointed to Fill his Place—Communications.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening.

Present,—Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, chairman, Dumble, Errett, Weir, Cox, Wrighton, Stratton, Sproule, Burnham, Sawers, Kendry, Rutherford and Millar.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

INQUIRIES.

Mr. Sproule asked whether Dr. Tassie had been requested to attend this meeting.

The Chairman replied that he was not aware that such a request had been made.

Mr. Sproule said he would like to ask Dr. Tassie a few questions regarding the primary class. The Principal had applied for a primary department, but the attendance of the pupils in the class had dwindled down to almost nothing.

Mr. Dumble said that information regarding the government of the school should be ascertained in the proper way.

Mr. Errett said that he had understood from the Principal that it was impossible to make out a time-table in such a short time from the opening of the school, complete enough to submit for the approval of the Board.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Sproule, —That Dr. Tassie be requested to attend the meetings of this Board, so as to give information regarding the school.—Carried.

Dr. Tassie was heard, and in reply to Mr. Sproule stated that all the studies prescribed by the Educational Department were included in the curriculum.

Mr. Sproule then read a list of English subjects prescribed by the Education Department and asked if they were taught in the school.

Dr. Tassie replied that the rules had been crrried out to the very letter. Certificates were much more valuable when the optional subjects were taken up.

Mr. Sproule said that he asked these questions, not with a feeling of enmity, but in the vital interests of the school. He had heard of two cases of boys who were refused to be taught book-keeping and who were compelled to take up Latin. It was the duty of the trustees to enquire into the matter.

Dr. Tassie said that Latin and French were purely optional subjects, and that the English branches were thoroughly taught without option. The book-keeping had been delayed owing to the incompetent penmanship of the pupils, but would be commenced at once.

Mr. Dumble said that the matter deserved more attention. He did not see that the principal object should be to make teachers. The larger number of the county teachers had been educated at the school. Was it to be a school for teachers or a school for our children? Some schools had received large outside support on account of their special training for teachers, but we want a school for our children, so that they may obtain respectable positions in life. He did not think any member of the Board should rush to the newspapers without good foundation as to information. The object of the members of the Board should be to try to make everything work harmoniously He believed Mr. Sproule to be sincere in his action, but he thought it a mistake to take school matters to print. A dignified course should be taken to get information, and everyone should work to make the school a success.

Mr. Sproule said, with all deference to what Mr. Dumble had said, he did not think the course he had pursued had harmed any one. If all school matters were transacted at the Board meetings he would be the last man to rush to print. He asked how many subjects were taught in Mr. McKee's room?

Dr. Tassie replied that none but the ordinary English subjects were taught. He considered Mr. McKee a competent man, but the smallness of the attendance was chiefly due to the bad state of the room. He made a short statement favourably comparing the attendance of the present month with that of last year, showing where he found deficiencies in the pupils, and recommending that certain subjects be introduced in a popular way, including agricultural chemistry. He stated the subjects which were taught by each teacher and their respective duties.

COMMUNICATIONS AND ACCOUNTS.

From A. Hutchinson asking to be paid the sum of $15 for attendance at intermediate examinations.—Finance Committee.

From J. Campbell asking that his salary be continued up till the end of the present quarter. —Finance Committee.

From the Educational Department stating that the Government grant for the present year to the Collegiate Institute would be $795.—Finance Committee.

From J. C. Brown stating that the expenses under his supervision of the recent intermediate examinations were $40.75.—Finance Committee.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

Mr. Kay Coleman submitted a report of the attendance at the Public Schools during the past month as follows:—

	On Reg.	Av. Att.
Central School	579	445
West Ward School	160	154

REPORTS.

Mr. Dumble, Chairman of the Committees on Appointments, then read the following report:—

To the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report that the resignation of Mr. Kidd, Head Master of the South Ward School, has been accepted, and that Mr. A. Jones be appointed in his place at the same salary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

ENTRANCE FEES.

Mr. Stratton moved, seconded by Mr. Wrighton,—That a fee of $1 be charged each pupil writing at the entrance examinations, so as to assist in defraying expenses.

Mr. J. Stratton, Inspector Public Schools, was heard and said that it was a very arduous duty to examine so many papers. A great portion of the candidates were hopeless of passing the examination, and attempted to do so merely because it was their right. A small fee, he thought, should be imposed so as to exclude those who considered themselves inefficient. He then made a few remarks on the state of the public schools, and suggested that better desks be supplied to the South Ward School.

A discussion followed as to the desirability of imposing an entrance fee.

Mr. Weir remarked that the poor man who had to work hard for his money would suffer by the arrangement.

Mr. Sawers moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Kendry,—That the outside pupils writing at the entrance examinations be charged a fee of $2, so as to defray the expenses of the examinations, and that the town pupils be admitted to write at the examinations free of charge.

Mr. Stratton added to his motion and that the fee be refunded to all successful candidates living in town.

The amendment was put and carried.

PENMANSHIP.

Dr. Burnham asked if penmanship was taught in Mr. Coleman's room.

Mr. Dumble said he thought that penmanship should be taught in all the rooms of the Public Schools. Many of the pupils, owing to rapid dictation, were growing worse and worse in handwriting.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry,—That in the opinion of this Board, penmanship should be taught in all the rooms of the Public Schools.—Carried.

THE PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Messrs. Kendry and Weir referred to the disgraceful state of the room occupied by the primary classes, and agreed that if it was in too bad a state for Mr. McKee to teach in, an accomplished young lady should not be directed to teach in it.

Mr. Cox thought that the primary department might be abolished altogether. From the remarks Dr. Tassie had made, he thought it was an injustice for the ratepayers to make them pay about $125 per head for the primary education of a few pupils, when the other departments could do the work equally well.

Mr. Kendry said that Dr. Tassie had recommended the primary department to be arranged and that no remarks made by him to-night referred to his dissatisfaction with it.

Mr. Sproule said that the smallness of the attendance was due to the bad state of the room.

Mr. Kendry moved, seconded by Mr. Sawers, That the Property Committee consult with the Principal, and so arrange the rooms that Mr. McKee may have better accommodation, and that the Chairman of the committee report to this Board.

Mr. Dumble said that it seemed as if some one wanted to make trouble. Mr. Cox nor no one else was to blame for the removal of the Institute to the small building. It was the only room available for the primary class. The room, he knew, was not fit for Mr. McKee or any person else to teach in. It was a perfect dungeon. The day was not far distant when the Board would have to consider the building of a Grammar School separate from the noise and clatter of a public school. It would cost no more to issue debentures and build the Grammar School than to pay a rental of $700 per annum for the present premises.

Mr. Cox moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Errett,—That the matter be referred to the Chairman of the Board, he to confer with the Principal with a view to have made better accommodation for Mr. McKee.

The amendment was put and the vote was a tie, as was also the vote on the motion. The Chairman decided that both he and the Committee should confer with the Principal in reference to the matter.

The Board then adjourned.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

Dear Sirs,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

The Royal Commission met again on Monday morning.

GLOBE FALSIFICATION.

Mr. McCarthy stated that he had advised Mr. Bunting not to submit himself to the Commission as he had been absent through illness and had not heard the examination-in-chief of the witnesses. Even copies of the evidence had been refused. This being contradicted, it was shown by the Hon. A. Morris that in consequence of the manner in which the Globe had falsified Mr. Meredith's evidence, his solicitors had applied for the official report of part of the evidence, but it was refused by the Clerk of the Court.

WHAT IS THE COURT?

Dr. McMichael, who appeared for Mr. Meek, asked that his client be allowed to make an unsworn statement, as was usual in law courts when there was a criminal charge. His evidence might be used against him at the trial.

The Court now held that it was not trying criminal charges, but was collecting evidence, and declined to be bound by strict technical rules, so Mr. McMichael's application was declined.

BEGGING FOR BRIBES.

Mr. Meek was sworn, and related how informers Cascaden, McKim and Lyon had all approached and run after him to beg him to purchase them with money, office, or the withdrawal of election petitions, which in each case he declined. He had no conversation with Messrs. Bunting and Wilkinson about bribery, and did not even know Kirkland. He contradicted many of the statements of McKim and Cascaden, and showed that they and Lyon represented themselves as dissatisfied with the Mowat Admistration. Thence arose conversations as to a coalition. He had been employed by McKim to draw up an agreement of certain moneys to be received without mentioning names, but this was destroyed, because he was told it was not to be executed. He swore he had never drawn a promissory note for Mr. Bunting to sign, nor had heard of one. He swore to the bad repute of Cascaden and McKim.

A DECOY AND PERJURER.

Mr. Thos. Sinclair, residing in Elgin, swore to the bad character for veracity of Cascaden, and to his having committed perjury.

Mr. Blake tried in vain to shake his testimony by cross examination.

Mr. McMichael asked witness about the case in which Cascaden was disgracefully implicated, but Mr. Blake successfully objected to evidence exposing the true character of Cascaden, though he himself introduced the subject.

STILL HIDING THE TRUTH.

Mr. F. Jones was called to give evidence as to repute of want of credibility.

Mr. Blake again interfered to prevent the exposure of his witnesses, on the technical ground that Mr. Jones' name had not been given in previously.

SHIELDING AN INFORMER.

Mr. W. Bell, of Guelph, swore to the bad reputation of McKim.

Mr. Blake again successfully stopped the revelation of the truth on the ground that Mr. Bell did not live in the same village as McKim.

A MOWAT WITNESS.

Mr. S. Price, of Port Stanley, swore that Cascaden was not to be believed on oath.

The Commission then adjourned till the following day.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

COARSE WIT.

The Globe has essayed the facetious over the proposed celebration of Sir John's fortieth anniversary as a public man. This time it succeeds only in becoming a vulgar.—Winnipeg Times.

EXPLANATION WANTED.

Knowing that Kirkland was prepared to use money—knowing that he had used (or said he had used) $32,000 to corrupt an American legislature—Mr. Awrey went with others to Mr. Pardee to "put forth Kirkland's views." It is time for Mr. Awrey to rise and explain.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE TERRIBLE GRIT "IF."

If there is a disruption in the Conservative camp, if individual members of the federal cabinet are fomenting dissensions to further their own ends, if a section of the Bleus are not unwilling to ally themselves with the Liberals, it would appear that the "solid north" is not so solid after all.—St. Thomas Journal.

WISE WORDS.

Political success in this country can only exist as associated with material advancement. Canadian development has gone hand in hand with Conservative administration; and till the so-called Liberals learn that they cannot obtain strength by striking at and blocking progress, they must be content to remain in the unenviable position in which "Bystander" finds them. —London Free Press.

MUST THE SPARROW GO?

If anybody supposes, however, that the extirpation of the sparrows is going to be the mere pastime of an idle hour he only gives evidence that he has studied the powers of endurance and multiplication of the nuisance to little purpose. The sparrow is here to stay as far as its own intentions are concerned, and a great deal of killing will be necessary before he will become a tradition of the past. Something more must be done than to fire paper essays at him if he is to go.—Philadelphia Times.

A TRICK NOT IN VAIN.

The Chinese have succeeded in outwitting the United States Government, and by one of their peculiar tricks have found a means of evading the law which prohibits their landing in that country. They go to Havana, pay $25 for neutralization papers and passport, and under the treaty between the United States and Spain, enter the former, not as Chinamen, but as Spanish subjects. The United States Government will find it hard to suppress the Chinese. —Brockville Recorder.

CONTRADICTORY.

In its description of Mr. Blake's visit to Cornwall, the Globe reports that the town council waited upon him with the inevitable address, in which his attention was specially directed to the great growth and improvement of the town within a comparatively few years. In his reply Mr. Blake was pleased to express his satisfaction at the prosperity of the place. Later in the day, in the course of a set speech, he deplored the ruin wrought in the country by the National Policy, and predicted a political change that should give his hearers prosperity. Mr. Blake's reply to the address, and his address to the meeting in the town hall, do not seem to dwell together in harmony.—Toronto World (Indep.)

A Woman full of needles.

A despatch from Lockport, N Y, says that Mrs. Seely, who lives in the town of Sardinia, between "The Folks" of the Cattaraugus and the foot of Lord Hill, complained of severe pains in one of her arms some time ago. Dr George N. Kinghman, of Sardinia, discovered that there were needles in the muscles of the womans arm. He made an incision, applied a poultice, and a few days afterwards took out several needles. This operation he has repeated with Mrs. Seeley's other arm with similar results. At last accounts he has taken from the woman's arms forty-six needles or pieces of needles. Some of the pieces had fine points, and others were broken at both ends, resembling pieces of wire. The case is mysterious. The woman claims to be unaware how or when the needles were introduced into her system.

To Good A Report.

Insurance agent—"It's all right. The doctor says that you are the best risk he ever examined."

Citizen—"The best risk?"

"Yes; soundest constitution and perfect health, you know."

"Did he say that?"

"Yes, indeed. No trouble about your case. He said there was nothing to prevent you from living a hundred years."

"You don't mean it?"

"Honest truth. Come right around to my office and I'll fix up the papers at once."

"No, thank you; it won't pay. I'm too healthy."—Philadelphia Call.

APSLEY.

From Our Own Correspondent

Fire.—About 3 o'clock on Sunday morning this village was startled by a cry of fire. The woodshed at the rear of the McIlmoyle hotel was in flames. All the village was immediately astir, but it so happened that many of the men were from home, so that there was little help, and the water failed. The fire spread rapidly to the house, the driving sheds and stables, and in little more than half an hour the whole block of buildings was a smouldering heap of ruins. This is the first fire that has occurred in Apsley, and it was a fierce one. All efforts were required to save the post office and Mr. Eastland's house and store, the front of which is much scorched. Water had to be drawn by a team from Eel's creek, as the well soon failed. Fortunately no lives were lost. Mrs. A. McIlmoyle, her two children, and her sister and brother had a narrow escape, and all their goods and clothing were burned, and some money. It is said there was no insurance. It is said also that the house was to have been re-opened this week as a tavern. It is not known whether the house will be re-built—if, as a tavern, it is better as it is.

Missionary Meetings.—These meetings in connection with the Church of England have been held during the past week. The Rev. Rural Dean Smithett and the Rev. W. F. Campbell, Mission Secretary of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada, were the deputation. It would not be easy to find two so suitable men. The meetings at the four stations were well attended, and the congregations appeared to be much interested. It is very pleasant to note a sound wholesome religious sympathy between the clergyman and the majority of his people.

The Harvest.—The threshing machines are busy. New grists are coming to the mill. There is plenty of beef on sale.

Lumbering.—The lumbermen have now begun operations.

Exhibition.—The agricultural show of the 15th is looked forward to with great anticipations.

FROM ALL OVER.

Although he has not a bad memory the avaricious man is always forgetting.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

P. B. C.

Mr. Fred. G. Bimey, an old member of the Club, who has been for the last two or three years in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, has regularly kept up his membership in the Club. The President recently received from him a letter with his fees for this year, and wishing the Club success. Such a spirit is as commendable as it is rare.

Personal.

Mr. Arthur Rundle, of Oshawa, has been in town for the past few days. He expresses himself in favorable terms regarding the town.

Mr. Will J. Banks, General Agent for Howorth's double show, "Hibernica," and Comedy Company, was at the Grand Central Hotel to-day making arrangements for the appearance of his Company here on the 15th and 16th of October.

Dramatic Attractions.

Manager Bradburn is to be congratulated upon his success in obtaining some of the best dramatic attractions extant. In keeping with this policy he has effected an engagement with the celebrated Stafford-Foster Company whose performance here last fall our readers no doubt still have pleasant recollections of. They will appear here on Saturday night, Oct. 18th, in the grand play of Ingomar. Efficient support will be rendered by a capable company, and an exceptionally fine performance may be looked for.

Historic Paris.

Mr. Charles M. Caughey on Tuesday evening gave his second lecture in Bradburn's Hall, his subject on this occasion being "Historic Paris." The capital of "La Belle France," or, as it claims to be, of the modern civilized world, afforded a fitting theme to succeed that of the Imperial and Papal city on the banks of the Tiber. By means of the beautiful views, with the accompanying descriptions by the lecturer, his audience were made acquainted with the beauty and magnificence of Paris, its grand churches and other public buildings, its beautiful bridges, its arches, columns and fountains, its thronged streets and its treasures of art. Connected with these some of the most important incidents in its eventful history were briefly recalled. Nor was the city of Paris alone depicted. The Church of St. Denis, the glorious sepulchre of the French Kings, was visited, and then going further afield, some time was devoted to Versailles, with its far-famed palace and the Grand and Petit Trianon, with their wealth of historic reminiscences. Like its predecessor, it was a most interesting lecture.

The "Stanes."

A meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club was held at the Grand Central Hotel on Tuesday evening. There was a good representative attendance, and several members expressed themselves as highly approving of the removal of the rink to Charlotte street. The club had a large membership last year, but it is expected that this season the membership list will contain double the number of names, owing to the close proximity to the business portion of the town in which the rink is expected to be placed. The following officers were duly elected:—Patron, Judge Dennistoun; Patroness, Mrs. Dennistoun; President, Dr. Boucher; Vice-President, Mr. Geo. Dunsford; Chaplain, Rev. T. Munro; Secretary-Treasurer, C. McGill; Representative Members, Messrs. A. Bertram, and T. P. Attrill; Managing Committee, Messrs. A. Hall, W.G.Ferguson, E.B.Edwards and C. McGill; Skips, Messrs. T. P. Attril, Geo. Dunsford, Dr. Boucher, W. G. Ferguson, M. Millar and A. Hall; Junior Skips, Messrs. Myles Hamilton and E. B. Edwards; Honorary Members, Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, Dr. Kincaid, A. White, R. A. Morrow, Dr. Halliday, John Carnegie, Geo. Hilliard and C. A. Weller.

C. E. T. S.

The first annual meetiug of the St. Luke's Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society was held on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance. The reports of the officers for the past year were read. The Secretary's report showed that when the Branch was organized on Sept. 28th, 1883, it had a membership of 14, and that now the membership numbered 98, eighty of whom had taken the total abstinence pledge. There were 96 children in the Band of Hope. The Treasurer's report showed that the receipts during the year had amounted to $252.40, and the expenditure to $249,30, including payments on the piano. Nine public entertainments had been held during the season. Votes of thanks were tendered to the Review and Examiner for notices of the meetings. The following officers were elected:—

President.—Rev. W. C. Bradshaw.

1st Vice-President.—Henderson Nesbitt.

2nd Vice-President.—W. A. Kelsey.

Secretary.—F. Adams.

Treasurer.—Mrs. Jackson.

Committee.—Mrs. Bradshaw, Mr. Errett, Miss Orde, Miss L. Graham, Mr. W. Pakenham, Mr. A. B. Rogers, Miss Smith, Mr. Geo. J. Early and Miss Annie Chrowe.

Mr. Bradshaw remarked that the reports of the various Branches showed that this Society, in financial matters, stood second to none in the Dominion.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE PETERBOROUGH REAL ESTATE AND INVESTMENT CO. (LIMITED.)

Very Satisfactory Annual Report and Financial Statement Read—The Directors Elected—Votes of Thanks.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Real Estate and Investment Company (Limited) was held at the offices of the Company on Water street at 3.30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The following gentlemen were present:—General Haultain, President, Dr. Fife, Rev. V. Clementi, and Messrs. A. P. Poussette, Geo. A. Cox, John Hall, A. C. Dunlop and Jonathan Mann.

The President of the Company took the chair and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The President then read the sixth annual report for the year ending May 31st, 1884, as follows:—

The Directors have pleasure in being able to present to the shareholders a satisfactory and encouraging report of the Company's business during its last financial year.

As will be seen from the statements appended, the gross profits for the year amount to $60,434.34 (£12,418 0s. 3d.), and the charges of management, debenture, interest, etc., amount to $31,355.60 (£6,442 18s. 7d.), thus leaving the net profit for the year $29,078.74 (£5,975 1s. 8d). Out of which has been paid dividends No. 11 and 12, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, $26,138.00 (£5,370 16s. 6d.), leaving a balance of $2,940.74 (£604 5s. 2d.), to which add the amount brought forward from last year, $2,442.17 (£501 16s. 4d.), making the total surplus $5,382.91 (£1,106 1s. 6d.), of which has been transferred to reserve, $5,000.00 (£1,027 7s. 11d.), leaving at credit of profit and loss account to be carried forward $382.91 (£78 13s. 7d.). The new loans for the year amount to $215,497.80 (£44,280 7s. 5d.). The repayments of principal amount to $97,710.77 (£20,077 11s. 2d.), leaving a net increase of $117,787.03 (£24,202 16s. 4d.).

Payments have been received on account of interest to the amount of $49,907.57 (£10,254 19s. 6d), which is nearly equal to a year's interest on the total amount of investments held on the 31st of May, 1883.

The first issue of the Company's Debentures, amounting to £20,000 stg., matured on the 1st of December last, the holders of these to the amount of £18,000, were willing to renew for further periods, extending from five to seven years, and new Debentures were issued during the year amounting to £34,852, making the net increase £32,852 ($159,879,73).

The usual statements, certified by the Auditors, are submitted herewith.

Poussette & Roger,
Managers.

Peterborough, 31st May, 1884.

To the Directors of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, (Limited.

Gentlemen:—We have audited the books and accounts of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company (Limited), for the year ending 31st May, 1884. The above statements of Assets and Liabilities and Profit and Loss Account agree with the Ledger, and are certified as correct. We have also inspected the mortgages and find the aggregate thereof agrees with the amount under the head of Mortgage Securities.

Edg. Pearse,
Chas. D. Macdonald, } Auditors.

General Haultain said that he thought the company was to be congratulated on the safe and sure progress which was being made. The progress was not very brilliant, but it was slow and sure. The Company was to be congratulated on the $5000 reserve fund which was for the first time shown. This satisfactory state of affairs would be hailed with pleasure by many. He then moved that the report be adopted, printed, and circulated.

Mr. A. C. Dunlop seconded the motion.

Mr. Cox, in supporting the motion for the adoption of the report, said he would take occasion to congratulate the proprietors on the continued steady progress of the Company. It must be satisfactory to the shareholders that with the prevailing low rate of interest, and while some other companies were reducing their dividend to 6 per cent., this Company had been able to continue a 7 per cent. dividend, wipe $2,460.10 off preliminary expenses and create a reserve account of $5,000.

It was also satisfactory to observe that nearly all the holders of the maturing debentures of the Company had been glad to renew them, this, with the ready sale that was found for the new debentures issued during the year, was clearly an evidence of the favor in which the Company was held in Scotland, and another proof of the valuable connection that had been secured there; facts that would no doubt lead to the Company being able at no distant day to obtain their money upon even more favourable terms than they are now doing, and thus meet the steadily decreasing rate of interest that can be obtained in this country.

It is also very satisfactory to observe that while other loan companies and some private individuals were offering money at a lower rate of interest, this Company continues to place all their funds at 7 per cent. This can no doubt be accounted for by the reputation that has been established for honorable dealing and by the facility with which borrowers can obtain their loans and pay their interest. The managers and solicitors of the Company, Messrs. Poussette & Roger, were prompt, courteous and obliging in the transaction of their business, and moderate in their charges, which contributes in no small degree to the popularity of the Company.

The business of the Company is confined almost exclusively to Peterborough and the adjoining counties, where every loan is known to one or more of the Investment Committee.

The President and Vice-President of the Company have the time, ability and disposition, to carefully supervise the investments of the Company, so that altogether the future of the Company is most encouraging and one upon which the proprietors may be fairly congratulated.

The motion was then carried.

DIRECTORS ELECTED.

The following gentlemen were nominated as Directors for the ensuing year:—

General Haultain, Rev. V. Clementi and Messrs. John Walton, Geo. A. Cox, Richard Hall, H. J. Lefevre, A. C. Dunlop, A. P. Ponsette, and T. G. Hazlitt.

The Rev. V. Clementi said that the loss of his eye-sight rendered him unable to assist his co-members. It was his wish to retire from the Directorship. In fact he had retired some years ago but on the following year had resumed his duties. Other efficient stock holders could now take his place and he had no difficulty now in retiring from the position he has so long held.

The President said that he and the directors regretted to lose the presence of Mr. Clementi at their meetings. They had always hailed his presence with pleasure and great satisfaction They regretted that the failure of Mr. Clementi's eyesight compelled him to retire. Notwithstanding, he hoped that Mr. Clementi would long remain among them socially. As Mr. Clementi had tendered his resignation on the before stated ground, it was quite in order that they should accept it. He then declared the remaining eight nominated to be unanimously elected.

AUDITORS.

The Rev. Mr. Clementi moved, seconded by Mr. J. Hall,—That Messrs. C. D. Macdonald and E. Pearse be appointed auditors for the ensuing year.—Carried.

VOTE OF THANKS.

General Haultain moved, seconded by Mr. Geo. A. Cox,—That a vote of thanks be tendered to the Glasgow agents, Messrs. Finlayson & Auld, and to the Glasgow Board of Reference.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned to elect the officers for the year.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

At a meeting of the directors held immediately after the meeting of the shareholders the following gentlemen were elected as officers for the year:—President, General Haultain (re-elected); Vice-President, Mr. John Walton; Investment Committee, Messrs. J. Walton, G. A. Cox, and Richard Hall.

POLICE COURT.

A SOLITARY VAG.

Wednesday, Oct. 8.—Adam Dobbin was charged with vagrancy. He pleaded guilty and was committed to gaol for six months.

Fine Old Wines and Whiskies.

Spanish Wines, Portes and Sherries drawn from the wood, at the Parlour Restaurant of W. H. Chamberlain.

The Medals.

Three medals, which are to be competed for at the Driving Park to-morrow, are now on exhibition at Mr. H. LeBrun's City Clothing Store. They are presented for the bicycle and foot races, and are of a handsome design. They consist of silver and gold, and were manufactured by Mr. W. A. Sanderson.

To-morrow's Meet.

One of the interesting events which will be be contested on the Driving Park to-morrow is the matched foot race btween Messrs. R. S. Kelly and J. Henderson. The race will be a 100-yard dash, and as the contestants are evenly matched no doubt the race will prove exciting.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. Smith's Market.

The Late S. F. Allen.

The funeral of the late Samuel F. Allen took place on Tuesday afternoon. It was attended by a large number of citizens, which attested the esteem in which Mr. Allen had been held. Six palbearers, members of the Methodist Church, of which Mr. Allen was a zealous supporter, carried the coffin from the residence and placed it in the hearse. A long procession was formed, in which were the members of the Town Council, and which was led by one hundred Foresters. At the cemetery six palbearers, members of the Canadian Order of Foresters, removed the coffin from the hearse and lowered it to the grave. The Rev. T. Manning offered up prayer. and the Foresters' burial service was then performed by Past High Chief Kendry, Chief Ranger McWhinnie and the Chaplain, Robert Robertson. The service was very impressive throughout and in conclusion the Foresters joined hands and circled around the grave while the Chaplain made a fervent prayer.

What to Teach Girls.

Teach them to cook and prepare the food of the household. Teach them to wash, to iron, to darn stockings, to sew on buttons, to make their own dresses. Teach them to make bread, and that a good kitchen lessens the doctor's account. Teach them that he only lays up money whose expenses are less than his income, and that all grow poor who have to spend more than they receive. Teach them that a calico dress paid for fits better than a silken one unpaid for. Teach them that a full, healthy face displays greatter lustre than fifty consumptive beauties. Teach them good common sense, self-trust, self-help and industry. Teach them that an honest mechanic in his working-dress is a better object of esteem than a dozen haughty, finely-dressed idlers, and in order that their brothers, or, yes, we venture the assertion, even their lovers may appear respectable when the week's work is done, teach them the necessity of causing said brothers and lovers to purchase their wearing apparel from A. McNeil, at Habitment Hall.

THE OLD SAW MILL.

There are scenes of our youth that we love to remember,
And others, perhaps, that we long to forget;
A word, or a look, sets afire every ember,
And we find them aflame in our memories yet.
The buzz of a saw yet my mind to reflection,
To-day, as I wandered, my soul to regale,
And rose like a picture the fond recollection
Of the busy old saw mill that stood in the vale.
The weather-worn saw-mill—
The musical saw-mill—
The busy old saw-mill
That stood in the vale,

It was built by a brook, far from all habitation,
That kept 'twixt the hills 'mid the silence profound;
The mill was the earnest of civilization,
As it sawed out the logs for new dwellings around.
They grew to a village, by thrift and by labor;
And the miller grew old, but still hearty and hale.
How he smiled with delight as he welcomed each neighbor
To the busy old saw-mill that stood in the vale.

When school was dismissed all the children would rally
To play on the planks that were piled on the stream;
And their shouts and glad laughter would fill all the valley,—
I can hear them to-day like sounds heard in a dream.
To the buzz of the saws it was music to listen,
As out from their jaws slid the board and the rail,
Ah, no wonder the tears on my eye-lids will glisten
As I think of the saw mill that stood in the vale.

Where? Where are they all, the familiar old faces,
That made of my childhood a season of joy?
Some are dead, all are scattered, some are filling high places,
The children that knew me when I was a boy.
And the mill, although still to my vision appearing,
Too, is gone; in a storm it blew down with the gale;
And all that remains are the memories endearing
Of the busy old saw mill that stood in the vale.
The weather-worn saw-mill—
The musical saw-mill—
The busy old saw-mill
That stood in the vale.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists; $1, six bottles for $5.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1884.

ONE line of defence adopted by Mr. Blake for the conspiring ministers whom he was defending was so absurd as to show forcibly the weakness of his case. He said that it was to prevent bribery that the decoys whom they employed solicited bribes at their instance.

MR. BLAKE did not think it beneath him to speak of the absurdity of the contention that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues would conspire to procure bribes for their followers to desert them. He knows very well that is not the contention, but that they invited bribery in order to represent their political opponents as parties to it, in order to turn public attention from their own misdeeds.

THE EGYPTIAN CAMPAIGN.

The Canadian Contingent at Assiout—Massacre of Women and Children.

CAIRO, Oct. 8.—The Canadian contingent has reached Assiout and will go to the front forthwith. Advices from Suakim state that the rebellion is increasing. Two fresh tribes have joined El Mehdi. Osman Digna has abandoned the attack on Suakim, and is now engaged in massacreing women and children, and stealing cattle belonging to the Amarar tribes.

A BURNING COPPER MINE.

The Richest Copper Mine in the World on Fire.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—A fire commenced 800 feet down in the celegrated Calumet and Hecla mines at Hancock, Mich., on Saturday, and is still raging. The hanging wall of this mine is supported by millions of feet of lumber, and almost the whole of this is threatened with destruction. The smoke is so dense that the fire cannot be reached. Its origin is not known. When first discovered, John Rapson and Thomas Gable were sent down to the eleventh level to start the pumps, and as they did not return a party went to their rescue. Rapson was found suffocated, but his body could not be reached. Then the rescuers were almost stifled by the fumes of the burning timber, and had to be dragged out insensible and restoratives applied. A number of men are still in the lower levels, but as plenty of air can be got to them no apprehension is felt about their ultimate escape. All the shafts are closed and every effort is being made to subdue the flames.

DARING ROBBERY.

An Aged Storekeeper Chloroformed and Robbed in His Own Store.

A daring robbery wrs perpetrated in the West End, Toronto, on Tuesday evening. As Mr. John Sutherland, who keeps a provision store at 142 Lumley street, was removing a barrel in the back part of his store at about half-past six, he was attacked by two ruffians who had stolen in unobserved, and who threw a cloth, supposed to have been chloroformed, over his head. They then knocked him down, and while one of them held him fast, the other went through his pockets, securing about $12 in silver which he had on his person. Luckily, however, they missed the inside pocket of his coat, in which he had a considerable sum of money in bills. Mr. Sutherland, who is seventy years of age, was discovered insensible on the floor, and was with difficulty restored to consciousness. He remained in a somewhat precarious state during the night but was better yesterday and able to get up. It is high time that some steps were taken to bring the gang of roughs and hoodlums who infest this part of the city to justice, and a vigilance committee is being talked of by the west enders.—Toronto Globe.

'MID STORM AND DARKNESS.

Fearful Fate of Labourers in a Storm on Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The storm last night blew away a shanty in the lake in which 16 labourers, who were employed on the Hyde Park tunnel, were lodged. The men were left clinging to stringers or beams in a perilous position. One man came ashore on a plank this morning, but it is feared the others are drowned. Life savers have gone to the rescue.

LATER—The life-saving crew rescued four persons from the pier in the lake. Ten were drowned. The storm was one great fury. It blew up suddenly, and the work of destroying the temporary structure was quick and complete. The men had no means of escape beyond the small boat, which probably went adrift. A number of the unfortunate men were carried into the lake with the wreckage, and were compelled to battle for their lives with the floating timber in the breakage of the night. Among the drowned are Wm. H. Sheahan and K. Corbin, contractor of the work, Lewis Ainsworth, Andrew Ainsworth, Charles Manski, Charles Fock, D. Smith, Otto Mancofski, Klaus Klausen, Wm. Mancofski. The bodies are not recovered.

Richmond in Jeopardy.

RICHMOND, Ky., Oct. 8.—Fire broke out tonight in the planing mill of C. Scafford which, aided by a heavy wind, proved very destructive. The engines were sent for from Lexington and the fire was got under control after burning two hours. The loss will aggregate $150,000.

RIFLEMEN AT THE RANGE.

The Annual Matches of the Peterborough Rifle Association.

The annual matches of the county of Peterborough Rifle Association was held at the butts on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 7th and 8th of October. On the first day the weather was all that could be desired; it was a calm, clear and bright day. The matches commenced at 9 a.m. and a steady fire was kept up till 6 p.m. The programme was got through as far as the first half of the County match.

On the second day, however, it rained almost incessantly. But the valient riflemen defied the unfavorable weather and continued firing through the heaviest showers. Those who entered for the sporting match, especially labored under difficulties, the rain pouring down as they took their places and shot their respective rounds. On the second day the firing commenced at 9 a.m. and the programme was finished at shortly after one p.m.

The prize list was a good one, and the prizes were contributed chiefly by the business men of the town. It has been suggested that as the match is open to county competitors, the prize list should extend equally far, and that those living in the county should contribute some of the prizes. The revolving and sliding canvas targets proved very satisfactory, the men having got accustomed to them, and they are a great improvement on the old-fashioned ones.

The 57th Battalion Cup, presented by Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers, for competition among Company teams from the Battalion, was again carried off by the Keene Company, no other team from the 57th Battalion having competed. The New York gold medal again falls to Quartermaster Sergeant Hill, he having made the highest score of those who contested from Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Companies, and from the cavalry troop. This is the second year he has won the medal. Last year Sergt. Major Stothart won both the Cox Cup and Bankers' Cup of 1877. This year he was not so successful, having lost both. Mr. F. W. Mount succeeded in carrying off the Bankers' Cup, Sergt. Major Foley, of Norwood, won the Cox Cup, and the Bankers' Cup of 1881 went to Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald. These County Matches are a great source of good to the Volunteer force, and should be better appreciated. The practices should be kept up during the summer, and then there might be higher scores to show. There is no little amount of work in running the machinery of the Association, and the officers who have that arduous task imposed upon them feel that the volunteers do not take enough interest in the matches.

During the season a series of four monthly matches have been held, at each of which 400 rounds of ammunition was distributed as prizes. The silver medal presented by the Ontario Rifle Association was competed for at these matches. The medal is presented by the Provincial Association each year, and is awarded to the marksman making the highest aggregate of points in three out of the four matches. This year Major Bell receives the medal. The following is the names of the winners and the value of the prizes:—

NO POLICY.

There was just one thing in this connection that Mr. Blake did not tell the electors of Stormont—that he has not told any of the audiences which he has recently addressed, viz, the policy which he proposes to pursue in relation to tariff matters, should he be charged with the responsibility of conducting the affairs of the Dominion. On that subject he is silent as the grave. He and his followers are adepts at criticism. They have no trouble at all in pointing out the defects, the blunders, and the weak points in the government's policy, but they do not give the slightest inkling of what their programme is to be.—Toronto News (Indep.)

REJOICING TOO SOON.

SOME of the Reform organs are in better spirits than they have been for some time, the cause being the report that Sir John Macdonald is seriously ill, and their clearly expressed hope that the Conservative party may lose a leader whose loss would be severely felt. Their only hope is that the foremost of Canadian statesmen being removed, their chance of office, now desperate, would be improved.

In the same breath, however, they deny that illness is the cause of Sir John's visit to England and invent all sorts of reasons for it.

Though Sir John was in need of relaxation from the cares of his high position, and is ordered a sea voyage, his health is not so bad as to cause his friends to fear the fatal result, the idea which is so gratifying to some of his political opponents. It would not be surprising even if Sir John found opportunity to do good service to Canada, even when travelling for his health, such services under the least favourable circumstances being what Canada has been in the habit of receiving from him.

A REFORM POLICY.

MR. CALDWELL thinks it is only a joke to offer to buy the vote of a member by means of timber limits and official patronage.

Whether Mr. Mowat and his colleagues agree with Mr. Caldwell in his opinion as to such corrupt offers being a joke we cannot say, but they certainly agree with him in practice. They deal with timber as if it were not the property of the people of Ontario, and with official patronage as if it were not a public trust, but use both systematically for their own private advantage, by means of such undue influences to maintain themselves in office, from which otherwise they would be dismissed.

How a Hog Rooted up a City.

I have just returned from the shore of Lake Superior, where I spent some time visiting the copper regions, said to be the greatest in the world. Throughout the rocky, barren Keewenew peninsular, good for nothing as farming lands, the immense copper deposits have caused large towns to spring up, and they now give employment to tens of thousands of men. About eighteen years ago a pig strayed from the drove to which it belonged, and fell into a pit where the city of Calumet now stands. In rooting about it uncovered a mass of native copper, and showed to the world the location of the greatest copper mine it has ever known. As the result of that pig's rooting humanity is now $35,000,000 richer in the use of the copper there discovered, and the stockholders, who, aided by the pig, have helped the world to this wealth, have received about $25,000,000 for their trouble. A town of 6,000 inhabitants has gathered around the pig's hole, and nearly 2,000 men are employed in operating the mines beneath it.—Cor. Cleveland Leader.

Robbers Thwarted.

EMPONIA, Rks., Oct. 7.—On Sunday ten miles west of here, an attempt was made to rob the Santa Fe passenger train. The robbers unspiked two rails but did not loose them. The train ran at such a high speed that it passed safely over the rails. The robbers became enraged and fired a volley after the train, but nobody was hurt. A freight train following was ditched, the fireman was killed and the engineer seriously injured.

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS CALLED TO ACCOUNT AGAINST THEIR WILL.

Addresses by Counsel—The Conspirators to Procure Bribes—Ministers as Detectives and and Decoys—Character of Government Witnesses.

The Royal Committee sat again on Tuesday.

THE CONSPIRING DECOYS.

Mr. DALTON MCCARTHY addressed the Commission in support of the charges against the members of the Mowat Administration. He ably argued that members of the Government had induced members of the House to approach persons for the purpose of inducing them to make corrupt offers. The The evidence of Messrs. Pardee, Fraser, Mowat and Hardy showed this. On being informed that approaches were being made they did not repel the negotiations. On the contrary they made McKim their agent and confederate to obtain bribes. He reviewed McKim's evidence to show how he had run after Wilkinson and had brought others to him, Dowling, Balfour and Lyon being introduced by him. According to his own account McKim became the instrument of Wilkinson. The law acknowledged no right in a man to participate in a crime in order to fasten the guilt upon an individual. Every steps had been taken with the convivance of the Government, as they had been informed by Mr. Mowat. McKim had reported to them day by day. Mr. Fraser had stated that he took the responsibility for advising that means should be taken to entrap these men. Mr. Hardy and Mr. Pardee also admitted that they consented. Dowling was pressed and exhorted to go to Mr. Bunting, and so was Balfour, though he refused. Mr. Vicar showed how the ministers were relying upon Balfour's little scheme, and they found it was Balfour who was giving information to Mr. Mowat. Then the evidence of County Attorney Fenton proved a conspiracy to induce unlawful acts. On the Sunday Mr. Hardy instructed him, though the offence, he was told, was not yet complete. He was told to hold himself ready for the time when they had by their agents obtained the completion of the offence. Their agents actually bound themselves solemnly by word and in writing to participate in the offence. And this was done with the knowledge and approval of the Ministers. It would have been more creditable if they had at once divulged what they had learned to the Speaker. They wanted Lyon to go on so that they might obtain, in violation of the law, the withdrawal of the petition against him, and yet not to let him go over to the Opposition. He then discussed the legal aspect of the charge of bribery. Bribery was a twofold act, and one party was as bad as the other. And here there had been coaxing to obtain bribes. It was said they were detectives, and even so, it was humiliating that the Ministry should employ members of the House as detectives and informers to do nasty, dirty work in ferreting out crime. But they were more than that, they were decoys coaxing men to commit illegal acts, and participating in them. That was a direct violation of the law, and made those they decoyed guilty of no offence at law. He proceeded to quote from the Albany Law Journal as follows :—

"The decoy must not consent to the crime. So if the owner delivers property to the would-be thief, this is no larceny. In like manner, the decoy must not himself commit any ingredient of the act which it is necessary for the criminal to commit in order to constitute the offence; as leaving the outer door open or opening it to admit the burglar."

In the Scotch courts a conviction has been quashed on the express grounds that the illegality had been procured by the solicitation of the informer and decoy. So it was with the members of the Administration. Their agents, with their approval, had solicited bribes in order that they might have something to inform about. They had put off the revelation in the hope that the Conservative leaders would introduce an amendment as to the timber policy, and so might be represented as being implicated. This Mr. Mowat's evidence showed. So they deliberately tried and conspired to entcap Mr. Bunting, to implicate, if possible, some Conservative leader. Were all these traps justifiable? If Wilkinson were being tried for bribery, the first question would be if he were guilty, and the second, whether he had been instigated and coaxed to commit the act, for then it would be no crime at law. He called attention to the case of Saunders v. the people, in the 48th volume of the Michigan reports. Decoying persons into criminal acts was denounced by the Supreme Court. Justice Marston said :—

"The course pursued by the officers in this case was utterly indefensible. Where a person contemplating the commission of an offence approaches an officer of the law, and asks his assistance, it would seem to be the duty of the latter, according to the plainest principles of duty and justice, to decline to render such assistance and to take such steps as would be likely to prevent the commission of the offence, and tend to the elevation and improvement of the would-be criminal rather than to his farther debasement. Some courts have gone a great way in giving encouragement to detectives, in some very questionable methods adopted by them to discover the guilt of criminals; but they have not yet gone so far, and I trust never will as to lend aid or encouragement to officers who may under a mistaken sense of duty, encourage and assist parties to commit crime, in order that they may arrest and have them punished for so doing."

Here it was the Attorney General and his colleagues who were thus encouraging and assisting men to commit crime. The charge has been brought home to them by indisputable evidence.

MR. BLAKE DEFENDS TRAPS.

MR. BLAKE, the counsel for the accused Ministers, defended their right to trap men in order to keep the Assembly pure. He contended that McKim, Cascaden, Dowling and Balfour were not particeps criminis because they were endeavouring to bring offenders to justice. As to the Ministers he argued that they were morally and legally justified in the course they had taken.

INVITING BURGLARS.

MR. BETHUNE, following on the same side, dwelt upon the employment of spies and informers in diplomacy. He held that it was right to lead on those who were approaching the members, if it was for the purpose of detecting them. He adduced the case of a captured burglar and said that he ought not to be politily shown out of doors. Marked coins were also used to detect thieves, and justifiably.

SOLICITING BRIBES.

Mr. D. MCCARTHY replied. He showed that McKim swore that he first asked Kirkland for money. So he first asked for the withdrawal of the petition against Lyon. He actually suggested and invited illegality. Mr. Bethune's cases were not similar; you could not leave the door open for the burglar's entrance or thrust money into the thief's pocket, and then denounced them. The court had said that this was not a criminal trial but an enquiry for the Legislature. The mere offer to bribe a member was an offence punishable with imprisonment. But the Ministers invited an attack upon the honor of the House. If in a charge of bribery in an election case it was proved that the briber was persuaded to bribe by the opposite party, the election could not be set aside. It was abundantly proved that both McKim and Dowling had solicited bribes, and that the Ministers had conspired with them to procure the commission of allegal acts.

A MOWAT WITNESS.

SAMUEL BOYLE, T. MCMANUS and GALVIN BURNS, residents of the Township of Peel, gave evidence that McKim was not to be believed upon oath.

J. BOYLE and A. GRIFFIN expressed considerable hesitation as to believing McKim.

SHIELDING AN INFORMER.

Several other witnesses were present on behalf of Mr. Meek to describe Mr. McKim's character.

Mr. BLAKE, as counsel for the conspirators, interposed to protect their tool from exposure, by the technical objection that the names of the witnesses had not been previously given.

The Commission then adjourned till Saturday to hear Mr. Meek's witnesses.

An Exciteb Lover.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Oct. 7.—Yesterday Frank Budman, book-keeper, went to the house of Rose Andiago, daughter of a coal operator with whom he was in love, and fired an ineffectual shot at Count Armpaski, who was with her in the parlour. The count got a revolver and ordered Miss Andiago to count three. At the word three both men fired. Budman was shot in the shoulder.

A Way to Grow Wise.

After reading a book, or any article, or an item of information from any reliable source, before turning your attention to other things give two or three minutes' quiet thought to the subject that has just been presented to your mind; see how much how can remember concerning it; and if there were any new ideas, instructive facts, or points of especial interest that impressed you as you read, force yourself to recall them. It may be a little troublesome at first until your mind gets under control and learn to obey your will, but the very effort to think at all out will engrave the facts deeply upon the memory, so deeply that they will not be effaced by the rushing of a new and different set of ideas; whereas, if the matter be given no further consideration at all, the impressions have received will fade away so entirely that within a few weeks you will be totally unable to remember more than a dim outline of them.

Form the good habit, then, of always reviewing what has just been read. It exercises and disciplines the mental faculties, strengthens the memory, and teaches concentration of thought.

You will soon learn, in this way, to think and reason intelligently, to seperate and classify different kinds of information; and in time the mind, instead of being a lumberroom in which the various contents are thrown together in careless confusion and disorder, will become a store-house where each special class or item of knowledge, neatly labelled, has its own particular place and is ready for use the instant there is need for it.—Martha Holmes Bates in St Nicholas.

John McCullough's Madness.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—John McCullough, tragedian, became violently agitated yesterday, went to the depot and attempted to board the train, declaring that he would go to New York. The conductor resisted his efforts, McCullough knocked him down, then got into a buggy and started towards the river. He was overtaken and conveyed to a hotel, where he became quiet. He was in charge of kind friends. A physician says the actor was shamefully treated at Chicago. He was tied down and clubbed by policemen.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

THE FAIR AT LAKEFIELD

EXHIBITION OF THE SMITH, ENNISMORE AND LAKEFIELD SOCIETY.

Unfavorable Weather for the Show—Fairly Successful—Good Exhibits of Horses and Cattle—The List of the Prize Winners.

The annual exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society, was held at the village of Lakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday last.

The first day was principally taken up with arranging the exhibits and judging the articles displayed inside the hall. In the evening the inside exhibition was open, and it was visited by a large number of the villagers.

The total number of entries was 680, against 970 at the exhibition of 1883. The principal falling off was in ladies' work, and there was less grain shown than there was last year.

The weather on the second day was very unfavorable. The morning was cloudy, and at about eight o'clock rain commenced to fall, and continued to descend until well on in the afternoon. Despite this fact, however, the attendance was very fair.

The people inside the hall were entertained with music from a Karns and a Bell organ, exhibited by Mr. D. Smart, and two Dominion organs, exhibited by Mr. J. J. Irwin.

Mr. G. A. Mitchell showed an Improved Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine, and Mr. J. D. Hendricks exhibited specimens of the Domestic machine.

Mr. Graham exhibited several kinds of agricultural implements; Mr. H. Owens and Messrs. Wright & Payton showed samples of their makes of pumps and a Sargent's hay-lifter was on exhibition. These exhibits were articles not included among those for which prizes were offered.

The following is the list of prize winners:—

Oh! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system, In large bottles 50 cents.

What to Do.

If troubled with an unhealthy, slow-healing sore use McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. You will find it invaluable for healing, cleansing and completely removing your trouble. If the blood is out of order take with it a few doses of McGregor's Speedy Cure, from John McKee's drug store.

PHOSPHATINE is nature's remedy for chronic diseases.

Phosphatine will benefit consumptives in any stage.

Phosphatine cures sleeplessness, nervousness, &c., &c.

Phosphatine does not make fat, but solid flesh.

Phosphatine in female weaknesses is invaluable. For sale by all druggists.

AS A GENERAL THING ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. A few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1 00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

HASTINGS.

STALLIONS.—Mr. Wm. Comstock, of Asphodel weighed a span of stallions one day last week, the combined weight being 2240 lbs, and on weighing separately not a fraction of an ounce was observed between them, each weighing exactly 1120 pounds.

A NEW PARSONAGE.—We are pleased to hear that Messrs. Wills & Prest have secured the contract for the erection of the Methodist parsonage in this village. These gentlemen have earned a reputation for thoroughness of workmanship which is exceedingly creditable to to them. The amount of the present contract is $1240.

A SURPRISE.—The congregation of St. Mary's were somewhat surprised on seeing Father Quirk officiating at St. Mary's last Sunday morning. The Rev. gentleman returned during Saturday night after an absence of over twelve months, which period was principally spent in Ireland. In a few remarks after mass, he gave the congregation his impressions of the appearance of the country, which he said has vastly improved during the past fifteen years. The country, he said, was mainly devoted to stock raising, the uncertainty of the weather rendering grain growing practically impossible.—Star.

FROM ALL OVER.

A SEARCH WARRANT.—If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out.

GOOD THE YEAR ROUND.—National Pills are a good blood purifier, liver regulator, and mild purgative for all seasons.

FOR THE COMPLEXION.—For Pimples, Blotches, Tan, and all itching tumors of the skin, use Prof Low's Magic Sulphur Soap.

RESCUED AT LAST.—W. H. Crooker, druggist of Waterdown, says, when all other remedies fail for bowel complaint, then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue.

HOPEFUL WORDS.—Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, Ont., says she could not keep house without Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam to cure prevailing throat and lung troubles.

EVERYBODY having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of "Hub" Cough Cure for 25 cents. It acts very quickly in children or adults.

To resist malaria, ague, fevers, headache, colds, kidney disease, pain in the side or back, constipation or costiveness, keep Zopesa handy, and take a dose twice a week. It acts upon the liver and stomach like magic. Ask J. D. Tully.

IN the province of San Pedro, Brazil, the destruction of all eucalyptus trees has been ordered. It appears that the tree favors the generation of a terribly dangerous dragon fly, which attacks all living creatures, and whose sting is fatal within a few minutes.

SO many write us of the merits of Zopesa, from the west, Canada, the east and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles of dyspepsia, of urinary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

WE HAVE a speedy and positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Headache, in Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. A nasal injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. For sale by J. D. Tully.

NOT another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine, Large Bottles 50 cents.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Cold.

The Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering thermometer marked 26° above zero last night—six degrees of frost.

Matched Trotting Race.

A matched trotting race has at last been arranged between Mr. E. Brown's "Fannie B." and Mr. Etias Thompson's "Indian Billy." The race will be trotted on the Driving Park on Thursday, Oct. 30th, in mile heats, best three in five, for $200 a side. The race will no doubt be exciting.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to day were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer
Nine o'clock	36°	29.40
One o'clock	45°	29.37
Three o'clock	45°	29.33

To-Morrow's Races.

Mr. A. Elliott, secretary of the Driving Park Company, has received all the entries for to-morrow's races. The entries are numerous, and each event will be well contested, especially the running race. To see this event will alone be worth the admission fee. The programme is complete and a good day's sport may be expected.

An Old Resident's Death.

The death of Mrs. Savigney removes another of the early settlers of this district. She came to Monaghan fifty years ago from Scotland with her husband and children. Four years later she moved, with her family, to their present farm in Otonabee, having lost her husband before they moved from Monaghan. She leaves four sons, three daughters and numerous grand children and great grand children.

Rapidly Rising.

Mr. John Alford, contractor and builder, is at present supervising the building of a large three story residence for Mr. Geo. A. Cox on Hunter street west. The house will be a very fine one and will be heated by hot water. Although commenced only a few days ago the cellar has been already excavated and the stone work is almost completed. Mr. Alford with his small army of workmen is pushing the building of the house rapidly forward.

A Good Company.

The Eshpeming, Mich., Agitator, in speaking of the Howorth celebrated Hibernica Troupe, says:—

"Howorth's Hibernica played to immence audiences on Thursday and Friday evenings, being obliged to turn people away for lack of room in the Opera House. To judge the merits of the show by the hearty and frequent applause accorded the acts, one would say that it was highly satisfactory. The broad humor and ludicrous situations of the comedy—if such it may be called—were well portrayed in the cast. The company plays at Republic this evening, and then goes to the copper country."

Legal.

TAYLOR v. PETERBOROUGH PULP COMPANY.—Action of replevin to recover possession of a safe manufactured by plaintiffs and sold to one Richardson on the Hise receipt plan, but price not paid. It was tried before Judge Dean at the June sittings of the County Court, and judgment given by him in favor of the plaintiffs. The defendants appealed in term and Judge Dennistoun gave judgment to-day upholding Judge Dean's decision, and setting aside the rule nisi with costs. Mr. C. W. Sawers, counsel for plaintiffs; Mr. A. P. Pousette, counsel for defendants.

Fall From a Scaffold.

Mr. Edg. Perry met with a serious accident at about 11.30 o'clock to day while working at the house being erected on water street, near the corner of Brock street. He was on a scaffold and, most probably through making a misstep, he fell to the ground, a distance of about sixteen feet. The left side of his head struck a stone and inflicted a serious injury. He was taken into Dr. Halliday's surgery, where the wound was dressed. He remained unconscious for about an hour, but, although he received other bruises, besides the more serious injury mentioned, the surgeon believes that no danger to his life need be apprehended.

Electric Light.

Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, the Manager of the Peterborough Electric Light Company, has recently returned from Montreal, where he has ordered two more dynamoes to supply light for the people of Peterborough. Mr. Hazlitt says that he thought it purely immagination on the part of some people who expressed their opinion that the Peterborough electric light was superior to the ordinary lights. Since his recent visit to Montreal, however, he is convinced that our light is better than the common. Mr. Hazlitt is well borne out in his opinion by Prof. Carpenter, the eminent scientist, who recently visited Peterborough. That gentleman expressed himself as highly pleased and much astonished at the brilliancy and steadiness of the light, and stated that it was far superior to that of New York and Boston. The new machines will arrive in a few days and will be be placed in the new electric factory which is being built in connection with the pulp mill.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

Beautiful Displays of Fall Millinery at Our Leading Establishments.

We continue to-day a notice of the fall millenery openings:—

MISS E. DELANEY

has this year, we may say, eclipsed all her former efforts. In largeness of the range and quality of the goods her stock is unexcelled. On entering the show room, immediately on the right, stands a handsome carved case, containing all the principal styles of collars, frillings and ribbons which are in fashion this season. Opposite, on the left, stands on one of the counters, a elegant case filled with the latest styles of plumes, including ostrich feathers in every tint and a handsome display of pompons. Down farther on the same side another high case shows the trimmings for hats and bonnets, birds from almost every clime being classified in that category. This case on the opening day looked really beautiful. The birds posed on little twigs and were suspended so that they appeared to be as much at home as in their natural tropical woodland. Miss Delaney has imported this year a number of hat and bonnet shapes directly from Paris, which are indeed novel in their appearance. She has a full line of seallettes. On the north side a neat slide wall show case exhibits made up dolmans and mantles in endless variety, and farther to the front on the same side, an exquisitely arrayed case bordered at the top by gold tinsel tarlington, displays the leading shades of plushes and satins to be worn during the season. Miss Delaney's show room is lighted at night by electric light, which proves very satisfactory to her customers and, to use her own expressive phrase, it "brings out the colors admirably."

JAMES ALEXANDER.

On the opening days, Tuesday and Wednesday, Mr. Alexander's millinery department was thronged with bevies of Peterborough ladies. The showroom is tastefully arranged and ornamented. From the ceiling hang in festoons many patterns of beautiful lace and in the centre of the room over a gasalier hangs a triangular canopy of wide lace. The gasalier is robed in variagated flowers, which are twined round and round. Birds with outstretched wings occupy pendant positions and the mirrors are fringed with red maple leaves and trimmed with white lace. All the latest shapes of hats and bonnets are trimmed and placed on high stands. The effect is charming. They look like miniatures of the tall trees in southern climes which are without branches and which burst out in rich efflorescence at the top. On the south side of the room fur lined circulars, ready made dolmans and mantles, ulsters, Astrachan jackets, and specimens of rich sealette hang gracefully in long rows. Miss Winters, who is at the head of the department, may be complimented on having made such a fine exhibit.

MISS SEMPLE.

Miss Semple did not hold a formal fall opening this season, but those who visit her show rooms will find that they will have a large stock to chose from and a long range of millinery from which to select.

MISS ARMSTRONG,

like Miss Semple, did not formally open out her stock of millinery for the fall trade. Her stock, however, is complete in all the departments and the satisfaction she has given her customers in the past guarantees for her a good share of the fall business.

THE FASHIONS.

The leading shades this season are brown, bronze, olive and grey. The felt hats and bon nets take the lead, but still there is a large demand for the velvets. The shapes are not so large this season as they were last year and are trimmed with plush and are ornamented with chenille, aigirette and birds.

List of Entries.

The following fliers are entered for the running race which will take place in the Driving Park to-morrow:—W. Hopkins' "Venus," W. Hopkins' "Accidental," J. E. McIntyre's "Nancy Lee," and W. E. Sherwood's "Inglewood Maid."

The Fair Season.

The newspapers all over the country are just now almost filled with interesting stories, in chapters, giving the thrilling details of how one man obtained first prise for pumpkins, another for maple sugar, &c. The plot of the stories are all very similar, so much so that one would think that they were all written by the same author, but they are different in details. The narratives will be continued for some weeks yet, and the authors (or author) will retire for a season to recuperate, merely amusing themselves by speculating on the result of the obstinacy of Mr. Gladstone in regard to the Franchise Bill, on whether Bismarck will annex Holland to Germany, or intends to add all Africa to the possession of that empire, and on the result of the Presidential election, Nile expedition, and such simple subjects. The reason that the stories referred to appear at this season of the year, is that it is the FAIR SEASON, and gentlemen who want to get good clothing to protect them during the cold weather that appears to have already arrived, can purchase it at fair prices at Habiliment Hall. A. MCNEIL.

Proclamation.

In opening out for the 24th fall and winter season, it is not without remembrance of the early struggles and hard toil the business had to encounter then, when Peterborough, with a small population, had less means than now. A trade of not exact necessity, is placed in diverse times in a position of secondary consideration. The trade with the farming community then was almost, in a certain sense, worthless, as such articles as they had to offer for pay (wood being the chief article) would not redeem promissory notes. But perseverence and manufacturing a superior article found, in time, acknowledgment, not only in Peterborough and surrounding country, but far and wide over the whole Dominion. The large trade in raw furs collected in the back country, where I have always met with a keen competition in succession from Toronto buyers, Hudson Bay agents, and hosts of others (all finding it unprofitable to compete against an experienced manufacturer), has left, under such circumstances, scanty profits. But the determination to buy the raw material direct from the trappers has had the advantages in selecting the choicest skins for manufacturing to fill orders, which otherwise I could not have done. The second advantage is the acquaintance and connections I had with fur houses in Leipzig, Germany, before I came to this country, shipping the bulk of the raw furs for exchange of European furs, and so to obtain Persian, Russian and grey lamb, Astrachan, Bokharen, squirrel and cony from the first market. The increasing trade has made it necessary of remodelling my premises, and now I can show, not only superior premises, but a stock of selected fur goods which no house in Montreal or Toronto can boast of any better; the prices will be found much lower than such goods are offered at in cities. Thanking the public for past favors, my efforts will be, as in the past, to give a superior article at the lowest possible price. W. LECH.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Bass' English Ale.

Another consignment of twenty hogsheads of the above world-renowned ale, at W. H. Chamberlain's.

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

AT FAUCHER'S RESTAURANT, Dow's, Labatt's and Cosgrave's Ales on draught.

A HOME DRUGGIST

TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

LOCAL NOTICES

Bass' English Ale.

Another consignment of twenty hogsheads of the above world-renowned ale, at W. H. Chamberlain's.

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

"Jack Frost, Ahoy!"

The weather is slowly but nevertheless surely growing colder day by day, and ere long the "beautiful" will be flying in our faces with all its old-time stinging gusto. Now, it is an admitted and very forcible fact, that the generality of the inhabitants of this mundane sphere (especially the gentlemen), require garments that will keep out the cold and ward off sickness—in fact it is absolutely necessary that they should keep comfortable and warm, as the household, as a rule, depend on the "heads" of families for support. In this connection, "Habliment Hall" is, as usual, ready to supply every want. Their stock of gentlemen's furnishings is unsurpassed for variety, extent and last, but not least, quality. Fall and winter suits, overcoats, underclothing, shirts, ties, gloves, hosiery, mitts, and other articles too numerous to enumerate, are having an unprecedented run. Call and leave your measure with an experienced and reliable cutter, and you are sure to be satisfied in every particular. A. MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street.

A. C. A.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—As no doubt it will be interesting to many of your readers to know the changes made in the sailing regulations for next year's meeting of the American Canoe Association at the late meeting of the Regatta Committee, in Albany, it may not be out of place to give you the principal ones.

1. Class 1 canoe has been changed from 18 ft. by 24 inches to "any canoe"; Class 2, canoe from 16 ft. by 26 in. to 15 ft. by 26 in.; Class 3, canoe from 17 ft. by 28 in. to 16 ft. by 28 in.

2. Each member is allowed to use only one canoe for racing purposes, and that canoe must be entered in one paddling class and in one sailing class, and cannot enter the races for canoes of any other class, although it might be within the limits of some other class.

The programme has been altered a little from this year's, principally to give every canoe an equal chance for the Record prizes, which are to be five in number, and are to be the best flags at the disposal of the committee.

I wish some of the members would suggest a feasible scheme for a good hurry scurry race, and also a duck hunt, that I could lay before the Committee. Have a little swimming in them so that we can have some fun.

Yours, etc.,
J. L. WELLER,
Member Regatta Committee.

A STORY OF THE SEA.

How two Crews Lost at Sea Saved Each Other from Certain Death.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A story stranger than fiction is that of Captain Hoppchild and his crew, who have arrived at New York. They left Stettin July 11th for Charleston, S. C., in the barque Fredrich Scalia, but were caught in a hurricane September 12th, when the vessel sprang a leak, and had to be abandoned nine days afterwards. On September 13th a brig hove in sight, and the crew of the sinking vessel, after failing several times to get any response to their signals of distress, set off in a boat for the brig. Coming up with the newly discovered vessel they found her to be the brig F. J. Merryman. Hailing the vessel, they were again astonished at receiving no answer. Not a man was to be seen on deck. A man had stood at the wheel, but he disappeared on beholding the approaching boat's crew.

Grappling a rope that hung over the side of the brig, Captain Hoppchild drew his boat close to the vessel. Followed by all his men except one, whom he left behind to look after the boat, the captain clambered on deck. Everything was in disorder. The man who had stood at the wheel had swooned. A pail of water was dashed into his face, and he revived only to tell that the vessel was a floating charnel house, and then to fall back dead.

Hastily searching through the crew of the brig the captain and his men discovered that out of the crew of the brig only two men remained. The others had died of fever. Filled with horror at having come into such a danger the long tried seamen almost despaired. Behind them was a death from drowning or slow starvation by taking to their open boats. Before them seemingly was even a worse fate. They accepted the chances of the latter.

Sending his men back to the barque after their companions, Capt. Hoppchild then lent his attention to the two surviving men whom he had discovered, and after a few minutes' treatment he had them on their feet. They were the steward and a seaman, who had been exhausted from over work and short rations. When the crew of the barque reached the brig they were sent back for all the provisions they could obtain and the barque was then abandoned. The baqure sank on the following day. The brig had sailed from Bathurst, Aug. 20, with a cargo of hides for Boston. A comical side of the story is that Capt. Hoppchild, who would certainly have been perished with his crew, had he not found the Merryman, has entered a salvage claim upon the United States Courts for the rescuing of the Merryman.

EXPLOSION IN A POWDER MILL.

Four Men Blown to Pieces and Two Others Seriously Injured.

CUMMINSVILLE, Oct. 9.—The Hamilton Powder Co. mills were blown up to-day at 12:30 o'clock. They are situated about one mile from here. Four men were killed and two wounded. The names of those killed are Wm. Murray, who leaves a wife and seven small children; Henry Sibbles, who leaves a wife and two small children; Geo. Matthews, leaves wife and five small children, and Wm. Heatherington, who is a single man. The names of the wounded are Albert Culp, badly burned about the face and legs; and Daniel Doherty, badly burned and some limbs broken. The cause of the explosion is unknown, and the damage cannot now be estimated though it will be considerable. The sight is a sickening one. It was with difficulty that some of the bodies were found, and when found were stripped naked and a long distance off in the bushes with legs and arms broken and burned black. They are scarcely recognizable. The explosion produced a terrible effect on the beautiful place. Huge rocks and trees were torn from their beds and hurled incredible distances. Trees were broken off by their roots and several others were severed as cleanly as if by a wood chopper, large iron plates being hurled against them and cutting them completely in two. An immense iron pillar weighing 400 pounds in one of the buildings was carried fully a quarter of a mile away.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

Dr. Zink, of Bradford, Conn., Attacked in his own Kitchen.

BRADFORD, Conn., Oct. 9.—The following particulars in connection with the attack on Dr. Zink have been ascertained:—It appears that the doctor, who was also a justice of the peace, had eaten his lunch in the kitchen after returning from a professional visit and fallen asleep in a chair. While his head was resting on the table some unknown person entered and struck him a blow on the back of the head, fracturing his skull. Some time after the doctor gained consciousness, crawled into the yard, and rang his door bell. The footprints of a barefooted person were found in the sand. Pat Doherty, who was fined and sent to gaol by Zink on Saturday and subsequently released, had made threats against him. The officers went to Doherty at 4 o'clock this morning and took him out of bed. The footprints in the sand correspond with the shape of Doherty's feet. Doherty denies all knowledge of the assault but tells conflicting stories. Zink will die.

THE SCOTT ACT.

Voting in Simcoe and Stanstead—Large Majorities in Favour of the Act.

Voting on the adoption of the Scott Act took place on Thursday, Oct. 9th, in Simcoe County, Ontario, and in Stanstead County, Quebec. In both counties the majority was in favour of adopting the act. But only will the three ridings of Simcoe come under the influence of the act, but a large number of townships in Muskoka and Parry Sound, and also many of the islands in Georgian Bay. It will take some days to get the full returns, but so far as heard from the malority in Simcoe is 1,177. In Stanstead the majority in favour of the act was 247.

CAMPBELLFORD.

NOT MISTAKEN IN WHAT HE SAW.—Mr. Roderick Keller affirms that there could be no delusion about the huge serpent which he saw in the Trent River, below Hickory Island, lately. He came to this office a few days ago, and gave us further information respecting it. Two other men testify to having seen something very large swimming in the water in the neighborhood of the spot where Mr. Keller saw the serpent, but it was at the dusk of evening when it appeared, and they were unable to ascertain what it was. Mr. Keller informs us that he has frequented the river since he was a boy, and has been in every swamp and marsh between Rice Lake and Chisholm's Rapids, but he never felt timid while, plying his work on the water during the quiet hours of night. He has often heard noises in the water, but these were made by the splashing of ducks in their flight at his approach, the flopping about of a mudturtle, or the jumping of pike. He always discredited tales about the monsters of the deep, but now his views of them are so changed that he cannot be employed to go alone where he saw the serpent, and not one of his party of four men can be induced to take much freedom about the neighborhood. Mr. Keller says he was almost paralyzed with fear when he saw the monster's head turn twice and glide along in the water parallel with his boat and only a short distance from him. As Mr. Keller is an honest, reliable man, we can no longer doubt his statements.—Herald.

HANOI, Oct. 9.—Gen. Negrier's column had an engagement at the village of Kep with six thousand Chinese regulars, who occupied positions around the central redoubt. The Chinese commenced the attack at 9 o'clock in the morning by trying to surround the French. The fighting lasted until 2 in the afternoon. The Chinese retreat was cut off and they fled in the direction of Daognan, pursued by the French. The Kep garrison defended their position bravely, compelling the French to surround the redoubt and carry it at the point of the bayonet. The Chinese loss in the village alone was 600 killed. The French captured all the enemy's war material, mules and horses. A French captain and twenty men were killed, and eight officers and fifty men were wounded. General Negrier was slightly wounded. REFORM PICNICKERS.

THE self-styled "Reform" leaders are holding a series of picnic meetings in various parts of the country, where they can criticize their opponents without reply, and where there is no querist to ask them what changes they propose to make as a substitute for the policy they condemn. In an editorial on some of these picnics the Toronto Globe says :—

"Mr. Mercier came to Ontario especially as the representative of the Quebec Liberals, to join in the celebration of the triumph of Provincial rights achieved by Mr. Mowat and the Ontario Liberals. Mr. Blake, Mr. Mowat and Mr. Edgar went to Quebec more especially as the honoured guests of the Quebec Liberals.

We would venture to ask what has become of the old Globe objection to the politicians of one Province intervening in any way in the affairs of another? We have read attacks in the columns of the leading Reform journal upon an Ontario voter, and even upon an Ontario member of Parliament, because, being connected with other Provinces, they appeared upon an Ontario platform. Where is the line to be drawn? Apparently in the Globe's estimation it is wrong for a Conservative politician thus to act, but very praiseworthy for a Reformer.

As to this Mr. Mercier, who has been thus paraded at Reform meetings in Ontario, he is a noted blackmailer, who has sold both his political and professional influence for money repeatedly—in fact whenever he had the chance. He has been strongly condemned for so doing by leading politicians and leading journals of his own party. Two remarkable episodes in his career have been forced upon public attention lately. A friend was compelled to give truthful and therefore damaging evidence against him, so his veracity was called in question. It appears that to this gentleman Mr. Mercier has almost gone upon his knees for pecuniary assistance, and is still indebted to him for his charity. Mr. Mercier has also proclaimed his self-asserted self-denial in scouting the idea of a coalition. The witnesses show that Mr. Mercier favored a coalition when he was to be taken in, and that he scouted the idea of a coalition when he was to be left out of it.

It is this self-seeking politician, this dishonest lawyer, this ungrateful man, whom, for want of better, the Reform leaders are compelled to accept as their platform companion.

CLEAR GRIT DECOY DUCKS.

All the dodging that the members of the Mowat Administration resorted to in order to cover up their misdeeds in connection with the bribery business at Toronto will not divest the public mind of the belief that they acted a most unworthy part. It has been stated by their own witnesses, that they knew of all the movements that were going on, in order to entrap certain persons in unlawful acts. They threw out decoy ducks to delude them. They suborned disreputable persons to approach them with suggestions of evil. They put themselves in the positions of tempters. They were not the honest men that they should be, endeavouring to deter from wrong doing; but they devoted themselves to the devilish task of trying to seduce from the paths of rectitude. After every interview that their miserable agents had with one or another of the victims whom they had determined to ruin if they could, the matter was reported to them. When one scheme of villany failed they were ready with another. For two whole months they kept their spies, detectives and informers at work hoping to entrap someone of those whom they had destined to destruction. Such a course would be bad enough in any case; but when it is seen that ministers of the crown become the plotters of evil, the leeding conspirators against morality, it becomes shocking indeed. Though there was general denials made on the part of these people themselves, yet the very agents that they employed have told all that it was necessary to know in order to stamp their transactions as of the most reprehensive kind And these are the men who pose before the public as patterns to others, who wish it to be understood that they are "reformers." or something of that sort. So far as their proper place would be a reformatory they may be said to be "reformers."—London Free Press.

Burglary at Collingwood.

COLLINGWOOD, Oct. 8.—Last night a burglar entered the residence of Mr. Thos. Best, Maple street, and stole from the pocket of Mr. David Best $72 in bills and his gold watch and chain. After securing all he could in his room he entered Mr. Thomas Best's room and stole his watch and a couple of broaches. He managed to get away with his booty without being heard, and this morning Messrs. Best discovered their loss. Before going up stairs the burglar took off his overcoat, and when leaving the house forgot it. With this clue Chief Lewis and his assistants began a search, and finally captured a man who had been wearing the coat the previous evening, and who they supposed to be the thief. On being searched at the gaol there were found in his possession $50 in cash, the two watches, and two brooches. The man had only a few days ago applied to the mayor for assistance, and was allowed to sleep in the lock-up.

Cowardly Sacrilege.

READING, Pa., Oct. 8.—Doe Run Catholic church was entered by unknown persons last night, who ruined the organ, destroyed the picture of the Virgin, carried off the altar vessels, damaged the pews, upset the heaters, daubed the floor and walls and smashed the memorial windows.

DEBATING SOCIETIES.

The following interesting letter on Parliamentary Debating Societies appears in the Montreal Witness :—

SIR,—In the spring of 1882 it was the writer's privilege to attend, at Liverpool, the first conference of English Parliamentary Debating Societies, and a few words in regard to those societies, whose weekly meetings are attended by tens of thousands of Englishmen, young and old, during every winter, may not be devoid of interest at the present season. As an English institution the Parliamentary Debating society is of very recent origin. It is not more than four or five years since the extraordinary growth and prosperity of the "Hackney Parliament," meeting in the northern districts of London, excited general attention and led to the formation of similar societies throughout the length and breadth of Great Britain. The fundamental principle of the constitution of every such society is, of course, the close imitation of the forms and debating methods of the Imperial House of Commons. Thus, the chairman becomes "Mr. Speaker" and is so addressed, while the members are seated as in the model House,—the two great policital parties facing each other; should there be a third, or Irish Home Rule party, a block of seats is reserved for it on one side or the other, and "Independents," if there be any, have also their special location in the "House."

In debate, members can only be referred to by the name of the "constituency" allotted to them; thus, Mr. Smith becomes "the honorable member for Eatswill," and Lawyer Jones is "the honorable and learned member for Muggleton," and so on. This sanitary rule works well in the prevention of personal remarks and acrimonious disputes which have so often caused the disruption of ordinary debating societies, and it possesses other advantages which will readily suggest themselves to the amateur debater.

At the outset of every society, either the Liberal or Conservative party, having the majority of membership, "assumes power," that is to say, sits to the right of "Mr. Speaker," and chooses from amongst its most prominent or most popular members the ministers of a mock "Government," from the Prime Minister to the Irish Secretary, last but not least! These leaders of their party sit on the front or "treasury" benches, and their principal opponents sit immediately opposite, while the "table of the house" stands between, graced by the presence of the "clerk," a 'counterfeit presentment of Sir Erskine May. Each party retains power until defeated by the vote of the House upon a "Government measure."

In the method of conducting the business of the meetings, the same spirit of imitation prevails. Thus, upon the speaker taking the chair, "questions to ministers" are in order, followed by "notice of motion," &c., until finally the main busines, viz. "motions" or "orders of the day," is reached, and the debate of the evening is commenced. An efficient Speaker succeeds, as a rule, in securing alternate speeches from both sides, so that the general interest is admirably maintained. As for the subjects of debate, they embrace the whole field of current, social, and political topics.

One great advantage of the parliamentary method of debate, with its attendant enthusiasm, may be pointed out here—it affords the greatest possible amount of encouragement to the young and nervous, though ambitious, orator, who can seldom summon the courage which encircles the rostrum of the ordinary debating society.

In the British House of Commons, by a species of insular prejudice, difficult to understand, lady visitors are enclosed in what appears to the uninitiated male eye to be a large, dimly lighted cage, but in this respect close imitation is decidedly not the rule in the Parliamentry Debating Society, for the "Ladies' Gallery" is one of its most popular features, and the fair sex is usually well represented at every meeting; the consciousness of the presence of ladies is found to have an excellent effect upon oratory.

In regard to the attendance at these amateur parliaments, it may be mentioned that the "Hackney Parliament" already referred to reached a membership of fifteen hundred, composed of working, business and professional men—supported a weekly journal in which the debates were printed in full—and in 1882 proposed to invest its speaker in robes in order to add dignity to its vast weekly assemblages. The Society of which the writer was a member, and which he represented at the Liverpool Conference in 1882, obtained in the second year of its existence a membership of nearly seven hundred, and this in a town less than one-sixth the size of Montreal. As many as five hundred persons, including ladies, have been known to attend one of the debates, and similar societies flourish by the hundred in England and Scotland to-day.

Their history is truly a remarkable one, and affords ample food for reflection. In every case the mutual benefit, instruction and recreation of the members have been secured with but trifling cost to them, and it is safe to say that the Parliamentary Debating Society, as an institution, has "come to stay."

SLAVE SELLING IN TANGIER.

Traffic in Human Beings Carried on Openly in the African City.

Sunday, I learned, was the day on which these human chattels were generally disposed of; so on the first Sunday after my arrival in Tangier I went for a walk, and presently found myself in the crowded little market.

Just ahead of my conductor was a tall, turbaned Arab, with fine face and a long gray beard, whom I recognized as one of the auctioneers who patrol the high street of Tangier carrying pieces of calico, horse trappings, knives or other articles on their arms, and crying the price at which they are offered to the public. He was moving stolidly along through the crowd of market people, who were all too busy to spare so much as a glance at him. My guide pointed to him. "Voila!" he cried. "But where is the slave?" I demanded, "Voila, Monsieur, voila!" he repeated, pointing to the auctioneer, then I saw, walking wearily behind him, pausing when he paused, moving on when he advanced, looking with eyes of pathetic apathy upon the busy throng around her, a girl, a child of 14 years or thereabouts, with uncovered face, clad in a single scanty garment of white cotton. She was black, but not uncomely, and she had evidently been carefully prepared in the bath for the ordeal of this morning.

There she stood, alone in the crowd, friendless, dejected, travel-worn, hardly to be distinguished in outward appearance from the other girls around her, and yet deprived of the first of all the rights which our human nature claims for itself—a slave without even the commonest of the privileges of humanity. The little girl looked up at me with a dull curiosity visible on her features when she observed my European dress. Then she looked away with the same sad face of hopeless dejection.

I asked her price. "Thirty-five dollars" (seven pounds) was the answer. Seven pounds as the price for this little bit of humanity! She had been brought from Soudan, the auctioneer told me. She had been captured there by a slave dealer, who carried her to Mogador and passed her on to another dealer, by whom she had been taken to Tangier. She was a pagan, absolutely ignorant, but she was healthy, she was active, she was good looking, she was—but no, my pen refuses to chronicle the list of various qualities as they were glibly enumerated by the salesman.

He might have been talking of a horse or a sheep; nay, he would hardly have talked so coarsely of either of those animals as he did of this fellow creature of mine. Presently he turned away disappointed, finding that no bid was forthcoming ftom me. I followed him at a little distance along the narrow, winding street. The girl was ever treading closely in his footsteps. Suddenly a woman beckoned him to a door. He entered it, still followed by the girl, and when, a few minutes afterward, he emerged, he was alone. Through my conductor I learned that he had sold the girl to the woman fo the house for £8.—Leeds Mercury.

Attempt to Wreck an Excursion Train

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 8.—While the Methodist excursion train from this city yesterday with over five hundred people on board was proceeding towards Hantsport, on the Windsor and Annapolis line, it was suddenly stopped with a violent shock a short distance beyond Kilerhouse. It was at first thought that a wheel had broken, but examination showed that the rails had been broken and spiked with most evident malicious intent. Fortunately no injury or damage resulted. Efforts are being made to apprehend the perpetrators of the villainy.

Barn Burned.

Spencer was burned last night with its contents, consisting of the whole season's crop and of farm and agricultural implements; loss about $4,000; insured in the London, Liverpool and Globe for $1,800 and Commercial Union for $500. The cause of the fire was the explosion of a lamp in the hands of Mr. Spencer.

EDUCATIONAL COURTSHIP.

She was a Boston maiden, and she'd scarcely passed eighteen,
And as lovely as a houri, but of grave and sober mien,
A sweet encyclopedia of every kind of lore,
Though love looked coyly from behind the glasses that she wore.

She sat beside her lover with her elbow on his knee,
And dreamily she gazed upon the slumb'ring summer sea,
Until he broke the silence, saying, "Pray, Minerva, dear,
Inform me of the meaning of the Thingness of the Here.

"I know you're just from Concord, where the lights of wisdom be,
Your head crammed full to bursting, love, with their philosophy—
These hoary-headed sages and maids of hosiery blue—
Then solve me the conundrum, love, that I have put to you."

She smiled a dreamy smile and said: "The Thingness of the Here
Is that which is not passed and hasn't yet arrived, my dear;
Indeed," the maid continued, with a calm, unruffled brow,
"The Thingness of the Here is just the Thisness of the Now."

A smile illumed the lover's face, then without any haste,
He slid a manly arm around the maiden's slender waist,
And on her cherry lips impressed a warm and loving kiss,
And said: "Love, this is what I call the Nowness of the This."

FARM AND GARDEN.

If trees set last Spring suffer from drought mulch them or keep the soil loose.

BANDS of carpet, bagging or other fabric fastened around the trunk of apple trees with a single long tack will catch many apple worms. Examine weekly and kill.

FARMERS are year by year paying more attention to the selection of seed grain, giving extra care not only with respect to the variety, but to the germinating properties of the seed. The season of corn husking is the proper one in which to select corn for next year's planting.

CLAY is especially well adapted to the strawberry, but the very worst for the blackberry, it seems to cause more rust than do other soils. A deep sand or a deep loam is best for the blackberry and the red raspberry. The black raspberry does best in rich soil and sandy loam.

A DRESSING of stable or barnyard manure, however slight, will be a great help to the clover as it germinates. Under every particle of manure, however small, the soil will be rich and moist, and here the clover seed will get a good start before the drought and heat of summer checks its growth.

KANSAS and Missouri stand near the top of the list of hog-raising States. Iowa heads the list with a hog crop of 5,107,445; then comes Missouri, with 3,892,920; and seventh in the list comes young Kansas, with 1,984,646; last, or forty-sixth on the list, comes Wyoming, with 730. The total crop of the United States footing up to 43,270,086 hogs.

Characteristic Heads of Sheep.

A sheep's head, after life is extinct, is pure offal. It is almost good for nothing. Even the horns are nearly valueless—usually absolutely so. A half starved dog will hardly look at a sheep's head, and chickens will pick off only a few shreds of flesh. The tongue is, however, sometimes pickled, and the brain made use of by some deft cooks. The only thought that we know of that has ever been given to sheep's heads, has been to reduce their size, eliminate horns, and encourage the growth of a few locks of wool upon spots where it is obviously an inconvenience to the animal, unless, indeed, it may serve as a cushion in butting. It is therefore not surprising that we find the heads of different breeds to vary so characteristically, simply because they have been let alone, and nature has had her own way with them. Nothing can be more woolly than the Merinos, or more meaty than the Long-wool heads, when named in connection with what we know of the respective breeds. As might be supposed, however, the Merino rams are pugnacious. Well armed they certainly are, and they make good use of their heads. The horns are useful in this respect, they not only give great additional weight to the blow of the head, but defend it and the ears from the glancing blows, and enable it the better to stand the "shock of battle." The weaponless Long-wools are much more pacific in their nature, and though they can deal heavy blows with their bare polls, they are not often pugnacious in their dispositions. They incline to take life easily. The sweets of indolence are their joy, and in their resting time they lay on the flesh and fat for which we value these animals so highly.—American Agriculturist.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

A CORRESPONDENT contributes a sure cure for sleep-walking. It is to tie the feet together before going to bed.

SUCKING a piece of borax clears the voice of singer which has become husky. A little nitrate of potash in water is also good.

A GOOD black dressing for leather is said to be made of one quart of vinegar, two ounces of spermaceti oil, and six ounces each of molasses and ivory black.

FOR babies, cow's milk, which should always be fresh, should be mixed with an equal or even greater bulk of warm water, in which a lump of white sugar and a pinch of salt has been dissolved. The fresh milk is an excellent antiscorbutic or scurvy preventive, and so is always needed.

GREEN ginger may be made into delicate preserves by removing the skin with a sharp knife. Then boil the ginger in water until it is quite soft, slice it very thin and boil in a syrup made of one pound of sugar and half a pint of water. When the ginger looks clear it is boiled long enough.

A PRETTY TABLE COVER.—A neat table cover for a common room is made by taking a square of cretonne for a centre. Choose cretonne with very small figures, and of not too bright colours. For a border put on a band of dark drab linen around it. Fringe out and make quite a deep fringe. To cover the seam, sew a band of black velvet ribbon about one inch around it. On the velvet put a row of fine feather stitching in any colour of silk desired, also on the corners.

OIL CLOTH.—In buying an oil clothe for a floor, endeavour to obtain one that has been manufactured for several years; as the longer it has been made, previous to use, the better it will wear, from the paint becoming hard and durable. An oil cloth that has been made within a year is hardly worth buying, as the paint will be defaced in a very little time. An oil cloth should never be scrubbed with a brush; but after being first swept it should be cleaned by washing with a soft cloth or lukewarm or cold water. On no account use soap or water that is hot, as either of them will bring off the paint. When it has dried you may sponge it over with milk, which will brighten and preserve the colours; then wipe it with a soft dry cloth.

A Long Journey Alone.

Among the passengers who arrived in Montreal on the train from the west on Wednesday morning was a little girl named Lucy Maud Allan, who left her parents in Kentucky a few days ago, alone en route to Bristol, Eng., where her relatives reside. She is a little thing of six years of age and so far has performed the journey in safety. She left home in charge of a conductor and at each divisional point she has been successively handed over to the various railway conductors till Montreal was reached. On arriving at Bonaventure station in Montreal the inspector took her in charge and placed her in the hands of Robert Reford & Co., shipping agents.

Sullivan Bracing Up.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 8.—John L. Sullivan said to-day that he intends to train down to 200 pounds or less for his set-to with Laflin. He is willing to wager $2,500 to $1,000 that he will have the best of Laflin from the start, and is confident of easily disposing of him. After the Laflin fight he desires matches with Alfred Greenfield, the English pug., and with Mitchell, if the latter is so inclined. He declares solemnly he has stopped drinking, and is determined to take care of himself. After completing engagements in this country he will give some farewell performances and make a tour of England, Ireland, Scotland and Australia.

MICHIGAN FORESTS.

The American Forestry Congress which met in Saratoga considered various questions relating to trees, tree planting, and tree preservation, which will be of interest. Mr. Perry Hannah said, in the course of an interview published recently in the Post, that the pine forests of the state would last about ten or 15 years more: that is, before the year 1900 the great lumber industry of Michigan would have died out for want of material. There seems to be no way to prevent this result. The owners of the pine lands bought them for the special purpose of converting their growth of pine into logs, lumber and cash. It seems like a work of devastation, but, whether the rapid clearing will in the long run appear to be the most profitable move in a business view or not, it is progressing too rapidly, and the plants for logging, sawing and transportation are too extensive and too well established to admit of any doubt that the manufacture will go on till there is not a merchantable pine tree left standing in the lower peninsula.

The same fate is in store for the hardwood umber trees, of which there is such a splendid growth in the northerly part of the state—ash, maple, birch and others. Within the past few years, and chiefly within the last five, steam and water mills have sprung up for the manufacture of these woods into lumber for house-finishing, furniture and cabinet work, and they are increasing at a rate that promises to exhaust the supply during the lifetime of some who are now engaged in the business. The sugar-maple is especially in demand, and factories for making the birdseye veneering are to be found in many of the maple localities. Denuded pine lands in other states have become barrens. There are great tracts in the State which the owners do not reckon worth paying taxes on, now that they are stripped of their trees.—Lumber World.

JAPAN AND AMERICAN WOODS.

Speaking of the exhibit at the forestry exhibition the London Timber Trades Journal, among its references to the woods from different countries, has this to say:

"Among the splendid specimens of timber from Japan we may mention a magnificent slab of Retinospora obtusa, which attains to a height of 120 feet and a girth of 20 feet. The timber, which is of superior quality, and is not unlike that of the redwoods of California, is largely used for building houses and ships, and for the making of household utensils, while the bark is used as oakum and for roofing. Other six varieties of the same wood are also shown, some of a white, others of a yellowish color. Alongside may be seen the wood of another conifer, known to us only in its dwarfed habit, that of the highly ornamental Cryptomerial Japonica, which, to judge by the sections of its timber exhibited, grows also to stately proportions. The examples of the beautifully grained camphorwood, with its fragrant perfume, are very fine, and the slabs of maple, bird cherry, junipers, and yews are exceedingly pretty.

The California Redwood Company, 123, George Street, Edinburgh, show a grand specimen of Sequoi sempervirens. The section, which measures 13 feet in diameter, was cut at five feet from the ground. It is 41 feet in circumference, and the height of the tree to first branch is stated as 150 feet—total height 250 feet. The age is estimated at 2,000 years, and the entire tree, when felled, 75,000 super feet board measure, and 26,250 cubic feet, good timber. The exhibit of the company also embraces several articles of furniture made from Sequoia wood. The timber of this conifer seems to lend itself in a peculiarly excellent manner for decorative treatment. Red in color, it is of various shades some of them when polished being exceedingly rich and pleasing; while a specimen of beautiful wavy texture stamps the redwood as one of the best acquisitions to the stock of cabinet-making woods, the more especially as it is said to be durable, and not liable to shrink.

PAINTED FLOORS.

That carpeted floors are harbingers of disease is a question which, to those who have been placed in position to fully investigate, having but one side, and since some of our leading journals have called to mind long arrays of unquestionable authorities proving that carpets, however clean, and free of dust apparently, give off at every step or movement infinitesimal germs of lung irritants. The people seem to have indorsed the theory, and in many a fine house carpets have given place to Eastern rugs, which, occupying a central position, leave a fine opportunity for the painter to display his taste in decorating the intervening space between the rug and wainscoting. It will, however, place the work and imperfections of the carpenter more prominently before the people, inasmuch as the floor, being constantly exposed, must be made smoother and of better lumber than often finds its way into the floors of our houses, for when the floors were entirely covered with carpets, damp, unseasoned lumber or timber, or the same affected with dry rot, could be used and the occupants be little the wiser for the deception, but now the floors must be of good lumber and nicely fitted, else the painter, whose work supersedes that of the carpet layer, will not accept the floor as the carpenter left it, for his work, being on top, he will be held responsible for the appearance forever afterward. If this change in fashion brings about this revolution in floor-making, the change will have another argument in its favor; for others, as well as we, have seen damp, unseasoned lumber put in floors, which in turn were lain upon the joists of the same or even worse quality, then a carpet covering all, the poor inmates were compelled to breathe the moisture of seasoning lumber after it was filtered through a carpet, which would tend to render it still more unhealthy, hence we are of the opinion that the carpet is responsible for much less disease than charged with; nevertheless, we are decidedly in favor of the rug system of covering floors, for the reason that it is much more economical, it is hygienically and otherwise a very wise plan, besides the facility of often removing and thoroughly shaking the rugs, without employing an army of workmen to take up, beat and put down again. It looks as though carpets "must go."—Lumber Trade Journal.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A Mile Race.

A one mile foot race has been arranged between Ocean Watson, of Peterborough, and Jos. Argue, of Cobourg, to be run on the Peterborough Driving Park on the 18th Oct.

Changed Hands.

On Friday Mr. T. Darcey purchased from Mr. John A. Galvin, of the township of Smith, his beautiful dapple grey horse "Mazeppa." The sum paid for the horse was $281, which is considered to be a rather low price for the horse. "Mazeppa" has won some twelve first prizes as a buggy horse, taking the first prize at every exhibition where he has been shown.

Only a Farmer's Daughter.

The New York Mercury, in speaking of Mr. Elliott Barnes' new play, "Only a Farmer's Daughter," which will be presented at Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Friday, the 17th of October, says:—

"The new play by Mr. Elliott Barnes, produced for the first time last night, is a decided success. A large cultivated and appreciative audience filled the house, and evinced their pleasure by intelligent applause. The drama affords an opportunity for fine acting, and the company deserve credit for the conscientious manner in which they performed their duty."

Severely Bruised.

The injuries which Mr. Edg. Perry sustained, in falling from the scaffold on the house which is being built on Water street, are more serious than was at first anticipated. Mr. Perry remained in a state of semi-unconsciousness until about two o'clock this morning. His cheek bone was broken and he suffers intense pain from the bruises which he received. Had his head come in contact with the ground one inch higher (his temple) he would have been instantly killed. Dr. Halliday, who is attending him, informs us that he is getting along as well as might be expected.

An Able Official.

The Port Hope Times contains the following paragraph, the sentiments of which will be generally endorsed:—

"Mr. A. White, General Traffic Manager, is the only one left of the old Midland officials, and we should think he would begin to feel 'lonesome.' His great capacity for work, his ability for quickly mastering the intricate detail connected with his department, and his off-hand way of dealing with all he comes in contact with, in addition to his courteousness and kindly manner towards every one, make him one of the most popular as well as efficient officers among the many able men comprising the officials of the G.T.R. Company. His knowledge of the affairs of the road, and its customers in this section, render his services specially valuable, and we sincerely hope he may long retain his present position."

The Recent Challenge.

Mr. G. H. Giroux, Hon. Secretary of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club, received on Thursday the following letter in reply to the challenge recently sent to the Ontarios, of Toronto:—

Toronto, Oct. 1st 1884.

G. H. Giroux, Esq., Hon. Secretary Peterborough Lacrosse Club, Peterborough, Ontario.

DEAR SIR,—Yours to hand to-day. Cannot name any date at present as we have several challenges on hand as yet undisposed of.

Yours truly,
JAS. J. WELSH.
Secretary O.L.C.

50 Colborne street.

The reply is highly unsatisfactory to the Peterboroughs who had been in hopes of meeting the Ontarios this fall.

Football.

The following team has been chosen to represent Peterborough in the match against Toronto on Saturday at 3 p.m., on the Ashburnham cricket ground:—

Forwards—Carnegie, Smith, Cooper, Myles, Budden, Henry, Alf. Rogers, Snyder, Orde.
Quarter-backs—R. B. Rogers, Tanner.
Half-backs—Gray, Weller.
Backs—Lawford, Tytler.
Spares men—Greenwood, Morris, Herb. Rogers.

Those who wish to see a really good game should be on hand, as the home team is a very good one, and the members, as a rule, are in very good trim. The Torontos won the Ontario championship cup last year and this will be their first match in defence of it. The colors of the teams are—Toronto, claret and white; Peterborough, navy blue and white.

The Skating Rink.

The contracts for the removal and re-building of the skating rink has been let, and the preliminary work has already commenced. It will be 101 x 193 feet and will cover nearly half an acre of ground. A double brick wall will be built and a good solid stone foundation laid. It will be considerably larger than the present rink; it will contain three curling rinks 16 x 160 and a skating rink 50 x 160. The water works will be brought into requisition to flood the rinks, which no doubt will prove satisfactory. The levelling of the ground is being gone on with and Mr. D. Gamble, who has the contract for the removing of the rink, will at once proceed with the work. Mr. J. J. Hartley has received the contract for the brick work and Mr. H. Sherwood has contracted for the construction of the stone work. In one month it is expected the rink will be completed and no doubt it will be largely patronized through the coming winter months.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

FIRST AUTUMN MEETING

OF THE PETERBOROUGH TURF CLUB ASSOCIATION—TWO DAYS' SPORT.

Combined Races and Exhibition—Fine Weather—The Matched Trot—Fanny B. Wins.

The first annual meeting of the Peterborough Turf Club Association was held in the Driving Park on Thursday and Friday. The weather was indeed beautiful; cool, clear fall days. On the first day the attendance was not as large as was expected, but those who were there spent a most enjoyable afternoon. The Fire Brigade Band was in attendance and furnished good music. Messrs. C. Stapleton, W. H. Rackham and H. C. Winch acted as judges and Mr. Jas. English performed the duty of time-keeper.

THE FIRST DAY.

At half past two the first race was called, the quarter mile foot race. There were four entries, namely, F. Moffat, J. Carveth, P. Miles and E. Elcombe.

On the start Moffat led out with Carveth next, which places were maintained until the finish.

1st, Moffat; 2nd, Carveth; 3rd, Myles; 4th, Elcombe. Time, 57½ seconds.

Moffat, who is the champion amateur of Canada, came in easily, but the contest was exceedingly close between Myles and Carveth.

MATCHED TROT.

The bell was now rung for the matched trotting race between Mr. E. Brown's Fanny B. and A. P. Morgan's Little Rock. On the first heat Little Rock broke badly, but notwithstanding the race was close. Fannie B. won the heat by about 10 feet. Time, 3.8¼ minutes.

HUNDRED YARD DASH.

The matched hundred yard foot race between R. S. Kelly and J. Henderson was the next event. After several attempts they at last got evenly away. Kelly soon obtained the lead, which he held until the winning post was reached. Time, 12 seconds.

SECOND HEAT MATCHED TROT.

On the start of the second heat Little Rock led out and obtained a considerable advance, when he again broke and Fanny B. gradually gained until at the first half mile they were neck and neck. Little Rock again forged forward and held the lead half way around the track, when Fanny B. again closed the gap and won by about five feet. Time, 3.0½ minutes.

CARRIAGE HORSES.

The carriage horses were now exhibited. Mr. T. Cavanagh's iron greys won first prize, and Mr. Wm. Croft's bays won second.

THE THIRD AND LAST HEAT

of the matched trot was now commenced. Little Rock trotted this time in good style and held the foremost place until within about a hundred yards of the judges' stand, when he again made one of his bad breaks, and Fannie B. came in the winner of the heat and the race, having won three straight heats. Time 3.04½.

DRAUGHT HORSES.

The draught horses were next shown, and Mr. Jas. Stabler's fine bay team won the first prize.

PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Of the Young Men's Christian Association to be Held in Peterboro' on Oct. 23-26.

We suppose that nearly all our readers are aware that the above convention will be held in our town this month. The sessions will be held in the George Street Methodist Church, the use of which has been generously proffered by the trustees. Delegates will be present from most of the cities and large towns in Ontario and Quebec, while a few will come from New York. A list of delegates will be made public as soon as possible. The topics to be discussed are of much importance to the work of the Association, and will doubtless prove interesting to the general public, who are freely invited to attend. Among those who take prominent part in the Convention are the Rev. A. H. Munro and J. F. Jeffers, Esq., of our town; Messrs. R. C. Morse and L. D. Wishard, of New York; D. A. Budge, of Montreal; W. H. Howland, J. J. Gartshore, and T. S. Cole, of Toronto; F. Lonsdale, of Hamilton; W. J. Orr, of St. Thomas, and W. H. Sallmon, of London. Although it is difficult to form an estimate of how many delegates will be present, the Committee of the Local Association think there will be in the neighbourhood of one hundred. They would be very glad if anyone willing to take one or more as guests would notify the Secretary at their early convenience. We are sure that all who attend the Convention will go away with lively recollections of the well known hospitality of Peterborough.

Heartlessness of Mormon Parents.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 9.—A Mormon family from Lewis Co. passed through the city yesterday en route west. A boy and a girl aged 10 and 12 respectively, were harnessed in a small cart containing their earthly possessions. The ankles of the children were swollen and bleeding. The father and mother each carried a child.

Cuban Affairs.

HAVANA, Oct. 9.—The situation of the army owing to its suspension of monthly pay, is pitiable. The soldiers have received no pay for six months, and some have had none for a much longer time. The officers are at the mercy of the usurers to obtain the necessaries of life for their families. The civil and military police are also unpaid. In several of the interior towns the troops have taken food by force. Forty tins imported by the steamer City of Washington, as containing lard, were seized and found to contain opium.

THE St. Marys Carriage Manufacturing Company, an enterprise managed by capitalists of that town, is meeting with great success, having sold already over twenty-three thousand shares. The surplus stock of the Company amounting to $106,000 will be divided on October 22nd. Shares are $2 each and all those desiring to participate in this Grand Division, should buy a share at once. Address: H. A. L. WHITE, Sec'y., St. Marys.

Proclamation

In opening out for the 24th fall and winter season, it is not without remembrance of the early struggles and hard toil the business had to encounter then, when Peterborough, with a small population, had less means than now. A trade of not exact necessity, is placed in diverse times in a position of secondary consideration. The trade with the farming community then was almost, in a certain sense, worthless, as such articles as they had to offer for pay (wood being the chief article) would not redeem promissory notes. But perseverence and manufacturing a superior article found, in time, acknowledgment, not only in Peterborough and surrounding country, but far and wide over the whole Dominion. The large trade in raw furs collected in the back country, where I have always met with a keen competition in succession from Toronto buyers, Hudson Bay agents, and hosts of others (all finding it unprofitable to compete against an experienced manufacturer), has left, under such circumstances, scanty profits. But the determination to buy the raw material direct from the trappers has had the advantages in selecting the choicest skins for manufacturing to fill orders, which otherwise I could not have done. The second advantage is the acquaintance and connections I had with fur houses in Leipzig, Germany, before I came to this country, shipping the bulk of the raw furs for exchange of European furs, and so to obtain Persian, Russian and grey lamb, Astrachan, Bokharen, squirrel and cony from the first market. The increasing trade has made it necessary of remodelling my premises, and now I can show, not only superior premises, but a stock of selected fur goods which no house in Montreal or Toronto can boast of any better; the prices will be found much lower than such goods are offered at in cities. Thanking the public for past favors, my efforts will be, as in the past, to give a superior article at the lowest possible price. W. LECH.

A HOME DRUGGIST
TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. P. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists; $1, six bottles for $5.

EVENTS ACROSS THE STREAM.

A Few Items of Interest Which Have Been Gathered on Elizabeth Street.

THE CREASE.

The new crease which was put down in the cricket field under Mr. J. Norley's supervision is now solid and the grass is growing up with emerald greenness. So well has the work been done that a person casually walking across the field would scarcely find the new sodding. Mr. J. Norley will put the field into first-class shape, removing all the bald and barren spots and replacing them with fresh new sods.

AN ENRAGED ENDORSER.

One day last week a man, who lives east of Peterborough, came to a certain hotel in this village and appeared from his actions to be in a terrific passion. He struck one man and knocked him over, and then sought a fresh victim. The fresh victim, however, in his turn knocked the man out, and then all was calm. It seems that the man had endorsed a note of a considerable amount for a young man in Peterborough, and finding that it was due and no funds on hand he gave vent to his feelings in the above mentioned way.

STRAIGHTENING STEWART STREET.

Stewart street, from Elizabeth to Douro streets, is being straightened, causing the fences and other obstructions on the west side to be all removed a few feet inwards. The 15th of October is the limitation date, but very little moving has yet been done.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Bass' English Ale.

Another consignment of twenty hogsheads of the above world-renowned ale, at W. H. Chamberlain's.

Heavy Robbery and Suicide.

A merchant, robbed of all his goods and money, commits suicide. His family would have been left destitute had he not had an indisputable life policy for $5,000 in the North American Life Assurance Co. Get one quick. A. Wilson and Geo. A. Morrison agents. Office, Sailsbury's book store.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Just opened out an Immense Range of Collars for Ladies and Children at Turnbull's.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

"Jack Frost, Ahoy!"

The weather is slowly but nevertheless surely growing colder day by day, and ere long the "beautiful" will be flying in our faces with all its old-time stinging gusto. Now, it is an admitted and very forcible fact, that the generality of the inhabitants of this mundane sphere (especially the gentlemen), require garments that will keep out the cold and ward off sickness—in fact it is absolutely necessary that they should keep comfortable and warm, as the household, as a rule, depend on the "heads" of families for support. In this connection, "Habliment Hall" is, as usual, ready to supply every want. Their stock of gentlemen's furnishings is unsurpassed for variety, extent and last, but not least, quality. Fall and winter suits, overcoats, underclothing, shirts, ties, gloves, hosiery, mitts, and other articles too numerous to enumerate, are having an unprecedented run. Call and leave your measure with an experienced and reliable cutter, and you are sure to be satisfied in every particular. A. MCNEIL, Habliment Hall, George street.

A large shipment of that popular make of Velveteens just received at Turnbull's in Greys, Greents, Navys, Browns and Blacks, Extra Value.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

Three Men Roasted Alive by Molten Iron at a Furnace.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct., 10.—Three men have been killed and one fatally injured at Warren's furnace in Hickman county. A man tapped the furnace before the signal was given, and three men standing near were covered by a mass of molten iron. Two were burned to death instantly; the other waded through the melted iron and lived two hours in great agony. The flesh dropped off all their bodies. The tapper was burned fatally. A mule and cart standing near were consumed.

FISHERMEN DROWNED.

A Fishing Smack Caught in a Gale—One of the Occupants Washed Overboard.

COLLINGWOOD, Oct. 10.—On Wednesday Alex. Lezona, of Penetanguishene, and Andrew and Joseph Robillard, of Thunder Bay, left Hope Island in a fishing smack for the western islands to fish. When about four miles to the west of Head of Christian Islands they were overtaken by Wednesday's great storm. Their boat getting under a heavy sea they threw overboard two barrels of salt, and after lightening her another heavy sea broke over the boat, washing Lezona overboard. His comrades threw him a rope and three oars, but all proved useless, as the man sank almost immediately. At 5 p. m. last night the two Robillards managed to reach the Nottawasaga light house in an exhausted condition, and were very kindly cared for by Mrs. C[illegible]s. Lezona, the owner of the boat was 28 years of age, married about three years ago, and leaves a wife and one child.

Boys' Underclothing to suit all ages can be bought very cheap at Turnbull's.

A FATAL DISASTER.

A Waterworks Crib Swept Away near Chicago and Nine Men Drowned.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—A terrible accident occurred at the temporary crib of the new Hyde Park Water Works at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, resulting in the loss of nine lives. For some past a gang of fourteen men have been working at the mouth of the lake end of the tunnel, about a mile off Chentenham beach. Here is erected a platform, forty feet square, supported by poles, which are wound with heavy iron chains, and upon this platform a little hut was built, in which the men slept and took their meals. The sea became so heavy about 5 o'clock this morning that portions of the platform were washed away, and when the men arose at 5.30 they found the waves washing the sides of their hut. They were not much alarmed and proceeded to get their breakfast and make preparations for their day's work. The sea in the meantime ran higher, and about 7 o'clock a huge wave struck the hut, tearing it from its foundation and carrying it out into the raging water. Then followed a scene of the most harrowing description. Fourteen men were struggling in the debris of the building, and in a few minutes not a vestige of the wreck was visible. Twelve of the men succeeded in climbing up to the huge stringers that held the poles together, and lynig face downward with arms around the beams, they waited for assistance. Every moment increased their danger, and the huge waves tore four men from their positions. The crew of the life saving station put off and arrived near the scene of the accident about eleven o'clock. A rope was thrown to the survivors and made fast to one of the piles. Then the men with bleeding hands, began their perilous journey to the life boat. Only four of the eight men reached it, the others giving up and falling into the water. On the shore hundreds of people watched the rescue anxiously, and the four exhausted survivors were well cared for. They are Peter Thies, cook; Hans Christianson, diver; Martin Nelson and Robert Christianson, laborers. Jacob Clausen clung to a timber as he left the wreck and was washed ashore near South Chicago. All tell a terrible tale of suffering. Those lost were Will Hean, superintendent; K. Corbyn, boss; Charles Falk, mason; Andrew Ainsworth, Charles Mauski, D. Smith, Otto Moniofski, Wm. Moniofski, labourers. The rescued men say the structure was unsafe, and they had protested against staying there over night, but had been assured that there was no danger.

LINDSAY.

THE ASSESSMENT.—The pleasureable task of making up the assessment roll for the year has been completed. The value or property assessed stands at about $1,137,300. The rate is fixed for Protestant ratepayers at about 24 miles; for Catholic taxpayers at a trifle over 23 miles. The amount realized from the assessment and to be collected is $34,000.

THE CONVENT.—The work at the convent has been advanced sufficiently to allow of the plasterers being set at work to do their share. Mr. Fred Reeves has charge of this detail, a guarantee that the "Coals" will be well laid on and finish fine and hard. A number of the carpenters engaged have been discharged for a time until the work of fininising is commenced further on.—Post

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mrs. R. Leary sustained a serious fracture of an ankle on Thursday evening by some careless individual driving his horse over her while she was crossing Kent street. It is a very painful wound and there was considerable trouble in getting the bone set; but now that it is accomplished the injured lady is progressing favorably. Steps should be taken to prosecute all such careless drivers as the individual who was the cause of this. We are sorry to say we are unable to learn his name.

MEAN TRICK.—On Sunday afternoon a very mean trick was played on what is known as the Omemee road, Ops, at Mr. D. Moore's crossing. Some one placed a piece of barbed wire fencing across it just high enough to catch an ordinary horse in the breast, the two ends being finally secured to two telegraph posts. Rev. Mr. Anderson, unfortunately, was the first to come along after it had been placed there and of course ran into it, injuring his horse severely. A reward of $20 has been offered by the Ops council at their meeting on Monday for information leading to the conviction of the party or parties and if discovered it will go hard with them, as they certainly deserve.

S. A. BARRACKS.—The long talked of barracks for the salvation army of Lindsay are about to be built. The contract has been let this week to Mr. McWilliams to build at once on the lot on Peel street. When completed the building is estimated to cost some $4,000. This indebtedness will not be assumed by the Lindsay contingent alone, but will be borne by the whole army, the Lindsay detachment of course assisting as much as lays in their power. It appears to be a principle of the army that there is to be no debt or mortgage on any of their property anywhere, and this is carried out to the letter on all their property.—Warder.

PROSPECTS OF A COMPROMISE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The prospect of a compromise on the Franchise Bill between Conservatives and Liberals is improving.

THE CYCLONE IN SICILY

ROME, Oct. 10.—Additional particulars concerning the cyclone in Catania show that the disaster has been greater than first reported. Fifty lives are known to have been lost and 450 persons are suffering from injuries. The cyclone extended over an area of 200 yards in width, and passed from west to east. A thousand houses were destroyed, and many vineyards and orange orchards ruined. The city of Catania itself escaped disaster, but is crowded with impoverished fugitives and the wounded from the ruined villages of the vicinity.

WILL DEFEND THEIR HOMES.

TAMATAVE, Oct. 10.—The Hovas will resist the French advance into the interior. A desperate struggle is anticipated.

RIVER OUTLETS CLOSED.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Gen. DeL'Isle telegraphs as follows: Col. Negrier is pursuing the Chinese towards Yentke. I have ordered that Kep be strongly occupied and that the Loo Chouan River and other outlets be closed. Western and Southern Touquin are tranquil. The Chinese have been driven off and their chief killed. The fleet is closely watching the coast. I assume immediate command of the troop and am about to leave Hanoi.

CONGRATULATIONS.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The Minister of Mariue has sent despatches to Gen. DeL'Isle and Col. Negrier congratulating them on their success. Col. Negrier is wounded in the leg.

HOW THE SECRET GOT OUT.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The disclosure by the Standard yesterday of the Government's redistribution plans caused a general sensation and led to a severe investigation as to the source of the Standard's information. It has been learned that the secret was betrayed by workmen in the office of Spottiswood & Co., the Queen's printers. The offender is in custody.

TROUBLES AT THE CAPE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Government of the Cape Colony refuse to permit its local troops to undertake the suppression of the Boers in Bechaunauland, as recommended to the Governor by the English Cabinet. The Cape Colony Government recommends that British troops with volunteer auxiliaries, be employed for that purpose. The Governor has again urged upon the English Ministry the necessity that exists for the reinforcement of the colonial Government forces. The tenor of the advices from the Cape points to the probability of a civil war.

THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Monetary Conference will be held in Paris the latter part of October. Switzerland proposes the withdrawal of light five franc pieces and the increase of silver token coin.

THREE CAPTIVES.

CARIO, Oct. 10.—Col. Kitchener telegraphs from Ambukol that a rumor is current that the rebels captured three Europeans with their dragoman. If the report is true the prisoners are presumably Col. Stewart, Mr. Power, the correspondent of the London Times, and M. Herbin the French consul.

Alleged Bond Thief Arrested.

About a fortnight ago, says the Toronto Mail, a respectable looking young man named B. Osterhaut, of Cobourg, appeared in Winnipeg for the purpose, so he said, of buying land for his brother who intended to go farming in the Brandon district. Osterhaut called at the private banking house of Alloway & Champion, Main street, and bought some C.P.R. land bonds with which to effect the purchase of the farm. Shortly after he had finished this business and left the office, the clerk in charge missed a bond, No. 08,106 for $1,000. The Chief of Police was notified, and having business in Ontario, he determined to look up Osterhaut. On Friday, in company with Chief McKinnon, of Belleville, he visited Cobourg and arrested Osterhaut and found the missing bond in his possession. The prisoner was taken to Toronto and lodged in No. 1 station. He will be taken to Winnipeg in a few days. Osterhaut, who was attending college at Cobourg, and is said to be studying for the ministry, says he must have carried off the bond by mistake. That will have to be determined by the Winnipeg police magistrate.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child." Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

A FOUL SLANDER.

IN his present self-glorifying tour Mr. Mowat was dishonest enough to state in a public speech, that the Dominion Government had made desperate efforts to defeat that of Ontario including the infamous plot to buy up members of Parliament. Only the other day Mr. Mowat was in the witness box, but though he was endeavouring to make the best of his bad case, and to throw upon others as much as possible of the blame for the misdeeds of himself and his colleagues, he did not dare to perjure himself then by uttering the foul slander which he can so glibly repeat in an after dinner speech. Mr. Blake the counsel retained by him (at the expense of the people of Ontario) to get him out of this dirty mess, if possible, though he had three members of the Ottawa Government under examination, did not venture to suggest such a change, though it would certainly have been pressed if there had been the slightest hope of success.

We can only suppose that Mr. Mowat is not afraid to sully his own reputation and cover himself with infamy by thus calumniating his betters in a public speech, but that he is afraid of making the same false statements in the witness box and committing perjury, simply on account of his dread of incurring the penalty of the crime.

We have heard Reformers express their surprise at Mr. Mowat placing a thief upon the bench and justifying his maintenance there. But it is not surprising that Mr. Mowat thinks little of a judge being a thief, when he considers it befitting for an ex-judge and present Attorney General to endeavour by a vile slander to rob his political opponents of their good name. Of the two we rather think his friend on the bench would have reason to complain of the comparison.

THE Ottawa Free Press disputes our geography. If our contemporary does not know that there is an enormous network of lakes draining into Balsam Lake, or that Lake Simcoe and the Severn River are lower than Balsam Lake it should not discuss the subject. The Free Press can convince itself that it is wrong and we are right on these points either by going over theground or by examining the reports of the Government Engineers, not difficult of access at Ottawa.

THE BAILLIEBORO FAIR.

All Classes Well Represented—A Successful Exhibition.

We have received from the President a copy of the prize list of the first exhibition of the Townships of South Monaghan, Cavan, Hope, Hamilton and North Monaghan Agricultural Society, which was held at Baillieboro on Oct. 1st and 2nd. The list was received too late for our last weekly issue. The fair was a decided success, both as regards quality and quantity. There were eleven general-purpose teams shown. The carriage horses were very good, and there were eight teams shown. There were a number of fine specimens of single horses exhibited. In short, the whole of the outside departments were well represented. The lady riders was an attractive feature. The City Band, of Peterborough, with its sweet strains, enlivened the horse show, and it has been suggested that horse exhibitors should advocate always having a band. The exhibit of roots and vegetables was extra good. The indoor exhibition was very good indeed, the hall being literally packed with ladies' work, etc. The followiug is the prize list:—

MY MOTHER'S BIBLE.

JESSIE HENDERSON BREWER.

'Tis but a little Bible,
And the cover is old and worn,
The leaves are dark and yellow,
And the edges a trifle torn,
And here I find the marking
Of a delicate hand, and there
Faint trace of tears I fancy
On a page once white and fair.

And though I've much that's costly,
And I've much that is wonderful,
There's naught I hold so precious,
And there's naught so beautiful
To me—as this small Bible
With its cover so old and worn,
And leaves so dark and yellow,
And its edges stained and torn.

And though you deem it worthless,
And there's many—more grand and fine,—
There's naught I love so truly
As this dear book of mine.
It was my mother's Bible,
And she read it in quiet there,
In days of joy and sorrow,
Alone in her old arm chair.

It was my mother's Bible,
And she gave it long ago,
And told me of its comfort,
In her times of joy or woe,
And so I love and prize it
More than gems of the harth or sea,
And in my heart forever
It shall e'er a treasure be.
You know then why I love it,
Though its cover is old and worn,
And though its leaves are yellow,
And its edges stained and torn.

The Peace of God.

There is no escape from calamity, disease, and death; they are part of the inevitable order of human life, and sooner or later on every head the tempest breaks. Thank God for the peace above the floods, for the safety beyond the storms, for the silence behind the uproar of the wind, for the calm seas at the heart of the typhoon! No human hand can stay the march of the elements, but the stricken can lay hold upon the Arm that moves the winds and clouds; no breakwater of man's building can keep back the rushing tide of sorrow, but the wrecked can look up into the face of One who walked upon the sea, and through clouds and darkness have vision of Him who bore the sorrows of the world that He might make His children feel the infinite love behind the mystery of suffering. That mystery God cannot explain to us, because the mighty range of His purpose sweeps beyond the low horizons of our thought; but He put Himself under the hard condition of our mortal life, he has touched our sick ones, He has wept over our griefs, He has called back our dead that He might make us understand that our sorrows are His sorrows, and that in the blackness of our affliction his love and power are preparing the dawn of an eternal joy.—S. S. Times.

Good Advice.

It is difficult to avoid being saddened by the fact that there is so much good advice in the world, and so little disposition, on the part of those who need it, to make use of it. It is only another illustration of the fact that knowledge of the truth is not enough to insure obedience to the truth. There is such a thing as deliberate choosing of the evil, knowing it to be the evil, and mere giving of advice is not enough to wean a sinner from evil courses which have been thus deliberately chosen. Yet advice may be an effective unit in a series of means which may induce a wrong doer to give up the evil and to choose the good. Only, to be so, it must be more than advice. It must not be mere sentence of cold counsel read out of a book of abstract morals; it must be pressed home with all the power of personality, and followed up by everything which can influence the motives and the will. There is plenty of good advice in the world; but there is not enough of the kind which is something more than mere advice. So if you really wish to make advice effective, leave alone the dusty books of morals when you come to practice, however much you may refer to them while you are dealing with theory; and try the effect of a hand and a heart which can show sympathy, and which may, perhaps, give the wrong-doer a glimpse of another Hand-and-Heart that is mighty to save.—Exchange.

What we Need.

When I go to the house of God I do not want amusement. I want the doctrine which is according to Godliness. I want to hear the remedy against the harassing of my guilt and the disorder of my affections. I want to be led from weariness and disappointment to that goodness which filleth the hungry soul. I want to have light upon the mystery of providence; to be taught how the judgements of the Lord are right; how I shall be prepared for duty and for trial; how I shall fear God all the days of my life, and close in peace. Tell me of that Lord Jesus "who His own self bore our sins in His body on the tree." Tell me of His "intercession for the transgressors," as their "advocate with the Father." Tell me of his Holy Spirit, whom they that believe in Him receive to be their preserver, sanctifier, comforter. Tell me of His presence and sympathy and love. Tell me of the virtues, as growing out of His cross, and nurtured by His grace. Tell me of the glory reflected on his name by the obedience of faith. Tell me of the vanquished death, of the purified grave, of a blessed resurrection, of a life everlasting, and my bosom warms. This is gospel; these are glad tidings to me as a sufferer, because glad to me as a sinner.—Dr. Joun M. Mason.

The Peace-Makers.

We must, however, never forget that the way in which Christ brings peace between man and man is by destroying in individual hearts those elements of evil which have produced the endless strife and division, of which the world has ever been the scene. Sin is the one great element of discord in the world. And Christ came to "put away sin," not only by atoning for it, but by destroying it in human hearts, Jesus is not only our justifier, he is our sanctifier. When he pardons he regenerates. The real change of nature always attends the relative change of position. No one can receive a free pardon without also receiving a new heart. The two priceless treasures are given at the same time by the pierced hand. In regeneration the sanctification of the soul begins, and it is the design of the Saviour to make it entire. And in the renewed heart—pre-eminently in the entirely sanctified—there are all the elements of peace and peacemaking. What is holiness but love? And what is entire holyness but perfect love? "Pure love to God and all mankind," the fulfilment of the first and great commandment, and also of the second which is like unto it. No one can fulfil the first without the second, as no one can fulfil the second without the first. They are kept or violated together. And love, the very heart and essence of New Testament piety, is peace. The undying words in which St. Paul describes charity, breathe peace in every clause: "Charity suffereth long and is kind, charity envieth not, charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up; doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Love knows not how to be contentious and can never stir up strife. It waits to pour oil upon the troubled waters, and hush the tumult to a calm. It weeps with the weeping ones, though he be a foe, and sings for joy when its enemy is blessed. It delights to overcome evil with good, and says to the angry and unloving, "Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow?"—Rev. C. W. L. Christien.

Ghouls in Ohio.

UNNATURAL PA

Trying to Barter their Daughter for a Farm—A Spirited Girl.

Port Jarvis, Oct. 6.—A wealthy middle aged widower named Dominick Mines owns a farm on the border of Wayne and Luzerne Counties, Penn. It is occupied by a farmer named Obert, and Mines boarded there with his family. Obert's daughter, Lena, is a pretty girl of 18 years. Both Obert and his wife are noted for being extremely close-fisted, and an almost insane desire to be rich. A month or so ago Mines offered to make a deed of a farm near the one on which he lived if he would give his daughter in marriage. Although the daughter was entirety ignorant of the fact that the widower Mines desired to marry her, her parents eagerly accepted his offer. They said nothing to the girl about their intentions toward her, and Mines never alluded to the subject in his daily conversations with her. The Oberts at once began to prepare for the wedding, which was set down for the evening of October 1st. The week before the wedding Mrs. Obert greatly astonished he daughter by telling her that she intended to give a large party. She gave her no hint, however, as to what the occasion of the party was to be. The people who were invited were also not informed of the true character of the gathering. The fact that the Oberts were to give a party created great surprise in the neighborhood, as they had never been known before to extend the slightest hospitality to any one. A new dress was ordered for Lena, and it was brought home from Scranton by her father on the afternoon of the day of the party. With it were so many things that suggested bridal apparel, that the girl laughingly said to her mother that if she wore them people would think she was to be a bride. Her mother thereupon told her all, and that the neighbours had been invited to witness her marriage with Dominick Mines. A neighbour's girl who had been engaged to help in the house on that day and evening, says that upon hearing the truth about the party, Lena stood for some time staring at her mother, pale and speechless. Then she seized the wedding garments and tearing them into shreds, scattered them about the room. After denouncing both her father and mother for their unnatural conduct, she left the house. She walked all the way to Scranton, where she has friends, and where she is still. The true situation at Oberts' was explained to the guests as they arrived for the party, and all of them left the house filled with indignation at the parents of the girl, and with with sympathy and admiration for the daughter who had so bravely refused to barter herself for their gain.

BOBCAYGEON.

RUNAWAY.—The Peterborough stage was jogging along to town on Wednesday morning and whilst the driver was gallantly arranging the shawl of the fair companion, the bolt of the whipple tree came out, and the team slid away leaving the stage and passengers in the road near Mr. Cosh's. The team took a trot around to Mr. Dunn's, and were brought back, fortunately, not much hurt.

HUNTING.—Some of the hunting parties have returned, and with indifferent luck. An exciting story comes from Ball Lake, about an attempt to steal the canoes of a party from Peterborough and Buckhorn, who were camped on Burton's Bay. About midnight the party were aroused, and saw two persons in a skiff, towing two of their canoes, and another paddling a third canoe. Rifles were immediately brought out, and a few shots induced the skiff to cut loose from the canoes and hustle out of range. There is nothing funny in practical jokes and most certainly not when the joke takes the form of robbery. It would have been unfortunate for the men who fired, had anyone been killed. The lesson may have a good effect, for nothing discourages a practical joker so much as a tear of cold lead.—Independent.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

A RIO Janeiro despatch says the Experor of Brazil will inspect the United States coast survey steamer Patterson. A great celebration will take place in honor of the event.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

WHAT has been supposed to be chicken pox, prevailing in the vicinity of Brooklings, Dak., is now pronounced to be small pox. The disease is spreading rapidly. Four deaths have already occurred.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity don t fail to try 'Wells Health Renewer.'

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged lone ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

I Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swaton, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Sermons on the Gospels.

The third of the Rev. Mr. Munro's sermons on the Gospels will be delivered in the Aylmer Street Baptist Church to-morrow evening, when the subject will be the Gospel of Luke.

Successfully Conducted.

The Newmarket Era (Reform) says:—"The enlargement of the Peterborough DAILY REVIEW is another evidence of the enterprise of its publishers, as well as the successful manner in which it is conducted and progress of the town in which it is issued. We note this improvement in our contem. with pleasure."

Football.

The representative team of the Toronto Football Club arrived in town at noon and were quartered at the Oriental Hotel. As we go to press a match is being played on the Ashburnham ground between the above named players and the home team.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong south and west winds, fair mild weather.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store to day were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer
Nine o'clock	55°	29.18
One o'clock	64°	29.12
Three o'clock	63°	29.10

If you want a Mantle or Dolman cut in the Latest Style call at Turnbull's.

The Market.

The market was well attended this morning. The grain is commencing to move to market, and in a few more weeks the square will probably assume its old time appearance. Considerable quantities of fall produce was offered for sale. The following is a list of articles and prices:—Butter, 22 cents per pound; eggs, 17c. per doz.; chickens, 40c. per pair; ducks, 50c. per pair; geese, 50c. each; mutton 7c. per pound; apples, 60c. per bag; potatoes 45c. per bag.

Fine Workmanship.

For the past few days Mr. McFadden has had some of his men at work in placing a handsome new bar in the Stewart House. The bar is of very handsome design, consisting of two walnut sideboards with intermediate bottle racks and three British plate mirrors. The ounter is made of oil finished black ash with ebonized pillars and mouldings, and is covered wito a two inch black walnut top. Convenient ice boxes and workboard are arranged inside the bar, as Mr. McFadden's skill in such matters well knows how to design. This is another proof of Mr. McFadden's capacity of supplying hotel furniture.

Matched Races.

There seems to be no end to the sporting events this season. The latest developments are two more matched trotting races. The numerous admirers of E. Brown's Fannie B., not satisfied with her trotting on Friday, have matched her against W. Hetherington's Brown Barber for $100 a side; the race to be mile heats, best three in five. The race will be trotted on Friday, the 17th. A. Gibson has matched an unknown four year old to trot against Geo. Lipsett's Paddy on Thursday, the 30th of October, for $200 a side. The race will be mile heats, best three in five. Both races will take place on the Driving Park.

Fall Assizes

The following is a list of the cases which are to be set down to be heard at the fall assizes, which will open in Peterborough on Monday, Justice Galt presiding:—

JURY CASES.—Christie vs. Byron, breach of promise; Cochrane vs. Dumble, trespass; Donnely vs. Hall, interpleader; Wood vs. Robertson, slander; Cowett vs. O'Connor, assault; Humphries vs. Breckenridge, slander.

NON-JURY CASES.—Hall Manufacturing Co. vs. Hazlett, possession of turbine water wheel.

CRIMINAL CASES.—Queen vs. Creswell and Creswell, larceny; Queen vs. Purcell, rape; Queen vs. Mimms, manslaughter; Queen vs. Doris, assault.

The New Bridge.

The plans and working drawings of the superstructure of the new Hunter street bridge, are to be seen at the office of Mr. J. E. Belcher, County Engineer. They are well drawn and clearly set forth the character of the work, even to the number of rivets in the girder. Seven strong wrought iron girders, having top and bottom flanges, will span the creek and will rest on heavy stone abutments at each end. The main girders in their turn, support transverse rolled wrought iron girders, on which the joist for the planking will rest. The contract for the iron work has been let to Mr. W. H. Law, and under his superintendence, no doubt a satisfactory bridge will ere long span the creek The iron superstructure will cost about $2,300, and the bridge complete will cost in the neighbourhood of $4,000.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

THE TURF CLUB MEETING.

A Larger Attendance at the Driving Park on the Second Day.

On Friday there was a larger attendance at the meeting of the Turf Club in the Driving Park. The races were well contested, especially the running race. In the free for all trot, Brown Barber surprised a good many of his old admirers, and it was remarked that he never stepped out better in his life. The exhibitions of carriage and saddle horses were very good indeed. The following is a complete list of the events:—

THE first event was the

FARMER'S TROT.

There were only two entries for the farmer's trot, namely, Geo. McKee's Smith Boy and T. McDonald's Gay Lad. Gay Lad won by about four lengths. Time, 3.53½ minutes.

RUNNING RACE.

Four fliers were entered for this race, viz.: J. E. McIntyre's Nancy Lee, ridden by Jas. McGreggor; W. Hopkins' Accidental, ridden by Wm. Morgan; W. Hopkins' Venus, ridden by C. S. Stapleton; and A. E. Sherwood's Inglewood Maid, ridden by John McGreggor. After several scores they all got away fairly even. Inglewood Maid soon led, with Venus second and Nancy Lee third. At the first ¼ mile Nancy Lee left Venus in the third place and the heat was plainly between Inglewood Maid and Nancy Lee. At the ½ mile Inglewood Maid was still slightly in advance, but on the home stretch Nancy Lee lengthened out and won by a few feet. Time, 2.03½.

FARMER'S TROT.

On the start Gay Lad led out and steadily gained until the finish, winning the heat and the race. Time, 3.44 minutes.

FREE FOR ALL TROT.

The free for all trot was now brought on. W. Hetherington's Brown Barber, E. Brown's Fannie B., and A. P. Morgan's Little Rock were entered for the contest. On getting away Brown Barber took first place with Fannie B. closely following. Before the half mile was reached Fannie had succeeded in passing her competitor, and she maintained her place to the finish. Time, 2.52½ minutes.

RUNNING RACE.

After twenty-five minutes sponging and rubbing down the horses were again ready for the contest. Venus led for a short distance only to be passed by Nancy Lee and Inglewood Maid. Inglewood Maid obtained the advance and held it until coming in on the home stretch when Nancy Lee again closed the gap and won by less han a length. Time 2.03½. Nancy Lee thus won the race having got two heats out of three.

FREE FOR ALL.

Fanny B. led out on the start and held her position until within a hundred yards from the judges stand where she broke slightly and allowed Brown Barber to come in about a length ahead.

EXHIBITION OF SINGLE CARRIAE HORSES.

There was an excellent exhibition of single carriage horses, no less than nine of as fine animals as might anywhere be seen having been entered for the competition. They were judged in walking, trotting and in style of gait. T. Cavanaugh's iron gray horse won first prize and Geo. McKee's Smith Boy won second prize.

HANDICAP RACE.

A hundred yard handicap foot race was here intercalated before the free for all was called. The race was between R. S. Kelly and W. Hunt. Kelly to have 10 yards start. Kelly won by about 7 yards. Time 11 seconds.

FREE FOR ALL.

WEATHER SIGNALS.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—The weather signals which, for some time past have been exhibited on the fore car of the early Midland train, indicating the probable weather of the day, have been sadly missed for now over a week. They were a great benefit to the public along the line of the railway, who daily anxiously looked for this train, to see what the weather for the day was likely to be. Are you aware of the cause of the discontinuance and whether they will be resumed at an early date? and should they again take their place on the cars will you, through your columns, give the different signals and what they indicate?

Very truly yours,
ENQUIRER.

Peterborough, Oct. 8th, 1884.

Scotland and Ireland.

The Mechanics' Institute has just made arrangements with Mr. Vale, the business manager for Mr. Ragan, the celebrated lecturer, for securing the services of that gentleman for two nights to give, in Bradburn's Opera House, two of the lectures of "The Ragan Illuminated Tours." The subject of the first lecture on the evening of the 31st October, Hallowe'en, will be "Picturesque Scotland," and on the following night the scenery of Ireland will be represented. The views exhibited by Mr. Ragan are well known to be of unsurpassed excellence and his accompanying lectures are most able and interesting. The lectures will no doubt be well attended both on account of their excellence, and also of the very interesting nature of the subjects. The Mechanics' Institute deserves credit for their enterprise in bringing lectures of such merit within the reach of the people of Peterborough.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS AT QUEBEC BLOWN UP.

Narrow Escape of a Minister and a Judge —A Suspicious Chest—The Extent of the Damage—Precautionary Measure Taken

QUEBEC, Oct. 11.—About 1 o'clock this afternoon an explosion occurred at the new Parliament buildings, destroying a considerable portion of the masonry and windows of the new building, which was just being roofed in. The explosion at first was supposed to have been the boiler of the engine used for hoisting material, but this proved not be the case. Neither can it be attributed to gas. The general impression appears to be that the explosion was caused by dynamite, but as none of this ingredient was used on the works, the mystery is how it came there. An investigation is now being held. The workmen all being away at dinner nobody but one man was injured, and he escaped with a slight cut from a piece of stone. The shock was very severe all over the city. Windows and houses in the vicinity of the explosion were badly shattered.

The explosion did considerable damage to windows in the vicinity of the Parliament House. Almost all the windows in the house itself in the section where the explosion occurred are shattered. Martel, workman, and Charlebois, contractor, are the only persons injured, and these slightly. The damage by the first explosion was considerable. A hole about twelve feet long by five wide was blown out of the wall on the third story and directly over the right hand entrance to the Assembly Chamber and near the place where the Speaker's chair was situated. The second explosion occurred in the northeast corner of the same building. The corner stone forming the support of the building was badly bulged, and it is doubtful if it can be repaired without letting down the whole wall.

Whatever the reason may be for wishing the destruction of the building, there is no room to doubt that dynamite was used. A searching investigation into the cause of the explosion is now in progress. Everything is quiet in the neighborhood, and a section of A Battery is patrolling the grounds of the Parliament building. The Government was only awaiting the completion of the building to call the House together for the despatch of business. The building was so far advanced that only a part of the roof remained unfinished.

Contractor Charlebois, who was on the spot, the Government inspector of buildings, and other experts present, unite in declaring that dynamite was used, and all assert emphatically that there was none on the premises nor being used in any way by those engaged at the work.

The attorney-general and the judge of sessions had a narrow escape from being blown up when the second explosion occurred in the northeastern corner of the same building, where they were holding a conference in the second story. The huge corner stones underneath the windows are blown out and the wall above will have to be taken down.

Investigation shows that a wooden chest or trunk was seen by the workmen lying in the building where the first explosion occurred. It was similar to what mechanics use for carrying tools and was four feet long by two and a half feet wide. No particular attention was given to it by the employes, as they thought it belonged to one of their comrades. It was moved out of their way several times and at last placed near the window where the explosion subsequently occurred.

A guard of police and volunteer militia were engaged all the afternoon in searching the debris to ascertain the origin of the explosion. A guard of artillery is surrounding the grounds in front of the building where the explosion took place.

There are any amount of rumors as to the motives actuating the parties who engaged in the terrible work, but nothing will be definitely ascertained until the Government has finished its examination. If the perpetrators are caught they will have little mercy shown them.

A rude estimate places the loss at 16,000. The local cabinet to-night issued a proclamation offering $1000 reward for information as to the perpetrators of the outrage.

Precautionary measures have been taken by the military authorities of the citadel to protect the powder magazine and military stores.

A high authority states that the government was anonymously informed by letter lately that a dynamite attempt would be made on the public buildings, but it was treated as a hoax.

A Singular Case.

About two weeks ago a red spot made its appearance on the cheek of Mrs. Woods, a lady who resides on a short street off Cherry street. She paid no attention to it, thinking it would soon disappear. On Friday, however, it commenced to bleed, and all efforts to stop it proved unavailing. Dr. Pickering was called in. He found that the blood proceeded from an artery, and spent about two hours in trying to stop the flow. At noon he had succeeded in reducing it very much, though not in stopping it altogether. Mrs. Wood lost a very large amount of blood, and her medical adviser says that unless she keeps very quiet her life will be in danger. The case is the only one of the kind that has ever come under his notice.—Toronto News.

A PECULIAR virtue in Ayer's Sarsaparilla is that while it cleanses and purges the blood from all corruptions and impurities, and thereby roots out disease, it builds up and invigorates the whole system, and makes one young again.

THE CYCLONE IN ITALY.

ROME, Oct. 9.—During the cyclone at Catania twenty-seven persons were killed and one hundred injured. There is great distress among the poor. Hundreds of houses are demolished and many summer mansions are in ruins. The damage is estimated at two million lire. Later reports from Catania state that 400 persons were injured by the cyclone, and the damage amounts to four million lire.

IRATE ENGLISH BONDHOLDERS.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—At a meeting of the Wabash bondholders yesterday President Joy said he had come to ask British holders to rescue the road. He outlined railway affairs from 1879 to 1884, and generally excused the Wabash mistakes. He was frequently interrupted and sat down baffled. Mr. Joshua Chester, owner of $30,000 worth of stock, reminded Mr. Joy that his victims thought mistakes too mild a word, and also that he had told nothing which the holders wanted to know. Mr. Russel Roberts, barrister, severely criticized Mr. Joy. Instead of a straightforward statement touching vital questions as to where the earnings had gone, he merely played with generalities. The meeting was uproarious. The managers of the road were characterized as robbers. A committee was finally appointed to consider Mr. Joy's proposition.

NEWS CENSORSHIP.

LONDON, Oct., 12:—Instructions have been forwarded Lord Wolseley to have a Governmental intelligence bureau in Egypt, to strictly supervise all telegraph despatches of correspondents of newspapers. The General is given full power of censorship.

DEFECTIVE SERVICE.

LONDON, Oct., 12,—Lord Wolseley complains to the War Office that his advance has been paralized through the failure of the commissariat and transport service. He says the railway to the first cataract has broken down, the stores at Wady Halfa are inadequate, the camel corps without camels, and the equipment of the corps in a rotten condition.

THE DEFENCE OF KELUNG.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Admiral Courbet telegraphs from Kelung:—The erection of defences at the port and mines will take several days. The landing parties from Lespes' squadron at Tamsui, reconnoitered the posts from which Chinese torpedoes were fired, and found the posts defended by a large number of infantry, ambushed in dense thickets. An engagement took place. Six members of the reconnoitering party were killed, including a naval lieutanant. The harbour is defended by a line of torpedoes only. The shallowness of the water prevents the approach of large vessels. The torpedoes are close to the shore, rendering dragging for them dangerous, and making an effective blockade.

CANADIANS AND THE RAPIDS.

WADY HALFA, Oct. 12.—Lord Wolseley is confident that the reported difficulty of the boats passing the cataracts is greatly magnified, and that low water will be an advantage. The Canadians think nothing of the rapids. The native boatmen are deserting.

NEW GUINEA.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A British Commodore has been instructed to proceed to New Guinea and proclaim a protectorate over the southern coast of the island to the eastward of the 141st meridian. The protectorate will include the islands adjacent to the southern New Guinea.

PROPOSED ARMISTICE.

LONDON, Oct., 12.—It is reported that China a week ago made the following offer to M. Ferry through the American Government:—The Chinese forces to withdraw from Tonquin, Kelung to be temporarily occupied by the French, the proclamation of a six months' armistice, the dispute being meanwhile settled by the arbitration of America. It is said that M. Ferry objected to the last suggestion, asking why China could not make overtures directly to him.

THE IRISH LEAGUE.

DUBLIN, Oct. 12.—A movement has been started among the Irish National League Societies to extend an invitation to a deputation of Irish-American leaders to visit Ireland.

THE CONGO CONFERENCE.

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—The invitation to the United States, to send a representative to the West African Conference, is much commented upon, and the question is raised whether an acceptance would not be a violation of the Monroe doctrine. Russia and Germany favour the presence of an American delegate, hoping it will operate as a balance to English influence.

GERMAN RAILWAY SYSTEM.

BERLIN, Oct, 12.—Prince Bismark has prepared a project for the purchase by the empire of all railways now owned by the Feudal Governments and centralizing the administration in Berlin. It is stated the Governments of Bavaria, Wurtenburg and Saxony oppose the scheme. It is also stated if the opposition continues Prince Bismarck will sell the Prussian railways to the German empire and crush the other railways by competition.

WEST INDIAN COLONIES.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—It is rumoured that the visit of the Canadian Premier, Sir John Macdonald, to England, will result in an arrangement whereby the West India colonies will be admitted into the Dominion of Canada. In an interview to-day Earl Derby stated that the Home Government would acquiesce in such a proposition.

EGYPTIAN BOND INTEREST.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—It is reported that Lord Northbrook advises that a reduction of the interest of the Egyptian debt is inevitable, and suggests that the Government offer the bondholders the security of a lengthened English occupation of Egypt, with the additional guarantee that there will be no further reduction of the interest.

TROUBLES AT THE CAPE.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—An ultimatum has been sent to the Transvaal Government by Great Britain calling attention to the repeated violations of treaties and acts of violence committed by the Boers. It demands of the Transvaal Government due satisfaction for these acts; the repression of the Boer filibusters, and a thorough observance of the articles of the last convention. It is reported the British War Office is preparing an expedition of 8,000 men to proceed to South Africa, a portion of which will be drawn from the East India army. The withdrawal of the proclamation annexing the Montcivas territory is not expected to alter the position of affairs, as the Boers continue to hold the lands.

Railway Collision Near London.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Two freight trains on the Great Western division of the Grand Trunk were in collision three miles east of here to-day. Both engines and several cars were wrecked. Conductor Telford, of the east-bound train, is said to be responsible for the disaster, having left the London east station without orders.

Shipping Wheat.

Traffic on the Canadian Pacific Railway is now very brisk large quantities of wheat being continually shipped to the east, as much as 24 carloads having been despatched in a single day from Brandon alone; and in addition two heavy trains of cattle have arrived from the west, each containing several hundred head of cattle, and four more trains are to follow.—Brandon Sun.

Found Dead in a Culvert.

At 6:30 on Saturday morning the mangled remains of a man were found in the culvert at Logan's Crossing, on the Grand Trunk Railway. Logan's crossing is north of the Kingston road. It is thought he fell off the eastern express on Friday night and was killed.—Toronto World.

Paying their Families.

About $3,000 was paid here. To-morrow Mr. Lambert will be in Caughnawaga, where about $1,250 will be paid, and the day after he will be at Three Rivers. The money for those who came from Winnipeg was sent up on Tuesday. Altogether the monthly payments in Canada amount to about $6,000.

Vice-Royalty at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Oct. 11.—The Governor-General and Marchioness Lansdowne made their first visit to Halifax to-day. They were met at the station by Gen. Lord Russell, Vice-Admiral Sir J. E. Commerell, the heads of departments, a brilliant staff of officers and citizens. A guard of honor from the Royal Irish Rifles was present and a salute was fired from the citadel. On the arrival of the train the party was escorted by mounted officers and driven to the Parliament buildings, where an address of welcome was presented by the mayor, to which the Governor made a suitable reply.

What Canada Is.

It is a country of broad lakes and flowing waters. A country where the abundance of streams and the regularity of summer rains preclude the possibility of drought, and secure the widest area of vegetable growth. It is a land of grass and forest. A country containing by far the largest portion of fresh water upon the globe; where, 2,000 miles from the ocean, the traveller may lose sight of land, and be prostrated by sea-sickness. A land containing the most extensive water-ways in the world; where thousands of miles of navigable rivers may conduct commerce into the remotest corner of the continent at its widest part. The slope of the land from the Rocky Mountain is so gradual that the rivers flow with an even stream, and their source are so certain that they flow in an equitable volume. The only abrupt fall of land from Edmonton to the sea is the Terrace at Niagara. That fall and the minor rapids of the St. Lawrence are overcome by the most complete system of canals in the world, and, with one transhipment at Montreal, goods can be landed at the head of Lake Superior in the centre of the continent, 2,384 miles from the Straits of Belleisle. Of this distance one thousand five hundred miles are in fresh water; But, if we turn farther north and enter Canada by Hudson's Bay, the ocean ship will reach, at Port Nelson, the outlet of a river system stretching out with few interruptions, to the very backbone of the continent; and draining an interior basin, remoter than the St. Lawrence basin, of over 2,000,000 square miles in extent. This profond penetration and permeation of the country by water-ways in the great characteristic of Canada. From Port Nelson to Liverpool is 2,941 miles—from New York to Liverpool is 3,040 miles. It is difficult to realize the fact that there, in the very centre of America, an Englishman in 99 miles nearer home than at New York.—Handbook for the Dominion of Canada.

A GLEAM OF LIGHT.

MESSRS. PARDEE, Hardy, Fraser and Mowat, in the midst of the unenviable position in which they have been placed by the investigation of their plot to induce bribery, have one glimmer of light to lessen the gloom surrounding them. Their chief tools, and at the same time the chief witnesses against them, have been left without one rag of reputation. Besides being informers and decoys, McKim and Cascaden have been proved by the testimony of a cloud of unimpeachable witnesses to be perjurers and men totally unworthy of credence. It would therefore be unfair to consider the evidence of these men as conclusive proof of the charges against the Ministers. It might be very possible that these base tools, finding their villainy detected, would endeavor to lessen their own portion of the blame by throwing an undue share upon their employers. These employers are undoubtedly entitled to the benefit of the doubt as to this portion of the evidence against them.

There remains, however, against them the evidence of Dowling, Balfour and Lyon. There remains against them their own evidence. There remains Mr. Hardy's speech about Balfour's little scheme fixing them. There remains Mr. Fraser's boast that he was responsible for advising the trapping. There is Mr. Meek's evidence corroborating all the others as to the plot to procure bribes. In such a plight it would not be right to add to so heavy a burden of testimony against Messrs. Pardee, Hardy, Fraser and Mowat, the evidence of such witnesses as McKim and Cascaden have been proved to be.

But we must also be fair to McKim and Cascaden. It may be that, even though it is not their custom, they have sworn truly in this case. We must do them the justice to say that their story of the dirty job which they undertook for the incriminated Ministers, tallies most completely with the evidence given by others, and may therefore be accurate. It must also be remembered that their sworn account of their own dirty work—and this must obviously be taken as true, for they can hardly be so fond of perjury as to use it against themselves—fits in exactly with what they and others have sworn as to their employers.

Still as McKim and Cascaden are proved to be unworthy of credit, it would not be right to consider their evidence, where uncorroborated, as absolutely conclusive against anyone but themselves.

THE London Advertiser says:—

"They, with Big Push, undertook to name for him his colleagues."

As far as we can make out from the contents of a very incoherent article in the Advertiser, its "they" refers to Mr. Bunting and Mr. Meek and its "him" and "his" to Mr. Meredith. But we cannot understand why Mr. Meredith's colleagues should be named by the Hon. George Brown, the hero of the "big push" letter, so properly condemned by a judge as an invitation to corruption. We thought that Mr. Brown was dead, and that his political views were not in sympathy with those of Mr. Meredith.

THE Globe in some of its ghoulish articles gloating over the idea of the hoped-for death of Sir John Macdonald, discusses at length the question of who is to be his successor. The Globe need not trouble itself. The greatest Canadian statesman is not yet dead, and when his eventful career is ended, (far distant be the day) there will be ample material from which to select a worthy successor. Conservative statesmen are not on the watch to supplant their leader, and Reformers need not suppose that the cases of Messrs. Mackenzie and Blake will find a parallel among their political opponents.

"The Tory party of Canada obtained power by commercial depression, and the same relentless influence will tear it from their grasp."—Port Perry Standard.

WHO says now that the Reformers have not a policy? Their hope centres in a relentless commercial depression, and their policy appears to be to do all they can to cause such a depression, as was evidenced by the Globe's calamity hunt, when it attempted to write down the manufacturing industries of the country. But such a policy! Who wishes to support it?

MR. BETHUNE argued that it was the duty of the Attorney General and his colleagues to punish crime. We thought that it was their more imperative duty to prevent crime, and we are sure that it was not their duty to solicit the commission of a crime in order that they might punish it when committed. In so doing they were the criminals and criminals of the meanest type.

In a den of Tigers

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 9.—Richard Clark, an employe of Forepaugh's circus, while opening a ventilator in a cage yesterday had his hand seized by a tiger, and while trying to release himself was seized by two tigers and dragged inside the cage. The animals were beaten off with iron bars after Clark's arms and legs had been horribly crushed and mutilated.

SUPPRESSING TESTIMONY.

It might have been thought that Mr. S. H. Blake, Q.C., having been appointed counsel on behalf of "the Crown," to conduct the investigation of attempts at bribing members of the House, would be eager to seize on and bring before the Commission every scrap of evidence tending to show such attempts; but when Mr. Lees, M. P. P., went into the witness box and started to give evidence of an attempt to bribe him, Mr. Blake manifested a feverish anxiety to have the evidence suppressed, and by a mere technical quibble succeeded. As Mr. Caldwell, M. P. P., was the one who had approached Mr. Lees, Mr. Blake insisted that it should first be established that he was acting as agent of the Government in such approaches, before Mr. Lees' testimony could be heard. He thus succeeded in getting Mr. Caldwell on the witness stand first, to forestall Mr. Lees; and though admitting that he offered him an interest in a timber limit if he would support the Government, he contended that it was only in joke. Then when Mr. Lees took the stand again to give his version, Mr. Blake insisted that he should not be heard, as agency had not been made out, and the Commissioners sustained the objection. We imagined the Commissioners were appointed to investigate attempts on the honor of the Legislature, and that when a clear attempt like this was brought before them, they would have it investigated without allowing a partizan counsel to stifle it by technical quibbles, but we are not up to the mysterious ways of the law.

Being thus prevented from giving evidence, as he thought (and as the public will be apt to think) very unfairly, Mr. Lees had no recourse but to make his statements in another form, which he does in the shape of a letter to the Mail, and it is easily seen why Mr. Blake was so very anxious to suppress it, for it shows that the supporters of the Mowat Government felt so anxious at the beginning of last session that they were prepared to buy members. The statement of Mr. Lees, which he was prepared to give under oath, was to the effect that in the early days of the session, Mr. Caldwell, who is well known as a strong supporter of the Government, approached him and offered to get him the patronage of his county and also an interest in a timber limit in the Thunder Bay district, if he would but support the Government. As soon as Mr. Lees discovered what he was expected to give for the limit, he refused to be bought, and repelled the advances.

Mr. Lees states distinctly that the offer had no appearance of a jest; and it could hardly have been one, or Mr. Caldwell would not have gone on to suggest that as the limit was in the disputed territory, Mr. Lees should use his influence as a Conservative to get the Dominion Government to confirm the license. Besides, the statement fits in with the known actions of the Mowat Government at that time. Mr. Pardee got his secret order in Council changing the timber policy in the Thunder Bay district passed on the eve of the elections, allowing him to dispose of limits without public competition, and this little episode will let the public see the use that was to be made of this power.—Owen Sound Times.

HAVELOCK.

SAW MILL BURNED.—Coon's saw mill, a building on the road side leading north from Havelock just beyond Rush Point post office, was burned to the ground on Thursday night last. The loss is not very heavy. We believe there was no insurance.

A RISING VILLAGE.—Less than two years ago, a dense swamp covered the site where Havelock is being built, but a change has taken place,—a great change—and the quietness of the country spot has been banished by the noise of the locomotive and busy workmen. We did did not expect to see the improvement which is now in progress there. During a brief stay a few days ago, we noticed that the railway station was a comlete structure, very commodious and clean. A store was lately erected, and their are two boarding houses besides an hotel kept by Mr. Creighton. Four buildings have put up quite recently, and and four or five others are in course of construction. The track here is as straight as an arrow and twelve other tracks have been laid for sidings. Just now workmen are employed erecting a coal shed 20 feet wide and 400 feet long; and just at the crossing extensive stock yards are being built large enough to accommodate several hundred cattle. The round house for present use is nearly completed. It is built for twelve engines. From each apartment is a track leading to a turntable with foundation of stone and cement. A large tank is placed near it having a capacity of 180 tons of water. The water is forced up through pipes by an engine about 200 yards distant. The entire property of the railway is being filled in and levelled, and altogether the place with trains constantly passing, has assumed a busy appearance. In time we may expect to see a thrifty little place in this neighborhood just ten miles north of Campbellford.—Campbellford Herald.

CAMPBELLFORD.

CRIMINAL OUTRAGE.—One of the worst outrages which we have ever had to notice in these columns, was committed by four young men, just outside the corporation limits, between the hours of half past twelve and three o'clock on Sunday morning last. The particulars of the affair are unfit for publication, but we shall refer to the deed again when further developments are made. Two of the gang of young roughs have been securely lodged behind the prison bars.

NEW STAGE LINE.—Some time ago we advocated the improvement of the road to Havelock and the running of a stage line between that place and Campbellford, so that conneciton might be had with the C. P. R. trains east and west. We are pleased to state that this in part has come to pass, a stage having run for the first time last week. The owner is Mr. John McLaughlin, of Havelock, who, for the present, intends to make three trips a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The stage leaves Havelock at 8 a.m., and Campbellford at 3 p.m.

MINDEN.

THE LATEST JOKE.—A gentleman in conversation with a young lady at the picnic on Friday last remarked upon the large number of children present, saying, "I think Minden must be the cradle of the human race," whereupon the young lady answered, "Well, if so, it is pretty well rocked."

A WONDERFUL YIELD.—Mr. David Oggle-stone, lot 16, con. A, Snowden, had the largest yield of potatoes we have heard of this year. From one-half acre he dug no less than 200 bushels of fine potatoes. He purchased his farm from Mr. D. C. Hartle, now of Dakota, and he says that in three years he expects to produce enough from this half acre to pay for the whole farm. Hurrah for Snowdon.—Echo.

MIDLAND.

A FINE DEER.—Mr. Clarkson and party returned from a deer hunt on Friday, being out several days. There are plenty of deer, but they are hard to get at. Mr. Clarkson succeeded in killing a fine one that dressed about 150 pounds.

KILLED A BEAR.—Capt. Hicks succeeded in killing a bear near Muskosh last week. He (not the bear) was the hero of the village for several days. The party saw several bears and report deer very plentiful. Their dogs were badly used up by a porcupine, and they had to return before the sport fairly commenced.—Free Press.

The members were in uniform and presented a fine appearance. With Capt. The band deserves a word of praise for the excellent music it furnished during the march.—Herald.

His Friends Couldn't Save Him.

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind., Oct. 10.—Chas. W. Butler, one of the most noted criminals in the State of Ohio, son of Dr. George Butler, a wealthy physician of Columbus, Ohio, was executed to-day for the murder of his young wife at Perceton, on September 29, 1883. All that wealth and influence could do was done to save him from the gallows, but without avail. Up to last evening Butler preserved a stoical indifference, but when advices were received that the Supreme Court and the Government refused to interfere in his behalf, Butler broke down and wept bitterly.

SO LONG.

"But a week is so long!" he said,
With a toss of his curly head.
"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven!—
Seven whole days! Why, in six, you know
(You said it yourself—you told me so),
The great God up in heaven
Made all the earth and the seas and skies,
The trees and the birds, and the butterflies,
How can I wait for my seeds to grow?"

"But a month is so long!" he said,
With a droop of his boyish head.
"Hear me count—one, two, three, four—
Four whole weeks and three days more;
Thirty-one days, and each will creep
As the shadows creep over yonder steep;
Thirty-one nights, and I shall lie
Watching the stars climb up the sky;
How can I wait till a month is o'er?"

"But a year is so long!" he said,
Uplifting his bright young head.
"All the seasons must come and go
Over the hills with footsteps slow—
Autumn and winter, summer and spring;
O for a bridge of gold to fling
Over the chasm deep and wide,
That I might cross to the other side,
Where she is waiting, my love, my bride!"

"Ten years may be long!" he said,
Slowly raising his stately head,
"But there is much to win, there is much to lose;
A man must labor, a man must choose,
And he must be strong to wait!
The years may be long, but who will wear
The crown of honor must do and dare;
No time has he to toy with fate
Who would climb to manhood's high estate."

"Ah! life is not long!" he said,
Bowing his grand white head.
"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven—
Seventy years! As swift their flight
As swallows cleaving the morning light,
Or golden gleams at even.
Life is short as a summer night—
How long, O God, is eternity?"

PRIZE FARMS.

The Silver Medal Comes to this County—Report of the Committee.

The following is the report of the Committee of the Agricultural and Arts Association, which awarded to Mr. Chas. D. Moore, of Smith, the silver medal in the prize farm competition:—

The first view we had of Mr. Moore's farm led us to suppose that it was the one entered for competition, as it had that general air of good finish which is so noticeable on hightly cultivated, and well managed farms. Mr. Charles D. Moore's farm, which takes second prize and the first silver medal, lies four miles north-west of Peterborough on the Omemee road. It contains 200 acres, besides which fifty acres at some distance is worked in connection with it. This fifty acres is chiefly used as pasture land. One hundred and sixty acres are cleared, the balance is well preserved bush. The woodland is chiefly timbered with maple, beech, basswood and elm. A stream running from east to west across the farm is fringed with a thick growth of cedar. The land on either side of the stream for a short distance is very stoney and is used as a permanent pasture. Besides this a portion of the land lies low. This land was originally timbered with cedar, black ash, tamarac. It is covered with rough grasses. A great deal of draining has been done, and the farm has been rendered very much more productive and valuable from there improvements having been carried out. Heavy crops are now being grown on land which once used to be covered with water at seeding time. Besides draining, much heavy work had to be done before this farm was brought into its present high state of cultivation. The quantity of stone which has been cleared from the fields has been a work of great labour, and represents the expenditure of a good deal of money. A codsiderable quantity has been utilized in fencing and in other ways. The fields may now be said to be free from those obstructions which interfere so much with thorough tillage. The soil is a strong clay loam with a subsoil of hard pan—just such a soil as will, under good management, stand a great deal of cropping, and which, with poor farming, and without daining, would be sour and unprofitable. That the former has been the rule of years past no better evidence is required than the weight and general eveness of this year's crops, as well as other permanent improvements which have been carried out extensively on this farm.

A GREAT DEAL OF PLANTING.

has been done. On the roadside along the whole front of the farm there is a fine lot of timber of about 15 years' growth. The trees comprise maple, basswood, balsam, spruce, birch, &c. From the road to the house is a double row of maples as straight as a line and of good size. On these are three wires which are fastened to the trees, and between each tree and the wire is a piece of tin to protect the tree. Mr. Moore says if he does more fencing in that way he will tie a short stake to each tree with tarred rope and fasten the wire to the stake. However, the way in which it is now done seems to answer an exceedingly good purpose, presents entirely a snow block in the winter, makes a good and cheap fence, looks well, and does not appear to hurt the trees at all. It appeared to us a good idea well carried out, and one which might be followed with great advantage on many farms. It is a plan which should specially recommend itself to those landowners who are now scarce, or likely soon to be, of rail timber. Around the buildings considerable planting has also been done, and the orchard is protected from the stormy winds by a row of balsams of twenty years' growth. The house is sheltered from the sun's rays in summer, and from the wintry blast by choice evergreens and other ornamental trees. The fences are good and substantial, and supplied with well-hung gates wherever required. The fence along the front of the farm is wire, with about two feet of stone at the bottom, and a 2 x 6 piece of scantling at the top. The short fences about the building and around the orchard are straight. The field fences are strong cedar.

THE BUILDINGS

include a good dwelling-house of stone and brick, which is surrounded by well-kept grounds. The barn buildings are extensive and suitable, but not by any means so showy or so well finished as the best class of homesteads in the western part of Ontario. The main barn is 130ft. long with a large straw shed in front and with stables 90x30ft. on the west side of the yard, and horse stable and driving house on the east side 60x30 feet. The number of cattle that can be housed is 60. There is also in connection with the yards a large cistern into which the soakage from the yards will be collected and applied directly to the land. This had been constructed during the time of our first and second visit, but it must not be considered that Mr. Moore allowed this to go to waste. It was simply collected and used in a differnt way. Before the tank was made it was gathered and applied to the manure heap, part of which was under cover and was dry enough to absorb all that was collected from the yards.

ARRANGEMENST FOR RAISING CATTLE.

Stall feeding being extensively carried on on this farm, the stables have been specially fitted in a way to be convenient for carrying on that work, and it may be as well at this point to speak of the water supply which in arranging these stables was with Mr. Moore an important consideration. In one set of stables with stalls for 40 feeding cattle there is a large tank and by a simple contrivance the water is carried into troughs in front of every animal so that a constant supply is always before them. These troughs are so arranged that they can be easily covered or opened as required, the uncovering or closing all of them not occupying five minutes. By this means the water is kept clear from chaff or dirt. A tap in the tank supplies the water used for mixed feed and for any purpose for which it may be required. Besides the supply in this stable it is also laid so as to be convenient to all the other buildings and yards. The water is provided mainly from a deep well on the high ground a short distance from the back of the barn. The buildings are also supplied with eave troughs which carry the rain-water into a cistern in the yard. Altogether the system of supplying water to the buildings, yards, and the stock in the summer time is exceptionally good. We should have said that pumping from the deep well referred to is done by a windmill. As already said, fattening stock is largely carried on on this farm. From 60 ta 70 fat cattle are sold yearly. Never less than 40 of these are turned out as for the British markets. Mr. Moore being of much more than local fame as a feeder we will give a few figures showing what he has done in the past. Taking one year as an illustration—in June 1880 he sold one lot, all fed by himself, consisting of 35 steers, the total weight being 52,990 lbs. or an average of 1,514 lbs. By the same account which dealt with that year's farm transactions we find that over 400 loads of manure was taken from the yards and it is needless to say that each load would be worth three times as much as the leached straw which many of our farmers call manure. Taking this year's transactions we find the exact amount realized from the sale of fat stock to be $3,858.70. Of this amount $308 55 was for a pair of extra steers fed for the eastern market. These steers were taken to Montreal by Mr. Geo. Webber and shown in the Eastern Fat Cattle Exhibition of that city. There were about 1,500 head of cattle shown from all parts of Ontario and the Eastern Townships, yet one of Mr. Moore's steers took the gold medal for the best fat beast on the ground, and the other would have taken the second only one exhibitor was not allowed to take more than one prize. As successful farming in ordinary circumstances in Ontario must in some way be associated with liberal feeding, we need not be surprised to find that when a prize of $100 was offered some years ago for the best crop of turnips, Mr. Moore took it with ease against thirteen competitors, and from the report now before us it is seen that they were nearly all left a long way behind. The system carried out in feeding is to cut all foder with the chaff cutter. Turnips are all pulped. This with meal and bran is mixed with cut feed and dampened. The cattle are given all of this feed that they will eat up clean. Great care is taken that no feed shall be left in the troughs after the cattle are done feeding. Some seasons as much as 2,300 bushels of grain has been fed. Mr. Moore like most good feeders prefers peas to any other grain.

HEAVY SHIPPING CATTLE

BUYING CATTLE

Mr. Moore has a standing rule never to pass over a good steer if he is worth the money. When we were with him he had a nice lot for this winter's feeding, and was constantly on the lookout for more. The working force on the farm is three teams and two men the year round and extra help when required. Married men who board at home are much preferred, as he finds it in every way more satisfactory. In this we fully agree with Mr. Moore, believing that if married men were more generally employed on the farm and

COMFORTABLE COTTAGES ERECTED,

the men allowed to board at home, and some little attention paid towards making life enjoyable for them, we would hear a great deal less about the troubles connected with having to employ hired help. The system which is generally followed of boarding farm hands in the house is one which gives rise to a great deal of trouble in many ways, and the sooner it is changed the sooner we get rid of one of the greatest annoyances of farm life. This season's crop consists of 20 acres of fall wheat, 14 spring wheat, barley 15 acres, 11 acres of oats, 5½ acres of roots, 4 of these latter are turnips, and the balance carrots and potatoes, 44 acres of grass for hay, the balance pasture. One field of fall wheat was very fine. This was of the Clawson variety, after clover sod, deeply ploughed in July with a Skimmer plough and well worked with the harrows, and after harvest manured and ploughed in with light furrow and sown the first week of September. The other field was sown later and the crop was not nearly so good. Mr. Moore accounts for that entirely from late sowing. It might be mentioned that the head lands in the first field were also late in being sown, and the difference was equally marked. Manure is always applied on the fall wheat land. There is nothing specially to be said about the other crops further than that they were good and had been well put in. A large quantity of stuff is grown, and a large quantity consumed, the result being that the land is in a

HIGH STATE OF FERTILITY

and although no hay is sold except when it reaches a high figure, yet this farm is in such a shape, that if the markets warranted it, Mr. Moore might any year take advantage af a high market, and realize a large sum from his hay crop, and the farm would not suffer much. This year there was about 140 loads of hay cut. We might mention that at the time of our second visit the turnips were not nearly so large as we expected. This was owing to their having suffered badly from a hailstorm, the plants at the time being nearly destroyed.

From what has been said the reader will agree with us that Mr. Moore, on his well-managed farm—with its pleasant surroundings, and having so much that tends to make life enjoyable—should be a happy man. But this we very much doubt, for he yet lacks that one great element of happiness, and like some of the leading stock men farther west, and who are now of more than provincial fame—he is yet a bachelor.

Bidding a hasty adieu to Mr. Moore we hurried back to Peterborough, reached the station just in time to catch the train for Port Hope.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

More Burglaries and Horse Stealing.

A series of burglaries, followed up by horse stealing, was perpetrated along the Napanee and Deseronto road, on Thursday night. The parties entered David Kimmerly's house, but were frightened off. They then stole a horse, harness and buggy from John G. Gunn, and proceeded to Wm. Hudson's, where they stole a crock of butter. Mr. Gunn's horse had a trick of squealing and by this means woke him, but he discovered nothing wrong. The parties also entered Charles Yeo's, says the Beaver, and cut a set of harness to pieces, and then proceeded to John Mains', where they stole a butter ladle. Proceeding through the town and towards Newburgh, the horse evidently created such a disturbance that when they reached Fitz Martin's they turned him loose, and took one from the latter. Nothing has since been heard of them, though every means is being taken for their capture. The police have been notified to keep their eyes open.

Married by Telegraph.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct., 10.—A year ago Sarah Orton, widow, of Parker's Landing Pa., advertised for a correspondent. Thomas Welch, a light-colored barber of this city, answered, and a correspondence followed, which resulted in a marriage by telegraph. Welch represented himself to be a physician, and a friend passed himself off for a minister when the marriage ceremony was performed. The woman come here and lived with Welch until a week ago, she was informed of Welch's true character and the deception that had been practiced. She then decided to leave Welch, but the latter who had been living on her money refused to let her out of the house. Neighbours caused the arrest of both parties yesterday.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.
